The Children's Day exercises held in the Methodist church last evening were the best ever held in the church. The school presented a programme consisting of recitations, duets, and singing by the school. The church pulpit was covered with ferns and choice flowers while overhead the ceiling was decorated with bunting and the Stars and Stripes.

The Berkeley Heights and New Providence baseball teams crossed bats Saturday afternoon on the Berkeley's grounds. Berkeleys won by a score of 10 to 9. Several boys from the village played with the Berkeleys.

Tickets for the patriotic strawberry and ice cream festival, to be given by the Methodidist church this evening in Excelsior Hall, are selling fast, and the prospects are the affair will be a financial success.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon over the remains of the late Henry Beiger, who died at Glenside Park Thursday of last week. Interment was made in the cemetery at this place.

Wm. S. Corey's household furniture has arrived from Virginia, and Mr. and Mrs. Corey will reside in Mr. Corey's old home on Park avenue.

Charles Layton who has been confined to the house with inflammatory rheumatism for some time, is able to be about again.

Mrs. Anthony Dobbins and her sister, Mrs. Oliver, of Kearney, N. J., are visiting friends in town.

Little Johnnie Warty, while climbing a fence near his home Thursday, fell and broke his arm.

WESTFIELD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Westfield, June 13.—Rev. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the Methodist church, delivered an interesting address to the Sunday school scholars at the Locust Grove chapel Sunday evening.

The people who use the hacks stationed at the depot have been complaining ever since the ordinance, which required hack drivers to keep their vehicles along the board walk and did not allow them to drive to the depot platform, of the great inconvenience which it caused them as they were compelled to walk to the cabstand, rain or shine. They kicked so much that the Township Committee have now issued an order which allows the drivers to approach the platform, but they must not allow their hacks to stand there any longer than is necessary to get or discharge a passenger.

Tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock the annual meeting of the officers and teachers of the Congregational church Sunday-school will be held when the election of officers for the ensuing year will take place.

The topic at the Christian Endeavor meeting at the Congregational church yesterday was "Christian Courage: Examples from Books or Life." The leader was Miss Mary V. Sherman.

The finance committee appointed to raise money for a Fourth of July celebration in Westfield will meet tomorrow evening at the home of Charles H. Denman on Dudley avenue.

Mrs. N. H. Griswold, of First street, will attend the wedding of Miss M. E. Davis, a former resident of Cranford, to J. A. Kempton, which takes place at Jersey City Wednesday.

Miss M. P. Marsh led the Epworth League meeting in the Methodist church Sunday evening. The subject was "My Missionary Duty; Go or Send."

The Westfield Social Club meet tomorrow evening, when the members will vote on an amendment to limit the membership to seventy-five.

Rev. Floyd Appleton, of Plainfield, preached a very interesting and instructive sermon in St. Paul's church yesterday morning.

Master Chaucey Buckley entertained a number of his little friends at his home on Dudley avenue Saturday afternoon.

Miss Evelyn Echard has returned to her home at Slatington, Pa., after a pleasant visit with friends on North avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Spencer, of Montclair, enjoyed a bicycle trip to Westfield and Rahway on Friday.

A large number of new books have been added to the Westfield Public Library.

The new tennis courts at the Westfield Club are much used these clear days.

Court Provident, I. O. F., meet this evening.

Although the day was very hot the Methodist church was filled both morning and afternoon when special services were held. In the morning the pastor, Rev. C. M. Anderson, delivered a pleasing address to the children and a number of babies were baptized. Miss Ella L. Ferris rendered the organ voluntary in excellent time and Mrs. W. P. Darling and W. H. Ruth, Jr., favored the congregation with a duet. The afternoon services were of a patriotic discription and were very interesting. Those who took part were Etta Woodring, Lydia Edgar, Willie Anderson, Percy Welch, Mabel Hurst, Marie Sjostrom, May Perrine, Florence Taylor, Paul Sjostrom, Frank Taylor, Chester Pearsall, Edith Burr and Natalie Brainard.

At the Presbyterian church the exercises were also of a patriotic character and were much enjoyed by a large gathering. Seymore McDougal delivered an address of welcome after which the scholars recited and sang many interesting pieces. Miss Alice McDougal rendered a solo in a clear rich voice and Miss Belle Godshack and Miss Alice Warncke sang the "Star Spangled Banner" in a charming manner. After an interesting recitation by Miss Dorothy Farror, the congregation joined in singing "My Country 'Tis of Thee."

Very pretty and interesting exercises were held in the Baptist church in the afternoon. Among those who recited or sang were: Nellie Hann, Harry Gilmore, Blanche Harris, Chauncey Buckley, Marjorie Brown, Flossie Real, Minnie Westerfelder, Thomas Hann, Arline Brown, Bernice Swentzel, Bessie Hann and Katie Schlife. The pastor delivered an address and R. F. Conant offered prayer.

The regular Children's Day exercises will be held in the Congregational church next Sunday, but yesterday morning the pastor, Rev. Henry Ketcham, baptized twelve children and presented Bibles to each of the following children who had been baptized, they having reached the age of eight years: Florence Jones, Lorrie Seavor, Bertha Wood, May McCay, Helen Brown, Medoria Richie, William Donnell, Edward Clark and Hal Ketcham. Rev. Henry Ketcham preached a very instructive as well as interesting sermon.

No special services were held in St. Paul's church.

LINCOLN.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Lincoln, June 13—Mr. and Mrs. Chester C. Moore, of New York, and Miss May Hurley are visiting at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hunt.

Three carloads of material for the construction of the trolley line through here, arrived Friday evening. Ties have been distributed along Harris avenue in preparation for work today.

Mr. Fritz Brugger has become quite a bicycle enthusiast, and threatens to lower McDonald's record between this town and Bound Brook.

The regular election for town officers will be held July 4th, from 7 until 12 o'clock.

The Crescents made another bid for more runs in their half of the eighth. Collins hit for two bases while Vroom's hit just ruffled Nolan's fingers. Stevens knocked a liner that Rogers just nipped as it passed over his head. Collins had started for third, and before he could return Rogers got the credit of a double play unassisted. Cooney made the third out.

"Al" Williams, who captained and played third for the Oaks, was familiar to many of the Plainfield cranks. He was formerly with the old West Ends, the Hackett, Carhart team and last year with the Williamsburg Field Club, which plays here next Saturday. "Al" was apparently in good health and played his same old game.

FOUND DEAD IN THE BUSHES.

Family Think Quinn Became Deranged and Wandered from Home.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Roselle, June 13—The body of Christopher Quinn, a well-known gardener and contractor at this place, was found late yesterday afternoon in a clump of bushes near Seventh avenue and Chestnut street. There were no marks of violence on the body.

Mr. Quinn was fifty years old, and last Tuesday morning left his home to look after a sewer contract, and was not seen again until his body was found. The cause of his death is a mystery. His family say they think he may have become deranged and wandered to the spot where he died.

Getting Good.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, June 13—John S. Voorhees, the Prosecutor of Middlesex county, has waged a successful crusade against the slot-gambling machines until that evil has been almost entirely stamped out. There are none of these machines now in operation in New Brunswick, and very few throughout the county. Several arrests have been made, and the violators of the law will have to appear before the next grand jury, which convenes in September.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

Special Correspondence.

Gonzales de y Quesada is the representative of the Cuban republic at Washington. The secretary of the legation is a social lion in Washington and is the especial favorite of the ladies who live in the capital—wives of Senators and Congressmen and Cabinet officers. The young senor is the nephew of General Rafael de y Quesade of Venezuela, and is one of the most ardent of the Cuban patriots. Quesada has not wasted his time since he has lived in Washington. He is a close friend of the Senators of the Committee on Foreign Relations and of other Senators too. The senor has an interesting personality, aside from the intense sympathy his cause wins for him on all hands. He is a son of a fine old Spanish family. One of his ancestors, Gonzales Quesada, was the Governor of Porto Rico. The Quesadas held large estates in Cuba and not long ago were among the rich families of the island. At present they have nothing. Young Quesada had worked day and night to recognize Cuba, and it is said that the strong pro-Cuban sentiment in the Senate is due to his labors. Washington society has feasted, tea'd, dined and received him as it has no other foreign diplomat.

The Female Lobbyist.

The fascinating female lobbyist is familiar in fiction, and on the stage. She is a good dramatic figure. Perhaps she once lived and operated in Washington, but she is not seen about the capital now. There is no Cleopatra here, with numerous Antonys led to ruin by her beauty and fascination. What is more to the point, there is no evidence that she ever haunted the capital. The oldest inhabitant never saw her. She is a myth, a creation of fiction, for dramatic effect. But there are women in the lobby. There were more of them before Speaker Reed changed some things about the House, taking away the privilege of a room where women could wait and send in their cards to members. There are, however, enough of them in the lobby now. But they are not dashing beauties and unblushing corruptionists. The woman in a lobby is, as a rule, one who believes she is a victim of governmental hardship. She is a poorly clad, nervous, wistful and frightened woman. She has a claim before Congress, perhaps, or is interested in some other measure. She goes to see members and Senators, and asks their help. If they promise to help her it is for pity, for she is a woman apparently in distress, and the average member of Congress has some of the milk of human sympathy in his breast. He dodges the woman in the lobby as long as he can. He is busy if she sends in her card; he does not see her in the marble room of the Senate or the corridor of the House of Representatives if he can help it. But when she spies him and makes him see her, when she pours out her story of trial and wrong, when she asks his help as only a woman in distress can, he has not the heart to say no. He promises to help her, if he can, but it is only to escpae. He lies often to the woman in the lobby, because it is the only thing he can do. He justifies the lie, and does not believe it is recorded against him, because it was a lie to save one more wound to a woman in distress.

The White House Telegraph Office.

In a small but well furnshed room in the northeast corner of the Executive Mansion is the telegraph room. Here may be found the machinery and all the modern appliances for the quick and prompt dispatch of the confidential and urgent business demanding immediate attention. Here must come the good or bad tidings touching the people or their ruler. From this spot must go the information, good or bad, which may or may not concern the whole world. These ever busy relays, sounders and telephone circuits convey quietly but surely and without leakage the most confidential communications on business of the greatest magnitude to the welfare or hurt of the nation. In times of great trial or in any great emergency in the life of the nation or its President, it is here that the Chief Executive comes to watch and wait, and it is to this particular spot that the people—through their representatives of the press—earnestly look for that which they eagerly desire to know touching the all absorbing topic which is uppermost in the Chicago riots and directed the movements of the troops and gave the orders which held back with the strong arm of the Government the disasters which threatened the great city.

It was from this place that the daily bulletins emanated when the martyr Garfield lay dying—telling the people from time to time his condition. Here it was that Harrison spent all of a memorable Sabbath day and night in his energetic efforts to aid the Johnstown sufferers, and it was from the desk of the executive clerk in this room that Grover Cleveland, with his Secretary of War and the General of the Army, listened to the reports from the public mind. SENATOR.

OPPOSED THE STAGE COACH.

An Ancient Economist Who Thought it Would Ruin the Country.

The first stage coach seen in England was about the year 1553, and another 120 years passed before stage coaches began to run; they were not received with much favor. In 1673 a treatise was published in London by "A Lover of His Country and Well Wisher to the Prosperity Both of the King and Kingdoms," in which were used many elaborate arguments and violent tirades against them.

"These coaches and caravans," said the writer, "are one of the greatest mischiefs that hath appeared of late years to the kingdom, mischievous to the public, destructive to trade and prejudicial to lands."

He laments the decay of good horsemanship, which would follow if everybody rode to London in a coach. He calculates that a coach from York, Chester or Exeter would have forty horses on the journey to the capital and carry eighteen passengers a week. In the whole year it would carry about 1872. Suppose they were returning passengers, there would be 936, and for these forty horses would be sufficient, but if people travelled in the good, old-fashioned way, then at least 500 horses would be required for the work. The use of so many horses would give employment to many who were by the stage coach thrown out of work, such as cloth workers, drapers, tailors, saddlers, tanners, curriers, shoemakers, spurriers, lorimers and fellmakers. The inns would also suffer, for the stage coach stops only at a few, but when gentlemen travelled on horseback, accompanied, as they usually were, by two or three servants, they stopped at any and as often as they liked, and thus encouraged trade.

Farmers will be ruined, he says, by the stage coach; for how can they dispose of their hay, straw and horse corn? Moreover, the influence on health would be bad; men called out of their beds before daylight, hurried from place to place until far on into the night; in the summer stifled with heat and choked with dust; in the winter starving and freezing with cold or choked with filthy fog, obliged to ride all day with strangers and with sick, ancient and diseased persons, and with children crying, poisoned with fetid breaths and crippled by the crowd of boxes and bundles. Besides all these troubles, there were accidents arising from the rotten coaches and foul roads.

In short, the writer is fully convinced that if stage coach traveling becomes popular the country will go to ruin. Had he lived to see the railway he would have been bereft of his senses.—New York Telegram.

SUBMARINE MINES IN HARBORS.

Colonel Samuel Colt First Demonstrated Their Practicability.

The term "submarine mine" is applied to defensive mines or to those which would be used to obstruct the channels of a river or estuary, or the approaches to a fortified or unprotected seaport. Colonel Samuel Colt, the inventor of the American revolver, first demonstrated the practicability of blowing up vessels by submarine mines fired by electricity. In 1842 he blew up the old gunboat Boxer, and in 1843 he destroyed a brig in the Potomac river while the vessel was under way, sailing at the rate of five miles an hour.

Many forms of mines were used here and abroad, and they were successfully employed against us in the civil war. Every system of coast defence concerns itself with their distribution and use, and every well-known harbor of the world is at this day so mapped out that the planting of these mines may be done on a plan which promises the greatest utility. Some of these are constant depth mines—that is, such as will float always at a certain depth below the surface, no matter what may be state of the tide; some are fitted to explode on contact, and most are so arranged that they may be exploded at will by observers stationed at points of refuge, in bomb-proof and look-out stations ashore.—New York Herald.

Royalty Enjoys a Joke.

When in the country the Princess of Wales delights in making little expeditions incognito. An amusing and true story has just leaked out about one of these impromptu excursions at Sandringham. Her Royal Highness, with the two Princesses, had driven a long distance from home in her favorite pony cart, and as lunch drew near they were glad to put up at a picturesque village inn. The landlord had his suspicions as to who his guests were, and after lunch had been served brought the visitors' book. Whereupon the Princess, not to be outdone, made the following entry:—"Mrs. Wales and two daughters."—New York Herald.

Greedy Little Fish.

The little fish known as miller's thumb—the fresh water sculpin—is one of the natural checks on the overproduction of trout and salmon. It eats the eggs and the young fish, and is very destructive. At an experiment once made in the aquarium of the United States Fish Commission, in Washington, a miller's thumb four and a half inches long ate at a single meal, and all within a minute or two, twenty-one little trout, each from three-quarters of an inch to an inch in length.

Miss Porkpack (agonizedly)—Father, father! You're putting your knife in your mouth!

Braunschweig. Lippe.

Braunschweig. Im Bürgerpark sprang der elfjährige Oswald Adler in die Oter und ertrank. Die Pflegemutter des unglücklichen elternlosen Kindes, die Ehefrau des Brauers Gustav Jung, Altewiekring wohnhaft, hat bei ihrer Vernehmung angegeben, daß dem Kinde das Lernen in der Schule immer sehr schwer geworden sei und daß es dieserhalb mehrfach habe nachsitzen müssen. Es habe deshalb verschiedentlich die Absicht ausgesprochen, sich das Leben zu nehmen.

Detmold. Durch die Aufhebung des Chausseegeldes im vorigen Jahre hat der Lippische Fiskus einen Ausfall von etwa 40,000 Mark erlitten. Es wird deshalb beabsichtigt, die Schlagbäume wieder aufzurichten, und zwar zunächst auf den Landstraßen an der preußischen Grenze. In der Enklave Lipperode bei Lippstadt sind sie bereits wieder eingeführt worden.

Großherzogthum Hessen.

Darmstadt. Wegen der in den letzten Wochen außergewöhnlich hoch gestiegenen Mehlpreise kostet seit dem 15. Mai in sämmtlichen Bäckereien von Darmstadt und Bessungen erste Brode 2½ Kilo 80 Pfennige, 1½ Kilo 40 Pfennige, Schwarzbrod 2½ Kilo 70 Pfennige. Das bedeutet eine Erhöhung des fünfpfündigen Laibes Brod um 10 und 8 Pfennige.

Gießen. Die Lahn stieg dieser Tage nach voraufgegangenem heftigen Regen so hoch, daß drei große Badeanstalten fortgeschwemmt wurden. Das Kinderbad der Stadt Gießen konnte noch verankert werden.

Oppenheim. Die Verwaltungsbehörde macht bekannt, daß in dem Kreise Oppenheim die Schweinepest ausgebrochen ist.

Bayern.

München. Der hier ausgebrochene allgemeine Schreinerstrike endete damit, daß die Forderungen der Gehilfen auf 9½stündige Arbeitszeit bewilligt wurden.—Während der 15 Tage der diesjährigen Bockzeit kamen 850 Hektoliter Hofbräubock am Platzl zum Ausschank. Daß der Appetit der Bockgäste nichts zu wünschen übrig ließ, beweist, daß „nur" 110 Kälber, 100,000 Bockwürstl, 10,000 Schweinswürstl, 9000 Dünne und Regensburger sowie 70,000 Stück Brod verzehrt wurden. Das Wetter ließ während der ganzen „Maikur" oft viel zu wünschen übrig, sonst würde sie wohl kaum diese noch nicht dagewesene Dauer erreicht haben.

Ansbach. Wegen fortgesetzter Nahrungsmittelverfälschung wurde von der Strafkammer der Bierbrauer und Gastwirth M. Herrlein von Windsbach zu 300 Mark Geldstrafe verurtheilt. Herrlein hatte, seinem angeblich zu stark eingebrauten Bier, um es mundgerechter zu machen, 15 Prozent Wasser zugesetzt.

Bamberg. Der hiesige Stadtbaurath Johann Lindner legte sich hier in der Nähe der Dessauer'schen Malzfabrik auf das Schienengeleise und ließ sich von einem nach Nürnberg gehenden Zug überfahren. Der Kopf wurde ihm vom Rumpfe getrennt. Lindner war schon seit langer Zeit äußerst nervös und besonders in letzter Zeit in Folge unangenehmer dienstlicher Vorkommnisse sehr aufgeregt.

Neustadt a. A. Das Bezirksamt hat im Verein mit den Distriktsschulinspektoren angeordnet, daß Werk- und Sonntagsschulpflichtigen der Besuch von Theater- und sonstigen Vorstellungen, die von herumziehenden Schauspielern oder Gesellschaften dargeboten werden, auch in Begleitung der Eltern oder der Dienstherrschaft, ohne vorherige Erlaubniß der Ortsschulbehörden untersagt ist.

Great Carpet Week

—a week long to be remembered by you. Here's the story: We're about as proud as we dare be of the immense carpet business that's done here every working day in the year. It's a successful end of the store. But success knows no boundary line. This whole coming week will be Carpet Week—125 rolls have been "gone over" and marked from 15c to 35c a yard less than any other House ever asked. The quantity ought to last from four to six days—but early buying will be luckiest for you. 'Twill be a sale to make added thousands know our Carpet Store—a floor over 200 feet long, light, inviting, well stocked.

"Pay 75c a week—same as usual—if cash is short."

20 rolls 60c Extra Heavy Ingrains for 39c yd.
10 rolls 80c All-Wool Ingrains for 65c yd.
50 rolls 90c Tapestry Brussels for 75c yd.

Fully 6 different patterns in the Tapestries just mentioned.

10 rolls 90c Velvets for 75c yd.
10 rolls Moquettes and Axminsters—were $1 and $1.25—at 90c yd.

The Bedroom Suit floor couldn't be overshadowed by the most audacious carpet sale—it's got some of the richest things, from the $10.50 Oak Suit to the $35 and $50 specials, you've ever dreamed of!

That Hardwood Refrigerator—$5.49—with galvanized pan, pick and tongs "thrown in"—advertised last week. We'll duplicate last week's offer—snap it up quickly.

"Blue Flame Wickless Oil Stove."

"The Wickless Blue Flame Oil Stove" and "Monarch Vapor Stove"—both are great inventions of the age—worth your travelling 50 miles to see—we operate and show how really remarkable they are to all visitors. We've "Insurance" and "Quickmeal" Vapor Stoves too.

A FAITHFUL FRIEND.

BY MARIA LOUISE POOL.

A rough, brown dog sat at the very edge of the tumbledown breakwater. He was looking steadily seaward. He was evidently old, and he was scarred by many fights; but his sunken mouth, from which he had lost most of his teeth, showed that he would not fight again victoriously.

He was gaunt from a lifetime of insufficient food, but yet he had the air of a dog who is loved.

Sometimes he turned from his gaze at the sea and glanced behind him at the child who was sitting in a wheelbarrow a few feet away. Every time he glanced thus he slightly wagged his stump of a tail, and the child smiled or she said in a soft voice,—

"Good Boss!"

And then Boss wagged harder; but he could not give much attention to his companion, for his whole heart was with that bent old woman who was up to her waist in the water by the outermost ledge. It was there that the Irish moss grew, and at low tide the woman could gather it. She thrust her arm down to the shoulder each time for her handful of moss. She was wet, sodden wet, save for a small place across her back.

She had a man's straw hat fastened by a small rope tightly under her chin. Her face looked a hundred years old, it was in truth seventy—old, seamed and leathery; and it was a face you loved to look at.

Every few moments she raised her head and put her dripping hand up over her eyes as she turned toward the land; she was at first dazzled by the glare of the water. When she looked up thus the little girl in the wheelbarrow always waved her little hat; then a dim, beautiful smile would come in the faded eyes.

"It's jest a doin' of her lots of good," she would say aloud. "I'm awful glad I wheeled her down. I wish now I'd brought her down oftener this summer."

Twice as she looked shoreward she called out shrilly,—

"Boss, you take care of her; won't you, Boss?"

Then Boss pricked up his ears and shook his tail and the girl laughed and said she guessed she 'n' Boss could git along first-rate.

"We're used to it, ain't we, Boss?"

When she said this the dog got up, came to her side, gave her a swift lick across the face, then hurried back and sat down on the edge of the planks again.

Once the woman out in the water slipped and fell splashing, and Boss jumped up, whining in a piteous quaver, and would not be comforted even when the child said soothingly,—

"Never mind, old fellow!"

But when the woman floundered to her feet again and cried "All right!" the dog sat down. Still he frequently gave a little whine under his breath. He was thinking that this was the first summer when he had not gone out crossing with his dearest friend, and he could not understand why he was so stiff and clumsy that he was unable to run over the slippery rocks and keep close to her, nosing the moss she picked up, poking over lobsters and crabs, and seeing that nothing happened to her. Something was the matter with his legs, and with the whole of him, somehow, and he could not get over the rocks. Was it the same thing that kept him from gnawing bones? And he liked them just as well as ever. He noticed that the young dog who lived down the road could crack bones without any trouble. It was all very mysterious.

When he lay in the sun near where the moss was drying, dozing and snapping at the flies, he often looked as if he were thinking of all these things.

And what did the girl's grandmother mean only yesterday when she stroked his head and said,—

"Poor old Boss! You're gittin' old, les' 's I be. 'Twon't be no kind of a place round this house, 'thout Boss." He had nuzzled his head under her hand when she had spoken thus, but he didn't understand.

How pleasant this bright day was, with its sunny gentle east wind—a wind that brought sweet, salt smells from the ocean.

The child sniffed the bracing odor and stretched out her hands, smiling happily.

To be sure, she could not walk, but Granny often wheeled her to the breakwater, where she could see the moss gathered.

It was a low course of tides, and now the water had gone far out, so that one could get to the ledges where the moss grew.

Granny had no boat as most of the mossers had—there were some boats now farther along, and little Molly could see the men put their long-handled rakes down and draw them up full. She knew that those men made more money than her grandmother, but then she didn't know much about money. Some of the neighbors often said that they themselves could not afford to keep a dog. When they said this granny would shut her lips tight, and the first chance she had she would stroke the dog's head.

"I guess they don't know much about a dog," she told Molly, "'n I guess 's long's we've got anything to eat Boss'll have some of it. Eh, old feller?"

Molly sank back on the pillow in the barrow. She amused herself by almost closing her eyes so that the sea seemed to come up nearer and crimple in sparks of fire. Then she would open her eyes wide and the great stretch of water would flash blindingly on her vision. She played at this for a long time, and always in front of her was the dog; she had grown up in the conviction that all was well if he was near.

Soon everything grew deliciously dim and then clear, and the salt smell was sweeter, and she was walking over the hard sand as straight as anybody, holding her head up strongly. She did not know that she was asleep. It was real to her that she was walking.

Suddenly she sat upright in her wheelbarrow, clutching the sides of it. Boss was not there. Had he barked? Or had some one called? She looked off the ledge. She saw Boss leaping frantically over the weedy rocks. He went as if he were a young dog—he went like a creature possessed. He seemed not to leap, but to fly from one rock to another, over the still, green pools.

Molly could only see the dog, and, beyond him, shining water. Where was Granny?

The child tried to scream, but she felt as if in a nightmare, and could not make a sound.

Oh, there was something down between the rocks, on the far side of the ledge! It was there that Boss was going. And there was the mosser in his boat, putting his rake down just as he had been doing when the child had gone to sleep. For an instant she thought she was dreaming. But Boss was gone—and—yes—there was something among the rocks—it was Granny's hat sticking up, and it did not move.

Molly tried again to scream, and it was as if her heart would break in the trying. Her voice was only a coarse kind of whisper.

But there! Boss had reached his friend. He tried to pull her out. Between his attempts he barked, he howled—nay, he screamed. Was his heart breaking also?

At last the mosser out there held his rake just above the water and gazed toward the shore, listening. The wind was off the sea, and sounds from the land did not come clearly.

The man saw little Molly Towne on the breakwater. Had she cried out? And was that the Towne dog carrying on so on the rocks?

Boss was down by the still figure that was lying in the shallow pool. He was struggling with it, making frantic efforts to pull it from the water.

Outlined on the breakwater, against the dazzle of the blue sky, the man saw Molly rise up in her barrow, as if he would walk, and then fall back again.

"Good God!" he cried.

He dropped the rake into the water, caught up his oars, and rowed to the edge. All the time he rowed he saw old Mrs. Towne's motionless form lying there and the dog trying to help her.

As he stepped out of his boat and began slipping and jumping over the rocks the woman moved and raised her head. He saw her reach out her hand to the dog; he saw the dog throw himself down and lick her face eagerly.

"That you, Jim Stowell?" she asked. "I guess I've broke my leg. I slipped. I've crossed twenty year, 'n' I never slipped to speak of before."

She spoke tremblingly, but with pride.

"I s'pose I fainted, or something."

"I'll git you right into the boat," said Jim Stowell, briskly, "'n' take you home in no time."

Boss stood close by, watching the man.

It was not easy to get her into the boat, and she winced and grew pale, but she helped all she could, and made no sound.

When she was in at last Jim took up his oars to go round to the sandy landing. There stood Boss shivering on a rock. All at once he appeared older than ever; it seemed as if he could hardly stand.

"Take him, too," said his mistress.

"No, let him walk."

"I want you to take him, I tell you," almost fiercely. "He's too old 'n' stiff to walk on the rocks."

"Old!" with a laugh. "You oughter seen him goin' it after you!"

The man began to row. Tears came into Mrs. Towne's eyes. Her voice was choked.

"You've got to take him," she said, "or you needn't take me."

"Oh, if you feel like that"—Jim lifted the dog into the boat, and Boss crouched down by his friend, who put her hand on him. He leaned more and more heavily on her; his eyes were fixed on her face.

Lying there on the wet moss in the bottom of the boat she could look, without moving, into the dog's face. He slowly put his tongue out on her fingers. He pressed yet closer.

With a curiously quick movement she managed to draw him even nearer. She bent her head to his head.

"He lays too hard on ye!" said Jim. "Lemme pull him away."

"Don't touch him!" she cried in a sharp voice.

The next moment she said hoarsely,—

"He's dead!"—"Boss and Other Dogs."

WEATHER GRUMBLERS.

When autumn air is crisp and cool
And frost bestows its warnings,
We long to change the season's rule;
We sigh for summer mornings.

Yet when the air grows warm and moist,
Earth's mild malarial manner,
We spurn, and beg the man to hoist
Once more the cold wave banner.

PAUL AND VIRGINIA.

When Paul Irving applied for the position of assistant teacher in Pemberton academy, and was chosen through the influence of Harold Redmond, who was principal, none, save the interested parties, knew that he was a Harvard sophomore, rusticated for a year.

Irving had looked upon his sentence in the light of a joke, but when his father refused to view the escapade in the same sidesplitting manner, and had intimated that for one year at least the young man's presence was not desired under the parental roof, Paul had remembered his friend Redmond, who gladly smoothed over the rising difficulty.

"You'll find the town lively enough," said the principal, as with his new assistant he walked towards the school house, "and what's more, there are lots of pretty girls among the pupils. But let me give you one piece of advice; don't get smitten on any of the students, for this beloved village is full of gossip."

"All right, Hal; I'm going to behave myself while I'm here," answered Paul. "I don't think that I've committed a capital crime, but the governor rather feels it, and when I go back I'm going to work hard and take my degree or die."

"That sounds pretty fine," laughed the other. "But here's the academy, my boy, and remember I expect great things of you."

"Blessed are they that expect nothing for they shall not be disappointed," said Paul softly, as he took his place and began his first day's work.

There was an air of subdued excitement throughout the building. During the whole school year Virginia Adams had been in open revolt against the new teacher. Paul Irving had instituted a stricter regime than the pupils of Pemberton academy had known; idle students soon found themselves in disgrace and dull ones in despair. The new and exacting methods brought no terrors to Virginia at first, for she scorned imperfect lessons. Naturally bright, she had no difficulty in mastering the daily tasks allotted to the senior pupils, but she was such a lover of her own free will that Irving saw rocks ahead and was on the lookout.

Virginia, coming in late, did not hear the timely warning, and walked into the recitation room without even glancing at the extended lesson.

"There is but one state where fine and imprisonment are added to the loss of principal and interest when usury is the offense," said Mr. Irving. "Miss Adams will tell us its name."

"I don't know,' answered Virginia.

"Didn't you learn the lesson?" demanded Paul.

"Yes; but I didn't know we were supposed to learn the states," was Virginia's answer.

"Where were you when I announced that in future we would omit nothing? Late, as usual, I believe. You will remain to-night and I'll hear you recite it. Miss Gilman may answer the question."

"I don't know whether you'll hear me recite that or not," said the girl to herself. "I'm no mind reader, and I'm not to blame, since I didn't know the lesson," and the black eyes betokened stormy weather.

Irving sat at his desk and Virginia stood near a window overlooking the square.

"When you are ready to recite, Miss Adams, I will be glad to listen," said Paul, when fifteen minutes had ticked away slowly.

"I am not going to recite that lesson," she answered, looking up at him with a world of defiance in her dark eyes.

"Very well," he answered quietly, "you will remain here until you answer that question, then I may omit the remainder."

She started toward the doorway, but Irving frustrated her design by closing the door and standing before it.

"You will please be seated and take out your book. It is nearly 5 o'clock, and the sooner you learn that lesson the better. I shall call and see your father this evening," he continued, now thoroughly angry, "and perhaps he can use some influence and insist on your compliance with the rules."

Virginia sat down at the desk and bowed her head on her hands. Twenty minutes passed away and still she did not move. Paul began to show signs of weakening. "After all," he thought, "she didn't know I had extended the lesson. Dear little girl, I wish those confounded states were in Kalamazoo before I told her to learn them. If she'd only cry and give a fellow a chance to say something." Here he walked over to the desk.

"Virginia," he said softly, but there was no reply. Suddenly seating himself beside her, he took the little hand in his, but the slender fingers refused an answering touch.

"I give in, Virginia," he said. "You need not learn that lesson. Let me teach you another, dear. I hope with more success. Surely you know that I love you, but please answer me this time."

But Virginia looked at him with her heart in her eyes and answered meekly:

"The state is Idaho."

"What did he do to you?" asked the girls in chorus, when Miss Adams appeared the next morning, ten minutes before the required time. "Gertie Gilman said she saw you walking up together as jolly as could be long after 5 o'clock, and Belle Marshall's brother met him in your street awful late last night. Did you recite to him, and what did he say?"

"Yes, I learned my lesson, but he called to see my father," answered Virginia.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Some young people of the West End are planning for a bicycle ride to Metuchen tonight.

Patrick Marron, Walter Martin and Eugene O'Reilly rode to Coney Island on their wheels yesterday.

FIRST BICYCLE TEST CASE.

The Outcome of the Plainfield Case he Watched With Great Interest.

Plainfield has the honor of bringing the first bicycle test case to the higher courts. The New Jersey Law Journal says:

"The first bicycle case to reach the higher courts of this State has just been decided by the Supreme Court, Phelps against Howell. The plaintiff was a young lady of Plainfield. While riding her wheel on Watchung avenue, in that city, October 26th, 1896, she alleged that she was run into by a wagon driven by one Robinson, a driver in plaintiff's employ. Miss Phelps recovered a verdict for $3,000. The Supreme Court has ordered a new trial, on several grounds, among others that of newly discovered evidence, tending to prove that the plaintiff lost control of her bicycle while riding down the avenue, that the wheel began to go "wobbly" and finally ran into defendant's horse; that the plaintiff fell off the seat, and the horse came to a standstill; in short, that the bicycle ran into the horse, and not the horse into the bicycle."

The defendant, R. O Howell, secured a new trial as readers will remember, sometime ago. The plaintiff will try the case over again at the October term of Court at Elizabeth.

Counselor Craig A. Marsh, represents the plaintiff, and Counselor William K. McClure, represents the defendant.

Judge Steele, of Brooklyn, moved into his new house on Park avenue, near Avon Park, Saturday.

BEN FRANKLIN'S GRAVE.

A Forlorn and Desolate Looking Spot in a Disused Cemetery.

Visitors to Philadelphia, after visiting Independence Hall, are apt to ask for Franklin's tomb, and, when they see it, there is a distinct shock of disappointment.

Benjamin Franklin, in many respects the greatest man America has ever produced, lies buried in the graveyard of Christ Church. The church where Washington, Franklin and other Revolutionary heroes worshipped, is on Second Street, above Market, and the graveyard is not connected with it, being on the southeast corner of Fifth and Arch Streets.

As a cemetery it has long been disused, the last burials having taken place forty years ago. In the northwest corner of the ground Benjamin Franklin is buried, and Deborah, his wife, lies by his side.

Before he died Franklin provided for his own gravestone, and instructed a stone-cutter of his acquaintance in every detail, even to the inscription which was to be placed upon it. He desired to be buried beside his wife who had died some years before, and a common slab was to be placed over them both.

Everything was done as he desired and the work was paid for out of his estate, and stands to-day the same as when he died.

The little cemetery is surrounded by a high brick wall, which was the fashion in colonial days; but at the corner the trustees, in 1869, had a piece taken out and replaced with an iron railing, so that now the visitors can stand on the sidewalk and almost touch Franklin's grave with a cane.

It is covered with an old-fashioned marble slab, only a few inches above the ground, and there is no headstone. Nothing has been done to it since Franklin was buried there, and nothing can be imagined more desolate or melancholy than the sight of this humble and apparently neglected tomb.

Who is responsible for this neglect? Not the city, because Philadelphia is proud of its position as the historic city of America, and spends money with lavish hand to commemorate its heroes. Not the country at large, because, again and again, visitors, distressed by the forlorn appearance of the grave, have offered gifts of money to improve it.

Franklin himself is responsible. He called himself "a plain man, averse to display of any kind." His descendants have respected his wishes to the extent that they will not do anything to the grave, nor let any one else beautify or adorn it.—Golden Days.

Arabian Proverbs.

He that knows not, and knows not that he knows not, is a fool. Shun him.

He that knows not, and knows that he knows not, is simple. Teach him.

He that knows, and knows not that he knows, is asleep. Wake him.

He that knows, and knows that he knows, is wise. Follow him.

DAY IN THE CHURCHES.

TRINITY REFORMED CHURCH.

The exercises at Trinity Reformed church were among the most elaborate in the city. They were held in the morning and were participated in by the members of the primary department. The exercises were very pretty and suggestive, and Mrs. J. M. Tier, the superintendent of the little folks' department, and her assistants, deserve great credit for the successful way in which everything was done.

The teachers and school were treated to a great surprise in the presentation of a banner to the primary department by William Olmstead, one of the teachers. The little people have long wanted a banner, but were not expecting one yesterday. The presentation was made in the Sunday-school before the regular exercises began. The entire class of children, 150 of them, formed in line with the banner at their head, carried by Lulu Vail, with Lena Sutton and Elsie Tier holding the cords, and all carrying a good-sized American flag, marched up stairs and twice around the church before taking their places. The congregation, not expecting this, enjoyed it very much.

The banner is of white satin with gold fringe, having on it in golden letters this verse, "A Little Child Shall Lead Them." The banner was designed by Mr. Olmstead, who was assisted in making it by Miss Sadie Searing, another teacher.

The exercises were very interesting and were in charge of the children. After the opening exercises and singing of "America" by the congregation, Edmund Templin, one of the scholars, delivered an address of welcome.

The following programme was then presented:

"Children's Day."....Georgie Dobbs, Willie McGee, Perry Holder, Rowland Beighton and Harold Schenck.
"Miss Apple"..... ..Emily Templin
Motion Song.....Pansy Luckey, Delia Dufford, Mary Neal, Frances Wendell, Elsie Tier, Flossie Yaeger, Edith Caleen, Bessie Randall and Evelyn Manley.
"The Birds Concert"..... Laura Bodine
"Little Good for Nothing"..... Elsie Dunavan
"The Dream"..... Mabel Scribner
"The Queer Boy"..... Alfred Manley
Song. "Keep Me Dear Saviour."
Primary Department
"Only One Brick"....Ida Tier, Ira Vail, Hazel VanSickle, Arthur Williams, Sadie Hughes and Chrissie Mobus.
"The Builders"..... Etta Trembley
Recitation and Song.
Luella Day and Lulu Vail
"The House We Build"....Bessie Randall, John Schofield, Emma Yeager, Freddie Smith, Rose Hook, Willie Trembler, Anna Bodine and Cornelius Schenck.
Song. "Home Sweet Home"...Gussie Kreitling
Primary Class Joined in the Chorus.
Address..... .....By the Pastor

The church never looked prettier than it did yesterday with its floral decorations and its fresh, clean paint. The decorations were very elaborate. A beautiful cross of daisies, twined with roses, stood on one end of the platform, while a harp of daisies and greens occupied the other end, and cut flowers and greens were strewn in the space between. Mr. Olmstead, assisted by Miss M. Eleanor VanDyke, Miss Martha Anthony, committees from the Christian Endeavor Society and the mission band, deserve much commendation for the work they did in decorating. During the service three infants received baptism. The attendance was quite large, many children being noticed in the congregation.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

The Children's Day exercises were held in the Congregational church yesterday morning in the place of the regular preaching service. The classes of the Sunday-school gathered in the front pews and the remainder of the congregation occupied the others. There were carols by the school and by the members of the primary department. The pastor, Rev. C. L. Goodrich, made a short address to the children on the text, "God is Light."

The floral decorations were of unusual beauty. Palms and potted plants were grouped about the platform while cut flowers were in profusion. On a long banner of evergreen, suspended over the pulpit, the words, "God is Light" were formed with daisies. There was a large attendance at the services.

PARK AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH.

At the Park Avenue Baptist church the special service consisted of songs and recitations. The address of welcome was given by Miss Lizzie VanWinkle, and recitations were given by Miss Florence Smith, Harry Cuming, Harold Smalley, Miss Emily Runyon, Florence Cuming, Jemima Nankin, Frank Clarkson, Delice Purdy, Norman Hill, Thomas Nankin, Lillian Richardson, Elsie Giles, Viola Hillier and Lulu Stryker. The address to the children was given by Rev. Dr. Robert Lowry. The primary department exercises were in charge of Miss Myra Runyon, the superintendent, and consisted of songs by the class and recitations. Those who took part were Rowland Stover, Rex Purdy, Gordon Moy, Marguerite Ostrom, Jemima Nankin, Florence Smalley, Jeanette Ingraham, Millie Odam, Martha Soper and Autumn Delaney.

HOPE CHAPEL.

The Children's Day exercises at Hope chapel were very simple and consisted of concert recitations of the old books of the Bible, Ten Commandments and the Twenty-third Psalm. Mrs. G. K. Newell was in charge of the children. An appropriate sermon was preached by Rev. G. Kennedy Newell.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

Children's Day at this church was observed in the morning and was in every way successful and pleasing to the large congregation present. The members and teachers of the Sunday-school occupied seats in the gallery. The pulpit platform was beautifully decorated with flowers, roses and ferns. During the service the choir rendered several anthems, while pretty solo were given by Mrs. Ward, contralto; Miss Harris, soprano, and G. W. Smith, tenor. The primary department, under the direction of Mrs. Powlison, sang several selections in a commendable manner. The opening exercises were conducted by Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, pastor, and he also preached a patriotic sermon to the children. He explained in a simple manner the use of various flags in different countries, and more especially did he tell of the American flag and its symbols.

Regarding the Spanish flag, Dr. Yerkes said that its symbol was that Spain rules the world, but, said the doctor, she did at one time, but now she comes very far from it. The remarks by Dr. Yerkes were, indeed, interesting and the older people, as well as the children, enjoyed them. Miss Harris sang a very pretty solo while the offertory was being taken.

During Dr. Yerkes' talk he displayed an American flag and waving it so that all could see it, he said, "that flag should be first above every other flag that floats on land or sea."

WARREN CHAPEL.

At this chapel the Children's Day exercises were held yesterday afternoon. The feature of the programme were the recitations of Edna Bach, Emma Roantree, Elsie Dallas, Jennie Rowe and Ruth Wilson. The decorations around the platform were very pretty and were in charge of the Christian Endeavor Society flower committee of the chapel.

MONROE AVENUE M. E. CHURCH.

"Pictures of Heroic Methodism" was the title of the special Children's Day service that was given by the Sunday-school of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church yesterday afternoon. There was a large attendance of scholars and visitors. There were several papers read by members of the Sunday-school and recitations by the primary department. The pastor, Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, made a few remarks.

The church was handsomely decorated with flowers for the occasion. Potted plants were banked about the pulpit. There were numerous large bunches of daisies and other cut flowers.

MOUNT OLIVE BABTIST.

Under the direction of Superintendent M. C. Dobbins the scholars of the Sunday-school of this church presented an interesting programme appropriate to Children's Day. It consisted of the following recitations: "What is June," Mabel Fisher; "The Seed," Etta Kingslow; Florence Miller; "Our Flag," Irving Kassey: "Bible Stories," Mary Coles. There was also singing by the primary department and singing by five girls, "All Hail the Children's Day;" reading, "Children's Day," primary department; recitations by six scholars; recitations and singing by three children; singing, "The Lord is my Shepherd," school. There were also songs by Norman Henry, Anna Connett and Ella Phillips. The exercises by the primary department were in charge of Miss May E. Howlett. During the afternoon the new pastor, Rev. Mr. Jackson, made a short appropriate address.

SEVENTH-DAY BAPTIST CHURCH.

At the Seventh-Day Baptist church Saturday morning, special Children's Day services were held. There was special music by the members of the Sunday-school and choir. The primary department gave some simple exercises. The floral decorations were very handsome. The pulpit was nearly hidden behind a bank of flowers. An address was given by the pastor, Rev. A. E. Main.

CRESCENT AVENUE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Children's Day was not elaborately observed at the Crescent Avenue church this year. The Sunday-school held its exercises in the afternoon. There were several selections by the regular quartette choir of the church. A short address was made by Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards. The church was prettily decosated.

The decorations were arranged under the charge of Miss Mary Ketcham, of East Fifth street.

Miss Stewart, a nurse at the hospital, will leave the middle of this week for her home in Pennsylvania, where she will spend her two weeks vacation.

RECKLESS LORD LAWRENCE.

He Carried the Kohinoor in His Vest Pocket and Forgot About It.

The Kohinoor, Queen Victoria's most famous jewel, and one of the biggest and most celebrated diamonds in the world, has been much written about, and its adventures among Eastern potentates and thieves traced with much research, but one of the queerest things that ever happened to it befel after it came into English hands and is very little known.

The Punjaub was annexed in 1849, and the East India Company took possession of the Lahore treasury, as the Lahore government was deep in their debt.

The Kohinoor was the greatest treasure of the treasury, and it was stipulated in the agreements signed by both parties that it should be presented to Queen Victoria. At a meeting of the East India board the "mountain of light" was given into the care of John, afterward Lord Lawrence.

Mr. Lawrence must have been in a singular frame of mind at the time, for he put the gem in his waistcoat pocket, and, in his own phrase, "thought no more about it."

This is unaccountable but true, for he went home, changed his clothes for dinner and did not wear nor handle that waistcoat for a day or two. Then came a message from Lord Dalhousie to the board, asking for the diamond, that it might be forwarded to the queen.

"Well," said John Lawrence to his brother Henry, "send it at once."

"Why, you have it," said Henry.

Lord Lawrence all his life would tell of the terror that then seized him.

"This is the worst trouble I ever got into," he said to himself, as the cold sweat started on his forehead.

But when he got out his discarded waistcoat there undisturbed was the great Kohinoor that Turk and Persian and Hindoo conquerors had shed rivers of blood to possess.—Golden Days.

MATCHES IN MEXICO.

The People There Do Not Like Those Made With Phosphorous.

An inquiry in regard to the possibility of profitably establishing an American match factory in or near Mexico City has elicited the fact that there are no phosphorous matches in use in Mexico, or any with wooden sticks. The kind universally used there are made of wax, about 1 inch in length, and practically odorless. The heads are very similar to those used on the parlor matches in the United States, and while they can be ignited otherwise, they light best on a small strip of sandpaper which is put for the purpose on one side of the box. In lighting these matches, a newcomer invariably holds them head down, as he would a wooden match; but he soon finds out that Adams watched him until he saw him they burn better the other way. They are sold in small boxes, for 1c, 2c and 3c silver per box. Travelers in Mexico who have bought strawberries at the railway stations, or even in the markets, have reason to recognize the cleverness of the seller in packing the fruit in boxes which appear to hold a great deal more than they actually do. The same experience holds good in the matter of buying matches. The boxes look to be of fair size, and appear to hold a considerable number of matches; but on examination they are found to have raised bottoms and stuffed sides, and their contents are decidedly slim. Practically, no matches are imported into Mexico, as the people do not like either the wooden sticks or the odor of the phosphorous matches, and the other kind can be made there more cheaply than they can be imported. For this reason, it is doubtful whether a successful American factory for match production could be started in Mexico, at all events at present.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Railroad Passes Made of Silver.

Most people are quite pleased to have a railroad pass of common paper, with the general passenger agent's signature scrawled in one corner, in the ink of sickly hue usually found in railroad offices. How would you like to have a pass, good for your whole life, on solid silver, and engraved at a famous silversmith's?

President Thomson, of the Pennsylvania lines, has issued a silver pass to Mr. Edgar Thomson, Mrs. Thomas Scott and Mrs. George B. Roberts, widows of former presidents of the road. The silver transportation cards are good on any train or car of the whole system of the road. They are just a little larger than a ladies' visiting card, and can be carried conveniently in the card case.

President Thomson is fond of making his passes valuable souvenirs. He has presented the members of the board of directors with a silver pass, about the size and shape of a silver dollar.—New York Journal.

Set Against High Hats.

The Bohemians in Austria have made up their minds that a tall hat is a badge of Germany, and it is as much as a man's life is worth to appear in a Czech town wearing a "stovepipe." The cowboy of the West used to shoot the hat for fun, but never killed the wearer, except by accident, but the Czechs are more bitter. A high hat on a Czech has the same effect as a red flag on a bull; if he does not kill the offender, it is because he can't. The other day at a railway station a large crowd assembled to bid farewell to a well-known deputy. As the train arrived, Doctor Jindrich, a judicial functionary, traveling on official business, stepped out, and he wore a high hat. Instantly it was knocked off, and he had to run for his life. This feat landed a dozen of the mob in jail, but the Czechs are still on the warpath.—Golden Days.

SPANIARDS REPULSED; OUR FLAG THERE YET.

Spanish Forces Cannot Dislodge Americans Now In Cuba.

The Spaniards Made a Direct Attack Yesterday But Were Beaten Back By Combined Efforts of Marines and Warships—All of Cervera's Fleet Seen at Santiago.

THE LATEST.

Three O'Clock.

MARINES AGAIN ATTACKED.

With the Assistance of the Warships the Spanish Troops Were Repulsed.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Mole of St. Nicholas, Hayti, June 14, 12:25 p. m—Reports have reached here of another engagement in the vicinity of Guantanamo Bay when the Spanish forces attempted to dislodge the American marines who were entrenched on the hill.

The battle was fought on land and sea near Cumanera, the Spanish city on Guantanamo Bay, Monday. It is said to be the fiercest battle of the war.

In it were engaged the nine hundred marines, under the command of Lieutenant Colonel W. R. Huntington, which were landed from the transpoat, Panther, the battleship, Texas, the cruiser, Marblehead, and the collier, Aberenda.

Camp McCalla and Crest Hill, where the marines were entrenched, were attacked by an overwhelming Spanish force. There were estimated to be three thousand or more regular Spanish troops in the attacking party

Unlike the first fight, the Spaniards made no attempt to surprise the American camp. They formed in battle array and made a vigorous assault on the American lines.

The Americans were at a disadvantage only in numbers, and had the advantage of the old Spanish trenches and small fortifications.

As soon as the attack commenced the launches from the Texas and Marblehead were sent close to the shore and opened a flanking fire on the Spanish column with the rapid firing guns mounted on the launches.

The shells from the launches did serious work among the ranks of the enemy, killing many.

The Texas and Marblehead stood as far in shore as the deep water would permit and opened on the Spaniards with their big guns. The shells from them ripped off the undergrowth to the trees in the forest through which the Spaniards were advancing and played havoc among them.

After a vigorous attack, the Spaniards were repulsed by the heavy fire from the combined forces afloat and ashore and gave up the attack. The marines were reinforced from ships in the harbor.

OTHER REPORTS.

Jamaica Also Hears of Another Fight at Guantanamo Monday.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Port Antonio, Jamaica, June 14, 12:09 p. m—More fighting was reported off Fisherman's Point in the Bay of Guantanamo between the American marines and Spanish bushwhackers.

After a lively fight the Spaniards were driven off by the marines who still hold their position on the hill, where their encampment lies.

CERVERA'S FLEET THERE.

Lieut. Blue Saw Them All in Santiago Harbor While on a Detour.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Washington, June 14, 12:14 p. m.—Secretary Long, of the Navy Department, received a despatch from Rear Admiral Sampson this morning from the Mole of St. Nicholas.

It states that Lieut. Blue, of the American Navy, has just returned after a detour of seventy miles to get a good observation of Santiago harbor.

The special object of the mission was to make absolutely sure that all the ships of Admiral Cervera's fleet were really at Santiago de Cuba and not flying about the West Indies or en route to Manila.

Lieutenant Blue was guided by a small party of insurgents, well acquainted the country. He obtained an excellent view of the harbor.

He reports that all the vessels of the Cape Verde fleet are safely anchored in the harbor.

The report received by the Navy Department also states that the Spanish vigorously attacked the camp of the marines at Guantanamo. On the outpost, four marines were killed. Their bodies were barbarously mutilated.

HAVANA WAKES UP.

Tried To Draw Blockading Fleet Into Action But Watson Refused.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Key West, June 14, 1:25 p. m—The Spanish fortifications at Havana made an attempt yesterday to draw the American blockading fleet into an engagement but they were unsuccessful.

Yesterday at noon one of the heavy guns in Moro Castle boomed forth a challenge to the American cruisers that lay off the harbor. The batteries at San Diego joined in the fire.

A terrific fire on all the American ships followed. The blockading fleet was out of range, however. It was thought that the firing was started with the purpose of drawing the fleet into an engagement.

Commodore Watson refused to allow the ships to respond and the fire from the shore batteries gradually decreased and stopped.

TO ATTACK HAVANA

Lee Ordered to Prepare an Army to Move Against Havana.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Washington, 10:54 a. m — Major-General Fitzhugh Lee has received orders to prepare an army of 40,000 to move on Havana at an early date.

It is believed that he can have the army ready for transportation and action in thirty days at the longest. A number of the camps will be drawn upon to supply troops for the expedition.

ASK FOR REPEAL OF BUILDING ORDINANCE

An Important Petition Presented To The Council.

MUCH DISCUSSION OVER IT.

MAYOR FISK APPOINTS NEW COMMISSIONERS OF ASSESSMENTS.

June 30th Set as Date for Hearing on Street Railway Application—Legislation Against Dogs—Annual Report of Library Directors.

An adjourned meeting of the City Council was held last evening, with all the members present excepting Mr. Andrews. It required a good deal of time to transact the business under consideration. The building ordinance came in for a share of the discussion, while other matters of more or less importance were subjected to a great deal of consideration. The extreme warm weather did not affect the members very much and they evidently did not mind remaining in the Council chamber. Clerk MacMurray was absent and by a vote of the Council Mr. Wean was appointed clerk pro tem. The business of the evening then came up as follows:

The Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company petitioned the Council to adopt an ordinance designating the streets in the city where underground electric light wires are to be laid. The petition was received and filed. The annual report of the board of directors of the Plainfield Public Library was presented and showed the receipts to be $12,233.34, and the disbursements, $4,157.81. There is a balance in the general fund of $2,192.82, and in the building fund, $5,882.80, making a total of $8,075 62. In the Babcock fund the receipts were $13,423.91, disbursements, $12,452.53.

DeWitt C. Ivins, J. Parker Mason and George R. Cornwell, commissioners of assessments, appointed by former Mayor Alex. Gilbert, tendered their resignations, and the Council accepted the same.

Mr. Hetfield presented a communication signed by over two hundred prominent property owners, contractors, builders and masons, asking the Council to repeal the building ordinance outside of the fire limits. Mr. Hetfield stated that the best and largest property owners, as well as contractors, ask that the ordinance be repealed and that the fire limits be reduced. He cited Bridgeport, Conn., with 27,000 population, that has a moderate ordinance. He thought that Plainfield is not yet a Greater New York, and that the ordinance was intended for places like Chicago and New York. The great trouble, Mr. Hetfield said, is that there is too much legislation in Plainfield, and it works against the poor people.

Mr. Buckle thought the ordinance should be amended, but that something else should be presented as a substitute.

Mr. Barrows thought the matter should be referred to the joint committee who have under consideration the building ordinance. The matter was finally so referred, Mr. Hetfield accepting the amendment to his motion that the ordinance be repealed.

Mayor Fisk appointed Harry W. Marshall, Frank Bushnell and R. A. Meeker commissioners of assessment, to fill the places of J. P. Mason, DeWitt C. Ivins and Geo. R. Cornwell, resigned. The appointments were confirmed, and all matters of assessment, papers, etc., under the act which they were appointed, were referred to the new commissioners, also the amount of $2,009.01 which sum it has been estimated it will take to complete the system of sewage and drainage in the city. The commissioners will be called upon to pass upon the above amount.

Mr. Hetfield referred back the ordinance giving the Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company the power to lay its wires underground. The ordinance was adopted on first and second reading, ordered engrossed and advertised.

Mr. Barrows made a motion that when Council adjourn it be to meet on the evening of June 30th at 8 o'clock, at which time a hearing will be given to the public for or against the extension of the trolley as petitioned for by the Plainfield Street Railway Company. Another resolution was offered by Mr. Barrows which awards to Patsy Christmas the contract to establish a storm sewer through Plainfield avenue. The resolution was adopted. Mr. Barrows stated that the work of locating a storm sewer through Second street

BEFORE SUPREME COURT

WATCHUNG AVENUE ASSESSMENTS BEING ARGUED.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, June 14—Today in the Supreme Court argument, pro and con, is being heard in the Watchung avenue assessment matter which is of interest to the property owners in North Plainfield. The borough is represented by Borough Counsel C. A. Reed and Mayor Wilson, while Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, of Plainfield, represents the property owners who are fighting the assessment. It is quite likely that it will be several days before a decision will be given by the court.

Counsellor C. L. Murphy, of Plainfield, was in Trenton today to begin a demurrer before the Supreme Court, in the case of Chapman against the Iron Clad Rheostat Company, of Westfield. The defendant corporation is represented by the firm Besson, Stevens & Lewis, of Hoboken.

STIFF SPRING A BURGLAR'S ALARM.

Robbers Attempt to Rob a Scotch Plains House Frustrated.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, June 14—Burglars attempted to gain an entrance into the home of William Archibald early yesterday morning, and but for a slip of the hand no doubt would have been successful. The family were sleeping soundly when Mrs. Rockwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald, was awakened by a loud bang. She immediately aroused her father, then opened a window and called, "Who's there?"

A man was seen running towards the barn, but a shrill whistle was given by one stationed near the road and another man came running from the rear of the house, all three making their escape down the road and into the woods.

Mr. Archibald upon investigating found they had broken the lock on a screen door in the rear of the house, but had not calculated upon the stiff spring upon the door, which immediately came shut or slipped out of their hands, thus making the noise which aroused the family.

A PICNIC ON THE FOURTH.

Epworth League to Enjoy a Day at Washington Rock.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Wilson, of Mountain avenue, last evening the members of the Epworth League of Grace M. E. church held a social and business meeting. There was a large attendance of members and friends and everyone thoroughly enjoyed themselves. During the business part of the evening the members decided to hold a picnic at Washington Rock on July 4th, and every effort will be made to make the outing great success. The plans of work for the coming year were talked over and several new ideas will be introduced to increase the efficiency of the league.

Following the business meeting a short programme was presented which included violin selections by Dykman Winkler, accompanied on the piano by Miss Alice Carroll, and there were piano solos by Louis Hummer. The selections were greatly enjoyed by all. In conclusion refreshments were served and a social time spent.

A Young Hostess

Last Saturday afternoon Helen Woolley, the four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey Woolley, of New street, celebrated the anniversary of her birthday by entertaining a number of her young friends. The afternoon was passed in playing all kinds of games on the lawn, and a bountiful repast was also served on the lawn after the conclusion of the games. The young hostess received a number of pretty gifts from her friends as pleasant reminders of the happy event in her life.

Funeral in Charge of G. A. R

The funeral services of the late Benjamin Wright will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock from the house. Interment will be in the North Plainfield cemetery. The services will be in charge of Winfield Scott Post, and the members will meet in their rooms at 2:15. The deceased was a member of Company H, Thirtieth N. J. Volunteers, known as Captain Hubbard's Company.

The Editor's Case.

The case of Editor Thomas Lane, of the Summit Record, against A. C. Hahr, came up for trial this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The case was tried last week before a jury and resulted in a disagreement. Counselor Swackhamer represents the defendant.

Wholesale Slaughter of Dogs.

The borough dog catcher killed nine dogs last evening, which their owners had failed to redeem.

CLASS DAY ENJOYED ON SEMINARY LAWN.

Spreading Chestnut Trees Made a Rustic Setting.

UNIQUE EXERCISES HELD.

THE GIRL GRADUATES ACQUITTED THEMSELVES CLEVERLY.

A Cultured Audience in Attendance—A Pretty Ceremony Was the Planting of the Class Flower—Humorous Presentation Made.

One of the fine old chestnut trees on the beautiful lawn of the Plainfield Seminary gave token of an unusual event yesterday afternoon. Its hugh trunk was girdled with roses and vines, above the floral decorations were the figures in silvers, 1898. A carpeted platform at the tree root suggested addresses, and many seats under the wide spreading branches of lofty trees hinted of an audience to be edified or entertained. All these suggestions and hints were fully realized when at four o'clock the class day exercises of the graduating class opened with the ancient history of the class, given by Miss Ethel Titsworth. Many of the juvenile propensities and achievements of which she told provoked a smile and the wonder, if the saying is true, that the "girl is mother of the woman," as "the boy is father of the man."

The modern history of the class, followed by Miss Helen Olendorf, was full of happy reminiscences of work and play. Class photographs by Miss Emma Sterling was a clever revelation of characters and tastes gathered by some unique system of X rays. The class poem, with the class flower, the Fleur de Lis for its subject, was given by Miss Harriet Efner Strong and elicited hearty applause, as poems should.

Miss Margaret MacCready was the class prophet, and her predictions of the future fate of her classmates were full of happy hits. The presentation of mementoes was made by Miss Ethel VanBoskerck in a charming manner. To Miss Ruth Peckham was given implements to cultivate a taste for sewing; to Miss Ethel Titsworth, the youngest of the class, a rattle; to Miss Ruby Keib, who is musical, a harmonicum; to Miss Harriet Strong a kitten for a companion; to Miss Helen Olendorf, whose travels have been limited between Bound Brook and Plainfield, a trunk; to Miss Margaret MacCready a beribboned gridiron for roasting her victims; and Miss Emma Sterling "took the cake" for the best examinations in Roman history. Miss Ruth Peckham, the class president, gave the oration which led up to the planting of the class flower, the Fleur de Lis. This was a pretty ceremony accompanied by the singing of the class song and closed the exercises that had been full of interest and pleasure. Many flowers and gifts were received by the graduates as they concluded their parts.

BAD WRECK ON THE LEHIGH.

Double Header Collision and Two Trainmen Killed.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Easton, June 14.—Last evening a wreck occurred at Springtown on the Lehigh Valley Railroad, wherein two trainmen were killed instantly and several others injured. The company has been fixing the tracks and, temporarily, one track is being used. On the track there stood a drill engine, and from each direction there came a coal and freight train. The collision was a double header and a great deal of damage resulted. The engines and a portion of each train were derailed. The tracks were torn up and debris was scattered for a considerable distance. Fortunately the engineers escaped with their lives. It was early this morning when the track was cleared for travel.

Funeral of Theodore Herrmann.

The funeral of the late Theodore Herrmann, of Whitewood avenue, who was drowned last Friday evening while swimming in the borough, was held today noon from the house. Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel, officiated and spoke very highly of the deceased. He remarked concerning his Christian character and his upright ways in life. Interment was in the cemetery at Bonnd Brook in the family plot.

Paid a $5 Fine.

John Kennedy, of Prideville, who was arrested last Saturday evening at a picnic by Constable Pangborn, was arraigned before Justice Mattison yesterday and was fined $5 and cost of the court. He paid the fine.

Councilman F. H. Andrews left this morning on a business trip to Chicago.

THREE MORE LAWYERS.

AMONG THOSE WHO PASSED WAS COUNCILMAN RUNYON.

William G. DeMeza and G. W. V. Moy the Other Successful Candidates—C. L. Murphy is Now a Counsellor.

Three new Plainfielders have been admitted to the bar of the State of New Jersey while another Plainfielder has successfully passed the examinations making him a counsellor-at-law. There were forty-two candidates for admittance to the bar at the June examinations held in the State House at Trenton. The written examinations were held last Friday and the oral ones yesterday. Of the forty-two, thirty-six passed successfully, among whom were all the Plainfielders.

The Plainfielders consisted of Councilman William N. Runyon, William G. DeMeza and G. W. V. Moy. Clarence L Murphy, of the firm of Murphy & Blatz, passed his examinations and was made counsellor-at-law. Councilman Runyon has been a member of the New York bar for several years and is now employed by a leading legal firm in New York city. He is considering the advisibility of taking up a practice in Plainfield and joining with his father, Nelson Runyon. DeMeza has been studying in the law offices of his brother, City Judge DeMeza, where he has been chief clerk. G. W. V. Moy keeps a pharmacy at the corner of Park avenue and East Fourth street and has been reading law by himself.

HIS SIXTEENTH BIRTHDAY.

Mrs. VanLieu Entertained Young Folks in Honor of Her Son.

Mrs. Frederick VanLieu, of LaGrande avenue, gave a birthday party last night in honor of her son, Fred. He was sixteen years old, and the occasion was made a merry one for him and a number of his friends. The evening was passed in playing games, and refreshments, of course, were served.

Among those present were the Misses Lillie and Jennie Thorn, Florence Layton, Mabel Smith, Lucy Jennings, Florence Cuming and Nellie Apgar; Fred VanLieu, David Wyckoff, Edward Baker, Albert Utzinger, Fred Dunavan, Edward Bellis, Thomas Keenan, Mathew Sweeny and Bert Ford.

WAR REVENUE HITS BEER DRINKERS

Bottled Beer Costs Ten Cents More Per Dozen to the Consumer.

The effect of the war revenue legislation enacted by Congress has already been felt by those in Plainfield who drink beer. Yesterday the price of bottled beer was increased ten cents a dozen bottles. There is no likelihood of the price of draught beer increasing to the consumer who imbibes it by the glass, though the saloon keeper may reduce the size of glass slightly in order that he may meet the increase of a $1 a barrel at the breweries on a profitable basis. Those who rush "growlers" may also expect to get less for their money.

Received a Degree of M. E.

The commencement exercises at Stevens Idstitute, Hoboken, will be held Thursday evening. Among the class to receive their diplomas and the degree of M. E., mechanical engineer, will be Walter B. Rittenhouse, of East Sixth street. Rittenhouse completed his course last April, but will return to receive his degree and the valued sheepskin. He was treasurer of his class and was among the highest in standing.

Ante-Nuptial Affair.

The members of the Plainfield Banjo, Mandolin and Guitar Club were entertained Saturday evening by Mr. and Mrs. B. O. Bowers at their residence on Franklin place in honor of their prospective son-in-law, Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, president of the club. The club played a number of selections during the evening.

At Fort Hancock.

Conductor Harry McCormick, of the trolley, has received a letter from his brother, James McCormick, who is located at Fort Hancock. The latter says that the Jersey boys are doing well and have no trouble in getting along. Almost every day they get a chance to take a swim, which is enjoyable these hot days.

Junior Endeavor Officers.

At the meeting of the Junior Superintendents yesterday afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. Mrs. W. S. Lowry was chosen president, Rev. C. L. Goodrich vice-president and Miss Beeching secretary and treasurer.

Entertained Bridal Party.

The bridal party at the O'Donnell-Bowers wedding, which takes place this evening, were entertained last night by Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Coard at their residence on East Ninth street.

William Kitchen, of the borough, has returned from a visit in Lebanon,

LITTLE SCHOOL FOLKS IN GORGEOUS DRESS.

Birds and Flowers Portrayed in Brilliant Array.

PLEASANT TO EYE AND EAR.

GIVEN FOR THE PURPOSE OF SECURING A STEREOPTICON OUTFIT.

The Identity of the Juvenile Participants Was Almost Hidden in Their Dresses of Multi-colors Made to Represent Picturesque Characters.

The pupils of the Franklin school have long felt the need of a good stereopticon, that they may the better study geography and science, so they gave an entertainment last night in the assembly room of the school to raise means to procure such a lantern.

The entertainment was novel and amusing to a high degree. Each little person taking part was attired in dresses and draperies so as to a most conceal his or her identity and resemble a brilliant flower or a big bird. It was an evening with the birds and flowers, and the children in their costumes made a gorgeous sight.

The programme was divided into three parts. The first was of songs about the flowers, the second voices from nature, and the third a miscellaneous collection of specialties and songs.

The stage was destitute of decorations, save a plain strip or two of green and a few roses, the bright hues of the little ones' dresses making up for all lack of floral display. The first number on the programme was a two-part song, "Flowers of May." This was sung by the school in one of the rear class rooms.

The second number was entitled "Just Waking Up," and eight girls and two boys took part in it. They came in from the rear of the hall, marched slowly up the centre aisle, clasping hands, divided at the foot of the platform, and took their places alone. The flowers were represented as just waking up, and there they were, of all colors and varieties, each little person representing a different blossom.

The song of the pansies was sung by eight little girls dressed in purple, with purple pansy caps on their heads. Nine little girls, wearing yellow dresses and yellow head pieces, brought Daffy-down-dilly's message. "Only a Neat Little Daisy" was Marguerite Carman, wearing a white costume resembling daisy petals, a broad hat like the field flower, and swinging a chain of the flowers. "We Violets" was sung by eight girls, and Edith Leslie as "Laughing Buttercup" won much applause. Eight girls posed as golden dandelions.

Part first closed with the triumphant entrance of the Rose Queen and her attendants. The queen was Miss Giles, and her horde of followers, chosen from all the pupils who took part in the exercises, was a brilliant one. Girls dressed to represent every flower known, in all the colors of the rainbow, followed the queen, who was dressed in white. The queen walked under an arch of roses borne by two girls, and taking her place on the platform, was crowned and handed her sceptre, amid songs and music, in which the queen's clear sweet voice was plainly heard.

The second part of the programme was bright and lively. Monroe Staats, as "Mr. Sly Winking Crow," all in sombre black, John Yose as a "Rollicking Woodpecker, I" in brown garb, with a red crest, and George Rogers, as "Pollywog," brought down the house.

"Three Little Maids From School" opened the third part of the programme. The little maids were Miss Elsie Giles, Miss Florence Shotwell and Miss Cornelia Miller. The policemen's song was sung by Percy Phillips, Richard Bird and Edwin Daniel, in full uniform.

The cadets' song was sung by the cadets, who marched in under the leadership of Harold Davis. Miss Elsie Giles was Columbia, and robed in a large American banner, she took her stand upon the stage, surrounded by the pageant. Columbia made a pretty appearance, both as the queen and the nation's idol. A few songs, among them one called "Yankee Dewey," particularly well sung, closed the evening's programme.

The costumes were designed by Miss Gilbert, one of the teachers, and showed great artistic taste and a close attention to the coloring and form of the flowers and birds intended to be represented.

Miss Angie Sutphen Kuhl was the pianist and Mr. Charles E. Lewis the musical director. The programme was repeated this afternoon at 4 o'clock for the benefit of the children.

SAILING TOWARD CUBA

Shafters Command Well on their Way to Battle.

AN IMPOSING PROCESSION

Three Regiments of Volunteers They Are the Seventy-first New York, Second Massachusetts and Roosevelt's Rough Riders—Due at Santiago Thursday Morning—Capt. Taylor, of the Indiana Commands the Convoy.

Washington, June 14.—The first division of United States troops to begin the invasion of Cuba sailed from Key West at daylight Monday morning. The expedition comprised 773 officers and 14,564 enlisted men, all under the command of Major General Shafter.

A large force of transports conveyed the troops under the convoy of a strong squadron of warships, ranging from the immense battleship to the small gunboat and armed fast sailing yacht

The Volunteers.

The United States regular troops make up the greater part of General Shafter's force, there being but three volunteer organizations on the ships. These are the Seventy-first New York Infantry Volunteers, the Second Massachusetts Infantry Volunteers and two dismounted squadrons of four troops, each from the First United States Volunteer Cavalry, the regiment which Colonel Woods commands and of which Theodore Roosevelt is lieutenant colonel. Whether either of these officers is with the two squadrons named is not yet known at the war department. It was difficult to prevail upon the mounted riflemen to leave their mounts behind them, but this was a matter of necessity, it is said, owing to the lack of accommodations for the horses on shipboard. The best that the department could do at this time in the way of supplying cavalry contingent for the expedition was to include among the troops one squadron of the Second United States cavalry, mounted, with nine officers and 280 enlisted men.

The full list of the troops that make up this expedition as reported to the war department by General Shafter, is as follows:

Infantry regiments—Sixth, Sixteenth, Seventy-first New York Volunteers, Tenth, Twenty-first, Second, Thirteenth, Ninth, Twenty-fourth, Eighth, Twenty-second, Second Massachusetts Volunteers, First, Twenty-fifth, 12th, Seventh, Seventeenth, Third, Twentieth. Total infantry, 561 officers and 10,709 enlisted men.

Cavalry—Two dismounted squadrons of four troops each from the Third, Sixth, Ninth and Tenth Cavalry, and two dismounted squadrons of four troops each from the First United States Volunteer Cavalry. Total dismounted cavalry, 159 officers and 2,875 enlisted men. Mounted cavalry, one squadron of the Second, nine officers and 280 enlisted men.

Artillery—Light Batteries E and K, First Artillery; A and F, Second Artillery, 14 officers and 323 enlisted men. Batteries G and H, Fourth Artillery, siege, 4 officers and 132 enlisted men.

Engineers—Companies C and E, nine officers and 200 enlisted men.

Signal Corps—One detachment, two officers and 45 enlisted men.

Hospital detachments are included in the foregoing figures.

The staff corps numbers fifteen officers.

The Solace at Santiago.

By a fortunate coincidence, the naval ambulance ship Solace arrived off Santiago yesterday, and was available at once to take the wounded marines who participated in the fight at Crest Hill. The dead will be buried on Cuban soil. To provide for every contingency the surgeon general of the navy placed on board the Solace twenty-five folding coffins. They are away from observation and are so unlike coffins until put together that they are free from all grewsome appearance. They are to be used only for such wounded as die on board ships. A practical embalmer, with all embalming supplies, also is on board.

Santo Domingo Uprising.

New York, June 14.—Passengers on the steamship Prins Maurits, which arrived here yesterday, say that the attempted insurrection started by Generals Juan Ysidor Jimenes and Pablo Villanuera has been suppressel by President Hureaux of Santo Domingo.

Dr. C. J. Deu Boudt, general manager of the Santo Domingo Improvement Company, who is en route for Holland, says that the execution of General Augustin Morales and the escape of Jimenes and his companions, who invaded Santo Domingo on the Clyde liner Fanita, from the United States, crushed the revolution, which had its initial outbreak at Monte Cristi.

The Italian warship Giovanni Bauson was at Port au Prince on the day the Prins Maurits sailed for New York. Several of the American war fleet steamers were passed on the way up the southern coast.

Reichsrath Prorogued.

Vienna, June 14.—Count von Thun-Hohenstein, the premier, informed the presidents of both houses yesterday that he Reichsrath has been prorogued by imperial order.

A dispatch from Vienna on June 7 stated that the disorders over the language ordinance, authorizing the official use of the Czech language in Bohemia and Moravia, which went into effect on March 15 last, had been renewed, and it was added that the Reichsrath, in consequence, would probably be dissolved.

Sagasta Wants Peace.

Brussels, June 14.—The private secretary of the Spanish premier, was quoted yesterday in a dispatch from Madrid, published here, as formally declaring that the Spanish government will now accept any peace proposal not submitted by the enemy.

Admitted to Registry.

Washington, June 14.—The House and Tacoma and Arcalia.

passed Senate bills admitting to American registry the steamers Victoria, Olympia, Arizona, Columbia, Argyle

A LONG FIERCE STRUGGLE

The Americans Greatly Outnumbered by the Spaniards but Held Their Ground Bravely.

Port Antonio, Jamaica, June 14.—Further particulars of the fight between our marines and Spanish troops at Guantanamo say that Lieutenants Wendell C. Neville and Melville J. Shaw of Company D, of the First Battalion of Marines, who, with a party of marines, were out on picket duty during the fight Sunday and last night, and were reported missing, are safe.

They returned to camp with thirty men of Company D yesterday. During much of the time they were absent they were surrounded by the enemy, whom they fought off.

They report that they killed at least five of the Spaniards. It is believed that the Spaniards lost more men, for all night the body of pickets under Neville and Shaw kept up a steady reply to an almost constant fire of the Spanish at short range.

That our pickets suffered so little themselves is evidence of the uncertain marksmanship of the Spaniards.

As a result of the bold attack made by the Spanish upon the intrenched camp of the marines and because of the lack of reinforcements, Lieutenant Colonel Huntington decided to abandon the crest of the hill occupied after the seizure of the harbor. The marines were recalled to the rifle pits on the shore formerly occupied by the enemy. Here they will be under the protection of the guns of the ships and far less liable to attack.

This precautionary step is justified by the fact that the Spanish force in the vicinity of Caimanera is believed to far outnumber the force of marines ashore.

HAWAII WILL BE OURS.

To Be Annexed Whether the Senate Acts or Not.

Washington, June 14.—Members of the Senate and House who called on the president yesterday and talked over the Hawaiian situation state that it is positively settled that the American flag will be raised over Hawaii.

After the House has passed the Hawaiian resolution, those islands will be annexed, whether the Senate acts on the resolutions or not.

It is intended that a vote shall be had in the Senate, and that there shall be no adjournment of Congress until the resolutions have been acted on. But if there is a protracted fight, and it is made apparent that the minority does not intend to yield, annexation will not be delayed.

The knowledge of this course is expected to dishearten the opposition, and it is thought unlikely that they will keep up for a long time a filibuster which can accomplish nothing.

After the American flag has been raisel at Honolulu it will be an empty issue for the opposition to contend against action by the Senate on the resolution.

The president feels, as do his advisers, that with the resolution agreed on by the House and an acknowledged majority in favor of them in the Senate, annexation being regarded as a military necessity, he is warranted in taking possession of the islands for the purpose of facilitating operations in the Philippines, and that in doing so he will be sustained by the whole country.

The Crews at Work.

Yale Quarters, Gales Ferry, Conn., June 14.—Throughout the night the weather was so intensely warm that upon the rising of the Yale oarsmen it was evident that the river work of the crews would have to be very light. At nine o'clock, however, Coach Rodgers took out his freshmen oarsmen in pair oars. After spending an hour at this work the 1901 shell was launched and the youngsters were given a two-mile spin.

Harvard Quarters, Gales Ferry, Conn., June 14.—Both of Harvard's crews had a short practice yesterday morning. The 'varsity crew went out as usual in the shell. The time of the men was ragged, especially in the bow of the boat. Mr. Lehmann, however, believes the poor form is merely temporary and incidental. There were no changes in the crew, and the makeup of the eight is now settled barring accidents. On the whole the 'varsity is rowing well and steadily improving. The substitutes went out in the fours and the freshmen were coached in pair oars.

Much interest was awakened at Redtop by the appearance of the Yale freshmen in their shell at 10 o'clock. They rowed up and down the river, and made a fine appearance, as far as inboard form was concerned. From the Harvard view point, however, the blade work was poor. An attempt was made to catch the time of the young Yalensians, but it was not satisfactory.

Black Coffee a Preventive of Malaria.

"The best remedy in the world for an impending attack of malaria or chills and fever is strong black coffee," said the drummer with the quill in his mouth, as he walked up to the cashier's desk and paid for lunch for two.

"Early yesterday morning I awakened with the usual accompaniment of the ague. I had hot flushes. Following them came a sensation similar to having cold feet dancing a minuet on one's back in the winter time.

"Well, I'm several hundred miles from home, out of reach of my wife, of course, and I was in a dilemma. Getting the ague when you haven't a sympathetic spouse or a loving old mother near to douse your feet in mustard baths and rub your chest with camphor, is not the pleasantest thing in the world.

"So what did I do but adopt the suggestion of a fellow who said he'd 'had the agy a dozen o' times' and drank coffee.

"I swallowed five big brawny cups of the stuff, and when I arose to-day I felt like a king. It had effected a cure."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Rifle Inventor Dead.

New Haven, Conn., June 9.—Benjamin Tyler Henry, inventor of the Winchester rifle, died early yesterday morning, aged 77 years. He was a skilled inventor and widely popular.

PHILIPPINE CAMPAIGN

Matters of Interest from Various Reliable Sources.

HAS MANILA FALLEN?

The Report That It Has is Not Believed at Washington—What Ambassador Hay Says—The Insurgents Are Not Ferocious—Advices from Dewey He Praises His Loyal and Brave Crews as Honorable Men.

Washington, June 14.—The report that Manila has surrendered is not confirmed by inquiries here. Secretary Day expressed ignorance of it, and Secretary Alger went further and said if there had been any well authenticated news on that subject he would have been advised of it at once as it would materially effect the plans his department has on foot.

London, June 14.—The United States ambassador here, Colonel John Hay, says there is no foundation for the statement that he is responsible for the story, published in the United States, to the effect that Manila has fallen.

Secretary Briggs of the Manila Railway Company, who is in constant communication with Manila, discredits the rumors in circulation as to the surrender of that place. He received a cable message from Manila yesterday, via Hong Kong, reporting that the railroad was working, and no mention was made of the city having surrendered. Mr. Briggs believes the Spaniards would surrender to Rear Admiral Dewey in preference to being conquered by the insurgents. He is informed that a full understanding exists between Rear Admiral Dewey and the insurgents, and it is generally believed at Hong Kong and Manila that before Aguinaldo, the insurgent leader, consented to return to Manila, he secured pledges that the United States would not leave him in the lurch by returning the Philippine islands to the spaniards.

Referring to the Spanish tales of alleged insurgent atrocities, Mr. Briggs says that they are utter nonsense. He says that the natives of the Philippine islands are the mildest people in the world, and that all the Europeans there were surprised that they mustered up courage enough to revolt.

The navy department has received its first mail advices from Admiral Dewey since he reached Manila. Under date of May 4 Cavite, he gives a detailed account of the battle of Manila Bay. It is in the main an elaboration of his telegram.

Its special feature is the terms of high praise in which he speaks of the crews of the ships, saying that never had an officer so loyal and brave crews.

THE ALASKAN GOLD FIELDS.

Scows Laden With Supplies Crushed in the Ice on Bennett Lake.

Port Townsend, Wash., June 14.—The steamer Cottage City arrived Sunday from Alaska. The passengers report Lake Lindermann clear from ice. Extra steamers are running day and night, taking miners across. Eight scows laden with supplies were crushed in the ice on Bennett lake, losing everything aboard.

Three hundred men have succeeded in reaching the interior of western Alaska, via Yakutat Bay. Persons arriving from there say that rich diggings have been struck on the Alsace river.

Speedy justice has been meted out to the murderers of Samuel Roberts, a gambler at Dyea, who was killed about three months ago, just as he was entering his cabin, by a man named Fitzpatrick. Fitzpatrick received a life sentence in San Quentin, while Brooks and Corbett, his accomplices, were sentenced to ten years.

The Ninth Massachusetts to the Front.

Washington, June 14.—The Ninth Massachusetts regiment, now at Camp Alger, will soon be ordered to the front, probably before the end of the week. This regiment is brigaded with the Twenty-third and Thirty-fourth Michigan regiments, under the command of General Henry M. Duffield, who is a friend of Secretary Alger. General Duffield wants to see service, and he has on his staff a son of Senator McMillan of Michigan, who also wants to go to the front, and his father is likewise eager to have him do so. This constitutes sufficient influence at the war department to move the brigade to the front, and the Ninth Massachusetts will share in what is regarded as "the good fortune."

Spain Still Defiant.

Madrid, June 14.—A semi-official note issued yesterday emphatically contradicts all the American reports of the operations in Cuba, and even denies that American forces have effected a landing in Guantanamo Bay or elsewhere. The note concludes:

"The European press will make a mistake in imagining that Spain is discouraged and at the end of her resources. On the contrary, Spain is full of hope and determined to continue the war."

A Canadian Line to Manchester.

Montreal, June 14.—In explaining the vote of $75,000 as a subsidy for a line of steamers between Manchester and the St. Lawrence, Sir Richard Cartwright stated that the service would begin on July 1. A Manchester syndicate would build a fleet of new boats for next season, and facilities would be provided at Manchester for the handling of perishable products. A grain elevator would also be provided.

The Oregon Election.

Portland, Ore., June 14.—Our governor's plurality is more than 10,000, and 6,500 majority over all combined opposition. The pluralities for the two congressmen are more than 8,500, and 5,500 over all candidates. The gold standard was the issue.

Cadiz Fleet Useless.

Washington, June 14.—Word has been received at the navy department from a high, though unofficial, source, that Admiral Camara's Cadiz fleet has been found unfit for sea.

Can you believe your neighbors?
Read this statement made by a citizen:

Mr. Wm. Swalm, of 603 West Front street, says: "I consider Doan's Kidney Pills an elegant remedy for kidney troubles. I have used them and was greatly benefited. For several years I suffered from a severe pain across my back which annoyed me so much at night that I could not sleep. If I took cold it settled in my back and at such times I could scarcely get about at all. There was also a kidney weakness which was very distressing. I often had to get up at night, thus breaking my rest. I read about Doan's Kidney Pills and thought I would try them. My daughter got me a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store, and after using them a short time I felt much better in every way. The pain in my back does not bother me now at all and the other difficulty has been relieved. Other members of the family have used them with equally good results. Doan's Kidney Pills have my indorsement and I will recommend them whenever an opportunity presents itself."

THE CONNECTICUT VOLUNTEERS

Bad Feeling Over Breaking the State Organizations—Appeals to Washington.

New Haven, June 14.—There is a good deal of bad feeling throughout the state, especially in military circles, over the federal policy of breaking up the militia organizations, which enlisted with the idea that they would be kept together and suffer no change except recruiting. The First regiment has been dismembered and it seems to be the intention of the government to divide also the naval battalion, which has been under examination at the Niantic camp, but this has not yet been mustered in. A good deal of dissatisfaction prevails also in the Light Battery, especially among the Yale men, who enlisted for actual service, and have now been kept at dull camp routine with what they consider little prospect of seeing actual war. A delegation has visited Washington and received a promise that the battery will be called later into actual service if possible.

Another matter causing trouble is the report that to make a full regiment of twelve companies the Fourth militia regiment will be called out and combined with the Third—both being short regiments—which would probably leave the Second regiment, a full body of twelve companies, out of the service altogether, although it is the crack regiment of the state. Governor Cooke is blamed for the muddled condition of affairs, which is due partly to the fact that he adopted the rule of calling out the regiments in the order of seniority in command.

A NEW COMET DISCOVERED.

Found Photographically by Mr. Coddington, of Lick Observatory.

Lick Observatory, Cal., June 14.—A comet was discovered here Saturday evening by Mr. Coddington. It is in constellation Scorpio, about one degree northeast of the bright star Antares.

The discovery was made by photography. A plate exposed for other purposes on that region of the sky showed when developed, a strong trail produced by a strange object. Mr. Coddington examined the object and found it to be a comet of about the eighth magnitude. Observations by Professor Hussey showed that it is moving toward the southeast about one degree per day.

Mr. Wright found its spectrum to be continuous, with weak carbon bands.

CRUISER SAN FRANCISCO ASHORE.

Grounded Off the Massachusetts Coast During the Fog.

Highland Light, Mass., June 14.—The United States cruiser San Francisco ran ashore during a dense fog yesterday morning, at a point about half a mile west of the High Head life saving station. The cruiser lies in an easy position, and it is thought that she will float without injury at high water.

No fear is felt by the officers and crew of the vessel for the safety of the cruiser. The tugs Fred B. Dalzell, Juno and Vesta have been summoned from Boston to assist the San Francisco in case she needs help in getting afloat.

Highland Light, Mass., June 14.—The United States cruiser San Francisco, which went ashore here yesterday morning, was pulled off at high tide.

En Route to Manila.

Washington, June 14.—Adjutant General Corbin has ordered the Astor battery to San Francisco. The command was inspected yesterday. The command may be compelled to leave its horses. This was the case in the movement of the two light batteries of artillery from this city for San Francisco. The transportation of the animals is troublesome and expensive. Horses can be supplied at San Francisco and trouble and delay avoided. It is the intention of the war department to have the Astor battery in San Francisco by Saturday or Sunday next. This will put it on the coast in ample time to join the Philippine expedition, which is scheduled to sail on the 25th inst.

Ready to Take All the Bonds.

Washington, June 14.—The secretary of the treasury has received the following joint letter from the National City Bank of New York, the Central Trust Company of New York and Vermilye & Company of New York:

Referring to your circular letter in which you ask for subscription to $200,000,000 United States 3 per cent. coin bonds, redeemable after ten years and payable after twenty years, we desire to advise you that we stand prepared to subscribe and pay for at par and accrued interest any portion of the bonds offered that may not be subscribed for by the public.

Letters for Cuba.

New York, June 14.—About one hundred letters were received at the New York postoffice Monday for the military branch, known as "Military Branch No. 1, of the New York postoffice." The letters were addressed to soldiers in the United States army. They were sent to Tampa, whence they will be forwarded to the army postoffice, wherever it happens to be. Military branch No. 1 moves with the headquarters of the army, and will be the first United States postoffice in Cuba.

A New President Chosen.

New Haven, June 14.—G. W. Flint, a graduate of Bates College, for some time a teacher in Maine and New Hampshire, and now head of the Collinsville, Conn. High School, has been chosen president of Storrs Agricultural College of Mansfield, Conn. This ends the trouble of last year leading to the resignation of President Koons and other changes.

The Bill a Law.

Washington, D. C., June 14.—Speaker Reed signed the war revenue bill shortly after noon yesterday. At 2.10 p. m. Vice President Hobart affixed his signature to the measure and it was then sent to the president. At 3.01 the president signed it and the war revenue bill became a law.

President of Argentine.

THE LEITER DEAL ENDS

Great Wheat Speculation Comes to Grief,

TEN MILLION BUSHELS GO

A Great Slump in Prices—A Fifteen Months Campaign—A Profit of $7,000,000 During May—The Young Man Has Come to Grief—His Cash Wheat Will Be Trusteed—Says He Will Not Assign.

Chicago, June 14.—There are all kinds of rumors here about Joseph Leiter and the action of the market goes far toward confirming many of them. His deal has gone to pieces. It has been gradually getting in position for such a collapse for a week past. Cash wheat has dropped $1 in thirty days, July 50 cents and September more than 25 cents.

People closely interested are unable to do any talking. It comes from a banker that L. Z. Leiter, who has been trying to get his son Joseph out of the wheat deal for some time, has withdrawn his support.

The break in the market has been too much for the young man.

George B. French, Leiter's manager, was unable either to confirm or deny the story, but it comes from a source that is considered trustworthy. There are other rumors, but they have not developed tangible form. Leiter's interests in wheat here have been very small since the close of the May deal. He has shipped his wheat out, and there are only about 750,000 bushels of cash wheat here. He has bought futures of late in his efforts to maintain prices in order to enable him better to market his cash wheat abroad.

His sales yesterday are placed at between 8,000,000 and 10,000,000 bushels, mostly September, of which 3,000,000 bushels are on puts sold through Lamson.

JOSEPH LEITER.

Armour has taken Leiter's June wheat off his hands, about 250,000 bushels being transferred from Allen Grier, Leiter's chief broker. Leiter also transferred a lot of September to Lamson, but it has no significance except to enable them to settle trades.

Leiter has been in a combination with the smoothest lot of cash men in the Northwest—Pillsbury, Peavey and Thompson. They stayed with the bull leader until there was a good chance to unload, and the rumor is that they have dumped their holdings on him while he held the bag.

Thompson and Peavey were here yesterday and were not feeling particularly comfortable. Thompson professed ignorance as to the cause of the twenty-cent drop in cash wheat from the Northwest, also of any attempt of any party to sell out another. The game has been played by these parties before on other people, who have suffered severely.

Leiter, at the end of May, had profits of from $5,000,000 to $7,000,000 in his trades. He then had more than 10,000,000 bushels, and had handled more than 40,000,000 bushels.

Now, in all the fifteen months' campaign, a good part of Leiter's cash wheat that has been shipped from here and the seaboard is sold for July delivery in Europe at high prices, so that the collapse at this end is looked upon as the cleaning up of the last of his trades. With fine crop prospects the world over, there is little chance for a bull to make much headway, with a big line and a small speculative trade, and, it is said, that he decided to get out.

Joseph Leiter was seen in the Illinois Trust and Savings Bank, in consultation with his father, L. Leiter. He said that he would make no assignment and that he had ordered his trades in futures liquidated. At the start, his cash wheat will be trusteed. The Northwestern bankers are said to have come here on a special train and to be on the anxious seat.

July wheat broke from 10 1-2 cents to 15 cents yesterday, and reacted 2 1-2. September sold off about three cents from Saturday's close.

Doings at Camp Black.

Camp Black, Hempstead Plains, L. I., June 14.—From present indications there will be only a few days more of Camp Black. Colonel Eddy and the First Battalion of the Forty-seventh regiment will probably start for Fort Adams, R. I., to-day, if the transportation is provided. Colonel Eddy's men are anxious to get away, and they can leave camp on an hour's notice, as they have everything ready, with the exception of taking down the tents.

The Binghampton Separate Company of the First Provisional regiment which was attacked by the measles, is out of quarantine, and in a day or two the men will start to the post assigned to them in the vicinity of New York.

General Pennington and his staff are still awaiting orders to close Camp Black and for assignments to other posts.

Decision Against Gambling.

Trenton, N. J., June 14.—The supreme court announced a decision yesterday sustaining the constitutional amendment prohibiting gambling in this state.

Why is it that nearly all aged persons are thin?

And yet, when you think of it, what could you expect?

Three score years of wear and tear are enough to make the digestion weak. Yet the body must be fed.

In Scott's Emulsion, the work is all done; that is, the oil in it is digested, all ready to be taken into the blood. The body rests, while the oil feeds and nourishes, and the hypophosphites makes the nerves steady and strong.

COPPINGER COMMANDANT AT TAMPA

Getting Ready for the Next Embarkation.

Tampa, Fla., June 14.—General John J. Coppinger, chief of the Fourth Army Corps, is now the ranking officer here, since General Shafter sailed for Cuba.

General Coppinger will command the next expedition to leave Florida, and it will be headed for Porto Rico instead of Cuba.

No date for the departure of this force has been fixed, and it depends to a great extent upon the issue of important movements now pending. It is believed now to be the present intention of the war department to make an early move on Porto Rico, and the impression among army officers is strong that a formidable force will be immediately mobilized either at Jacksonville or Fernandina to make the move.

Contrary to general belief, General Fitzhugh Lee will not go to Porto Rico as next in command to General Coppinger. The war department has not thought for a moment of losing the value of his close knowledge of the situation around Havana by sending him off to a post which any other officer might just as well fill.

When the army is ready to strike Havana a large landing force will invade Cuba near that city, and General Lee will be in the invading force, in command of the Seventh Army Corps. General Miles will go to Cuba with the invading force and it will be the most important army move of the entire Cuban campaign. It may not occur until the fall months, and by that time, it is believed, Santiago will be in the hands of our forces and General Shafter's corps will have pressed close to Havana, so as to form a junction with General Miles.

In this big move General Lee's knowledge of the defences and topography around Havana will be of great value.

The decision of the war department announcing the choice of an army camp site in Florida, is expected at any time, as the report of the board of inspection sent out to report on the proposed sites is already in Adjutant General Corbin's hands. It is regarded as certain that either Fernandina or Jacksonville will be chosen, and the chances are about equal. The embarkation will be from one of these points and Tampa will be entirely abandoned as a camp site.

A WONDERFUL ACHIEVEMENT.

The Government Printing Office Does Quick Work.

Washington, June 14.—The government printing office has added another feat to its wonderful record of achievements. It has been known to print an edition of the Revised Statutes in a single night, and only a few weeks ago the report of the board of inquiry into the cause of the disister to the Maine was turned out by this great establishment in one night, including the illustrations which accompanied it. Saturday afternoon, at 3.30 o'clock, Secretary Gage delivered into the hands of Captain Bryan, foreman of printing, the material to be used in the preparation of circulars relative to the new war loan authorized by the act. Almost 4,000,000 of these circulars, subscription blanks and pamphlets, descriptive of the bonds, were required. Captain Bryan hesitated as to whether or not the government printing office, with all its vast facilities, would be able to accomplish so great an undertaking in the time required; that is, between 3.30 p. m. Saturday and 9 a. m. Monday, it being the desire of Secretary Gage that fifty of the most rapid mailing clerks in the treasury department be in possession of the material at the latter hour.

Monday morning, before the time indicated, the entire work of printing had been done, and a wagon from the government printing office at 8.50 o'clock delivered the first 100,000 of each of the circulars, blanks and pamphlets required.

Castellaine to Fight a Duel.

Paris, June 14.—Paris has been shocked by an occurrence which in itself was horrible enough, and which, through the way in which the yellow journals—for America has not a monopoly of this bane—have handled it, has been made a sensational crime.

Indirectly it is interesting to Americans, as Comte Boniface de Castellane has been dragged into it.

The Petite Republique, one of the gutter papers here, used the crime as a peg on which to hang a series of charges against Comte Boniface de Castellane.

These details, however, interest nobody. Instead, however, of handing the author of the article over to the police, Comte Castellane has challenged him to a duel. According to some, the meeting will take place to-day.

Count Boniface de Castellane, New Yorkers will recall, is the scion of the old and distinguished French family, who, in March, 1895, married Miss Anna Gould in this city.

The occasion was notable even among the similar notable occasions that New York has witnessed.

In May of the present year the count was elected a member of the chamber of deputies.

FOR THE VACATION SEASON.

Subscribers leaving the city for the summer season can have The Daily Press sent to their new address by notifying the buisness office. The address will be changed as often as desired. "Home news" will prove most interesting while you are away.

If This is True!

It is stated that the Plainfield Street Railway Company has decided to have the streets along their line sprinkled. If this is true the people of Plainfield will feel duly thankful. It is to be hoped that the news is true, and that our local traction company will do likewise. It takes all the pleasure out of one's ride to have to swallow dust, not to speak of the injury to clothes.—New Brunswick Home News.

"If this is true!" There it is, the same in New Brunswick as in Plainfield—people are suspicious of the trolley magnates' pretentions that they are going to obviate the aggravating fault of filling the air with dust whenever a trolley car whizzes by. Yes, Home News, it has been stated—more than once, too—that the people of this city were to be made free from whirlwinds of dust by the profound liberality of the street railway company, but it is a fact that just as much dust flies in the wake of the trolley cars now as there ever did. We don't know whether New Brunswick has got any way to bring her local company to terms, but we do know that if the Common Council of this city had the interests of the aggravated residents and business men along the various lines of the street railway truly in view, they will inculcate into the ordinanee, which the company is striving to have passed, a clause making it obligatory upon the company to sprinkle the streets in a sufficient manner.

An Industrial Revolution.

Under the frowning guns and in presence of the whole armed camp of Europe a revolution has been progressing for the past half century that promises to change the economic condition of the common people among all the nations.

It is an industrial revolution, and its other name is co-operation. In America the pressure on the poor is not felt as it is in the older countries. Here man has opportunity, therefore he has not been driven to defend himself by the system that has developed such astonishing dimensions in the old world. The methods adopted take two main forms, co-operative production, co-operative distribution. Co-operative production is especially the system in agricultural communities. Members of a local society club together for the purchase of agricultural machinery, the raising of crops and live stock and the production of butter and cheese, as in the great creameries of Denmark. It has been found that if a number of even the poorest peasants put their little means together and work intelligently they can achieve much greater success than when each man works separately. In France the co-operative agricultural system is particularly successful. On the continent of Europe, in agricultural production and manufacture and in co-operative banks and societies, no less than $2,000,000,000 is invested, the money of the poor peasants and farmers.

The best example of co-operative distribution is found in Great Britain among the stores based upon the Rochdale system. This system means the putting together of their small means by a number of working people and buying dry goods, groceries, etc., at wholesale. These are invariably of the best quality and are retailed out among the members for the regular retail price in the neighborhood. The profits are given back to the members in the form of dividends. The scope of the original plan was enlarged till there are now an English co-operative wholesale society and a Scottish co-operative wholesale society. The net profits divided among members of these societies amounted in 1895 to more than $26,000,000. The societies own manufactories and a fleet of ocean and river steamers.

LIEUTENANT RICHMOND P. HOBSON.

High up in the list of heroes developed in the war with Spain must be written the name of Richmond P. Hobson, who, with his little band of volunteers—heroes like himself—dashed by the forts at the entrance to Santiago harbor and sunk their vessel, the collier Merrimac, in the narrow entrance channel.

The Malarial Past.

One of the best bits of verse ever penned by that gifted young poetess of passion, Ella Wheeler Wilcox, begins, "Keep out of the past, the malarial past." She hit the nail square. There is a malaria of the mind for which no remedial quinine has ever yet been discovered. It consists in dwelling on evils that are past. The patient afflicted with the mental malaria finds his chief joy in being miserable. He dwells on the misfortunes of his life, his troubles, his illnesses and his poverty, the ingratitude with which he has been treated, with a satisfaction that even his religion cannot give him. Very often it is a woman who has the habit of spreading mental malarial poison through her system. She flares up quickly at the hint that another has suffered in the past as she has done. "You haven't gone through half of what I have!" she cries, with scornful indignation. Hour by hour she sits and broods over her wrongs—her beloved wrongs—and grows old, sallow, wrinkled and round shouldered. She will have it so, and she gets her wish. Her joy is in whining and complaining.

The wrongs of such persons are their most precious possessions, over which they gloat as a miser over his gold. When you are ill, when you have had losses or griefs, they will say to you always, "You have not had half the troubles and trials I have had!" At such times raise your head proudly, look the mental malarist square in the eye and answer, "I never had any trials and troubles at all."

Nobody likes to live with the person who has mental malaria.

In making bargains for the purchase of ammunition, soldiers' uniforms, food supplies and other necessaries the United States has the right of a private individual to buy where it can get goods the cheapest. Its plain duty is to do so, since it is handling the people's money. They are contemptible therefore who grumble because their case is not considered when supplies are ordered. The patriotic American is glad when Uncle Sam can get anything cheap. If such a citizen has goods for sale that the government wants, he will not stand and haggle for double prices. He will be content with reasonable profit, even as he would have to be if he sold to a private individual.

The war took the stiffening out of our foreign exports and caused them to drop off rapidly. Well, the United States government bought considerable of the food supplies that would otherwise have gone abroad. Taking 100,000 men at once from the ranks of producers and making them consumers only caused a big home market for flour and pork, likewise beef.

One of the recent orders to American shipbuilders was from Russia and included six cruisers, two battleships and a considerable fleet of torpedo boats. We fear the Russian government will have to wait awhile.

Some persons have such brilliant memories that they remember many things which never happened.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

Foster M. Voorhees, if elected the next Governor, still will have a year to serve as Senator, his term expiring in 1900. As a statesman who establishes precedents the Acting Governor is without a rival. He now is officially president of the Senate and Acting Governor, with the right to vote on bills that may come before him for approval or rejection as laws. Unless he resigns as a Senator he will have this latter privilege, if elected Governor, at least during the session of the Legislature next winter. He will, of course, be the Governor in all that the title implies, but cannot act as President of the Senate. There seems to be no doubt but that he can accept the nomination for Governor while retaining his seat in the Senate, yet there are Democrats who hold that his dual office will form the basis of a legal test. If all results happily for the Republican aims, so to speak, Union county not only will have the Governor, acting as Senator of the same political persuasion, but a shaper of legislation after his own heart, and the next United States Senator.—New York Press.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

A message was received a few days ago at Rahway by the crew of an express train from Jersey City to look out for the body of a man on the trucks under one of the drawing room cars. The train stopped near the water tanks and a man, literally covered with dust, clambered down from his perch on the trucks and sped up the tracks like a deer. Later in the day he was seen going through Rahway on a freight train.

An antiquarian would go into raptures over the valuable old cane that is now the property of Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, of 45 Duer street. It is a hickory stick, straight grained and true, with a silver knob on the end and a silver band just below it. On the band is engraved the name of the original owner and the date, 1776. Two silver eyelets are set in the stick a distance below the band, which were used to hold a cord that the Eighteenth Century gentlemen used to fasten the canes to their belts when tired of carrying it. The cane is a handsome one and Dr. Buchanan values it very highly.

It was Thursday of last week that one of Scotch Plain's famous fishermen, whose hair had grown grey in pursuit of members of the finny tribe, planned an expedition to Lambert's pond, accompanied by two friends who made up in willingness what they lacked in experience. Now all the precepts set down by the immortal Isaak Walton were well known to the veteran fisherman, but the less experienced disciples of the famous fisherman were not close students of these precepts. They decided to try a new method. So one of them plunged into the quiet waters of Lamber't pond to drive the fish over to the other side, where they might be caught. Now the fish did not drive, so the second willing fisherman joined him in the water, but still the fish refused to obey their mandate. It was the easiest thing in the world to get into the pond, but the exit became difficult. They splashed and sputtered about until finally the veteran dragged his moist comrades out of the water, berating them soundly on such unprofessional methods of fishing. That ended the day's sport and they returned to the 'Plains, the veteran declaring that, hereafter, experience was a qualification that that he would insist upon in any future companions.

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence to the Daily Press.)

Dunellen, June 14.—Adam Dealaman won the cabbage prize last week in the team shoot with the Dunellen and Endeavor Clubs, he being the only man who broke 10 targets out of 25, and on the shoot off of the tie between the two clubs he broke 2 out of 10. As he was low man he was the only one to capture the special prize.

Yesterday afternoon in the chapel of the Presbyterian church the members of the Primary Teachers' Union, of Plainfield, held a meeting in the interest of the work among primary teachers. Miss Beeching, president of the Union, made a short address in which she told of the objects of the organization. The meeting was largely attended and it is quite possible that a Union will be organized in the borough.

would be done by the city, as it can be accomplished under the cost of $500, the amount asked by the lowest bidder.

An ordinance was introduced by Mr. Barrows, which provides for the permanent improvement and repair of East Ninth street. The ordinance was adopted and it then took the usual course.

Mr. Hetfield reported back the liquor ordinance with much of it stricken out as ordered by the Council at the last meeting. The ordinance as presented adds two sections to the regular liquor ordinance. The sections provide that the Council may renew a liquor license, previously granted, without the customary number of signatures of freeholders, and that a license may be transferred in consideration of a transfer fee of $25 in each case. The ordinance was adopted and ordered advertised.

Mr. Runyon, for Mr. Barrows, presented an ordinance which provides for the muzzling of dogs, and the appointment of two dog catchers, who shall receive 25 cents for each dog turned over to the poundmaster. It also provides that an owner must pay $1 to redeem the dog, and that if the dog is not redeemed within four days after capture it is to be killed in the most merciful and humane manner possible. The ordinance was adopted. Mr. Hetfield objected to the ordinance and again claimed too much legislation, as he thought there was an ordinance covering the case in question.

Mayor Fisk stated that most of the ordinance was repealed three years ago, and it is now necessary to adopt such an ordinance.

Mr. Hetfield reported back an ordinance relating to entertainments, shows, etc., which was referred to the laws and ordinance committee for consideration. The ordinance was adopted.

M. VanHeiwerden offered a resolution which provides for the transfer of $1,200 from the general fund to the sewer bond and interest account. This concluded the business and Council adjourned

PLAINFIELD'S BUSIEST STORE

We Sell Goods Cheaper Than All Other Stores.

TIME WAS

When the merchant's motto was buy as cheap as you can and sell for all you can get. That is changed now. Our constant thought is to buy the best we can at the price and sell at the lowest possible figure. We make no secret of our methods. We buy direct from the makers, from the auctioneers, from importers who must have cash. 'Tis why we sell so close and are ALWAYS BUSY.

A CHAPTER OF SPECIALS.

Wash Goods Special.

25 styles of dainty organdies, full 36-in wide, perfectly fast colors, got a 20c value, the price is 13c.

Shirt Waists Special.

About 200 of these are of the newest and best designs, compare them with any waist at one dollar, we only ask 69c for them

A Wrapper Special.

AN AGGRAVATING DISCOVERY.

The Last Link Found Two Years After an Estate Had Gone to the Crown.

It was one of those big English estates which was to make a great many people rich if all the links in the long chain of ancestry could be found. The legatees in this country had twenty-one years in which to prove their claim before the property would revert to the Crown. Everything possible had been done, and one link was still missing. This was an old family Bible containing certain necessary records. It was supposed to have been burned at the time of the Deerfield massacre, but, notwithstanding, every effort had been made to find it if by any possibility it was in existence; but without success and the time expired.

Two years later one of the legatees, a New York woman, chanced to see in a paper the advertisement of a woman who wanted work. The advertiser had signed her name, and it was a family name of the woman who was one of the claimants for the English estate. It was perhaps the persistent fascination which the earnest searcher into genealogical records never loses, and the force of habit formed in many years' search for precious documents, which interested her at once. She answered the advertisement in person, found that the woman had been the wife of a member of her family, who had died, leaving her in financial straits which had forced her to advertise for something to do to support herself.

But the strange and romantic part of the story was that among old books and papers which had been cherished as having belonged to her husband, the woman had the old Bible, with its register of births and deaths, the only link that had been needed to obtain the big estate, and now that it was too late it was found where it had been treasured simply as a souvenir.—New York Times.

FRANCES E. WILLARD'S ROMANCE.

Story of an Early Love Affair with Bishop Charles W. Fowler.

There was once an engagement between Bishop Chas. W. Fowler, and the late Miss Frances E. Willard. Those having read Miss Willard's memoirs will remember an intimation that at one time in her life her heart had its hero and that at an early day she wore a ring and "acknowledged an allegiance based on a supposition." Again she speaks of the romance of her life being ungressed, a "secret lying within the temperate zone of a great heart's geography." To those who thought her cold she said, "Cold because no brave Stanley had ever explored her heart's tropical clime; cold because no Balboa had ever sailed on the bosom of its wide, pacific sea."

In their youth Bishop Fowler and Miss Willard were students in the same Methodist college, both being members of the Methodist Church. Between them was a strong affinity, a friendship that eventually ripened into a deep, abiding love. The ring she speaks of wearing as "an allegiance based on a supposition," was the gift of Bishop Fowler. Both had great strength of character and were born leaders of men and women. The similarity of their temperaments was frequently considered by the young people as a barrier to matrimony, and it was finally agreed that it would be best for both to choose separate paths in life. The engagement was accordingly broken.

The Conversion of Senator George.

The late Senator George of Mississippi was an agnostic, while his wife was deeply religious, says a correspondent from that State. She placed a neighboring Baptist minister on his trail, and he got no peace. Once, riding slowly home from Carrollton and reading his mail, the preacher burst out of the woods on his right hand and began. They came to a creek and crossed it. It was, in the Senator's language, "saddle pocket deep." On the further bank he dismounted. "Git down," he said, fiercely. The minister looked at him doubtfully. He feared a personal encounter. "Git down!" He got down. "Now," said George, "I'm tired o' being harried around th' kentry like I was a cottontail rabbit an' you was a pack of nigger dogs. Baptize me right here." It was winter time, but the venerable statesman would not be denied. The two men waded into the icy water up to their armpits, and the ceremony was performed. Senator George climbed into his saddle and looked down on the shivering evangelist. "Now," he said, "you go home and stay home. I'm through with this — foolishness."—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

Dieting on the Side.

A certain stout lady resolved to consult a physician about her corpulence. She had no previous experience with "banting" of any sort. The doctor drew up a careful dietary for her. She must eat dry toast, plain boiled beef, and a few other things of the same lean sort, and in a month return and report the result.

At the end of the time the lady came and was so stout she could hardly get through the door. The doctor was aghast.

"Did you eat what I told you?" he asked.

"Religiously," she answered.

His brow wrinkled in perplexity. Suddenly he had a flash of inspiration.

"Did you eat anything else?" he asked.

"Why, my ordinary meals!" said the lady.—Pearson's Weekly.

Lokal-Nachrichten aus der alten Heimath.

Aus der Rheinpfalz.

Maikammer. Dem Anton Wingetter hier wurden zur Nachtzeit von einer Marderfamilie seine sämmtlichen Brieftauben, 70 Stück alte und junge, getödtet und circa 20 Eier zerstört.

Neustadt a. H. Neulich Nachmittags ist der größte Theil der Pechfabrik Eisenbeiß hier niedergebrannt.

Wachenheim. Die hiesige Verwaltung gibt sich zur Zeit sehr viel Mühe für zweckmäßige Verschönerungen, so werden zum Beispiel gegenwärtig fast alle alten Pflaster in den Straßen durch neue ersetzt. Um die Stadt gegen Osten, von der Bahnhofstraße bis an das Hospital, an dem Georg Kuhn'schen Anwesen vorbei, soll jetzt eine Fahrstraße angelegt werden, so daß überall bequem hinzukommen ist. Dadurch wird daselbst die geschlossene alte Stadtmauer beseitigt und die angrenzenden Häuserbesitzer erwarben sich schon das Recht, Fenster und Ausgänge herauszubrechen. Diese betreffenden Häuser gewinnen dadurch an großem Werth, Bequemlichkeit und Schönheit.

Württemberg.

Stuttgart. Die Sammlungen für die Errichtung von Volksheilstätten haben in Württemberg einen erfreulichen Anfang genommen. Es sind dem Verein neben größeren und kleineren Jahresbeiträgen schon ansehnliche Gründungsbeiträge im Werthe von 5000 Mark und mehr zugekommen. Die Grunderwerbungs-, Bau- und Einrichtungskosten für eine auf 100 Kranke berechtigte Heilstätte betragen allerdings mindestens 300,000 Mark. Der Verein hat aber damit seine Aufgabe noch nicht erfüllt, sondern will auch unbemittelten Kranken, sofern nicht Kassen für sie einzutreten haben, die Benützung der Heilstätten durch ganze oder theilweise Uebernahme des Verpflegungsgeldes, sowie durch Unterstützung ihrer Familien erleichtern.

Frommern. Die Gebrüder Bäuer aus Ebingen erstellen in nächster Nähe des hiesigen Bahnhofes eine Dampfziegelei mit Dampfkessel, Ziegelmaschine und Ringofen. Von der Bedeutung des Unternehmens kann man sich einen Begriff machen, wenn man erfährt, daß der Ziegelofen 27 Meter lang und 9½ Meter breit wird und ein Kamin von 34½ Meter Höhe erhält. Der Ringofen wird für sich in einem gesonderten Gebäude aufgeführt, Dampfkessel und Ziegelmaschine in einem Anbau.

Göppingen. Auf eine eigenthümliche Weise verlor kürzlich ein hiesiger Knabe ein Auge. Beim Blumensuchen streifte er mit dem Gesicht an einer Hecke; ein Aestchen drang in das Auge und verletzte es derartig, daß es vollständig auslief.

Heilbronn. Die Anfangs d. J. von den hiesigen Straßenbahnen getroffene Einrichtung, daß Arbeiter, Kinder und Soldaten um 5 Pfennige die einfache Fahrt machen können, hat sich bis jetzt sehr gut bewährt. Es wird davon von Arbeitern und Soldaten sehr fleißig Gebrauch gemacht, während die Kinder weniger daraus Nutzen ziehen. Die Einrichtung der 5 Pfennige-Fahrkarten besteht bis jetzt nur in Heilbronn.

Krailsheim. Der 68jährige Graf Döring von hier wollte kürzlich bei der Rückkunft von einer Spazierfahrt mit geladenem Gewehr vom Wagen absteigen, als plötzlich ein Schuß (Schrotschuß) losging und den rechten Arm des Grafen traf. Der Arm mußte noch am Abend abgenommen werden.

Baden.

Karlsruhe. Der letzte Lyceumsdirektor Geheimer Rath Professor Dr. Ch. F. Gockel feierte seinen 100. Geburtstag. Er wirkte 42 Jahre am Lyceum und war zugleich Professor an der Kriegsschule; als solcher konnte er bei seinem 40jährigen Dienstjubiläum sagen, daß alle damals lebenden badischen Offiziere vom General bis zum Lieutenant seine Schüler gewesen seien.

Konstanz. In der seit einiger Zeit hier schwebenden Affaire von Biersteuerdefraudation seitens eines bekannten Brauers ist die Entscheidung im Gnadenweg dahin ergangen, daß der Defraudant von der gegen ihn ausgesprochenen Strafe von rund 139,000 Mark nur 70,000 Mark und zwar innerhalb acht Jahren zu zahlen hat.

Offenburg. Nicht nur die „höhere" Mädchenschule, sondern auch die städtischen Mädchenschulen überhaupt, die in einem Gebäude vereinigt sind, mußten geschlossen werden, weil in der Familie des im Schulgebäude wohnenden Direktors ein Kind an Masern erkrankte. Diese Maßregel wird hier lebhaft kritisirt.

Schönwald. Der Gründer des jährlich von Tausenden besuchten Höhen-Luftkurortes Schönwald und Besitzer des dortigen Kurhotels, Eduard Riesle, ist kurz vor Beginn der Saison im Alter von 56 Jahren gestorben.

Elsaß-Lothringen.

Metz. General Graf Schlieffen fiel unlängst nach dem vom Kaiser gegebenen Mahle im Militärkasino so unglücklich, daß er kurze Zeit bestinnungslos blieb und im Kasino übernachten mußte, doch hat sich sein Zustand schon am nächsten Tag wieder gebessert.—Dieser Tage wurde unter zahlreicher Betheiligung das von der Vereinigung zur Schmückung der Kriegergräber errichtete Denkmal auf dem Massengrabe feierlich eingeweiht.

It would be surprising

if, with our immense business, we did not handle the choice of the hundred odd makes of Pianos that are manufactured. We do.

The seven best in their different grades, that America produces—CHICKERINGS, GABLERS, HARDMANS, VOSES, STERLINGS, STANDARDS and HUNTINGTONS—are here.

There is absolutely no other as good as the first named; there may be other makes that will equal the last six, but they will cost you from $75 to $150 more than we would ask for the same grade and quality.

STREET RAILWAY ORDINANCE.

An ordinance locating the tracks of the Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway Company on Westfield avenue and Westfield road, within the township of Fanwood, in the county of Union, and authorizing and empowering the construction and operation and maintenance of the same and granting permission for said Company to use electricity as the propelling power of its cars and prescribing the terms and conditions upon which such location of the tracks and permission are granted.

Whereas, The Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway Company, a corporation organized under the provisions of an act entitled "An act to authorize the formation of traction companies for the construction and operation of street railways, or railroads operated as street railways, and to regulate the same," approved March fourteenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three, having first filed in the office of the Secretary of State of the State of New Jersey, a description of the routes, together with maps exhibiting the same, did present their petition or application to the Township Committee of the township of Fanwood, praying the said Township Committee of the township of Fanwood, for its consent to the construction, operation and maintenance of a street railway in the township of Fanwood, and the right to locate its tracks conformably to the route filed in the office of the Secretary of State of the State of New Jersey, which route in the township of Fanwood is upon and along Westfield avenue and Westfield road and was set out in the said petition, and

Whereas, Public notice has been duly given of such application and of the intention of the Township Committee of the township of Fanwood to consider the same by publication, also by posting a copy of the said notice in five or more of the most public places in said township of Fanwood at least fourteen days prior to the date of the meeting of the said Township Committee, and

Whereas, Upon the day fixed by said notice and upon such days as the said hearing was adjourned to, public hearing was given to all persons desiring to be heard in favor of or opposed to or in any wise interested in the said application for the location of its tracks and the said matter having been duly considered by the said Township Committee of the township of Fanwood, and the said Company having filed with the clerk of said township the consent in writing of the owners or their duly authorized legal representatives of at least one-half in amount of the lineal feet of property on said Westfield avenue and Westfield road, within the township of Fanwood, and upon which permission to locate, operate and maintain said street railway is asked.

Now, therefore, Be it ordained by the Township Committee of the township of Fanwood, as follows:

Section 1. That the tracks of the Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway Company, be, and they are hereby located in the following streets, avenues, or highways, in the said township of Fanwood, in the county of Union, to wit, as set out in the following description:

Beginning at a point in Westfield avenue where it is intersected by the centre line of Forrest road, said point being distant five hundred and twenty-nine and six-tenths feet in a magnetic course of north forty-eight degrees and forty-three minutes east from a point where Westfield avenue is intersected by the centre line of Park avenue; thence along Westfield avenue in a magnetic course of north forty-eight degrees and fifty-eight minutes east for a distance of twenty-two hundred and thirty-two feet and seventy-five hundredths of a foot to a point in Westfield road; thence along Westfield road in a course of south forty-four degrees and forty-one minutes east for a distance of nine hundred and ten feet and five-tenths of a foot to a point; thence south forty-four degrees and twenty-two minutes east for a distance of fourteen hundred and sixty-two feet and five-tenths of a foot to a point; thence south forty-four degrees and twenty-seven minutes east for a distance of four hundred and thirty feet and five hundredths of a foot to a point; thence south forty-five degrees and two minutes east five hundred and six feet and five-tenths of a foot to a point; thence south forty-five degrees and forty-three minutes east for a distance of ten hundred and forty-three feet and five-tenths of a foot to a point; thence south forty-six degrees and seventeen minutes east for a distance of nine hundred and ninety feet and fifteen hundredths of a foot to a point in the centre of North avenue where the same is intersected by the centre line of Westfield road aforesaid. Conformable to the amended route of the new line of street railway and the map exhibiting the same, filed in the office of the Secretary of State of this State; and said Company is hereby given the right, power and authority to maintain and operate cars upon the said railway by electricity as the motive power. The said Company shall complete the construction of its whole line of railway within the township of Fanwood in the manner herein provided, and all its fixtures and appurtenances, and commence the operation of the same and the running of its cars for the transportation of passengers on or before December first, eighteen hundred and ninety-eight, or this franchise shall be and become null and void and of no effect, unless the time for the completion of the same shall be extended by the Township Committee. If the said Company after the commencement of the operation of its said line of railway by the collection of fare thereon shall fail or neglect to operate the whole or any portion of the line hereby authorized, daily and every day for the space of thirty consecutive days, or shall fail to operate the same for a total number of days exceeding thirty in any one year, all the rights, powers, privileges and every one of them of the said Company, its successors and assigns, under and by virtue of this ordinance, shall thereby cease and be determined and in either of such cases the Township Committee expressly reserves the right to sell the said line at auction to the highest bidder who will operate it, or may cause the said railway, or any part or parts thereof, to be removed from the streets or avenues, and to sell and dispose of the materials thereof at public auction, and after paying all the expenses of such removal and auction sale, and repairs to said avenues and streets and the cost of restoring the same to its original condition, to pay the balance of proceeds of such sale to the said Company, its successors and assigns.

Section 2. The said Company shall construct, maintain and operate a double track railway as aforesaid with crossovers, switches and sidings shown by map hereinafter specifically referred to. The rails to be laid by said Company shall be of steel of the girder pattern of a weight not less than seventy pounds per yard. And the said Company shall so construct and maintain said railway that the top of the rails shall at all times be flush with the grade of the street or highway. The ties, spikes, and all other materials shall be of the best quality. The railways tracks of the said railway shall be laid as follows: One track on each side of the centre line of said streets or avenues so that the inner rail thereof shall be distant two feet and three inches from said centre line and the guage of said tracks shall be four feet and eight and a half inches; provided that not more than one track shall be laid from Forrest road to Cook's corner, until said avenue shall have been widened to a width of at least sixty-six feet; and provided further that not more than one track shall be laid from Cook's corner to the line of the borough of Fanwood until that portion of the road shall have been widened to a width of not less than sixty-six feet; and provided further that only one track shall be laid in said road which, when laid, shall be laid on the easterly side of the centre line thereof from the borough line to North avenue, until the said portion of said road shall have been widened to a width of at least sixty-six feet, and until the borough of Fanwood shall have by ordinance consented to the laying of a track on the westerly side of said road; provided further that in the event of the widening of said streets or roads herein above referred to, the said Company shall indemnify and save harmless said township from any and all expense by reason thereof. The said Company at its own cost and expense in all streets or avenues through which it shall lay tracks hereunder, shall pave between said tracks and between the rails thereof in a good, substantial and workmanlike manner with a telford or macadam pavement to a depth of four inches, and shall maintain the same flush with the rail of said tracks. The railway tracks and macadam or telford pavement shall be laid and constructed in the best workmanlike manner and to the satisfaction of the Township Committee or other committee thereof having charge of the streets.

Section 3. During the construction of the said railway lighted lanterns shall be kept and maintained by said Company from sunset to sunrse on each and every night not less than fifty feet, and not more than one hundred feet apart along every part of said avenues and streets, where the work of construction shall have been begun and not completed. The work in all other respects shall be thoroughly protected so as to prevent accident. In case any accident shall happen to any person or damage to property is caused because or by reason of any work connected with such construction of said railway, or afterward because or by reason of the operation thereof, or through carelessness or negligence of any of the Company's officers, agents, servants, or employees, the said Company shall indemnify and save the said township of Fanwood and its Township Committee from all costs, loss or damage by reason thereof.

Section 4. The Company shall at all times keep in good condition and repair to the satisfaction of the Township Committee (repaving if necessary) the paving between the tracks, between the rails and eighteen inches outside the same, to a depth of four inches.

Section 5. That said Company shall lay its rails to conform to the grade of said Westfield avenue and Westfield road at the time of laying of said rails, and in case of any change of the grade or of the surface of said Westfield avenue or Westfield road, or any part thereof, at any time, then the said Company, at its own cost and expense, shall immediately on request made in writing by the Township Committee, so change the location of its tracks and the surface or grade of such part of said avenue and road, so as to conform to such change of surface of said avenue and road, or change of grade, or any newly-established grade.

Section 6. That no change, addition, or alteration of guage or the location of the tracks, sidings, switches; cross-overs, poles or overhead structures of said railway company shall be made therein or thereabouts at any time by said Company after the same has been first erected and approved by the Township Committee, without official action granting permission for such change, alteration or addition being previously taken by the Township Committee.

Section 7. The said Company and its officers, agents, servants, or employees, shall not, nor shall any or either of them be allowed to shovel, throw or place any snow, ice, slush, or any other material along side of said track or tracks, in such manner as to obstruct or hinder other public travel thereon or on the said avenue or road, but when removing the snow, ice, slush, or other material from its said tracks the said Company and its officers, agents, servants and employees shall without unnecessary delay and with a sufficient force of men, cause the same to be leveled between the said tracks and the gutter line on each side thereof.

Section 8. No salt shall be used by said Company on any part of its tracks, except on the grades, curves and crossovers, without the consent of the Township Committee or the proper township officers, nor shall any car be allowed to stand in or obstruct any cross street, or to stand upon any cross-walk for any purpose whatever, or to stand or remain in any position for more than five minutes at any one time, except when such car shall be unavoidably obstructed or detained by accident or breakdown without fault or negligence of said Company under a penalty of ten dollars, to be paid by said Company to the Township Collector with costs of collection for each and every violation of this section.

Section 9. That where the said railway tracks shall pass over culverts or gutters, the bottom of which shall be below the grade line of such railroad, iron girders or proper supports of the most approved pattern shall be provided by the Company, and such necessary iron bridges or iron drains shall be constructed across the tracks and shall be so constructed as not to hinder or obstruct the flow of surface water underneath the tracks of said railroad.

Section 10. The Township Committee of the township of Fanwood on behalf of said township, reserves the right to dig or excavate in or upon any of the said streets or avenues for the purpose of laying, examining, replacing or repairing any sewer, water, or gas pipes, or for the purpose of making any other public improvements, or for doing any other public work whatsoever, and the said railway company shall have no redress or claim for damages because of any detention or obstruction to travel on the said railway arising therefrom. Provided, that such work shall be done as quickly as possible without causing unnecessary delay in the operation of said railroad; and provided, further, that if any such improvement, or repairing, replacing, laying or relaying or examining can be made or done in any feasible or practical way without obstructing the operation of said railroad, then and in such case, shall be the duty of the party doing such work to do the same in such manner as last aforesaid.

Section 11. That the said Company shall remove any dirt, gravel, or any material or obstruction placed by the said Company or its agents or servants on any of the streets or avenues within three days after the service of an officer or servant of said Company of written notice so to do by the said Township Committee, or its duly authorized agent. In case the said Company shall fail to remove such material or obstruction and to put the said avenue or road in as good order as before such material or obstruction was placed thereon by said Company, the Township Committee may order and cause the said material or obstruction to be removed and the said avenue or road to be put in complete order and repair at the expense of said Company.

Section 12. That all persons driving vehicles upon the railroad tracks of the said Company in any of the said streets or avenues, when met or overtaken by a car of the Company shall, on being warned by the ringing of a bell or gong or on request of the conductor or motorman of such car, as soon as possible turn and drive his vehicle off of such track, so as to allow such car to pass; it being understood that the cars of said Company shall have the right of way over the tracks of said Company (except at crossings where the public shall have the first right of way over and across the road and tracks of said Company) and the driver of any vehicle for the violation of any of the provisions of this section shall forfeit and pay to the Township Collector for the use of the township, a penalty of ten dollars, to be recovered before any justice of the peace of said township.

Section 13. The cars to be used or run on said railway shall be well lighted and properly heated; they shall be kept clean and have proper bells or gongs, which shall be rung or sounded before such car reaches the crossing of any street intersecting any of the said streets or avenues and whenever necessary to give warning of the approach of such car; each car shall be provided with the necessary fenders of the most approved pattern, and such cars shall be run at an average headway of not longer than fifteen minutes between the hours of six o'clock A. M. and ten o'clock P. M., and from ten o'clock P. M. to midnight, such cars shall be run as the travel demands or warrants, but in any case the average headway shall not be longer than one half hour; all cars on the said railway shall run the entire length of the line of railroad tracks hereby authorized to be constructed. The Company shall from time to time diminish the headway of its cars as the increase of travel shall demand. All cars placed on the line of said Company shall be of the most approved pattern; and said Company shall maintain gates upon the sides of the platforms of the cars wherever there shall be a double track so that the ingress and egress to and from said cars can only be had from the side of the car nearest the curb.

Section 14. That for the purpose of supplying light, heat and power for propelling cars on said railway, permission is hereby granted to the said Traction Company and the right is hereby granted to said Company to erect poles and string the necessary wires thereon, upon the following terms and conditions:

The poles to be used for the equipping of said railway for operation by electricity shall be of iron, similar to those used by the Plainfield Street Railway Company for the purpose upon its Netherwood line in the city of Plainfield; said poles shall be at least twenty feet in height above the surface of the ground, and shall be set and located opposite each other as near as may be on both sides of said avenues and streets, and within the curb lines of said avenues and streets, and at the points designated and shown upon a certain map entitled, "Map showing proposed location of tracks or rails of a double track street railway, also showing proposed location of poles for support of overhead construction for trolley wires of the Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway Company, in the township of Fanwood, county of Union and State of New Jersey," which map is on file with the Township Clerk, and is hereby made a part of this ordinance for the purpose of showing the true location of the tracks hereby authorized to be laid upon said avenue and road by said Company and for the purpose of specifically designating and prescribing the several places within the line of said avenue and road where such poles shall be located and set, and the location of said tracks and poles therein shown, is hereby approved and adopted by the Township Committee of the township of Fanwood.

The said poles shall be set in the ground to a depth of not less than six feet, and the holes in which said poles shall be set shall be not less than one foot in diameter, and the excavation or space around said poles shall be filled with broken stone and concrete to the surface of the ground and the same shall be thoroughly packed and rammed.

The wires and overhead construction attached to said poles for the purpose of furnishing power for the propulsion of the cars of said Company shall be not less than eighteen feet above the grade of said avenue and road, and said overhead construction and wires shall be similar in character and size to the overhead construction now used by the Plainfield Street Railway Company upon its Netherwood line within the city of Plainfield, and the manner of stringing all of said wires shall be similar to that now used by said Plainfield Street Railway Company upon its Netherwood line within the city of Plainfield, which overhead construction of poles and wires is hereby approved and designated as a pattern or model construction to be observed and followed by the Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway Company in its overhead construction of poles and wires, prescribed in this ordinance. The wires strung upon said poles shall be properly guarded with other wires when required by the Township Committee. The poles when erected, shall be properly painted, and shall, together with all parts of said overhead construction, be maintained in a safe condition at all times, and shall be kept in thorough repair, and said poles shall be kept well painted.

Section 15. The period or term granted to the Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway Company by virtue of this ordinance, for the purposes herein set forth, shall be for the term of ninety-nine years, commencing July 1st, 1898, and ending July 1st, 1897.

Section 16. That for every mile of road owned or operated, or that may hereafter be owned or operated by said Company within the limits of the township of Fanwood (whether said road be single or double track) said Company shall pay or cause to be paid to the collector of taxes of said township for the use of said township, the following sums as license fees, to wit:

For the year beginning January first, 1899, at the rate of one hundred dollars per mile; for the year beginning January first, 1900, at the rate of one hundred dollars per mile; for the year beginning January first, 1901, at the rate of one hundred dollars per mile; for the year beginning January first, 1902, at the rate of one hundred dollars per mile; for the year beginning January first, 1903, at the rate of one hundred dollars per mile; for the five years succeeding January first, 1904, three per cent. annually of the gross earnings of said Company, with a minimum payment, however, during said period of five years at the rate of two hundred and fifty dollars a mile per year; and for each and every succeeding year thereafter, five per cent. of the gross earnings of said Company, with a minimum payment, however, at the rate of two hundred and fifty dollars a mile per year. The gross earnings in this section referred to shall be construed to include all earnings of said Company and full proportion of all earnings on full traffic to be calculated according to the proportion between the entire length of the journey and the number of miles traveled within the limits of the township of Fanwood, all of said payments to be made each and every year on or before the last day of each year.

That to enable the township to ascertain from time to time the gross earnings of the said Company, the books of the Company shall be opened for inspection by the Township Committee, or by such other person or persons as the Township Committee for that purpose shall designate at the expense of the said Company. The payment provided for in this section shall be in lieu of all license fees for cars, whether provided for in prior ordinances or not.

Section 17. That the fares to be charged by said Company for every passenger riding on its railroad in the township of Fanwood, shall be as follows:

1. The Company shall sell thirty-three school tickets in one strip for one dollar, said tickets to be void if detached, and to be good only between the hours of eight A. M. and five P. M. on days when the schools in said township are in session, and when presented by a scholar attending a school in said township going to and from school.

2. For each and every passenger of a continuous ride to or from any point in the township of Fanwood, on the line of tracks hereby located, to or from any point on the lines of the Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway Company, in the borough of Fanwood, in the township of Fanwood and in the city of Plainfield, in the township of Westfield and in the township of Cranford, the sum of five cents; children under four years of age, over the lines herein set forth and hereinafter mentioned, free; children over four and under ten years of age (other than children going to and from school) not occupying seats required by other passengers, three cents over the lines hereinbefore specified; passangers to or from any point on the lines of said Company in the borough of Roselle, eight cents; children between four and ten years of age other than school children going to and from school, four cents; passengers to or from any point on the lines of said Company in the city of Elizabeth, the sum of ten cents; children over four and under ten years of age (other than school children going to and from school) five cents. If it is necessary to use the lines of the Plainfield Street Railway Company in order to carry passengers from Scotch Plains to Watchung or the line in Plainfield, no additional charge shall be made for carrying passengers over such portion of the lines of the Plainfield Street Railway Company.

Section 18. If the said railway shall fail to build or construct the whole of said railway as in this ordinance described, with its turnouts, switches, etc., in the manner aforesaid, and put the same in operation for the transportation of passengers within nine months from the first day of March, 1898, or shall thereafter fail or neglect to operate the same aforesaid, and as in this ordinance specified (except for reasons beyond the control of said Company) over the whole of said road as herein described, all the right, powers and privileges and every of them of the said Railway Company, its successors and assigns, and by virtue of this ordinance, shall become at the option of the Township Committee, null and void, and the Township Committee of the said township of Fanwood in that event expressly reserves the right to cause the said railway and every part thereof to be removed from the streets, avenues and highways on which the same has been placed within the township of Fanwood (first giving notice of at least ten days to said Company to remove the same and all structures connected therewith), and in case the said Company should fail or neglect to comply with the requirements of said notice, and put the streets and roads in as good condition as before the said road was constructed, the said Township Committee may at a public auction sell so much of said material belonging to the said Railway Company as may be necessary to pay the costs of removal and the replacing of said roads or highways in their former condition.

Section 19. Should the said Company violate this ordinance in any section or provision thereof for which a penalty has not been already prescribed and specified herein, the said Railway Company shall be subjected to a penalty of ten dollars ($10) for each and every violation, on conviction thereof, to be recovered before any justice of the peace of said township, to be paid to the treasurer of the said township of Fanwood. The provisions of this section, however, in no way to affect the rights or claims of any person or persons against said Company.

Section 20. That said Company upon the final adoption of this ordinance, and before exercising any of the rights and privileges granted hereby, shall as a condition precedent file with the Township Clerk of the township of Fanwood, a contract to be executed by said Company and duly approved by the Township Committee wherein said Company shall covenant and agree with the inhabitants of the township of Fanwood to abide by and perform all the matters and things herein on part of said Company to be observed, kept and performed; that it will at any and all times hereafter fully indemnify and protect the township of Fanwood of and from any and all suits, actions and proceedings that may be brought and maintained or sought to be brought and maintained, by any person or corporation for, on account of or by reason of the adoption or maintenance by said Company, its successors or assigns of said electric system aforesaid or the construction or maintenance of said electric system, or anything connected therewith, or any act of omission or commission by said Company, its successors or assigns, or any of its agents or servants, at any time or times, and shall whenever requested by said township, fully defend any and every action, suit or proceeding.

Section 21. That this ordinance shall take effect immediately, and said Company shall file its written acceptance thereof in the manner and times required by law, and shall fully pay and satisfy bills approved and ordered paid by said Township Committee within ten days after such date, of approval for advertisements, publications, notices, printing and other work done in or about or connected with the consideration of the application of said Company for said location of tracks and connected with the consideration of the passage of this ordinance or any ordinance or ordinances supplementary thereto.

IN PHARAOH'S TIME.

The Women Had as Many Luxuries as Are Enjoyed To-Day.

The excavations and explorations of Neroutsos Bey, brough Pascha, and, more recently, of Dr. Morgan and Flinders Petrie, have thrown so much light upon ancient Egyptian society that we now know more about the toilet, wardrobe and daily habits of the princess who found Moses in the bullrushes than we do of the early citizens of England or France. Strangely enough, the difference between the ladies of that early period and of to-day seems to have been less in social matters than between those of the court of Queen Elizabeth and to-day. An Egyptian lady of quality had a suite of at least three rooms for her own use. One, a boudoir or reception room, a second a bath or dressing room and a third a bed room. She had a dressing maid, an assistant maid or fan bearer, a bath maid, seamstress and a manicure.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Henry W. Brower, of East Sixth street, has a new Barnes wheel.

The next bicycle ride of the Y. M. C. A. will be taken Thursday night to New Brunswick.

W. R. Codington, of Sandford avenue, has purchased a new Crescent wheel for his son.

Physical Director C. E. A. Heywood, of the Y. M. C. A., is taking a wheeling trip through Maryland.

Percy Vail, of the circulation department of The Daily Press, has a new Eldridge bicycle, purchased of the Eldridge Bicycle Company.

A party of the young people of the Seventh Day Baptist church enjoyed a bicycle party Sunday evening. They met at the church and took a run out to Oak Tree.

The members of the Bachelors Club are consideridg the advisability of touring to Indianapolis this summer to attend the national convention of the L. A. W.

Sunday was decidedly warm for wheeling but nevertheless the wheelmen turned out in large numbers. Several thousand passed through Plainfield during the day.

Mr. Ackerman, of Clinton avenue, had a bad fall Saturday afternoon while riding on Maltby's track. He was hurt, and his wheel was bent so that it needed to go to a repair shop.

Among those who have purchased Eldridge wheels are Carl Mattison, of Carlton avenue; Percy W. Vail, of Washington street; A. Jackson, of Fanwood; and Miss Annie Fleming, of Grove street.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

There was a gathering of the committees in charge of the coming race meeting of the Central New Jersey Driving Association in the offices of Reed & Codington last evening. The reports of the work done during the past week showed that the committees had lost no time, and that arrangements were nearly completed for the most successful meet that Plainfield ever saw.

The track and stands will be in excellent condition in plenty of time for the races. The meet is and will continue to be advertised about this section of the country with great freedom and vigor. Then too the entries are rolling in and a fat list is expected. The entries close today and many more will arrive during the day and evening. Everything is being done to make the meet first class in every respect.

The exclusive privilege of selling soda water, ice cream and cigars was awarded to F. W. Rowley, the West Front street druggist. With Mr. Rowley in charge, the patrons of the meet will be assured of the best of service and of finding a thoroughly clean and respectable stand on the grounds where cool drinks can be obtained.

The committee in charge of the proposed extras reported that arrangements had not yet been completed, but probably would be inside of a week.

To Become a Public Entertainer.

Frank O. Bristol, of East Fifth street, went to New York on June 2 to recite before Alonzo Foster, in the Grace Presbyterian church in Brooklyn, with a view to appearing this fall in amateur entertainments under the auspices of the Lyceum Star Bureau, of which Mr. Foster is manager. Mr. Bristol has received word that he was succesful, and this fall will appear in various entertainments under their direction. Mr. Bristol appeared in several church and other entertainments in this city last winter, and his recitations and stories were very much enjoyed. He will appear under the role of a reciter and story teller.

Big Turtles Reported Seen.

The water which was allowed to run out of the South Plainfield pond ten days ago was turned in yesterday, and in a short time the pond was as full as ever. The water was let out so as to kill the eel grass which was choking up the channel. Any number of turtles could be seen in the pond all last week, burrowing into the mud, and some of them are said to weigh between seventy and 100 pounds.

Amendment to Bylaws.

Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, met last evening and held a routine business meeting. An amendment to the by-laws was made and at the next meeting the same will be adopted. At the meeting to be held June 27th a number of the grand officers will be present and there will be many interesting features.

Talking Insurance Rates.

A meeting of the Union County Committee of the Middle Department of the Underwriters met in the Board of Trade rooms this morning to talk over lowering the insurance rates. There were no local insurance men at the meeting, and no definite action was taken in the matter.

A Large Committee.

The committee in charge of the Fourth of July picnic of Miantonomoh tribe of Red Men at Mountain Side Grove has been enlarged from seven members to ten. The chairman, W.A. Westphal, was authorized to appoint the new members. He selected W. H. Schloss, Fred Marshbank and Wm. Newcorn.

A Prize Debater

Among the students who will speak in the Hardy prize debate at Amherst College, June 27th, is C B. Tyler, of this city. He will be one of the six men who will compete for the Hyde prize in oratory, June 28th.

Walter N. Martin, of Grove street, has accepted a position with the Swift Beef Company, of Chicago, at their New York office.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

EMBARKING FOR MANILA.

Merritt Expects to Sail for the Phillippines Tomorrow If Not Before.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

San Francisco, June 14 9:30 a. m.—The troops forming the second expedition to Manila are embarking from this port today.

The four transports, China, Colon, Selannia and Senten, are receiving the soldiers intended for the relief of Rear Admiral Dewey.

It is General Merritt's intention to sail by tomorrow. A large quantity of property and stores belonging to the regiments and batallions assigned to General Greene's expedition, are being loaded on the transports.

To Hold the Canaries.

Washington, June 14.—Official confirmation has been received at the navy department of the return to Cadiz of the auxiliary cruisers of the Spanish navy which went out for target practice.

The department has also been informed that these vessels have taken several thousand troops aboard, which will be transported to the Canaries for the reinforcement of the garrison at that point.

It is evident, the authorities say, that Spain proposes to make a desperate effort to retain the Canaries, which will be naturally a point of attack for the flying squadron of the United States when it is formed.

Gifts to Three Colleges.

Hazleton, Pa., June 14.—The will of the late A. S. Van Wickle was registered yesterday:

He bequeathes to Brown University and Princeton University, each $45,000, and to Lafayette College $30,000. He provides that the Grand Army Park in this city shall be maintained as it was during his life. I. P. Pardee and Mrs. A. S. Van Wickle are named as the executors.

JOHN HOWARD PAYNE.

And How His Song "Home Sweet Home" Influenced His Captors.

John Howard Payne, author of "Home, Sweet Home," was a warm personal friend of John Ross, who will be remembered as the celebrated chief of the Cherokees. At the time the Cherokees were removed from their homes in Georgia to their present possessions, west of the Mississippi river, Payne was spending a few weeks with Ross, who was occupying a miserable cabin, having been forcibly ejected from his former home. A number of the prominent Cherokees were in prison, and that portion of Georgia where the tribe was located was secured by armed squads of militia, who hod oredrs to arrest all who refused to leave the country.

While Ross and Payne were seated before the fire in the hut, one day, the door was suddenly burst open, and six or eight militiamen sprang into the room. The soldiers lost no time in taking their prisoners away. Ross was permitted to ride his own horse, while Payne was mounted on one led by a soldier. As the little party left the hovel rain began falling, and continued till every man was drenched thoroughly.

The journey lasted all night. Toward midnight Payne's escort, in order to keep himself awake, began humming "Home, home, sweet, sweet home," when Payne remarked,—

"Little did I expect to hear that song under such circumstances, and at such a time! Do you know the author?"

"No," said the soldier. "Do you?"

"Yes," answered Payne. "I composed it."

"The deuce you did!" was the reply. "You can tell that to some fellows, but not to me. Look here—you made that song, you say. If you did—and I know you didn't—you can say it all without stopping. It has something in it about pleasures and palaces. Now pitch in and reel it off, and if you can't I'll bounce you from that horse and lead you instead of it."

Payne immediately repeated the song in a slow, subdued tone, then sang it, making the old woods ring with tender melody. It touched the heart of the rough soldier, who was not only captivated, but convinced; he ordered that the composer of such a song should never go to prison if he could help it; and when the party reached Milledgeville, they were, after a preliminary examination, discharged, much to their surprise.

Payne insisted that it was because the leader of the squad had been under the magnetic influence of Ross's conversation, and Ross insisted that they had been saved from insult and imprisonment by the power of "Home, Sweet Home," sung as only those who feel can sing it.

The friendship existing between Ross and Payne endured until the grave closed over the mortal remains of the latter.

CHAS. L. STANLEY,

Successor to Childs & Stanley, 142 North Ave. Greenhouses Netherwood and Westfield.

AUSTRIAN DUNGEON DISCOVERED.

Cells in It that Measured Only Two Feet Four by Four Feet Eight.

The other day it was found necessary to repair part of the foundations of an inner wing of the Castello of Udine, a great, square, ugly building of three centuries ago, now used as barracks and civil prisons. On the flooring being removed, the workmen came upon a small, massive, tight fitting trapdoor. It was raised with difficulty, and it disclosed, as in romances, a flight of steps. On going down it with lights, the workmen found themselves in a subterranean chamber. From one corner of this ran a passage in the walls of which were five low, narrow doorways, opening into the most horrible prison cells the heavy iron hinges which had supported the enormously thick doors, as shown by the depth of the stone framework. The pozzi of the doges' palace at Venice must have been abodes of delight in comparison.

At the end of the passage two other cells were found, suggestive of still more dreadful suffering; for, while the others are of ordinary size, these only measure two feet four by four feet eight—a size that made it impossible for the unhappy wretches confined in them to lie down. A small hole near the top of the doorpost of all the cells was used for the passing of food.

Examination brought to light some inscriptions scratched on the cell walls. One of these was "Giovanni Grimani, 1607," showing that they were in use in civilized times; and more shocking still, as it is a witness to the cruelty of Austria, another consisted of the words, "Viva l'Italia! Viva l'Italia!" and the signature of "Giacomo Moraro."—Golden Days.

CURLED HAIR FOR MARKET.

Horses Are Bred Especially for This Purpose in South America.

South America furnishes the greatest amount and best quality of curled horsehair, used for filling mattresses and stuffing furniture, says the New York Tribune. On the wide pampas many thousands of horses are bred especially for the hair of their manes and tales. These, between the round-ups, which sometimes do not occur in three or four seasons, grow to great length, but owing to the lack of care and the state of the "camps," as the open country is called, the hair is unusually tangled in what seems an inextricable mass. All over the camps grow many kinds of burrs and thistles, and the animals as they graze or roll themselves about become covered with them. Their coats are naturally rough, the hair growing in an uneven, shaggy way. Stuck all over with burrs and with mane and tail matted into nearly unwieldy masses, the poor creatures present a comical appearance. After they are shorn they seem to delight in the freedom of cropped necks and short tails.

The hair when cut off is freeed from dirt and roughness of all kinds and wound into ropes, by which means it is made curly. It sells for 38c. or 48c. a pound. The longest strands are kept separated, and used for horsehair furniture, clothes, etc.

How Miss Willard Made a Convert.

A story is told of Miss Frances E. Willard by a friend of the deceased temperance advocate which has never appeared in print, and which shows that the object of her life was always dominant. She was very fond of cycling, and while on one of her spins collided with a wheelman who was somewhat under the influence. The result was a badly shattered wheel or the drop frame variety. The wheelman was not in a conversational state, and the matter of damages was not discussed on the spot, but he was given the woman's card, with the request that he call next day. He did so, and with the plea that he did not have any money to make good the result of his inebriety. He was extremely penitent, and the good woman finally proposed that he sign the pledge in lieu of payment of damages. He did so, and the story is made complete by the statement that he has kept it unswervingly.—Golden Days.

A Natural Mud Pie Foundry.

Uncle Sam has a freak artesian well on the Brule Indian agency that is attracting widespread attention. It threw a six-inch stream of water when it was first opened, and for several years thereafter, but for about eight months it has been engaged in making mud pies. Since that time an endless chain of blue clay six inches in diameter has been forced up through the pipe, rising slowly above the casing to a height of ten feet and then toppling over on the ground. The eruption continues night and day, and the amount of clay so far forced up from the bowels of the earth has made it necessary for the Government to employ a man to care for the premises. Very little water comes up with the clay. A noticeable peculiarity of this well is that the clay rises more rapidly previous to the advent of windy weather, resuming its steady, even grind again on the return of pleasant weather.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Tactics of Pursued Deer.

An Oxford County sportsman who is much interested in the habits of wild game said he once saw three deer chased by dogs in the deep snow. It was impossible for them to run fast, and they adopted tactics that were at once novel and practical. They were running single file. The first thing that attracted attention as unusual was the action of the leader, which stopped suddenly, jumped to one side, and let the other two eer run by in the path he had made. Very soon the new leader jumped out and let his followers run ahead as long as the leader could stand it to make the path in the deep snow. This was kept up until they went out of sight, and the sportsman had learned something new.—Kennebec Journal.

PUBLIC NOTICE.

County of Union } ss.
City of Plainfield }

Public notice is hereby given that application by petition has been made to the Mayor and Common Council of the City of Plainfield for the consent of said Mayor and Common Council of the City of Plainfield to construct, operate and maintain a street railway upon the following streets and avenues in the said city of Plainfield: East Second street from Watchung avenue to the present terminus of East Second street, between Leland avenue and Netherwood avenue; thence over a private right of way in continuation of said East Second street to the line of the City of Plainfield in Terrill road; and in Richmond street from East Fifth street to East Second street. That said petition has been presented by the Plainfield Street Railway Company, a corporation organized under the laws of this State. That said petition was filed with the Clerk of the City of Plainfield on the 6th day of June, eighteen hundred and ninety-eight. The road intended to be constructed, operated and maintained is either a single track street railway or a double track street railway, and the motive power to be used thereon is electricity to be supplied from overhead wires, supported by poles, and the streets through which the same shall extend are as above mentioned.

The Common Council of the City of Plainfield has fixed Thursday, the thirtieth day of June, eighteen hundred and ninety-eight, at eight o'clock in the evening, as the time, and the Council Chamber, No. 109 Park avenue, in the said City of Plainfield, as the place, at which said Common Council will consider said application and will give a public hearing to all persons interested therein.

HELP SOON TO REACH OUR BRAVE MARINES.

Fast Transports Are Pushed Forward Under Strong Escort.

All is Ready at Guantanamo Bay For the Landing of Troops—The Main Body of Shafter's Expedition Will Land Nearer Santiago—Santiago Without Supplies.

THE LATEST.

Three O'Clock.

TO HASTEN RELIEF.

Fastest Transports Rushed Forward To Relieve Marines At Cuba.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Washington, June 15, 2 p. m—The officials in the war department intimate that a change has been made in the plans for Shafter's expedition as first arranged.

It is said that the swifter vessels of the fleet of transports have been selected and pushed forward in all possible haste under a strong convoy.

The slower vessels will follow under the guidance of the remainder of the convoying fleet. The object of the division of the fleet is to relieve the marines at Guantanamo as soon as possible.

By this change, it is thought that the first detachment of troops will be landed on Cuban soil tomorrow morning.

READY FOR TROOPS.

American Forces at Guantanamo Bay Are Awaiting Arrival of Shafter.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Mole St. Nicholas, June 15, 1:19 p. m—The transports bearing Major General Shafter's army of invasion is expected to arrive off the southern coast of Cuba every day.

The little gathering of marines still remains on top of the hill awaiting the arrival of the troops. The marines are greatly exhausted, but still willing to fight.

The launches from the American warships in the outer harbor of Guantanamo have been dragging the bay and have found the sub-marine mines planted there by the Spaniards.

All is now ready for the landing of the expected troops. On their arrival the warships are expected to bombard and destroy the Spanish forts at the entrance of the inner harbor and capture the town.

ANOTHER BASE.

The Main Expedition Will Not Land at Guantanamo Bay.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Washington, June 15, 10:07 a. m—While it is understood that General Shafter will reinforce the marines who are now landed at Guantanamo Bay, it is known here that the main part of the expedition will land nearer Santiago.

Shafter will probably leave 2,000 men at the present encampment of the marines and move the rest near Santiago.

Major General Lee now has eight regiments at Tampa and other points on the coast ready for the movement against Porto Rico.

FAMINE AT HAND.

Americans Have Shut Off Sources of Supply For Santiago de Cuba.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

On board despatch boat, off Santiago de Cuba, June 14, via Kingston, Jamaica, June 15, 1:25 p. m—Sampson and Schley have now cut off the three sources of the Spanish supply and reinforcement.

Santiago is now isolated and its inhabitants are compelled to live on famine rations.

The Spaniards still prepare to defend the place. The cruiser Vizcaya has been anchored in a position where she can command an entrance to the port.

The Oquerdo controls the third narrow entrance, with the Christobol Colon and the Maria Theresa close by.

A VOTE THIS AFTERNOON.

Hawaiian Annexation Resolution Will Be Passed by House Today.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Washington, June 15, 1:04 p. m.—A bill was passed by the House this morning granting American registry to foreign steamships to be used as transports.

The debate on the Hawaiian annexation resolution was resumed this morning. Congressman Fitzgerald, of Massachusetts, argued in favor of opposition because he said it violated the fundamental principles of the Democratic party.

The government, he said, rested upon the consent of the people governed. There are 40,000 natives in Hawaii who have not been consulted in the matter of annexation. He was confident that time would show his opponents their error.

The vote on the measure will be taken before adjournment this afternoon. It will undoubtedly be adopted by a large majority.

Practically all the Republicans in the House and a number of the Democrats will vote in favor of the measure.

The fight in the Senate is the only danger confronting the resolution. There a possible attempt at filibustering to prevent a final vote may be made.

INSURGENTS READY.

9,000 of Them Gathered Around Santiago de Cuba.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Tampa, June 15, 10:20 a. m.—Colonel Hernandes, of the Cuban army, has arrived at this place with a letter for Major General Miles from General Garcia, of the insurgent troops.

The letter says that 9,000 insurgents have taken possession of points near Santiaga de Cuba where they will be in a position to co-operate with the American troops in the attack on the city.

Spaniards Still There.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Tangier, Morocco, June 15, 1:29 p. m—The Spanish reserve squadron still remains at Cadiz.

WEDDED IN CHURCH AMID JUNE FLOWERS.

Miss Delphine LaC. Bowers and Rev. W. C. O'Donnell Married.

AN IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY.

IT WAS ONE OF THE PRETTIEST CHURCH WEDDINGS OF THE YEAR.

Over Seven Hundred People Witnessed the Ceremony at the Crescent Avenue Church—Enjoyable Reception at Bride's Home Followed.

Surrounded on every hand by a throng of well-wishing relatives and friends, Miss Delphine LaClair Bowers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Oliver Bowers, of Franklin place, and Rev. William Charles O'Donnell, Ph.D., pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, plighted their troth last evening at one of the prettiest church weddings that Plainfield has seen.

The marriage was held in the Crescent Avenue church and was witnessed by a large and fashionable audience, that filled every available space in the great auditorium. There were over 700 guests present.

The church itself was beautiful, indeed, with the magnificent floral decorations that were tastefully arranged about the platform and front of the church. The general effect was in green and white. Palms and potted plants were so arranged as to completely hide the pulpit and form a floral pyramid on either side. White flowers were intermingled in the bank of green with pretty effect. The decorations reached over the entire width of the platform and about the chancel.

The ceremony took place promptly at 8 o'clock and was a very beautiful and impressive one. After the organist, Miss Jessie Utter, had played several selections on the organ, the grand melody of the Tannhauser wedding march pealed forth. The door to the left of the platform opened and the bridemaids and ushers passed into the auditorium and up the aisle with slow and stately step. The procession was led by two of the bridemaids who were followed by another. The other three followed in the same order. They were all gowned in white organdie with green ribbons and carried handsome bouquets of American beauty roses. The bridemaids were Miss Louisa Patton and Miss Arleen Crane, of Plainfield; Miss Katharine Thorne, of New York; Miss Emilie Oakley, of Rutherford; Miss Katharyn Mitchell, of Philadelphia, and Miss Alice Holmes, of Eastport, Me.

The bridemaids were followed by the ushers, walking two by two, wearing the conventional evening dress. The ushers were Benjamin Oliver Bowers, Jr., of Plainfield, a brother of the bride, John S. Oliver, of Brooklyn, Rev. Frank MacDaniel, of Newark, Rev. F. L. Erp, of Madison, N. J., Edward W. Van Deusen, of Englewood, and Leland M. Burr, of Montclair.

At the entrance in the back of the church, the procession was met by the bride, escorted by her father. The bride wore a beautiful gown of white satin, entrain, with timmings of chiffon, pearls and point de Venice lace, the last an heirloom of the family. She carried white roses and wore a tulle veil. They were preceded by the maid of honor, Miss Katheryn Terry, of Albany, a cousin of the bride, who was attired in white organdie, trimmed with white ribbons. She carried a basket of pink sweet peas.

Then bridemaids and ushers turned and were followed by the bride and her father down the aisle while the strains of the Tannhauser march were changed to the Lohengrin wedding march. While the bridal party slowly made its way down the long aisle, the groom and his best man, Dr. Frank LeRoy Purdy, of Buffalo, accompanied by Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, pastor of the church, and Rev. Dr. George W. Smith, presiding elder of the Elizabeth district, entered from the right and met the others in the chancel.

The bridemaids and ushers separated and formed a semi-circle about the chancel while the rest grouped within. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Richards, assisted by Rev. Dr. Smith. The bride was given away by her father.

The organ had played a faint accompaniment while the solemn words were said and the responses given, and as the couple were pronounced man and wife the Mendelssohn wedding march rang out and Mr. and Mrs. O'Donnell led the bridal party down the aisle and out of the main entrance.

After the ceremony a reception was

BLOW TO BERGEN PLAN.

CRANFORD BELIEVES THE SQUIRE LAW TO BE A DEAD LETTER.

The Clause Compelling Majority of Property Owners' Consents Finally Inculcated Before Governor Signed It.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Cranford, June 15—Those residents of Cranford who are opposed to the construction of a county boulevard under the Squire law, are jubilant over what they claim a victory in the form the law received Governor Voorhees' signature Monday. When the law was first sent to the Governor it was found that through the error of the Assembly clerk the amendment passed making it necessary to get the majority of consents of property owners whose land would come under the provision of the law, was left out. The opponents of the law made a great outcry against this disclosure and claimed that it was a deliberate attempt to enact the law so as to carry out the Bergen trolley scheme in Union county in defiance of the people. Governor Voorhees said, when the mistake was discovered, that the law would have to stand as it was. Since then, however, the missing amendment has been incorporated in the law and is a part of the measure that received his signature Tuesday. It is believed that this amendment practically kills the Bergen trolley scheme, as there is but little probability of the advocates of the county trolley being able to secure the majority of consents from property owners through Cranford and Westfield, where the Elizabeth and Westfield Street Railway Company has already been granted franchises.

BROKE AT SLOW SPEED.

A SERIOUS DEFECT IN A LOCOMOTIVE DRIVING WHEEL.

Central Engine Disabled at Dunellen—If it Had Been Running Fast a Bad Smashup Would Have Resulted.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, June 15—Just as train No. 206 from Somerville was pulling out from the station this morning at 7:10 on its way to Newark, one of the driving wheel axles on the fireman's side of the engine broke and stripped the rod on the engineer's side. The engine was No. 146. The accident to the engine blocked the tracks for some little time and the trains following were obliged to switch over on track No. 4. Several of the trains were combined and thus the loss in time was made up.

The train was in charge of Conductor Hodge, of Somerville. Had the accident occurred while the train was under full speed, serious results might have been recorded, as no doubt the broken rod would have forced its way through the cab of the engine. Engineer Frank Naylor, also of Somerville, brought his engine to a full stop almost as soon as the accident occurred.

There was no damage outside of that to the engine. Later in the morning the engine was taken to Elizabethport for repairs, and the trains following carried the passengers from the belated train.

THE AMERICAN VOLUNTEERS.

Captain Milford Again in Charge of the Post in This City.

Captain Milford, of Philadelphia, has taken charge of the local post of the American Volunteers in place of Captain Waldron, who has gone to Baltimore. Captain Milford was here last summer and conducted a very successful series of evangelistic meetings in the large tent which the Volunteers erected in the borough.

Saturday Lieutenant Worthington, of Philadelphia, will be here, and will remain the balance of the summer. Lieutenant Colonel Lindsay, who is in charge of the New Jersey and Pennsylvania district, is expected Sunday, when a memorial service will probably be held for Theodore Hermann.

Captain Milford was asked by a Press reporter whether there was any truth in the report that the Volunteers were running so far behind in their expenses that they would soon be obliged to give up the hall where they are now holding meetings, and he said there was not. Captain Milford said that the Volunteers would very likely hold their meetings in a tent this year, just as they did last, although no location has been picked out yet. There is a debt on the post which troubles the members, but this is diminishing slowly.

Train Load of Club Women.

Tomorrow a special train will pass through Plainfield on the way to Denver, Col., carrying delegates to the annual National Convention of the Federation of Women's Clubs. The train will stop at Plainfield to pick up the delegates from this city.

VAUGHN AN EMBEZZLER.

OUT OF A LOVE SCRAPE HE IS NOW IN DEEPER TROUBLE.

Collected $6 From a Customer of J. M. Smalley and Then Disappeared—Found Asleep in a Stage Early This Morning.

Oscar Vaughn is again in trouble of a more serious nature than that which brought him to justice when he threatened to kill himself because a young woman would not marry him.

This time he is in the borough lockup charged with the embezzlement of $6 from J. M. Smalley. Soon after the conclusion of the first trouble when N. B. Smalley furnished bonds in the sum of $50 to guarantee that Vaughn would keep the peace, he went to work for J. M. Smalley. He got along very well until last Saturday when he collected $6 and quit work. When he met his employer he told him that he had given the $6 to his father to keep for him, and that he would return the money later in the day.

In the meantime Vaughn skipped and could not be located. About 4 o'clock this morning Marshal Wise found young Vaughn asleep in Thos. Newman's stage on Chatham street. The officer was passing along the street, and on looking toward the stage, which stood close to the street, he saw a dark object. He found it to be Vaughn. He arrested him and put him in the lockup.

When Vaughn was questioned he said he spent yesterday at South Plainfield. He was arrested on a warrant issued by Justice Crosley on the complaint of J. M. Smalley, and will be arraigned this afternoon for his hearing.

N. B. Smalley, it is understood, will ask Justice Mosher to release him as bondsman from Vaughn's bond to keep the peace.

BENCHES FOR THE PARK.

A Pleasant Public Breathing Place for Plainfield People.

Through the generosity of several Plainfield citizens the City Park is to be equipped today with benches and grass guards. The park, thanks to the efforts of the Town Improvement Association, is now in a condition as to be really an ornament to the neighborhood. The work on it has not been wasted. All that it needed was some benches which are now on their way.

A Patriotic Talk.

Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., met last evening in regular session and enjoyed a patriotic talk from Past Commander L. V. F. Randolph, who has been absent from the Post meetings for a time. There were remarks by other comrades, all of which were enjoyed. The members made final arrangements for their excursion to Long Branch June 23d, at which time the annual encampment is held at that place.

Heighth of Ground Water.

By the monthly measurement of the ground water, the well at the corner of Fifth and Richmond streets shows that the water is one and one-half feet lower than it was a month ago. The water is still two feet three inches higher than it was in November. The Water Company claim that the water near their wells is now higher than it has been in years.

Workman Assaults a Boy.

George Polger, who was employed by an East Second street liveryman, was arrested last night for being drunk and striking one of the employes. The prisoner was very penitent this morning and promised to leave town at once if Judge DeMeza would let him off. He was fined $5 or 20 days, and will have to go to Elizabeth.

Soldier Boys Home for a Short Visit.

Charles Flynn and Frank Carver, of Co. H, N. J. N. G., came to their homes in this city last evening on a leave of absence of twenty-four hours. They were welcomed by their many friends, who inquired after the other Plainfield boys at Fort Hancock. All were reported to be doing well.

In the Fire Department.

The vacancy that will be caused by resignation of First Assistant Chief James Martin from the fire department, will be taken by the present Second Assistant Chief J. W. Murray, Jr., and his place will be taken by Andrew Jennings, who will be appointed by the Mayor.

Paterson Man Arrested.

Fred Fronson, of Paterson, came to this city last night and drank too much beer. Officer Lunger found him wandering around the western part of the city hatless and dazed. He was locked up and this morning the Judge suspended sentence on him.

—Tomorrow evening Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet and consider important business.

—Woodhull & Martin announce the arrival of some fine-corded piques (imported) which include some fancy weaves at 50, 55 and 59 cents.

HELPING CITY NURSE.

ADVANCE CIRCLE CONDUCTED A PROFITABLE FESTIVAL.

The Chapel, Decorated With Flowers and Flags, Looked Very Pretty—Those in Charge—Music by Ladies' Orchestra.

The chapel of the First Presbyterian church looked remarkably pretty last night, with its decorations of flags and flowers, at the midsummer festival given there by the Advance Circle of the King's Daughters of that church. The proceeds went towards the support of the city nurse, and because of the good cause for which the money was to be expended, the festival was well patronized.

The side walls of the chapel were hung with flags, and the flower booth in the centre of the large room was a pretty sight. The booth was a mass of flags and flowers, and set off the rest of the room to advantage. The booth was presided over by Miss Katherine Glen and Miss Margaret Cave.

Tables of candy and cake were in other parts of the room. The candy table was in charge of Mrs. J. E. McClintock and Mrs. J. E. Beerbower. The cakes were sold by Mrs. G. Wean and Mrs. Wm. A. Coddington. Joseph Haynes served the ice cream and the several waitresses were Miss Lettie Remsen, Miss Evelyn Searing, Miss Chrissie Meigs, Miss Lillian Glen, Miss Isabella Scarborough and Miss Violet Beerbower.

During the evening Mrs. Buckley's Ladies' Orchestra rendered selections. Mrs. Howard A. Pope and Mrs. Joseph Haynes were the committee of arrangements and had an oversight of the affair.

GOOD TERMS FOR CITY.

PEOPLE PROTECTED FROM AGGRESSION BY ELECTRIC LIGHT CO.

The Permission to Lay Wires Underground Will Give the City a Chance to Purchase the Plant in Twenty-five Years.

Even before the introduction of an ordinance in the Common Council placing the wires of the Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company under ground in the city, the subject has been under discussion. Some have said that the city has given way to the corporation in everything. The agreement, that is to be signed by the city officials and the company, as soon as the ordinance is passed, is a distinct proof of the contrary, however.

According to the terms of this agreement, the company agrees to contract the system of subways and keep them in the proper condition. Then the city is given the privilege of stopping or starting at any time its contract with the company for the lighting of the streets, at a rate not higher than the rate at present. Neither is the company to charge any person, persons or corporation any more than the present rate.

The city offices and the City Hall, when it is completed, are to be lighted free by the company. So, too, are the city jail, the station houses and the fire department houses.

The trenches after the laying of the conduits are to be put back to the satisfaction of the street commissioner.

The final terms of the agreement provide that at the expiration of twenty years after the signing of the contract, the city shall have the privilege of purchasing the plant if it so wishes. The price is to be settled by three arbitrators, one appointed by the Common Council, one by the officers of the company and the other to be selected by them or, if they cannot agree, to be appointed by the Judge of the Union County Circuit Court. If the city does not care to purchase at that time, the city is to have the right every five years after that of purchasing.

Street Work.

The Street Commissioner's men started to prepare Madison avenue between Seventh and Fourth streets for macadamizing this morning. The entire street between those two points is in poor condition, having been left that way ever since the sewers were put down. Charles Meeker signed the contract last night in the Mayor's office for macacadamizing Madison avenue from Ninth street to Stelle avenue. Tonight David Bowden will sign the contract for macadamizing Stelle avenue from Madison avenue to Plainfield avenue.

Divorce Case Laid Over.

The divorce case of Corey against Corey, which was to have come up before Vice Chancellor Stevens at Newark Saturday, has been laid over indefinitely owing to the illness of the vice chancellor. William Neworn was the attorney for the petitioner.

Settling Claims.

The Plainfield Sanitary Company has fixed Thursday, June 16th, as the day for the settlement of the claims of the creditors.

GIRL GRADUATES BID ADIEU TO SEMINARY.

MUSIC, ART AND DIPLOMAS.

MISS KENYON'S PRACTICAL ADVICE TO THE GRADUATES.

Their Future Success in Life Work Would Depend Upon the Resolution and Determination They Accorded Their Tasks.

The hall of the Plainfield Seminary, with its pictured walls and a cool background of giant ferns, was a pleasant place yesterday afternoon when the graduating class and their friends met for the closing exercises. The graduates were eight in number, Misses Ruby Gilbert Kieb, Margaret Alice McCready, Helen Herbert Olenderf, Ruth Peckham, Emma Hawley Sterling, Harriet Efner Strong, Ethel Lucile Titsworth and Ethel VanBoskerck.

The first part of the programme was a musicale under the direction of Miss May, the successful teacher of instrumental music at the seminary. With much spirit and artistic skill the following programme was rendered, all of the pupils meriting and receiving hearty applause:

Country Dance.....Nevin
Misses Harriet Strong and Ruby Kieb.
Sonatina.....Beethoven
Barcarolle.....Kullak
Master Will Schoonmaker.
Shepherd's Dance.....Gregh
Miss Elsie Rushmore.
Loure.....Bach
Song Without Words.....Sartoris
Miss Ruth Dudley.
Papillon.....Grieg
Barcarolle.....Jensen
Miss Mary Wadsworth.
Shepherd's Tale.....} Nevin
Shepherd's All and Maidens Fair....}
Miss Emily Grovesteen.
Spring Time.....Grieg
Miss Harriet Strong.
Mazurka.....Godard
Miss Ruby Kieb.

The absence of any music sheets is always noticeable at Miss May's entertainments, as her method involves the memorizing of the music when learned. In compliance with request, Miss May played, with exquisite touch and wonderful expression, "The Flatterer," by Coaminade, and for an encore, "A Govotte," by Klein.

The presentation of diplomas followed, in which Miss Kenyon, the principal of the school, reminded the class that success in their life-work would depend upon their attitude to their work. If they considered it beneath them, they would slight it; if they looked upon it as above them, they would be discouraged and do it imperfectly. Success either as homekeepers or in professions would depend upon the resolution and determination with which they set about their tasks. In conclusion, she wished that theirs might be the happy lot to succeed in the highest sense.

The Seminary farewell song, "Roses Blow," written by Miss Kenyon years ago, was sung by Misses Grace and Gladys Kaufman, Florence Beebe and Louise Curtis.

The walls of Seminary Hall were hung with pictures drawn and painted by the art class, under the instruction of Mrs. Charles Sprague Smith, of New York. Many fine specimens of art work were on exhibition, executed by the following pupils: Miss Jessie Bushnell, Miss Edmee Corlies, Miss Edith Fisk, Miss Margaret McCready, Miss Mary Anderson Reinhart, Miss Christina Scott, Miss Isabella Scott, Miss Ethel Titsworth, Miss Grace VanSickel and Miss Helen Weir.

The first prize for life drawing and second prize for composition, a reproof "Springtime" by Edwin H. Blackfield, was awarded to Miss Jessie Bushnell.

Not in Favor of a New Light.

It is estimated that the new Welsbach light that is now being exhibited in this city will cost about $31 a year, while the present electric light costs about $15. In the judgment of the Council the new light is hardly worth the difference. It is said that Plainfield cannot get along with any less number of lights, which the Welsbach company claim can be done, and that the light is not as far-reaching in its effect. The Council is not by any means agreed in favor of the new light.

Mr. Bird's Resignation.

It was expected that at the meeting of the City Council last Monday evening that the resignation of Collector Bird would be received and acted upon, but owing to the fact that Mr. Bird has not yet received his commission as postmaster he could not be expected to resign his other office.

SAW CERVERA'S FLEET.

Lieut. Blue Made a Seventy Miles Journey.

NOT ONE SHIP IS MISSING

A Despatch from Rear Admiral Sampson Telling of a Scouting Exploit—Counted the Vessels—The Cape Verde Squadron All in Santiago Harbor—The Situation of the Marines at Guantanamo Bay—Spanish Barbarity.

Washington, June 15.—The last lingering doubt that may have existed as to the presence of Cervera's fleet in its entirety in Santiago harbor was removed when Almiral Sampson's dispatch reached the navy department yesterday. Up to that time information as to the number and character of the vessels lying in the harbor, shielded from observation in great part by the hills at the entrance, had been obtained through Cuban sources supplemented by such glimpses as could be obtained by naval officers from the outside entrance.

Now, however, according to Lieutenant Blue, the ships have been actually seen by an American officer, counted and inspected from such points of vantage as were afforded by the high hills surrounding the harbor.

The navy department has posted the following bulletin:

Mole St. Nicholas, June 13.—Lieutenant Blue has returned after a detour of seventy statute miles of observation of the harbor of Santiago de Cuba. He reports that the Spanish fleet is all there.

The Spanish attacked vigorously the camp at Guantanamo. An outpost of four marines were killed and their bodies mutilated barbarously. Surgeon Gibbs was killed.

(Signed.) SAMPSON.

The officials here are full of praise for Lieut. Blue's achievement. Victor Blue has long been known in the navy as an enterprising and daring young officer, but it required a good deal of sustained courage for him to go ashore in a hostile country and alone make this reconnaissance.

He was, in the eye of military law, nothing more nor less than a spy, and had he been captured by the Spaniards he would have been tried by drumhead court martial and executed.

Considering the fact that the marines' fight at Guantanamo last Saturday night was really the first engagement of the war on shore, Admiral Sampson's reference to the affair in his dispatch posted yesterday was remarkably brief.

Hence it is inferred that perhaps too much importance has been attached to it by the public. The action of Lieutenant Colonel Huntington in removing his men to a more secure point than the exposed position occupied by them on Crest Heights, is taken here as an indication that no offensive movement is to be attempted by the Marine Corps, but that it will limit its operations to the defence of a small point in Guantanamo harbor, to protect the coaling of our warships, and perhaps to serve as a cable station when the necessary operators and instruments are secured from Cape Haytien, to enable Admiral Sampson to reopen the cut cable.

It does not follow by any means that the place seized and held by the marines on Guantanamo bay is to be used as the point of debarkation of the United States regular troops now on their way to Cuba.

On the contrary there is the best reason to believe that another point very much better adapted for a landing has been selected. But this point also is believed to be much healthier than any point on the shores of Guantanamo bay, where yellow fever is said to be epidemic.

The officials here were very reluctant to believe that the Spanish who fought the marines at Crest Heights have been guilty of the horrible barbarism of mutilating the bodies of the soldiers. The first press reports, by some of the officers were supposed to be based upon the horrible wounds inflicted under certain conditions of range by the steel-clad bullet of the Mauser rifles.

Admiral Sampson's report, however, seems to remove all doubt on that point, for his surgeons undoubtedly would be able to distinguish between the effects of a bullet and a machete.

The Yellow Fever Cases.

Washington, June 15.—Official dispatches received by the Marine Hospital service regarding the yellow fever situation indicate effectual vigilance on the part of the authorities at McHenry, Miss. There are no new cases at McHenry and the number of danger points has been reduced there from eight to six. The state health officer, Mr. Harrison, is in charge of the town, and Surgeon Murray is looking out for the federal regulations. Surgeon Carter of the Marine Hospital service is investigating the neighboring towns and houses along the railroad lines and so far has developed no new cases. That examination, however, is not completed.

The San Francisco Uninjured.

Washington, June 15.—Word has come to the navy department from Captain Leary, at Provincetown, Mass. that the San Francisco, his flagship had suffered no damage through going aground Monday. The navy department was a good deal relieved at this report, for it was feared that some of the rocks on the New England coast had severely injured the ship.

Measles at Camp Merritt.

San Francisco, June 15.—Assistant Surgeon Henry Page of the Field Hospital at Camp Merritt, reports that there are eighty-two cases of measles and one of mumps in the camp.

That the disease is spreading is evidenced by a supplementary report that nineteen new cases have been discovered within the last twenty-four hours.

A Supply Ship for Havana.

Kingston, Jamaica, June 15.—A Spanish ship will sail hence for Batabano or Cienfuegos to-day with $70,000 and a cargo of beef and corn for Blanco.

THE LEITER FAILURE.

A New Phase in the Proceedings Has Developed.

Chicago, June 15.—The Leiter matter has taken on a new phase and one which seems to make the outlook much less threatening. At a conference yesterday, attended by a number of people heavily interested in the deal, P. D. Armour agreed to take over the entire cash wheat holdings of Leiter, amounting to about 7,000,000 bushels. Armour Monday consented to take over about 4,000,000 bushels of this wheat, but announced yesterday that he had decided to carry the remaining 3,000,000 bushels as well. Counselman & Co., it is understood, will take charge of the September trades.

This action on the part of Armour simplifies the situation greatly. It was at first proposed to appoint a trustee to handle Leiter's wheat, but it is believed that this will not now be necessary. With the wheat in Armour's hands there is little danger of its being shaken out and coming on the market in a lump.

The banks that have loaned money to Leiter are understood to be well satisfied with this arrangement, and as most of the loans are protested down to about 80 cents, the chances are that none of them will lose anything in the final windup.

Leiter's losses are variously estimated at from $2,000,000 to $5,000,000, but this is all guesswork. There is no way of getting at even an approximately correct amount. That he will lose a round sum is certain, but there is a possibility, in view of yesterday's developments, that it will fall below the minimum figure given above.

London, June 15.—The newspapers generally rejoice at the break down of the Leiter plans, and point to it as a moral. The Star says: "If the prime mover in this war against mankind is beggared by his greed, the retribution is well merited; but nothing can atone for the awful suffering Leiter and his accomplices have caused."

A VOTE TO-DAY.

Hawaiian Annexation is Gaining Strength.

Washington, June 15.—An unsuccessful effort was made yesterday to bind all Democrats in the House of Representatives to vote against Hawaiian annexation. At the conclusion of the session of the House a caucus of Democrats was held, at which, after a general discussion, Representative Dinsmore of Arkansas, the leading Democrat on the committee on foreign affairs, offered a resolution declaring that the action of the caucus should be binding on all Democratic members of the House.

This met with such determined opposition on the part of the advocates of annexation that it was finally withdrawn and Mr. Dinsmore then offered a resolution declaring it to be the sense of the Democratic members of the House that the annexation of the Hawaiian islands would be dangerous and undesirable; that it would reverse the traditional policy of the government, and that they believed it would lead to colonial aggrandizement and ultimately to the destruction of republican institutions.

This was adopted by a vote of 50 to 17. Estimates on the vote on the annexation resolution to-day place the majority in favor of annexation at 50 to 60.

The annexationists claim that they will have not less than twenty-six Democratic votes, and that they will not lose more than six or eight Republicans.

THE NAVY OF JAPAN.

It Shows More Progress Than That of Any Other Country.

The Western powers are beginning to view Japan's activity in navy building with amazement. A generation ago she had literally no navy. Even at the beginning of the last war with China, her modern equipment was confined almost exclusively to a half dozen unarmored cruisers—the best of their class, to be sure—and fifteen gunboats. The war brought many substantial additions to her navy, and now she has no less than forty-eight sea-going vessels in commission, including two first-class battleships of 12,800 tons each.

These figures are not so imposing, absolutely considered, except as an evidence of quick growth; but the additional modern war vessels that Japan is building in England, Germany and the United States are of such magnitude and excellent construction that Mr. Charles A. Cramp, our own famous shipbuilder, pronounces Japan's progress to be more noteable than that of any other country in the world, except England.—Scribner's Magazine.

WIT AND HUMOR.

"She is very frigid in her manner," remarked Willie Wishington.

"Perhaps," was the reply, "but she has a heart of gold."

Glove Cutters of Brussels.

The cutters of the great glove houses at Brussels and in France earn even higher wages than the cutters of the most fashionable tailors in London and New York. So difficult is the art of cutting gloves that most of the principal cutters are known to the trade by name and by fame, and the peculiar knives which they use in the business are so highly prized that they are handed down from generation to generation as heirlooms.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

NOW FOR WAR TAXES

Some Points About The New Revenue Measure.

BUSY TIMES FOR OFFICERS

Beer, Cigars, Tobacco and Telephones Are Among the Articles Selected to Contribute the Government — The Stamp Taxes Will Go Into Effect on July 1—How the Revenue Will Be Collected.

New York, June 15.—Many inquirers beset the internal revenue offices at No. 114 Nassau street yesterday seeking information regarding the workings of the internal revenue office in collecting the additional revenue tax made necessary by the war. As is well known, many of the increased rates of taxation became operative yesterday. The tax on beer and ale, fixed at $2 a barrel; tobacco, fixed at 12 cents a pound, cigars, fixed at $3.50 a thousand; cigarettes, at $1.50 a thousand, went into effect yesterday. Only the stocks already in the hands of retailers, or saloon keepers, escapes the tax, and the brewery that began operations yesterday without a barrel of beer, having loaded the cellars and store rooms of its customers to their utmost capacity to effect this, will escape taxation on its manufactured product, and will only have to pay upon that yet to be produced.

Stamp Taxes.

The stamp taxes will go into effect on July 1, and it will be necessary to stamp each bank check, manifests of express packages, telegraph messages, indemnifying bond, life insurance, policy benefit insurance, fire insurance, lease, mortgage, passage to foreign countries, patent medicine, perfumery and wine. The internal revenue office has large quantities of beer and tobacco stamps on hand, and they will be used before any call is made for new stamps. Over each of the new printed stamps will be stamped in red ink a distinguishing mark to show it has been bought under the increased price. After all that are now on hand have been used up a new series will be furnished by the treasury department, probably distinguished as "the series of 1898."

Cigar and tobacco dealers who called at the revenue offices yesterday were informed that their stock on hand would be taxed at half the rate fixed by law for cigars and tobacco. This, of course, is in accordance with the law.

Collecting Taxes.

The chief deputy, David S. Wendell, answered questions yesterday in the absence of the collector, John A. Mason. He said that he had no knowledge of what increased force would be necessary to collect the taxes. No preparations had been made as yet, he said, and nothing would be done until a schedule of regulations was received from Washington. Copies of this will be placed in the hands of division superintendents, and they will notify the different persons and firms affected by the tax. It is presumed that dealers in articles upon which the tax goes into effect immediately will read of its provisions in the papers and that they will prepare an inventory of their stocks. As soon as the collector's force has been increased sufficiently to allow of his notifying the dealers, it will be done. This will be the official notification, but the tax will be reckoned from yesterday whether the taxpayer was officially notified yesterday or not. Upon receiving the dealer's inventory the deputy collector will investigate its correctness and affix the amount of tax.

Telephone Taxes.

Just how the telephone tax is to be collected puzzles the office, which has not gone very deeply into the subject anyway, as such details of administration will be settled by the schedule of regulations expected from Washington. It is presumed that the sworn statement of the telephone companies will be accepted, and that messages costing fifteen cents now, will, after July 1, cost sixteen cents, the company simply adding the one cent tax to be paid by thecustomer. Thus, it is thought, the companies will have no object in submitting other than a correct statement of its messages.

Bequests of Elijah A. Morse.

Boston, June 15.—Ex-Representative Elijah A. Morse's will makes a number of public bequests, amounting to $40,000 in all. They were as follows: American Missionary Association, $5,000; American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, $5,000; Mount Holyoke Female Seminary and College of South Hadley, the income to be used for the education of indigent, worthy, and deserving young women, $5,000; Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, $5,000; Massachusetts Homeopathic Hospital, $5,000; trustees of the Consumptives' Home, founded by Dr. Chas. Cullis, Boston, $5,000; Evangelical Congregational church of Canton, the income only to be used in the support of preaching, $5,000; First Baptist church of Canton, income only to be used in support of church, $5,000.

The rest of his property, real and personal, is left to his wife, his three sons, his brother and nieces and nephews.

Teas Purchased in Canada.

Montreal, June 15.—Practically the whole surplus stock of teas in the hands of Toronto wholesalers has been bought up by United States firms, and shipped across the line, in order to avoid the ten cents a pound war tax levied by the United States government. Colonel Sewell, the United States consul at Toronto, during two or three days passed bills of lading showing 2,100 packages, valued at $23,940.

Naval Reserves Mustered in.

New York, June 15.—Word has been received at Admiral Erben's office in the Army building that the work of mustering the Second Naval Battalion into the service is completed. The men were mustered in at the Thirteenth regiment armory in Brooklyn. Out of the battalion's full strength of 320 men only 197 were taken.

To-day at 2 o'clock the First Naval Battalion and the First Separate Naval division will be mustered in.

Two Ounces of Blood Daily

Are added to your veins by taking with each meal one of the natural iron Capsuloids made from the fresh blood of young, healthy bullocks.

Hundreds have testified that this is the only iron medicine which agrees perfectly with stomach and bowels. The following testimony is selected at random from among some hundreds. Mr. Howard Patterson, of Tremont, N. Y., while acting as manager of one of Mr. Edwards' grocery stores, began to lose flesh and after almost losing his life through a steady decline, was saved and restored to health by taking Capsuloids. He writes as follows:

THE CAPSULOID COMPANY, New York City.

GENTLEMEN:—I cannot thank you too heartily for what your Capsuloids have done for me. I was a powerful young man two years ago but developed dry consumption, and continued to grow worse for nine months, when I was forced to go west. Climate, travel and medicine failed to do me the slightest good. My blood was exhausted; I was completely out of breath; to simply make change for customers made me pant; I grew thinner and thinner, lost my appetite and coughed terribly and was rapidly reaching the last stage of dry consumption, when I heard of your Capsuloids. They acted like magic. My blood grew rich, my heart ceased palpitating. I could get my breath easily, my appetite returned, I grew strong, had good color and had gained seven pounds at the end of seven weeks. I am still gaining right along and will report to you later. I am out of all danger now.

TROOPS WELL EQUIPPED.

Adj. Gen. Tillinghast States New York Volunteer Are Well Provided For.

Albany, June 15.—Adjutant General Tillinghast says that he is surprised to see the attacks made by Chaplain Madison C. Peters of the Ninth regiment, New York city, on the condition of the state troops, and especially his own regiment, as have been reported in the press.

On the first day of June General Tillinghast received an unsolicited letter from Colonel G. James Green, commandant of the Ninth regiment, which spoke of the condition of his men in camp at Chickamauga. This letter was received some days before Chaplain Peters made his first arraignment of the state military authorities for not properly taking care of the state's soldiers.

After reading the criticism the adjutant general wrote to Colonel Greene and asked his permission to make public part of his letter of June 1. He has received the necessary permission and made public this portion of the letter:

"We have already got our camp in excellent shape and in a couple more days will be quite settled. The men are cheerful and happy, and the officers united and enthusiastic. We have much to be thankful for as the two regiments (First Arkansas and Second Kentucky) in our brigade had practically nothing when they arrived, and it was awful to me to see the condition in which their respective states sent them here.

"They had neither uniforms nor arms, tentage nor cooking outfits, and it was pitiful to see the guards marching past, armed with sticks. I think it is criminal, and New York is deserving of all our praise for the complete manner in which she sent us out. Our greatest discomfort has been the lack of water, but to-day men are laying a water main in front of our camp and by nightfall we will have all the water we need. We have had no sickness, except such trivial ailments incident to change of water, etc."

General Tillinghast said further that he had taken special pains to see that the Ninth went away from Camp Townsend properly equipped. When they got orders at 3 o'clock one afternoon to get away at 5 o'clock the next morning, they were not completely equipped with cooking utensils. It was too late to express them from New York, so they were packed in trunks, checked and sent in charge of a man from New York city. They arrived at camp four hours before the regiment left.

BLANCO FAILS AGAIN.

Futile Attempts to Entice Our Ships Under Havana's Guns.

Key West, June 15.—Captain General Blanco has apparently not yet abandoned the hope of luring the American warships within range of the Havana batteries. He tried it again on Friday morning last, but with no better success than in his previous attempts.

Advices received here yesterday are to the effect that five Spanish ships ran out to the mouth of Havana harbor on the day mentioned and headed in an easterly direction. The vessels of the blockading squadron were lying well off shore. Upon sighting the Spaniards they ran in a short distance and opened fire on them.

The volley of shot and shell brought no response from the enemy, but the quintette of ships speedily turned tail and, hugging the shore, under the batteries, ran back into the harbor. The American ships, however, did not accept the bait, and made no further attempt to molest them. The character of the Spanish boats could not be positively fixed on account of the distance, but the American officers say one or two were small gunboats of the class which has been manoeuvring all along the north coast in futile efforts to draw the American ships within the fire of the Spanish batteries.

Monday afternoon three of the Havana batteries, the Santa Clara battery and Sand Batteries No. 1 and 2, opened fire upon one of the auxiliary gunboats which was cruising closely along the shore. About half a dozen shots were fired, none finding any other mark than the sea, although several dropped too close for comfort.

The gunboat made no reply, but hurried out of range and reported the attack to the flagship of the blockading squadron. No attempt at retaliation, however, was made.

MANILA'S GOVERNOR READY TO QUIT

He Would Have Surrendered to Dewey Ere This but for the Army's Opposition.

Hong Kong, June 15.—The Spanish governor of Manila wants to surrender to Admiral Dewey, but his army will not allow him to give up. Several proposals by him to yield have been met with indignant opposition by the army.

Wounded in a French Duel.

Paris, June 15.—Count Boniface de Castellane, who married Miss Anna Gould of New York, fought a duel yesterday with M. Henri Turot of the Petite Republique Francaise. Three rounds were fought with swords, and M. Turot was wounded in each round, twice slightly, and the third time severely, in the right forearm, thus ending the duel. The dispute which led to the meeting grew out of M. Turot's comments upon an act of infanticide committed by a servant in the count's household.

Mrs. Porter Goes to the Front.

Washington, June 15.—Mrs. J. Addison Porter, the wife of the secretary to the president, has joined the Red Cross Society and has left Washington for Tampa. Mrs. Porter goes to Tampa as chief of the staff of Miss Clara Barton, and she will go to Cuba if necessary. The Red Cross party which left here was composed of Miss Barton, Mrs. Porter, George Kennan and several trained nurses.

Senator Aldrich Reelected.

Newport, R. I., June 15.—United States Senator Nelson W. Aldrich, Republican, was re-elected by the legislature yesterday on the first ballot. The vote was as follows:

FLEET SAILS TO-DAY

The Second Expedition Starts for Manila.

ABOUT 3,400 MEN EMBARK

Gen. Greene Commands Expedition—List of the Troops That Have Embarked—Monitor Monadnock Will Act as Convoy—The Third Expedition Will Leave About June 30—No Natives of the Philippines to be Enlisted.

San Francisco, June 15.—The troops composing the second Manila expedition boarded transports yesterday and the fleet will sail this afternoon.

General Greene, who will be in command of the expedition, with headquarters on the China, has been ordered to report to General Merritt at 9 o'clock this morning, to receive final instructions from Washington.

One battalion of the Twenty-third and one of the Eighteenth United States Infantry and Colorado volunteers, Battery A, Utah Light Artillery, and the detachment of the United States Engineering Corps will sail on the China and Colon. The Tenth Pennsylvania and Battery B, Utah Light Artillery, go on the Zealandia. The Nebraska regiment will go on the Senator.

Altogether the force will number 3,465 men.

Lieutenant Colonel Jewett, judge advocate on the staff of General Merritt, has received orders to go with the second Philippine expedition, on the steamer China. He will be accompanied by Major Bell, head of the department of military information. Colonel Jewett, who is a prominent lawyer of Indiana, expected to sail later, with Major General Merritt, but it was deemed advisable to send him in advance to arrange for the administration of affairs on the islands as soon as they are in actual possession of the United States.

The United States army and Christian Commission of California has been organized. Its purpose is the uniting of all evangelical churches in one for systematic work among the soldiers, in co-operation with the chaplains of the United States army and navy.

A general order has been issued to the effect that no native of the Philippines shall be enlisted in the army of the United States.

Among the recruits for Company L, Seventh California volunteers, is Cag O. Tow, a Chinese, who was born in this state 25 years ago. He is a citizen of Santa Anna.

Lieutenant Bernard and a detail of men from the Tenth Pennsylvania have gone home to recruit the regiment to its maximum strength. They expect to return with the necessary men within a month.

Mare Island Navy Yard, June 15.—The monitor Monadnock and the collier Nero have left to accompany the second expedition to the Philippines. All the work necessary to be done on the Monadnock was completed yesterday.

She will have to coal at San Francisco, but arrangements have been made to expedite her loading and there will be but little delay on this account.

The first expedition sailed on May 25. The third fleet will get away about the 30th of the present month. The transport Indiana arrived Monday and the government is now in possession.

Cornell Crew Leave's for New London.

Ithaca, N. Y., June 15.—The Cornell crews left Ithaca for New London at 6.40 this morning, going via Auburn, Syracuse and Albany, and will arrive at their quarters on the Thames about nine o'clock this evening.

Real practice work at Ithaca was ended Monday night. Yesterday morning was devoted to packing and preparing for departure. No men were hired to do the irksome work, but each of Courtney's pupils lent a hand. Three boats were carefully packed, the two paper shells and the new cedar. Cornell's "coach" is yet undecided which of these he will use, but it will depend largely on the conditions. About forty oars were also taken, together with several barrels of pure water, surplus rigging, etc. In all the crews have two cars, one day coach and a baggage car for the shells.

Lieut. Col. Rowan in New York.

New York, June 15.—Lieutenant Colonel Andrew S. Rowan is at the Windsor hotel awaiting orders which will send him to the place in his regiment which his courage won him. It was only a month ago that Lieutenant Rowan, then a first lieutenant in the Nineteenth Infantry, escaped from Cuba in an open boat after conducting negotiations with the insurgents which paved the way for the present preparations to occupy the island. He risked his life during every moment of his hazardous trip, and now he is enjoying the reward of his bravery.

The regiment to which Lieutenant Colonel Rowan will be attached is the Sixth United States volunteers and is now being raised in Tennessee and Kentucky.

Fighting at Manila.

Berlin, June 15.—Advices received from Shanghai by the Frankfort Zeitung say news has been received there from Manila to the effect that there is fighting every night around the town. The insurgents, it seems, are trying to capture Manila and establish an independent government before the Americans land.

The German consul at Manila, it is further reported, has three hundred Germans and Swiss on board a refuge steamer in the harbor.

Death of a Centenarian.

New York, June 15.—Mrs. Mary Ann Cobb of No. 172 West 109th street, died yesterday at her home, at the age of 101 years. She was born June 1, 1797, and was the daughter of James Wade, who fought through the Revolutionary war. Mrs. Cobb's husband was a builder of Lynchburg, Va., and at the outbreak of the civil war her sons James A. and Levi fought with the Confederates.

AFTER THE BONDS.

A Crowd at the Sub-treasury Today.

New York, June 15.—Persons anxious to invest their savings in the new issue of government bonds—clerks, storekeepers, small speculators, laborers and women even—crowded the office of Deputy Assistant United States Treasurer Muhlman in the sub-treasury yesterday seeking information as to how they could loan money to this government blanks for applications were handed to hundreds of persons, and the clerks in the office were kept continually busy giving out information to an anxious public.

Though the application for blanks was so large that they had to be given out sparingly, few persons made an actual purchase, evidently wishing to go home and think the matter over first. Up to noon less than twenty bonds of denominations of $500 or less were bought and paid for.

To guard against speculators and to give the public every possible chance to invest, no person is allowed to invest more than $500, applicants at the subtreasury for bonds of larger denominations being advised that their applications must be sent to the treasurer of the United States at Washington.

Circulars were distributed to the postoffice and its branches and to express offices, where persons anxious to subscribe may do so any day or evening up to eight o'clock, until the subscription closes at 3 o'clock in the afternoon on July 14 next.

How They Are to Be Issued.

The bonds will be issued in both coupon and registered form, the coupon bonds in denominations of $20, $100, $500 and $1,000, and the registered bonds in denominations of $20, 100, 500, $1,000, $5,000 and $10,000. They will be dated August 1, 1898, and by their terms will be redeemable in coin at the pleasure of the United States after ten years from the date of their issue, and due and payable August 1, 1918. The bonds will bear interest at the rate of 3 per cent. per annum, payable quarterly.

The law, authorizing this issue of bonds provides that in alloting them the several subscriptions of individuals shall be first accepted, and the subscriptions of the lowest amounts will be first allotted. All individual subscriptions for 500 or less will be allotted in full as they are received, and such subscriptions must be paid in full at the time the subscription is made. If the total sum subscribed for in amounts of $500 or less should exceed $200,000,000 the allotments will be made according to the priority of the receipt of the subscriptions.

Allotments on subscriptions for more than $500 will not be made until after the subscription closes, July 14, and will then be made inversely according to the size of the subscriptions, the smallest subscriptions being first alloted and so on. Persons subscribing for more than $500 must send cash or certified checks to the amount of two per cent. of the sum subscribed for, such deposit to constitute a partial payment, to be forfeited to the United States in the event of failure to make full payment for his subscription. The allotment to subscribers for more than $500 will be made as soon as possible after the subscription closes.

MAY ATTACK SPAIN'S COAST.

A New Squadron to Be Formed Under Commodore Schley.

Newport News, Va., June 15.—The most significant news here is the statement by a naval officer that one of the most daring movements in the history of naval warfare, with Commodore Schley to put it into effect, is a strong probability of the near future.

His venture is the sending of a new flying squadron to Spanish waters to locate Spain's reserve fleet.

Should the fleet remain in Cadiz harbor the plan of the navy department it is said contemplates the dispatch of a second or reinforcing squadron to Spanish waters and the capture or annihilation of the Cadiz fleet.

The second fleet would probably consist of two battleships, several cruisers and a number of colliers.

There is no doubt that a new squadron will be formed in Hampton Roads and all indications point to the fact that it will be sent across the Atlantic if the Spanish reserve fleet does not make a quick move for Cuba or Porto Rico.

This step may not be inaugurated, however, until Admiral Cervera's fleet is either captured or destroyed.

It is said that the new squadron will be composed of the cruisers Brooklyn (Commodore Schley's flagship), New York, Minneapolis, Columbia, St. Paul, Yale, St. Louis and Harvard. Three of these ships are now here or in Hampton Roads. All have a speed of more than twenty-one knots, and they would form as fleet and strong a flying squadron as could be organized from the American navy. Their coal carrying capacity ranges from 2,000 to 4,000 tons. The Cincinnati and Newark, now at Norfolk, would hardly join the new squadron because of their small coal capacity.

The Harvard's gun mounts have been placed in position and eight 5-inch guns were hoisted aboard yesterday.

Hobart Won Abroad.

Liverpool, June 15.—The lawn tennis championship contest opened yesterday at the Liverpool cricket grounds, Aigburth. The entries were good, all the best English players being engaged except the brothers Badeley, whose absence was due to the illness of Mr. Wilfred Baddeley.

In the preliminary round for the gentlemen's singles, Mr. Clarence Hobart of the United States beat Mr. Wolff of Liverpool. The other contests were uninteresting.

Big Granite Plant Burned.

Barre, Vt., June 15.—A disastrous fire Monday night destroyed Mackie, Hussey & Co.'s granite plant.

It was the second largest granite plant in New England, the loss being $100,000; insurance $28,000. The fire is supposed to have been incendiary.

Perry Lee Davis Arrested.

Chicago, June 15.—Perry Lee Davis, alias Phil Davis, lieutenant of the Blue and Gray Legion, has been arrested, charged with forging railroad bonds to the value of $280,000.

Where Gold Is.

Some of the richest gold deposits on the globe are to be found in Central America and the northwesterly republics of South America. Honduras is known to contain vast deposits of the yellow metal, besides having a soil of great fertility. Century after century the gold has lain hidden in its mountains and rock crevices. This fact has been well known, yet few attempts have been made to open the mines. The reason is to be found in the natural conditions. In the mountains of Honduras, where the richest gold quartz deposits are, the climate is eminently healthful. The coast is, however, low and sickly. No sickliness would deter the gold seeker, but Honduras is a country without roads, and the same is true of other Central American republics. Journeys to the goldfields are made on horse or mule back. Another obstacle in the way of gold mining in these regions is the difficulty of getting the ore out of the mountains. The lack of roads renders this almost impossible. The gold is found in quartz ledges.

Bolivia is another republic full of precious metals that are not mined for. There are a number of European companies with stamp mills, but they work on comparatively a small scale. Bolivia, too, is as fertile as a garden and raises in abundance tropical fruits and coffee. Cotton grows there luxuriantly as well, and the richest rubber lands on earth are claimed for the republic. The diamonds that have been found in Bolivia are as fine and clear as those of Brazil.

Yet Honduras, Bolivia and several adjacent countries equally favored by nature languish untilled and holding locked in their hearts the treasures of a world. The reason for it is not to be found in the lazy character of the people of those countries, but in the difficulty of transportation. If roads could be opened up, railways built and machinery introduced, here would be resources to support bountifully 200,000,000 people.

Public Highways.

At Washington there is a public "office of road inquiry" whose work is to promote the construction of good roads in the Union. There is much more reason for the existence of this office than of some others that find their headquarters at the national capital. Certainly good, smooth highways with easy grades up and down hill are almost as essential to the prosperity and civilization of a neighborhood as good schools.

The bureau of road inquiry suggests some points that are beneficial after a good road has once been built. One of these points is the recommendation that for the use of heavy hauling wagons flat steel tracks be laid along a macadamized highway. The wagon wheels will roll over the steel tracks, making the horsepower required to draw the load four-fifths less and occasioning almost no wear and tear on the roadbed itself. Another suggestion is that farmers use on the wheels of their heavy hauling wagons tires not less than 3½ inches wide. This is required by law in France, which has the best roads of any country in the world.

There are now systems of road building suited to the material found in every locality. A good plan for raising money to construct a road has been found to be this: The expense is divided so that the state pays one-third, the county one-third and the property owners along the line of the highway the other third. Good roads can usually be built at a cost of from $3,000 to $4,000 a mile.

ADMIRAL CAMARA.

The Cadiz fleet, sometimes called the reserve fleet of the Spanish navy, has been one of the many mysteries furnished by the Dons during the war. Admiral Camara, who stands high in the estimation of Spanish authorities, commands this fleet.

Frank Damrosch, who has done so much to make good singing possible and popular in America, says that children should be able to read music at sight by the time they are 7 years old. This is something which, owing to the neglect of musical instruction in our schools heretofore, comparatively few grown Americans are ever able to do. Damrosch says the children must be perfectly grounded in singing the scales before songs are taught to them. Mere dry scale practice is wearying to children, however, and Mr. Damrosch has words and rhymes adapted to the scales. Different rhymes are used on different occasions. He always starts children singing in E flat, so as to procure from them a clear head tone. The child that knows how to sing is by that knowledge alone lifted into intelligence and refinement. When we are as much of a singing nation as the Germans are, we shall be a very fine people indeed.

America has had already more distinguished admirals than England. Nelson, of course, stands as peerless as Wellington in naval history, but we have had more sea fighters of the second rank than Great Britain. Our heroes are Paul Jones, Macdonough, Barry, Lawrence, Bainbridge, Hull, Decatur, Perry, Stewart, Dupont, Winslow, Foote, Porter and Farragut. This list brings us down to the present war and here we have one who may prove the greatest of them all, George Dewey.

Other things being equal, the person or the nation that has the most money will win, but money alone, without other good qualities, corrupts and weakens those who possess it.

There are 860 distinct languages and 5,000 dialects, but all of them together are insufficient to express the feelings of the person who is learning to ride a bicycle.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

An unusual spectacle was witnessed yesterday afternoon on West Front street. A woman, who was selling a patent kind of shoe blacking, would enter the stores and offer to polish the gentlemen's shoes. In several instances she was in this way able to effect a sale.

EDITOR'S CHARGE FALLS DOWN.

Jury Finds That Hotel Keeper was Not Disorderly in the Sanctum.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Summit, June 15—The case of Editor Thomas Lane, of the Summit Record, against August C. Hahr, the proprietor of the Spring Lake Hotel, came up for trial again yesterday afternoon. Hahr was charged by Lane with calling him vile names and being disorderly in The Record office June 3d.

The case was tried last week before Justice Kelly and a jury. After being out all night the jury stood 6 to 6 and were discharged. The defendant demanded another trial or a dismissal of the case, and yesterday was the time set for the trial. After being out half an hour the jury returned with a verdict of not guilty and Hahr was acquitted.

The trial excited fully as much interest in the town as the first trial did. Assemblyman O'Brien appeared for the State, and Counselor S. S. Swackhamer, of the firm of Codington & Swackhamer, for the defendant.

Both lawyers talked for an hour in the final argument, and Mr. Swackhamer was highly complimented afterwards for the brilliant way in which he had handled the case, and the excellent argument he had made in summing up.

Further litigation is looked for, as there is bad blood between the men.

WEDDED IN CHURCH

The couple were the recipients of many beautiful gifts, including silverware, cut glass and others of value. The wedding gifts were very numerous and told of the many friends of the wedded ones.

The groom presented the best man and each of the ushers with a stick pin of pearls and enamel. The gift of the bride to the bridemaids was a "harvest moon" of pearls. The maid of honor received a wreath of amethysts and enamel.

The reception was a very enjoyable affair, beginning as soon as the ceremony was over and continuing until midnight. The house was very elaborately decorated for the occasion. The parlor where the bridal party received the guests was decorated profusely with palms, potted plants and cut flowers. The prevailing colors were green and white. Southern smilax was used in the decoration of the chandeliers and the doorways. The library was similarly decorated.

The floral decorations in the music room consisted of "Jack" roses, ferns and smilax. The prevailing colors in the dining room were green and pink. The table decorations corresponded and were very elaborate.

The decorations at the church and house were arranged under the direction of Mrs. Denton and were eminently satisfactory.

In one of the bouquets for the bridemaids, a pearl ring was hidden. Miss Katharyn Mitchell, of Philadelphia, discovered it in one of her roses.

There were fully three hundred guests at the reception. The storm that had threatened during the ceremony passed away and many of the guests strolled out on the spacious piazzas. The wedding supper was served by Maresi in very elaborate fashion. Mr. and Mrs. O'Donnell received the congratulations of their host of friends and the evening passed very delightfully.

The luggage had been smuggled away the day before, so the friends had to be content with labelling the coach and the groom with sundry placards proclaiming them married. The newly-married couple departed soon after 11 o'clock. They had to run the gauntlet of the merry party who lined the long hall and showered them with rice as they passed. Plenty of rice was used there and at the carriage. The couple drove to Netherwood and took the 11:31 train for New York, evading the party who gathered at the station in Plainfield to give them another farewell reception.

Among the out-of-town guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. W. C. O'Donnell, Sr., of Brooklyn, parents of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. VanBracle, of Brooklyn, brother-in-law and sister of the groom; Rev. and Mrs. H. J. Johnston, of Staten Island; Mrs. William H. Winter, George McCoy, Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Day, Miss Caroline Thorpe and W. M. Patterson, of New York; Mrs. Tunis Visscher Winne, Mr. and Mrs. George T. Winne and Dr. and Mrs. Pendegrast, Brooklyn; Mr. and Mrs. Horace G. Terry, of Albany, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald, of Newark; Rev. Mr. and Mrs. George Bogel and George Oakley, of Rutherford, and Miss Darrow, of Buffalo. A number of the clerical friends of Rev. Mr. O'Donnell were present whose names could not be learned.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Donnell will be absent several weeks on their wedding tour, and then will board on East Front street until the new parsonage of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church is completed when they will take possession at once.

F. G. Moore, of Third place, entertained company from New York yesterday.

Fred Nelson, of Basking Ridge, has been calling on friends in the borough.

Mrs. VanNest, of Plainfield, has been visiting relatives in the borough.

NEW MARKET.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

New Market, June 15—Miss Titsworth, daughter of L. T. Titsworth, will be graduated from the Trenton Normal School tomorrow evening. Miss Titsworth's mother will attend the exercises. Miss Titsworth expects to follow the profession of teaching.

Arrangements are now being completed by Friendship Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., for the proper observance of Fourth of July. There will be boat races, bicycle races, and games of all kinds. In the evening there will be a display of fireworks. There will be music by a band, also, as an attraction.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Scotch Plains, June 15.—The patriotic strawberry and ice cream festival, held in Excelsior Hall Monday evening by the M. E. church, was a success socially and financially. The festival was opened by a half-hour's talk on Uncle Sam, by Rev. Mr. Woodruff, of Dover, after which refreshments were on sale. The hall was prettily decorated with ferns and the national colors. Some of the waitresses, to show their patriotism, wore red, white and blue aprons and ties. The first supply of cream was soon found to be far too small to meet the demands, and a second order had to be sent to Plainfield for more. The church will realize a nice little sum from the affair.

Commencement exercises of the Scotch Plains public school will be held in the Baptist church tomorrow evening. Miss Addie Johnston will give the valedictory address. Immediately after the exercises in the church a reception will be tendered by the graduates to their friends in the assembly room of the school.

An auction to satisfy a chattel mortgage held by Mrs Caroline T. Banks against Henry G. Geiger, will be held Friday afternoon on what is known as the Webster place, near Glenside. E. L. Hand will be the auctioneer.

Miss Lillie Gibbs entertained her friend, Miss Eick, of East Third street, Plainfield, Sunday.

Little Willie Stanbery is the proud possessor of the smallest wheel in town.

C. Frank Sykes rides a new Columbia chainless bicycle.

WESTFIELD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Westfield, June 15—The Embroidery Guild and the Altar Guild have discontinued their meetings until the fall.

At a meeting held last evening the following officers were elected to serve during the ensuing year in the Congregational Sunday school: Superintendent, E. N. Brown; assistant superintendent, J. L. Clayton; secretary, A. L. Alpers; treasurer, F. S. Taggert; librarian, John Carberry; musical director, Robert Johnston. The reports of the different officers and committees showed the school to be in a flourishing condition. Mr. Brown, the newly-elected superintendent, has filled that position for the past five years.

A number of the members of the Epworth League of the Methodist church went to Rahway last evening and gave an entertainment for the benefit of the Epworth League of the M. E. church there. B. H. Woodruff's large stage conveyed the party over.

The Garfield Field Club baseball team have cancelled their game with the Westfield Club which was to have been played the coming Saturday. Manager Downs has, therefore, booked the strong team from the Brighton A. C., of East Orange.

CHILDREN'S TRAINING.

Each Little One Needs Careful and Earnest Study.

The unformed characters of children are so different, that in a family of brothers and sisters no two are alike, and each little one needs careful and earnest study. This is the more important if we remember what a wise man once said:—"Give me a child till it is six years old, and then it does not matter who comes after me." It is indeed a fact that the salient points of the character take root during that early period of life and a little one of six who is hard-hearted, or untruthful, or spiteful, is exceedingly difficult to reform.

A wise mother must discriminate judiciously between natural juvenile failings and real naughtiness. There are so many acts and words which must not pass by unchecked, and yet do not deserve a censure or too much stress set upon them, and other offences which must never be overlooked.

All healthy, strong, vivacious children are restless, wilful, and mischievous in a greater or less degree. The boy of three years old, full of spirits, and the joie de vivre, often pitches his toys about in a reckless fashion very unsafe for the other denizens of the nursery. This, of course, must be stopped. At the same time, there is no naughtiness in the motive, and it need not call forth a punishment, unless the youngster has repeated the misdemeanor immediately after being cautioned.

Very imaginative children, on the other hand, will circumstantially narrate incidents which they declare they have seen, or as having happened to themselves, and it is not easy to make them grasp the fact that this is a falsehood. The best way is to take for granted that it is a fiction, and say, "Yes, dear, that is a nice little story you have made up. Now, shall mother read one, or can you make her up another?" In this way the child realizes that one may relate things not true, if they are honestly labelled as such.

Always avoid arousing the violence of a really passionate child. Remember that nine times out of ten it is the disposition of you, your husband, or some relative that has descended upon the little one, who is really more to be pitied than blamed. After a certain age one can reason with a child in its quiet moments, and explain the danger and pain of these headstrong outbursts, and assist it to learn the hard lesson of self-control; but a tiny mite is too young for this, and, if possible, without giving way weakly, by a little tact and diverting the child's mind, the exhausting torrent of passion should be averted.

When very juvenile youngsters hold their breath in that alarming fashion in the middle of a cry, the quickest way to bring them round is to rub a wet sponge or flannel on the face; the unexpected shock speedily produces the desired effect. At the same time, this holding of the breath is hardly ever attended with danger, though it appears most appaling to anyone unaccustomed to children.

The great secret of management lies, however, after all, in discipline. Have as few rules and regulations as you possibly can, but have those kept to the letter. Don't excuse any deviation therefrom, but insist with quiet firmness on their fulfilment. The child disciplined to implicit obedience has learnt the hardest and most important lesson of all.

About Precious Stones.

Agate quenches thirst, and if held in the mouth allays fever.

All precious stones are said to be purified by a bath in honey.

Amber is a cure for sore throats and all glandular swellings.

Amethyst banishes the desire for drink and promotes chastity.

Cat's-eye is considered by the Cingalese as a charm against witch-craft, and to be the abode of some genii.

Coral is a talisman against enchantments, thunder, witchcraft, and perils by flood and field.

Diamond produces somnambulism and promotes spiritual ecstasy.

Emerald promotes friendship and constancy of mind.

Garnet preserves health and joy.

Loadstone produces somnambulism, is dedicated to Mercury, and in metallurgy stands for quicksilver.

Moonstone has the virtue of making trees fruitful and of curing epilepsy.

Onyx contains in it an imprisoned devil, which wakes at sunset and causes terror to the wearer, disturbing with ugly dreams.

Opal is fatal to love, and sows discord between the giver and receiver.

Sapphire produces somnambulism, and impels the wearer to all good works.

Topaz is favorable to hemorrhages, imparts strength, and promotes digestion.

She Stopped to Play with a Kitten.

An authority on the subject of nursing, in discussing the question of the age at which training should begin, declares that twenty-three is quite early enough. "I have known," she adds, "some small hospitals and nursing-homes, take girls to train as young as seventeen; and, in one instance I remember, a girl who had been sent for a splint in a great hurry stopped on the way to play with a kitten and forgot all about what she was sent for."

Mrs. Green (who thinks of hiring)—But is the girl honest? Can she be trusted?

Mrs. Brown (the girl's former mistress)—You need not be in the least alarmed. She is perfectly honest. All the time she was with me I never knew her to take a thing—not even my advice as to how things should be done.—Boston Transcript.

A SOMBRE EASTER.

The Moravians Celebrate the Day at the Cemeteries.

Moravians as a body are the most cheerful and liberal-minded of Christians. When a Moravian repeats from the creed, "I believe in the resurrection of the body," he makes no mental reservations.

As in the grave all men are equal, there are no monuments in Moravian cemeteries; rich and poor alike have their resting-places marked only by small slabs of stone, briefly inscribed.

On Easter morning the cemetery of a Moravian village is the scene of the most significant portion of the church these marvelous gymnastical feats. service. At the first sign of dawn a band of trumpeters, their instruments being in accord with the Scriptural description of the general arousing on Resurrection Day, gather on the roof or in the tower of the church and play until all believers are awakened. Shortly afterward the services begin in the church. The time and the ceremonies are so arranged that the culmination of the service shall be at sunrise.

A few moments before sunrise the congregation, led by the pastor and the trumpeters, file out of the church and march to the cemetery. The throng clusters at the eastern end of the grounds and the service is resumed; as the sun rises, the concluding words of the pastor are spoken, and the trumpets raise a joyous anthem in which the entire congregation joins.

A Speedy Cure.

In an out-of-the-way part of Westmoreland, a old farmer, well known for his miserly habits, in order to save the candles, used to give the farm hands their supper in semi-darkness.

The laborers grumbled at this, but the farmer took no notice. Things went on much in the same way for some time, till the farmer had occasion to hire another farm-hand, named Tam Waring.

Tam, who was well known to some of the other labprers as a wild and reckless sort of character, and always ready for mischief, was informed how matters stood.

That night at supper, which consisted of porridge, Tam took his seat on the right-hand side of the farmer, and, watching his opportunity, quickly plunged a spoonful of hot porridge into the farmer's mouth. The farmer jumped up with a roar of agony, and demanded an explanation.

"Weel, fairmer," replied Tam, "it's sae daurk, Ah couldn't tell whaur Ah was pittin' it. Ah thocht it was i' my ain mooth."

After that the farmer always took good care to have the kitchen well lighted.

The Origin of a Name.

games and mechanical toys of all kinds are apt to make the hatching of the eggs on Easter day an exceedingly enjoyable occupation for the children.

The lovely Marechal Niel rose owes its name to the Empress Eugenie. When General Niel returned from the scene of his triumphs over the Austrians in Italy after the battles of Solferino and Magenta a poor man gave him a basket filled with exquisite yellow roses. The general had a cutting struck from one of the blooms, and when the rose tree from it had grown he took it to the Empress Eugenie. She was charmed with the gift, but when she asked the name of the rose she was told that it was unknown. "Ah!" she said. "I will give it a name, it shall be the Marechal Niel." By this she conveyed to the gallant officer that he had been made a marshal of France for his services to the country as well as naming the lovely blossom.

To Clean Shoes.

Orange juice is an excellent cleanser of black boots and shoes. A slice of orange should be rubbed upon the shoe or boot, and as soon as it is dry should be brushed with a soft brush until it shines brightly. The inside of a banana skin will be found most effective for cleaning tan shoes, the skin being rubbed all over the shoe, which should be carefully wiped with a soft cloth and then briskly polished with a flannel cloth. Patent leather boots of shoes should never be touched with blacking. They are the most difficult of all boots to keep in good order, and require constant care. A damp sponge rubbed over them, and an application of a little sweet oil or vaseline after they have been thoroughly dried will keep them soft and bright, and prevent them cracking.

A Novel Use of Catacombs.

A great portion of subterranean Paris is honeycombed with catacombs which were once used as burying-places. A novel use has now been made of these underground galleries that lie beneath the Jardin des Plantes, for they have been converted into a laboratory and aquarium. A number of them have been filled with reservoirs and glass tanks, whilst in others the niches that once contained human bodies have been turned into cages, so that scientists may be able to study the effect upon animal life of total and partial darkness.

It is said that Succi, who recently completed his sixty-fourth public fast in Rome, has abstained from food in his performances for 2,500 days of his life—nearly 7 years.

The novel feature of a gas-motor lately invented is stated to be the bringing of the fuel in the working cylinder into contact with air so highly compressed as to be intensely hot.

Many of the new velvet belts for spring are studded with medallions so large as almost to cover the velvet band.

Lokal-Nachrichten aus der alten Heimath.

Oesterreich.

Wien. Unter Führung der Leipziger Stadträthe Bodel und Schanz traf eine größere Anzahl angesehener Leipziger Bürger zum Besuch der Jubiläumsausstellung hier ein. Der ungarische Schützenverein sagte seine Betheiligung am österreichischen Jubiläumsschützenfeste ab. Der Großindustrielle Baron Leitenberger setzte 200,000 Gulden zu Jubiläumsstiftungen für seine Arbeiter aus.—Hier ist der berühmte Sprachforscher Friedrich Müller im Alter von 64 Jahren aus dem Leben geschieden.

Budapest. Die seit vielen Jahren hier bestehende Manufakturwaarenfirma Grünwald u. Eisler hat sich insolvent erklärt. Die Passiven betragen 310,000 Gulden, und zwar 230,000 Gulden Waarenschulden und 80,000 Gulden Geldschulden.

Innsbruck. Gegen 2000 Bauarbeiter stellten hier in Folge der Ablehnung ihrer Forderungen durch die Bauunternehmer die Arbeit ein.—Neulich Nachmittags während der Pausezeit, flog die Pulvermühle bei Kematen (Oberinnthal) in die Luft. Die Ursache ist unbekannt; 120 Kilo Pulver explodirten. Ein Arbeiter, der gerade das Werk einstellen wollte, wurde getödtet.

Lemberg. In Stanislau wurde auf Grund eines Verdiktes der Geschworenen der 80jährige Matthäus Wisniewski wegen eines vor 14 Jahren in Buczacz an der Familie des Gastwirthes Leiser Tannenhaus begangenen und erst neulich durch Zufall entdeckten Raubmordes zum Tode durch den Strang verurtheilt.

Nagy-Bereg. In der hiesigen Ortschaft sind 58 Häuser und 125 Nebengebäude abgebrannt. Das Feuer entstand durch Unvorsichtigkeit ohne Aufsicht gelassener Kinder, während der größte Theil der Einwohner in Beregszasz auf dem Wochenmarkte war.

Schruns. Der beabsichtigte Bau der Montafuner Bahn ist in ein neues Stadium getreten, indem man sich für eine elektrische Bahn ausgesprochen und bereits 160,000 Gulden Stammaktien gezeichnet hat. Der Bahnbau ist auf 450,000 Gulden veranschlagt.

Schwaz. Bei einer Treibjagd erlegte der 20jährige Graf Konstantin Thun einen mächtigen Bären von über zwei Meter Größe. Dieser Bär hatte bereits seit vier Jahren das Gebiet der Nordtiroler Kalkalpen unsicher gemacht und es war während dieser ganzen Zeit auf ihn vergebens gefahndet worden.

Tarnopol. Der hiesige Gemeinderath errichtet zwei riesige Bäckereien in eigener Regie und wird das Brod zu 4 Kreuzer per Pfund, also um die Hälfte billiger an die Bevölkerung verkaufen. Ganz Arme erhalten täglich Brodrationen. Vorläufig sind 1500 Gulden hierfür signirt.

Schweiz.

Bern. Die Aktionärversammlung des Bades Weißenburg (Bern) hat den sofortigen Wiederaufbau des kürzlich abgebrannten vorderen Bades beschlossen. Der Bau soll nach den neuesten Anforderungen erstellt, für 150 Betten eingerichtet und so gefördert werden, daß er im Frühjahr 1899 dem Betriebe übergeben werden kann.—Die Bergbahn Lauterbrunnen-Mürren hat ihren regelmäßigen Betrieb wieder aufgenommen, ebenso die Schynige Platte-Bahn.

Zürich. Von den Festlichkeiten, die für diesen Sommer der Stadt Zürich in Aussicht stehen, macht sich die Feier zur Einweihung des Landesmuseums (25. Juni) bereits seit einiger Zeit bemerkbar. In Komites und Subkomites, in Vereinen und bei Privaten wird eine eifrige Thätigkeit entfaltet, um den projektirten Kostüm-Festzug zu einer Glanzleistung zu gestalten. Die dem Zuge zu Grunde liegende Idee ist die Vorführung schweizerischer Volkstrachten in Bildern aus dem Volksleben. An die 20 Gruppen, in denen die einzelnen Kantone zur Geltung kommen sollen, sind in Aussicht genommen.

Luzern. Vom 1. bis 15. Mai sind in den Luzerner Hotels 5575 Fremde abgestiegen, gegen 5044 in der gleichen Zeit des Vorjahres. Unter diesen sind 1663 Deutsche, 1418 Engländer und 315 Amerikaner.

You can't do as well anywhere else in buying a Piano, as you can here, for you can get one from us for less money, quality considered, than you could anywhere else in America. That is because our prices are not made by competition; it has not been our object to keep in line with others, but to sell Pianos at the lowest possible profit, regardless of competitors' charges.
Our immense business and low profit methods have matured side by side—the more Pianos we sell the smaller we can make the price on each instrument handled—so that to-day we have no real competitors.
You save $75 to $150 in buying your Piano from us.

—a week long to be remembered by you. Here's the story: We're about as proud as we dare be of the immense carpet business that's done here every working day in the year. It's a successful end of the store. But success knows no boundary line. This whole coming week will be Carpet Week—125 rolls have been "gone over" and marked from 15c to 35c a yard less than any other House ever asked. The quantity ought to last from four to six days—but early buying will be luckiest for you. 'Twill be a sale to make added thousands know our Carpet Store—a floor over 200 feet long, light, inviting, well stocked.

Sec. 2. That the manner of placing said posts or poles shall be as follows:

They shall be firmly planted in the ground, adjacent to and within eighteen inches of the curb line on streets where curb lines have been established, and secured by cement or grouting wherever necessary to maintain the poles in an erect position, and said posts or poles shall not be less than one hundred feet apart.

Sec. 3. That said Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company be and is hereby authorized to construct and maintain or the uses of its business of generating and distributing electricity for the purposes of light, heat and power, a system of subways or underground conduits, including the necessary manholes and street openings and lateral connections to property lines beneath the surface of the streets and other highways in said City, and to drain same to storm sewers, and to place, maintain and operate in its system of subways or underground conduits the wires, cables or other electrical conductors necessary for its business, and to construct, maintain and use for such purposes a system of electrical conductors in connection with the necessary poles and appurtenances for the distribution of electricity from such conduits.

Sec. 4. That said system of subways herein authorized shall be constructed as follows: The same shall be at least three feet below the surface of the streets where located, with manholes where necessary, level with the surface of the street; the trenches shall be carefully backfilled and the material thoroughly rammed to the satisfaction of the Street Commissioner; the work of rolling and repairing the pavement shall be done by the Street Commissioner and the cost of said work shall be paid by said Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company; and all the work of constructing shall be carried on under the supervision of the Street Commissioner. In case the said Company shall fail to restore, relay or repair, or cause to be restored, relaid or repaired, any pavement or street surface within forty-eight hours after receiving notice from the Street Commissioner that such work is required, said Street Commissioner shall have the right to cause such work to be done and the cost thereof shall be paid by the said Company.

Sec. 5. That said Company shall indemnify the said Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield against, and assume all liability and damages which may at any time arise, come or occur to said City from any injury to persons or property from the doing of any work herein authorized, or any work done upon under or along any of the streets of the said City by said Company, or from neglect of the Company or its employes to comply with the provisions of any ordinance of said City relative to the use of streets or highways or public places, particularly as to the erection and maintenance of lights and guards at or about excavations; and the acceptance by the Company of this ordinance shall be an agreement by it to pay to the Common Council of Plainfield any sum of money for which the City may become liable from or by reason of such injury or damage.

Sec. 6. That said Company shall construct such subways and appurtenances at the rate of at least sixteen hundred feet (1,600) each year from the date of the approval or final adoption of this ordinance until the following streets are clear of wires and poles of said Company, viz:

The Common Council shall have option to designate in what order subways in the streets specified in this section shall be laid, and the said Company shall be at liberty to construct subways in the other streets specified in the first section of this ordinance earlier than herein specified, upon said Company applying to the Common Council and obtaining special permission in the premises.

Sec. 7. That this ordinance shall be void unless said Company shall file with the Clerk of said City its acceptance hereof within twenty days from and after the passage hereof, which acceptance shall be taken and construed to be a consent to the terms and provisions hereof, and an agreement by said Company to perform whatever is hereby required within the time or times herein limited, and said Company shall also within said period of twenty days file with the Treasurer of said City a bond, with sureties to be approved by the Mayor, in the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, conditioned for the faithful performance of the terms and conditions of this ordinance.

Sec. 8. That said Company shall pay into the Treasury of said City all advertising and printing fees incurred by the City under this ordinance, and this ordinance shall take effect immediately.

AN ORDINANCE

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the roadbed of East Ninth Street, extending from the northeasterly crosswalk of Park Avenue to the southerly crosswalk of Watchung Avenue, be forthwith repaired and spread with broken stone for a width of eight feet on each side of the centre line of said street and for a depth of four inches, at the general expense of the City, to be paid for (after first applying the direct contribution of property owners) out of the money raised by tax for the improvement of streets, as provided by the Act of the Legislature entitled "An act to authorize cities to make permanent improvements in the roadbeds of streets at the general expense," approved May 14, 1884.

Sec. 2. That before any work shall be done under this ordinance, the property owners along the line of the proposed improvements shall deposit with the City Treasurer the sum of six hundred and fifty dollars ($650 00).

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the following Ordinance has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Council to adopt the same.

Plainfield, N. J., June 13th, 1898.

AN ORDINANCE

to amend an ordinance entitled "An Ordinance Concerning Dogs," approved July 6th, 1897.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That Sections 2 and 3 of the ordinance to which this is an amendment shall be as follows:

Section 2. That there shall be established for the purpose of impounding dogs not muzzled as provided in Section 1st hereof, found running at large, a dog pound, to be in charge of a pound-master to be specially appointed. Two suitable persons shall also be specially appointed whose duty it shall be to seize and impound all dogs not muzzled as required by Section first, which shall be found running at large in the streets in said City. Said persons so appointed shall wear a shield as a badge of office, said shield to be provided by the City Clerk, and shall be entitled to receive as compensation for his services the sum of Twenty-five cents for each dog delivered by him to the pound-master. Should any person appointed as aforesaid seize or impound any dog other than such as are not muzzled as required in Section first, he shall upon conviction be punished by a fine not exceeding Five Dollars, or imprisonment not exceeding five days, either or both.

Section 3. That all dogs delivered to the pound-master shall be subject to a charge of Twenty-five cents per day or fraction of a day for their keep while in charge of the pound-master, and a penalty of One Dollar to be paid by the owner of the dog to the pound-master for its redemption in addition to the charge for keep. The pound-master shall receive as compensation for his services, one-half of the penalties paid him, and shall be entitled further to the charges for keep before mentioned. All dogs unclaimed or unredeemed at the expiration of four days after their being impounded shall be put to death by said pound-master in the most merciful and human manner possible.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the following Ordinance has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Council to adopt the same.

AN ORDINANCE

to amend an ordinance entitled "An Ordinance to License Inns and Taverns and to Regulate and Prohibit the Sale of Spirituous and Fermented Liquors," approved February 10th, 1892, amended April 7th, 1894.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

That there be added to said ordinance the two following sections, to be numbered Sections 25 and 26 respectively:

"Sec. 25. That any license heretofore granted and now in force, or that may hereafter be granted, under the provisions of this ordinance, may, at the discretion of the Common Council, be renewed by the Common Council for the period of one year from date of the expiration thereof, upon application of the licensed person or persons respectively, and it shall not be requisite in order to such renewal that the application therefor shall have annexed thereto any certificate of citizens or freeholders or any affidavit or affidavits; provided that such applicant for renewal of license shall not have been theretofore convicted of violating any of the ordinances of the City of Plainfield, or any of the laws of this State; and provided further that before receiving any renewal of license as herein contemplated, the applicant shall enter into recognizance in the same manner as if said license was applied for or granted under the appropriate foregoing section of said ordinance.

"Sec. 26. That upon petition of any person duly licensed under this ordinance, or his legal representative, the Common Council may, pursuant to Chapter CLXXIX of the public laws of New Jersey for the year 1892, permit a transfer of the license held by such applicant to another person to be named in such application, to be designated in said application, upon the payment of a transfer fee hereby fixed at the sum of Twenty-Five Dollars in each case."

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the following Ordinance has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Council to adopt the same.

IN A STREET CAR.

BY CID CRANE.

It isn't everyone who can have a fascinating young woman sit upon his knee in a street car in broad daylight without embarrassment on his part. But there is an exception to every rule—so they say—and your humble servant poses as a living example of that exception, although how he ever survived the ordeal is more than he can account for.

It was my dinner hour, and as I had been in the city all day, whacking away at an old ledger at six dollars a whack and one continuous whack every week, my appetite was by all odds the biggest part of me, and I was in a hurry to get home.

It was half past 4 o'clock and the car was crowded. There was just a seat and a half left unoccupied, and, according to the usual generosity of mankind, I hastened to secure the integral part, leaving the remainder to the next unfortunate.

My dreams of hot chocolate and boiled ham—a happy combination!—were soon disturbed by the entrance of two fair damsels. One of them, a fair-haired, blue-eyed maiden, about whom the spring poets love to gush, cast her eyes about the car (looking for a seat, I suspect), until I began to fear she would break the winuows with them. Finally she spied the small space by my side, and, accompanied by her friend, approached and gently let herself down into it, squeezing an old woman with a basket up against the stove. I had a sort of inward feeling that she wanted me to get up and let her friend have my seat, but somehow I became intensely interested in a newspaper that I happened to have with me—a newspaper is a nice thing to have in such cases—and I forgot all about it.

"Never mind, Mayme, you can sit down on my lap," I overheard the fair one say.

Well, maybe you think it's funny, but I didn't take it in a humorous light. I simply took it as it came and didn't bother about the light. I always thought a girl could discriminate between a woman's lap and a man's, but I see that I was led from the path of wisdom in my earlier days.

"Mayme" proceeded to comply with her friend's invitation, but I wasn't looking for what happened. She sat herself down on one knee of the lady beside me and on two of mine. I was sorry that I couldn't accommodate her with some more knees. But I didn't have an extra supply with me. Well! You know those big sleeves that the women are wearing, of course? I wouldn't have minded it so much if she hadn't stuck them right into my face. It rather placed a chill upon my enjoyment of the occasion, but then, one doesn't have such a pretty creature to sit upon his lap every day in the week, and on a street car at that, so I tried to overlook it. In fact by stretching my neck a trifle, I did look over it. All that seemed to be lacking was a nice grate fire of anthracite.

If I hadn't been so tormented hungry I would have ridden to the extreme end of the line, rather than to disturb her restful attitude, for "where ignorance is bliss, 'tis better to remain ignorant." But attitude, or no, I had to get off pretty soon, and besides, she began to become heavy. I squirmed around a bit, but she did not seem to notice it, although the newspaper artist opposite me did, and motioned me to keep still until he got my feet drawn. They were sticking out from under her flowing skirts, beside her own, and I suppose the conductor, who used to be the manager of a dime museum up in Michigan, was thinking about long lost opportunities, et cetera.

I squirmed some more, but with the same result, or rather, without any result at all, for she sat as firm as the tower of Babel. I was growing desperate. I never had such a case as that on my hands before—or on my knees, more properly speaking. I had to get off at the next square, and unless she voluntarily removed herself from my lower appendages, I should certainly have to make her feel embarrassed. I wasn't embarrassed myself, as I said at the beginning. But the Fates were against me, for on she sat; or, to be more lucid, she still sat on me—and a good hundred and thirty pounds gets to be quite a load when you don't have a chance to shift about occasionally. "Well, here goes," thought I, coming to the last resort, and the last square on the avenue.

"Madam," I said timidly, "I have to get off here.

"Well," she replied, over the top of her sleeve, rather suspiciously, I thought, "I'm not hindering you."

"Really, ma'am, I have enjoyed this ride with you immensely, but——"

"How dare you, sir!" she exclaimed.

"But you are sitting on my knees," I said tenderly, as I thought of the mutilated creases in my trousers.

Well! If you could have seen the jump which that lady made, you would have classed her immediately as one of those modern feminine athletic enthusiasts. I don't know what followed; I didn't wait to see, but like a man who suddenly thinks of a forgotten engagement, I hustled off the car and finally reached home, where I ate a tremendous dinner without speaking once, much to the wonderment of my good aunt Jane.

All this happened quite a number of months ago, and the young lady is now helping me to spend that six dollars week. Queer coincidence, isn't it? But, then, this would be a queer world, indeed, if it wasn't so queer as it is, with its queer people and queer coincidences.—Roller Monthly.

Saturday afternoon the Y. M. C. A. baseball nine will play the Bachelors' team on the LaGrande avenue grounds. The game is called for 3:30.

The T. A. B. team has arranged a return game with the Fourth Ward Athletic Club for a week from Sunday afternoon. Both teams are making great preparations for the game.

The Dunellen team has been trying to secure Claud Edwards of the High School team to pitch for them this summer, but Edwards will spend his summer vacation in Carthage, N. Y., and so will not be able to play for the Dunellens.

A funny incident occurred in the last game between the Clinton Avenue Club and the Dunellens. There were three Dunellen players on bases and Sydney Craig was at the bat. He knocked the ball into a tree in far right field. The ball caught in a crotch of the tree and remained there while Craig made a home run and brought in all three runners. Meanwhile the Clinton Avenue fielders were trying to find out what had become of the ball.

Stevens, who played right field for the Crescents in last Saturday's game, will be a fixture with the team. He will fill Clarence Vroom's place permanently, and the change is an advisable one. Stevens has been playing in the Eastern League, but recently moved to this city, where he is now employed at the shops of the Pond Machine Tool Company. Stevens is a crack pitcher and will assist Mac in the box. When the famous old Crescents were in existance a strong effort was made at that time to get Stevens as pitcher, but the deal fell through in some way. Stevens make a very favorable impression in Saturday's game. He made one clean hit and knocked a not liner that unluckily was right in a line with the second baseman. Otherwise it would have been good for two bases. He also showed much skill in stealing bases. His addition to the Crescents will greatly strengthen the team in batting where it most needs it. There is, however, a great improvement this season in batting that is very noticeable.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Mrs. Elvaine VanName, of Elmwood place, is riding a new wheel, a present from her husband.

The "drop a penny in the slot" machine that blows up bicycle tires has proved a very successful arrangement. The one that stands in front of the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company has frequent demands for use.

A large attendance is expected at the next of the runs of the Y. M. C. A. Cycling League tomorrow evening. The destination is New Brunswick, and the good times that have been enjoyed in that city will insure a large attendance this time. The start will be made from the Y. M. C. A. building at 7:30 o'clock.

Harry Elkes, the Glen Falls boy, easily defeated Monte Scott Saturday in ther twenty-five-mile race at Providence, R. I. Elkes rode grandly for the first ten miles, and when the loaf started Scott did not have fast enough pace at any time. His team was picked up from all over that part of the country, and was entirely untrained in team work. Elkes' time was fifty-two minutes and two-fifths of a second.

BASKET BALL

The Y. M. C. A. basket ball team have had their pictures taken and hung up in the association room. The likenesses are good ones, and show all the members of the team, Max Moraller, Eric Moraller, Walter L. Long, George P. Smith, Berry Egan and Fred Bonny, the latter as substitute. Physical Director C. E. A. Heywood, George Fuller and Louis I. VanAlstyne are also in the picture.

GOLF.

Good progress is being made on the new links of the Park Golf Club.

The Morristown Field Club team will come to Plainfield next Saturday and play a match game of golf with the team from the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club. The play will begin at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

In the annual championship games of the National Interscholastic Association held in New York last week, George Proctor Smith, of the Plainfield High School, finished third in the pole vault. Pingry School, of Elizabeth, only scored one-third.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

Although the hot weather is just upon us, the Y. M. C. A. men are beginning to think about their bowling team for next year. The enthusiasts intend to keep themselves in practice this summer, so as to be able to organize a good team next season.

A Lawn Festival.

Last evening on the lawn surrounding the Christian church on Grove street, a strawberry festival was held under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society. The lawn was illuminated with Chinese and Japanese lanterns. Members of the society acted as a committee of the whole in the arrangement of the affair and they waited on the tables.

Mrs. Gilbert S. Martin and daughter, of the borough, are visiting friends at Somerville.

THE CAPRACIOUS MOON

NEW BRUNSWICK NO LONGER TRUSTS TO THE ORB FOR LIGHT.

Hereafter the Slow Middlesex County Seat Will Not Have Its Streets Lighted by the Deceiving Calendar.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, N. J., June 15—A sigh of relief could almost be heard over this city when the Board of Aldermen at its meeting week voted to give the contract for lighting the street lamps every night and all night to the New York & New Jersey Globe Gas Light Company.

Hitherto New Brunswick's rulers have followed the principle of allowing the moon to pursue its destiny of ruling by night, and have reasoned that its sway should not be disputed by gas lamps. So, when street lighting contracts were awarded, the Aldermen who had charge of that branch consulted their almanacs and awarded the contract for lighting the streets every night when the moon was not scheduled to do so.

The theory of this plan was excellent, and the taxpayers were much impressed by this method of economizing. But there was one hitch in the plan. Very often the moon didn't appear when advertised, and the clouds which obscured it also shut off the starlight. Of course the gas light company, being paid only for nights when the moon was away from New Brunswick, wouldn't interefere when it was expected to appear, and on cloudy nights unfortunate citizens were compelled to stumble about in the darkness.

New Brunswick's reputation for clean streets was never a very bright one, and when the clouds which shut off the heavenly street lighting service brought with them a downfall of rain, it was a lucky New Brunswicker who could walk along the streets without getting his feet wet and being splashed with mud.

During May things became worse instead of better, for every night that the Aldermen had arranged for the moon to light the streets the clouds changed the programme. Model citizens whom duty called out after sunset were becoming addicted to the use of profanity to such an extent that the Aldermen were obliged to call off their contract with the moon.

Bids were called for for lighting the city every night and all night. The New York & New Jersey company received the contract, and never again will the orb of night reign supreme over the streets of New Brunswick.

THE HOME OF THE TRUSTS.

Jersey Gets a Big Sum Yearly in Taxes on Corporations.

[Special to The Daily Press.]

Trenton, June 15.—That New Jersey is truly the home of most of the big trusts of the country is evidenced by the first schedule of assessments made on miscellaneous corporations for the year 1898 by the State Board of Assessors and filed with the State Comptroller. It is safe to say that 75 per cent. of the big trusts and combined companies of the country are organized under the attractive laws of New Jersey, and this first schedule includes the assessment of most of these big concerns. The schedule comprises 2611 companies and the total tax they will have to pay is $767,615.

It is fair to assume that two-thirds of the assessments will be paid. Under the law companies that fail to pay taxes for two years forfeit their charters. It is estimated that six hundred companies are wiped out each year, but then corporations increase in New Jersey at the rate of over a thousand a year, so the State's business in this line is constantly on the increase.

H. G. Runkle and family, of West Eighth street, will leave the city tomorrow for Bluff Point, N. Y., for the summer.

James T. Closson, accompanied by his sister, Mrs. Edgeton, of East Front street, will leave tomorrow for Elberon, where they will remain during the summer.

—Iona Council, Degree of Pocohontas, will hold an important meeting this evening.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

WEDDED IN THE COUNTRY.

Charles A. Haring Takes a Wife in a Somerset County Town.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Springdale, June 15—A pretty wedding was solemnized here last night, when Miss Emma M. Kirch, of this place, was united in marriage to Chas. A. Haring, of Plainfield. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Joseph McKelvey, of Warren chapel, Plainfield, in the presence of about 75 guests from New York, Newark, Somerville, Plainfield and Dunellen.

The bridemaid was Miss Minnie Kirch, a sister to the bride, and the best man was John P. D. Kirch, of Plainfield, a cousin. The ushers were Wm. Kirch, a brother, and Peter Voorhees of Somerville. The bride was attired in white and she carried white roses, and the bridemaid wore a grey gown trimmed with pink and carried pink roses.

After the wedding a reception was held and the couple soon left for Plainfield, where the groom has furnished a house on West Front street. The groom is an employe of the Armour Beef Company.

Plans for the County Trolley

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, June 15—The special committee of experts appointed by the Union County Board of Freeholders to go over the road from Elizabeth to Plainfield, and estimate the cost of widening Westfield avenue, as contemplated by the Bergen bill, will be ready to make a report to the board, it is said, tomorrow. The board will probably then adopt the report, together with the maps prepared of the undertaking, and advertise for proposals for the performance of the work.

The marriage of Miss Annie Sheridan, of the borough, to John Thompson, will take place in St. Mary's church this evening. A reception will be held at the residence of her sister in Stebbins place.

—Probably the largest canopy ever erected in Plainfield was the one furnished by George F. Brown, 43 Somerset street, at the O'Donnell Bowers wedding last evening.

HE COVETED THE DIAMONDS.

How Brahma's Eye Was Stolen and the Fortune Obtained for It.

At the beginning of the eighteenth century a soldier belonging to one of the French garrisons in India became enamored of the eyes of Brahma in the temple of Serringham. These eyes were diamonds, more brilliant than ever shone under the eyebrows of Crapaud's European divinities. Their lustre captivated his soul. He haunted the temple, and, yielding to the might of the god, became a convert to his worship. At least so he persuaded the priests, who went so far as to admit him to some care of the temple, doubtless strusting Brahma to protect his own. But on a stormy night the convert disappeared, and with him one of the idol's eyes, the other having resisted all his efforts to dislodge it. So Brahma was left squinting, and the perfidious Frenchman sold his prize to a captain in the English navy for about $10,000 Later it was bought by the Armenian merchant Schaffras for more than five times this sum, and shown by him to Catharine of Russia, who offered for it about $400,000, a life pension of $18,000 and a patent of nobility. Schaffras refused this offer, and subsequently sold the diamond to Gregory Orloff for the same sum, without the patent of nobility. Orloff, part author of Catharine's greatness, and raised by her to the steps of the throne, for whom she struck medals, raised triumphal arches and dedicated palaces "par l'amitie reconnaissante," to whom she offered secret marriage and whom in another caprice she banished.—Count Gregory, being reinstated in favor, offered his imperial mistress two tokens of reconciliation, the St. Petersburg arsenal and the Orloff diamond.—Neith Boyce, in Lippincott's.

AN AFGHAN NEW WOMAN.

She Was Allowed to Remain Unmarried and Made the Harem's Messenger.

The new woman has penetrated even to the harem of the Ameer of Afghanistan, where she wears male attire and does precisely as she pleases. The Ameer picked her up, says a writer in the Ladies' Pictorial, on his return journey from the northern part of his dominions a good many years ago. She had been brought before him by an indignant father and proposed husband for punishment. She would not conform to the usage of the country and enter the married state, though she had then reached the age when it became incumbent upon her to do so. The girl declared she had run wild all her life, and did not wish to give up her freedom and be shut up in a harem. She sought the Ameer's protection and obtained it.

"All right," he said, "since you want to be free you shall be, but free you must also remain; that is your punishment. You wish to live like a man; you shall live like one, and for your own protection you must wear men's clothes."

On her arrival in Cabul she was given the title of older, or chief, and was made the harem's messenger. She comes and goes as she pleases or is ordered, both by night and day, and no one even in slanderous Cabul has ever breathed a word against her fair name.

EXPLORER NANSEN'S CLOTHES.

He Is Very Much Addicted to Gray and Dislikes to Wear Any Other Color.

Doctor Nansen, for so great a lion, impressed those who met him in this country as being singularly free from eccentricities. Yet it appears that he has had to struggle to overcome any number of youthful vagaries, and among others a passion for wearing gray.

Since he grew old enough to persuade his mother to let him have a choice in his clothing, every garment in his wardrobe was of a uniform color. And from that time until his marriage the young Norwegian never once deviated from his early selection. Hats, shirts, socks, under clothing, gloves, and of course his top clothes, were all gray.

Remonstrated with upon the absurdity of his course, he again and again ordered or bought black clothes, but when it came to wearing them, his courage failed, and he would go back each time to his cherished gray.

It was not, indeed, until it came to a question of surrendering his bride or his prejudice that Doctor Nansen could muster resolution to get into a black suit, and his friends say that to this day he clings tenaciously to his love of gray, and during his Arctic explorations he wore no other color.—Golden Days.

The Fat Man Gets Even.

A party of travelers were all in the same sleeper. One of the party, the fattest, turned in early. The others did not feel sleepy, so they spent an hour or two in the pleasant diversion of keeping the fat man wide awake.

The favorite method was to wait until the fat man was dozing and then throw something in the berth. At 10 o'clock one of the party carelessly tossed in a shoe. It was a good, big, honest shoe, and it hit the fat man in the tenderest part of his anatomy, his stomach.

He had borne it all good naturedly before that. But he drew the line there. So he opened the car window and quietly dropped the shoe out in the snow. The others had stopped their pranks and the fat man went to sleep with a peaceful smile on his face, comforted by the thought that he was good and even with somebody.

He was.

It was his own shoe.—Buffalo Enquirer.

SPAIN FALLING BACK BEFORE YANKEE FIRE.

Forts at Caimanera Demolished by American Warships.

The Bombardment Lasted Two Hours and Resulted in the Destruction of the Fortifications and the Retreat of the Spanish—Spanish Troops Gathering—Situation at Manila.

THE LATEST.

Three O'Clock.

MORE FORTS FALL.

American Warships Demolished Fortifications at Caimanera Without Loss.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Camp McCalla, near Guantanamo Bay, June 15, by despatch boat to Mole St. Nicholas, June 16, 1:15 p. m—The brick fort and earthworks, that formed the defence on Guantanamo Bay for the Caimanera terminus of the railroad leading inland, were demolished this morning by the shells from the American warships.

The ships that took part in the bombardment were the battleship Texas, the cruiser Marblehead and the auxiliary cruiser Suwanee, formerly a lighthouse tender.

The bombardment opened at two o'clock this afternoon and continued for an hour. The Texas steamed slowly up the channel leading to the fortifications, closely followed by the Marblehead.

About a dozen shots from the large guns of the warships were fired. The aim of the Yankee gunners was excellent and the earthworks were destroyed. The Spaniards fled into the bushes.

Before they fled, the Spaniards fired only five shots and they all went wide of the mark doing no damage to the Americans.

The Suwanee then drew near the shore and shelled the bushes, driving the Spaniards further inland. The Spanish are reported to have lost a number killed and wounded.

FROM THE FRONT.

Spaniards Gathering at Caimanera While Americans Destroy New Battery.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Camp McCalla, near Guantanamo Bay, June 15, by despatch boat to Mole St. Nicholas, June 16, 10:30 a. m. The Spanish troops are being rushed towards Caimanera to defend it against the attacks of the Americans. It is now believed that the entire invading force will be landed at Guantanamo Bay.

Kingston, Jamaica, June 16, 10 a. m. Reports have reached here telling of the shelling of the new battery erected by the Spaniards on the east shore of the harbor at Santiago de Cuba. The New Orleans accomplished the destruction of the battery without loss.

IN DIRE STRAITS.

Spanish Reports of the Condition of Affairs at Manila.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

London, June 16, 9:59 a. m.—A dispatch to Madrid from General Augusti, Spanish governor of the Phillippines, says that the Spanish are reduced to dire straits by the insurgents.

He reports that he has been unable to communicate with General Moret. He has been compelled to double the strength of the defences.

A large portion of the foreign residents, fearing a massacre, have retired within the fortified section of the town.

OUR CONSUL PROTESTS.

Spanish Steamer Loading Coal at the Port of Gibraltar.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Gibraltar, June 16, 10 a. m—The steamship, San Augustin, of the Spanish transatlantic line, is loading coal in this port, which, it is believed, is intended for the vessels of the Camara's fleet.

The American Consul filed a protest to the British Government of Gibraltar as soon as he heard of it, but the loading of the vessel continues.

NEW CAMP LOCATED.

Army Will Gather at Fernandina Instead of at Port Tampa.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Washington, June 16, 12:49 p. m.—Orders have just been issued by the War Department, having for their object the immediate preparation of a new military camp at Fernandina, Fla.

The site selected for the new camp is said to be a perfect one and amply able to accommodate 30,000 or 40,000 troops without inconvenience. The camp is located close to the ocean beach.

The camp will be made permanent during the war. It will be used as a rendezvous for the troops that are to form the invading army against Porto Rico.

It is expected that 20,000 troops will be quartered there in a few days as a neucleus of the invading army. The camp is so arranged that it can easily be isolated in case yellow fever appears.

TO FILL RANKS.

There Are Needed 40,000 More Men To Fill Up the Regiments.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Washington, June 16, 1:52 p. m—Reports from the adjutant general's office show that practically all the regiments in the field, which are to be filled out according to the new orders, are making rapid moves in that direction.

These regiments have, in almost every case, sent home recruiting parties to secure enough men to raise the regiment to the required standard.

It is estimated that it will require 40,000 additional men to fill all the existing organizations to their maximum strength.

Off to a World's Convention.

Secretary J. H. Manning, of the Y. M. C. A., will leave tomorrow on the S. S. Boadlicea to attend the world's convention of the Y. M. C. A. to be held from July 6th to 10th at Vales, Switzerland. Mr. Manning will represent New Jersey as a delegate. After the convention the party of which he will be a member will enjoy a short tour through the continent.

MUNICIPAL CONSOLIDATION.

FORMER MAYOR GILBERT MAKES SOME SALIENT REMARKS.

He Says That When the Matrimonial Alliance Between Borough and City Takes Place it Must Mean Happiness and Thrift.

The regular meeting of the Board of Trade was held last evening in the Babcock building. There were about twenty members present and several items of interest were discussed at length, among which was the city building ordinance, the formation of another local building and loan association and the consolidation of the city and borough.

After D. W. Rogers and R. B. Rogers were elected to membership, and the application of J. H. Leggett was received for membership, President Lounsbury called upon former Mayor Alexander Gilbert for a report from the committee on consolidation.

Mr. Gilbert stated that he was sorry that he was unable to give a report in full, as the committee could only report progress Continuing, he said, "The subject of consolidation is a very attractive one to many people. It suggests a great change, enlarged boundaries, greater power and a position of prominence in the State. If it could be effected properly there is no reason why such a consolidation should not take place with a great deal of pleasure. There are so many difficulties that is not possible at present to determine the subject fully in all its phrases. We ought not to be unduly hasty. Plainfield has lived separate and apart from the borough and has been thrifty and happy, while the borough has lived without us with the same result. When the matrimonial service takes place we want the same thrift and happiness to exist."

Another important matter, introduced by Mr. Schwed, was that of the early-closing movement. Mr. Schwed advanced the idea and suggested that a committee be appointed to secure the desired purpose. Secretary Runyon stated that Edward White, Woodhull & Martin, Putnam & DeGraw and a number of the merchants are willing to close at 7 o'clock every evening. Some of the merchants are anxious to try the early-closing movement by closing Wednesday and Friday eveuings. The motion that a committee be appointed to see the merchants prevailed, and President Lounsbury appointed Mr. Schwed, Horace Sherwin and Mr. Woodhull.

The building ordinance was introduced at this time by L. B. Woolston. He asked the secretary to read the resolution on the subject which was passed at a meeting held sometime ago. Mr. Woolston then said that he thought the Board of Trade should take a very conservative position on this subject. The late Mr. Erickson, he said, had worked hard to perfect such an ordinance, and he did not think it would be the proper thing to tear it all to pieces. He said that he objected to the repeal of the ordinance outside of the fire limits, but he thought the ordinance should be modified somewhat.

Charles W. Runyon stated that it was an exceedingly difficult matter to draw a building ordinance to cover every point and have everyone satisfied. He thought it would be a good idea to refer the present ordinance to a competent committee of men and let them amend it and change the fire districts.

Mr. Gilbert at this time spoke a few words. He said that the question of changing the ordinance was one of grave importance. It is hard to construct and very easy to tear down. He said that Mr. Erickson worked for two years in constructing the ordinance and he had given it very careful attention and thought. He knew what the effect would be, and that is that Plainfield in time would have a city vastly superior to other cities. Mr. Gilbert said that when he first considered the ordinance he thought it was about ten years ahead of the times, but he was convinced that it was a good thing. He suggested that a meeting of architects, builders and contractors be held and have the ordinance amended and not tear it all to pieces.

President Lounsbury made a few remarks in which he set forth the position of the Board on the subject. He said that the Board had nothing,

LITTLE FOLKS' BIG DAY.

ANNUAL PICNIC OF TEN PUBLIC SCHOOLS IN PISCATAWAY.

All Roads in the Township Seem to Lead to Lincoln Today, Where the Picnic is Being Held in the Grove.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Lincoln, June 16—Today all roads in Piscataway township seemingly lead to this place, for it is here that nearly two thousand people have gathered to enjoy the annual picnic of the public schools of the quaint-named town There are ten schools present which represent pretty nearly every family in the town. A special train on the Lehigh Valley Railroad brought the scholars from New Market and South Plainfield. There are about 500 school children, dressed in picnic attire, and filled with holiday spirits, who are romping in Lincoln grove, admirably adapted by nature for such a gathering of pleasure-seeking spirits. The weather is superb for the event.

Mayor Silas D. Drake, shorn of his blonde whiskers—but not, like Sampson of old when he lost his hair, deprived of his power—is in his glory. The Mayor loves the boys and girls and he is doing his best to give them a good time.

An immense platform—sixty by one hundred feet—has been erected in the grove, and on this at 10 o'clock the day's exercises were commenced by a speech of welcome from the Mayor. County School Superintendent Willis, of New Brunswick, was also present and spoke to the scholars in a pleasant way.

Prominent citizens from Union, Somerset and Middlesex counties are also present to enjoy the festivities.

A. G. A. R. FUNERAL.

Obsequies Held Over Remains of Late Benjamin Wright.

Funeral services over the remains of the late Benj. Wright, who died at his home on West Fifth street, were held yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The services were in charge of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, who turned out in good numbers.

Rev. C. L. Goodrich, to whose church the deceased belonged, was the officiating clergyman, assisted by Rev. Cornelius Schenck. Both pastors made comforting remarks, and Mr. Schenck said that the departed had expressed a belief that all was well with his soul before the end came.

The services were very simple and were soon over. The G. A. R. men acted as an escort to the grave, which was in the North Plainfield cemetery. The pallbearers were Councilman E. D. Moffett, Capt. Wm. Hand, Wm. H. Day, Nathan Pennington, Andrew Cox and Robert Walker. At the grave the regulation three rounds of 24 guns was fired. The post sent a handsome pillow and there were floral pieces members of the family.

The Twilights' Picnic.

July Fourth will be a gala day for the Twilight Social Club when they will give a grand picnic in the Crescent Rink. The dancing surface is the finest and largest in the State, and the music by Rogers' full orchestra will be excellent. The building is a very cool place in warm weather, and the committee in charge will do everything in their power to ensure an enjoyable time to all who favor them with their presence. A beautiful souvenir will be presented to all who attend.

Delegates to Church Convention.

The annual convention of the New England Colored Baptist churches is being held in Brooklyn today. Several delegates from the colored Baptist churches in this city are in attendance. From the Calvary Baptist church are Rev. Scott Wallace, Deacon Spencer Conway, John Perkins, Mrs. Mary Thornton and Miss Mary Scott. From the Filmore Baptist church, Rev. W. D. Johnson, James Scott, W. R. Connett, Miss Ida Bond, and Mrs. Lewis Scott, who is the president of the missionary society.

Mrs Denton Did the Decorating.

In the first part of yesterday's edition, in the account of the O'Donnell-Bowers wedding, it was stated that the floral decorations were arranged under the charge of Miss Lincoln. It should have been stated that Mrs Denton was in charge, as appeared later in the paper. The decorations were of unusual beauty and elaborateness and won for them the unstinted praise of all who saw them. Mrs. Denton certainly deserves much credit for her excellent work.

Free Soda to be Dispensed.

In the fifth column of the fifth page tomorrow and Saturday will be printed a coupon of the California Fruit Company, which will entitle the holder to a glass of ice cream soda free of charge on Saturday evening between 7 and 10 o'clock at their store, 144 West Front street.

POSTMASTER BIRD NOW.

NEW APPOINTEE RECEIVED HIS COMMISSION THIS MORNINC.

He Will Take Charge of the Office July 1st, But Has Not Decided as Yet Whom He Will Have as Deputy

Tax Collector Elias H. Bird received his commission this morning from Washington making him postmaster for Plainfield. His bonds were sent to Washington a few days ago, approved and the commission forwarded.

Postmaster Bird will not probably assume his new duties until July 1st, as that will give him an opportunity to resign from his present position as collector of taxes. Mr. Bird said that he had not decided as to who his assistant would be. All employes of the office, with the exception of the assistant, comes under the civil service law and cannot be removed except for good and sufficient reasons. After it became known that Mr. Bird has received his commission he was kept busy receiving congratulations from his friends.

It is now likely that the Council will appoint James A. Martin collector to take Mr. Bird's place, just as soon as Mr. Bird tenders his resignation.

THE MASQUE OF CULTURE

A Dramatic Burlesque Given by the Scholars of a Local School.

The pupils of Miss Scribner and Miss Green's school welcomed the fresh breezes of yesterday as a pleasing change from the heat of the preceding days, on the occasion of the closing exercises for the year.

Two essays by the members of the graduating class were read, followed by a short address by Dr. Richards, who also presented the diplomas. The graduates were Miss Mary Anderson Reinhart and Miss Harriet Goddard. The remainder of the programme consisted of a play, given by fourteen members of the academic department of the school. "The Masque of Culture" is a close take-off of a meeting of a Woman's Convention held at Boston, and attended by representatives from many countries and many centuries. Confucius and Socrates are sent as reporters to this convention by the Goddess Minerva, and after its close report to her what they have seen and heard. The parts were well taken and acted in a very spirited manner, and many of the amusing hits pleased the audience greatly. The cast:

SUCCESSFUL YEAR ENDED

The Little Maids at Miss Day's School Held Closing Exercises Yesterday.

The closing exercises of Miss Day's class of girls was held yesterday morning at her home on Mercer avenue. The rooms, artistically decorated with roses and daisies, and the little girls daintily gowned in white, made a very pretty picture. The following programme was rendered in a charming manner, the music, French and recitations all giving evidence of wise and careful training:

Piano duet.....Diabelli
Miss Margaret Townsend and Miss Marion Dwight.
The Motherless Turkeys....Marion Douglass
Miss Madeline Reed.
Piano solo.....Miss Annie Jennings
By Hook or by Crook.....Virginia Cloud
Miss Dorothy Douglass.
Piano solo.....Miss Margaret Townsend

At the close of the exercises the guests were invited to examine the work of the drawing class, with Miss Hattie French for instructor. In this department the pupils showed exceptional excellence, creditable to themselves and reflecting great credit on their teacher.

MANSHANDA A MRS. NACK

NOTORIOUS MURDER TRIAL DUPLICATED IN UNION COUNTY.

Craig A. Marsh Succeeds in Saving the Life of His Client, Who Receives a Sentence of Twenty Years in State Prison

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, June 16.—To save his own neck from the gallows, George Manshanda, the accomplice of Louis Roesel in the murder of James Pitts, the Summit farmer, confessed his share in the terrible crime. This confession played a prominent part in the conviction of Roesel of murder in the first degree. This morning, Manshanda was brought before Judge Van Sickel, in the Union County Circuit court here, and given another chance to plead. His original plea was not guilty. This morning, his lawyer, Craig A. Marsh, of Plainfield, entered a plea of nole contendere for Manshanda.

As was predicted in the Press some time ago, the case has followed along in the same lines of the famous Mrs. Nack case, that so stirred New York with its sensational details Like Thorn, Roesel has been convicted largely by the confessions of his accomplice. Both Mrs. Nack and Manshanda weakened and told all and to both was the same punishment meted out.

It has been generally understood that Manshanda would throw himself on the mercy of the Court and plead non vult, and that the prosecution would do all in its power to prevent the Court from receiving any other plea save murder in the first degree.

This morning, the prisoner was brought before Judge VanSyckel Craig A. Marsh made an eloquent plea to the Court, asking for the permission to change the plead and also asking for a merciful sentence for the prisoner. Despite the efforts of the prosecution, the plea was accepted.

Then the Judge addressed a few remarks to the prisoner, who was considerably moved by the course of events, and sentenced him to twenty years of hard labor in State's prison.

CATHOLIC CLUB FESTIVAL.

Refreshing Things to Eat and Plenty of Sociability.

The Catholic Club held a strawberry festival last night in the clubhouse. The tables were presided over by young ladies, while the gentlemen looked after the door and the soda water stands.

A programme of music was first given, which included a medley by St. Mary's choir and solos by Miss E. Kelly and W. Bradley. Mr. Bradley was encored and had to respond again. Dancing then was the order of the evening which was kept up until a late hour.

The house committee, which was in charge of the festival, consists of T. J. Comerford, chairman; James Hibberts, H. Hillman, J. Moran, M. J. Higgins, C. Shannon, E. Flynn, Frank McInerney and Mr. Nevins. The ladies' committee is composed of Miss Josie Butscher, Mrs. T. J. Comerford, Miss Lillie Quinn, Miss Allie Keely, Miss May Flanigan, Miss Sadie Hibberts, Mrs. Frank McInerney and Miss Maggie Day.

Among the guests was Father Murphy, who is a great favorite with the parishioners of St Mary's church. The proceeds of the festival will be devoted to the financial fund of the club.

The festival will be continued tonight.

A JERSEY CITY WEDDING.

A Former Dunellen Girl Married in Her Parent's Home.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Jersey City, June 16.—The marriage of Miss M. Elizabeth Davis, formerly of Dunellen, to J. Aquila Kempster, of this place, was celebrated last evening at 9 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, No. 76 Clifton place, this city. Rev. George Bennett, pastor of Grace church, performed the ceremony. A reception followed the marriage and at a late hour Mr. and Mrs. Kempster left for a wedding trip. There was a large number of guests present at the wedding, among whom were Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Bullock, William Slape, Mrs. Slape, of Plainfield; John Van Middlesworth, of Dunellen. Guests were also present front Brooklyn, New York, Jersey City and Cranford.

Jury Trial for a Woman.

Mrs. Bridget McDonough, of Richmond street, who is charged with using profane language, will be tried by a jury tomorrow morning in the Council chambers.

Will Enter Princeton.

Arthur Lederer, of the senior class of the High School, went to New York this morning to take his final examination for admission to Princeton.

WILDERNESS LODGE'S FESTIVAL SPLENDOR

A Fairy Like Scene Enacted There Last Night.

REDEEMER GUILD IN CHARGE

PROFITS GO TO SWELL THE CHURCH BUILDING FUND

J. O. Stevens' Beautiful Home the Gathering Place for Those Seeking an Afternoon or Evening of Great Pleasure.

Under the spreading maples that surround Wilderness Lodge on every side, the subdued Chinese lanterns glowed like moons about the unwinking planet-like reflectors, lighting up the spacious grounds and revealing the animated throng that flocked about. Out in the fields on either side the fire flies flashed in defiant rivalry to the greater illumination. Never did Wilderness Lodge, the beautiful home of John O. Stevens, secretary of the Postal Telegraph Cable Company, on Clinton avenue, near Fourth street, present a prettier picture than last evening, the occasion of the lawn festival of the Guild of the Church of the Redeemer.

At any time Wilderness Lodge is a charming place. In the afternoon when the festival began it was like one grand park. Long rows of yet unlighted lanterns were strung from tree to tree. Lawn seats were placed in shady spots while hammocks were offered to those in search of ease. A Venician gondola, a trifle smaller perhaps that those strange craft that navigate the watery thoroughfares of Venice, rested on the lawn near the main entrance. There the children played. Another attraction on the front lawn was an archery, under the charge of J. O. Stevens.

A patriotic booth, covered with an artistic draping of flags, served as recruiting office for the army of thirsty ones who there found lemonade in plenty. Mrs. Frank Bowley was in charge.

In front of the house where the paths to entrance separated, a pretty booth of green and white contained an attractive display of homemade cakes. A powerful attraction at the booth were the great strawberries, grown right in the garden at the side of the house. They were sold in fancy decorated baskets, Mrs. Frank Brown and Mrs. Rhodes were in charge, assisted by Miss Josephine Brock.

Out in the open, at the left of the house, a tent had been erected. From it was served ice cream, cake and more of the delicious strawberries. Tables were arranged under the trees where the guests were served. Mrs. W. E. Brock and Mrs. William S. Smith were in charge. The waitresses were the Misses Clara Woltmann, Emily Thompson, Lizzie Brock, Helene Phillips and Iola Moore.

Something more substantial than berries and frozen cream were served in the dining rooms in the house. Here those in charge of the pleasant repast were the Misses Davis, Miss Atkinson, Miss Pierson, Miss Harford and Miss Stevens.

While every department had its committee, there was a general committee, composed of Mrs. A. E. Faber, chairman, Mrs. J. O Stevens and Mrs. Henry Phillips, that exercised supervision over all and directed the movements of the army of assistants.

It was in the evening, however, that the festival was in its beauty. At the house an attraction was provided in the shape of four half-hour concerts held in the parlors. The watchful eye of E. Frank Richards was at the door. The programme was under the direction of Walter A. Hudson, of New York, the well-known pianist. The talent who took part in the series of concerts consisted of Miss Louise Miller and Miss Alice Kingsland, of Mount Vernon, and Miss Clyde Burnett, of Plainfield, pianists; Miss Marguerite Burnett, violinist; Fletcher Hallock, banjoist, soloist and mouthophonist and mandolin soloist; James Beekman, Councilman William N. Runyon and George O. Stevens, vocal solists. The concerts were remarkably well attended.

And after the programme was all over, Stevens, Runyon and Hallock gathered beneath the trees and sang together college songs and plantation melodies, while the patrons of the festival sat around and listened.

Full returns have not been made, but the Guild will probably net several hundred dollars toward the building fund of the church, for the benefit of which the festival was given.

SITUATION AT SANTIAGO

The City Is Threatened With Starvation.

SHUT IN ON EVERY SIDE

Sources of Supply and Reinforcement Cut Off by the United States Forces—What a Spy's Map of the Harbor Shows—The Merrimac Blocking the Channel—Supplies for the Insurgents Landed—Sloops Captured.

Kingston, Jamaica, June 15.—Rear Admiral Sampson and Commodore Schley, with their combined forces, are slowly but surely placing such a network about Santiago de Cuba, and are cutting off so clearly every source of outside aid, that within a short time starvation and death will threaten the enemy there.

Within three days three separate sources of supply and reinforcement have been cut off, and Santiago de Cuba is now isolated from the world and is down to famine rations. When Admiral Cervera arrived at Santiago de Cuba with his fleet, the people there welcomed him for the relief they thought he would bring; but, instead of food, he brought them 700 more men to feed, and tons of ammunition.

A map of the harbor furnished by insurgent spies shows that after the bombardment of the harbor forts by Commodore Schley on Tuesday, May 31, the Spanish cruiser Reina Mercedes, which was disabled, was towed into the bay behind the Socapa battery, where she remained with two torpedo boats. Half a mile further up, under the lee of Cay Smith and the mortar batteries was the Vizcaya, commanding with her broadside the two narrow entrances to the east and west of Cay Smith. Half a mile north and at the gate of the third narrow entrance was the Almirante Oquendo, and half a mile to the northeast the Cristobal Colon and the Maria Teresa. The ships were about a mile and a half from the city proper, shallow water forbidding them to go much closer.

Since the establishment of the blockade several interesting and daring expeditions have been made into the enemy's country to discover the actual condition of affairs in Santiago de Cuba. It is no easy matter to get near the city these days. About eight thousand Spanish soldiers and two thousand home guard troops cover every roadway about the place, and General Pando, the Spanish military commander, is very active, although his operations are limited by the mountains surrounding the place, which are full of insurgents.

On Saturday, June 4, the converted lighthouse service boat Suwanee, commanded by Lieutenant Commander Delehanty, arrived off Santiago de Cuba. She had on board about 70,000 rounds of ammunition, 2,000 machetes and hundreds of pounds of bread, bacon and other provisions. With the aid of a Cuban pilot, picked up by Commodore Schley, she landed these supplies in two days, besides taking an active part in the bombardment of the forts of Santiago de Cuba. The landing was effected about twelve miles to the westward of Santiago de Cuba and in the presence of five hundred insurgents. About one thousand more insurgents were on guard in the mountains and in the passes. The ammunition and food, with the arms, have put the insurgents into excellent shape to prevent the Spaniards from getting provisions from the outside through the island itself. It is also believed that this arming of a force of insurgents has assisted in cutting off one part of the Spanish army from another.

On Tuesday, June 7, while working near Cesserazero, two miles from Santiago de Cuba, Lieutenant Commander Delehanty saw two sloops trying to run away up the river Asserazero. He fired at them and they were run on shore and deserted. Later a boat's crew from the Suwanee captured them. Each of the sloops was provided with a Spanish flag and one of them had on board a heliograph for signalling purposes. The flags and the heliograph were taken as spoils of war. One of the sloops was presented to the Cubans and the other, which already had a few holes in it, was sunk by shots from the Suwanee.

FIRE AT CANON CITY.

Cabins and Other Property of the Miners Burned.

Skaguay, June 10, via Seattle, June 16.—News has been received here by telephone that a serious fire occurred at Canon City, a small town above Dyea on the Chilcoot trail, recently. A number of buildings were burned, among them the large establishment of Freighter Noyes. The population of Canon City, according to the latest arrivals from the locality, is about 400, and about 200 cabins and other buildings had been erected there. As far as could be learned no lives were lost in the flames, but much property and many outfits were burned.

General Deficiency Bill.

Washington, June 16.—The general deficiency bill, carrying an aggregate of $224,032,323, was reported to the House yesterday by the committee on appropriations.

All but $18,205,026 is for war expenses, and $8,070,872 of these ordinary deficiencies are for pensions.

Work at the San Francisco Mint.

San Francisco, June 16.—Work at the mint in this city is being rushed, preparatory to the annual clean up, which will begin next Monday. About $300,000 will be coined into halves, quarters and dimes, the subsidiary coins being needed in paying off the troops now here. No bullion will be received at the mint between June 18 and July 5.

Tendered a Position in Chicago.

Providence, R. I., June 16.—Dr. E Benjamin Andrews, president of Brown University, is said to be considering an offer of the superintendency of the Chicago public schools, some time since tendered to him. The position carries with it a salary of $6,000.

An intimate friend says that he will accept.

VENGEANCE COMES AT LAST

The American Marines Completely Rout Spanish Tormentors and Win a Glorious Signal Victory.

Guantanamo Bay, June 16.—The American marines and Cubans Tuesday completely routed a force of 400 Spaniards. One American was slightly wounded. The Spaniards lost about 40 killed.

The marines and Cubans attacked the Spanish camp, situated five miles from the American entrenchments. They completely routed a force of 400 Spaniards, breaking up their camp and destroying the well which supplied them with water.

One American was slightly wounded, two Cubans were killed and four Cubans wounded.

The Spanish loss is believed to be forty men killed.

Fifteen bodies have already been discovered.

There was no renewal of the attack on the marines Monday night. They slept in the trenches with their rifles beside them, protected by a heavy picket line of insurgents and marines under the command of Lieutenants Lenore and Smith. They had strict orders not to fire unless commanded to do so. There were several alarms but no firing during the night. In consequence the men awoke much refreshed after four sleepless days and nights of continuous work and fighting.

It was supposed the enemy had retired to the windmill in the night on the south coast, the only remaining source of water supply. It was shelled at intervals all day Monday by the Dolphin, but the Spaniards were still there Tuesday morning.

Washington, June 16.—The officials here are very much relieved over the last dispatch received from Admiral Sampson and the news from Guantanamo.

Sampson says the United States marines are not only holding their own, but, reinforced by 1,500 Cubans from the commands of Garcia and Rabi, are now strong enough to take the offensive. This report was justified by the news received later that the marines and Cubans had attacked and routed the Spanish on their own grounds.

It is now believed the marines will have no difficulty in holding their position until the arrival of General Shafter's army, and it is thought even possible they may carry operations inland on their own account.

THE PORTO RICO ARMY.

Active Preparation for the Second Invasion—There Will Be No Delay.

Washington, June 16.—Preparations for the Porto Rican expedition are being made with great activity by the war department. The work of providing transports has progressed satisfactorily and eleven large vessels have been secured. The administration is going to take a leaf from its experience with the Santiago expedition, and it is intended that the transports shall be fully prepared and ready to co-operate with the navy before operations at Porto Rico are begun by the fleet.

Will Be Ordered South.

The pick of the companies and regiments at Camp Alger and Chickamauga will be selected to join General Coppinger's corps. All of the best drilled and best equipped troops which have not been attached to the Santiago expedition will be made available for the Porto Rican army of invasion. Orders are now being prepared at the war department which will start the crack commands of Camp Alger and Chickamauga to the front.

They will be sent to points South for duty with the Fourth Army Corps, under General Coppinger, and the formation of the command is being facilitated in every possible way. The troops assembled at Mobile have been ordered to Jacksonville and Fernandina, and a draft will be made on some of the troops now at Tampa. General Keifer of Ohio has been assigned to command one of the divisions of the Porto Rico expedition. He received orders Tuesday night and left for the South yesterday.

To Buy Tintern Abbey.

London, June 16.—It is said that L. Z. Leiter of Chicago is negotiating for Tintern Abbey, one of the finest historical houses in the country, which the Marquis of Worcester now offers for sale.

HE SOLD A DICKENS SOUVENIR.

The Manuscript of "Our Mutual Friend" Was Bought by George W. Childs.

When "Our Mutual Friend" was published, a highly laudatory notice of the book appeared in a leading journal, which was written by Mr. X., an acquaintance of Dickens, and a very clever man, who has been dead for many years. Mr. X. wrote to inform Dickens of the service which he had rendered him, and not only did he receive a grateful, not to say gushing, reply, but the author was so delighted with the timely lift which his book had been favored with that he presented the reviewer with the manuscript of the story bound up in gilt morocco. Mr. X. acknowledged the gift in glowing terms, assuring the author that only death would part him from the precious manuscript, and that he would take care that it should ultimately find a place in the national collections. A few years later one of Dickens' most intimate friends was traveling in America and happened to visit the late Mr. Childs at Philadelphia, in whose library one of the chief features was this same manuscript, which it turned out had been sold by Mr. X. for £250. Anthony Trollope had a stormy discussion with Dickens at a London dinner party about the transaction, asserting with characteristic vehemence that Mr. X. was wrong to inform Dickens that he had written the review; that Dickens was much to blame for having taken any notice of his letter, and that the gift of the manuscript should neither have been offered nor accepted, as it was practically bribery and corruption.

CONDUCT OF THE WAR

Possibly 100,000 More Men Will Be Called Out.

AN EXPENSIVE BUSINESS

The Advisability of Preparing for a Fall Campaign Against Havana—Cost of the War—Talk of Sending a Squadron to Harass the Coast of Spain—The Ammunition Resources Are Ample—False Reports Given.

Washington, June 16.—An officer of high repute in military circles is quoted as saying that within two weeks, unless the present plans of the war are materially changed, there will be another call for 100,000 volunteers. That would give July and August in which to enlist the new men and break them in. They would then be put in reserve camps to be drawn upon as needed for the fall campaign against Havana. This may mean the bringing of a great many more men into the field than the war will absolutely require; but the delays incident to the final preparations will be avoided if the work of getting the material together is begun in time. The expense, of course, will be very great at the outset, but the idea is that it will be true economy in the end.

Anyone who supposes that war is an inexpensive luxury and that the conservative people who tried to stave it off as long as possible were setting forth a too gloomy view of its drawbacks, would find edification in the government's record of expenditures already made, and others estimated and provided for, with the war less than two months old. The aggregate of these drafts upon the public resources now amounts to more than $390,000,000. Only Tuesday a requisition went to the House of Representatives on behalf of the war department for $13,200,000, of which the largest single item was $10,000,000 for transportation of troops. How many more such are still to come depends upon the vigor with which the war is prosecuted.

Something large in the way of additional demands for the navy is looked for soon, as the notion of a foreign campaign for some of our ships is steadily gaining favor. It is thought that a fleet of swift ships like the New York, the Brooklyn, the Newark, the St. Louis, the St. Paul, the Yale and the Harvard, with one big burly fighter like the Iowa or the Indiana, may be sent to the coast of Spain as soon as they can be spared from the operations on this side of the Atlantic, to prey upon Spanish commerce, harass the enemy's coast and drive the Madrid government into suing for peace by showing the Spanish people the falsity of the so-called news upon which they have been fed, and in which Spain has always been represented as gaining ground and we as losing it.

Experiments in coaling and replenishing ammunition at sea are considered to have proved to everyone's satisfaction that it would not be necessary for us to depend on any doubtful resource for keeping our fleet supplied, even at such a distance from our home base; but, if it were desirable to have a base over there, there are plenty of defenceless small ports and sea islands which we could seize and use at will. The bombardment of peaceable towns on the Spanish coast is no part of the programme, so that non-combatants would have nothing to fear, but the programme of harassment could be kept up just as effectively without that resort.

The ammuunition resources of the navy are keeping pace with its needs very well. There was some doubt a while ago whether the navy could hold its ordnance equipment up to the normal point, owing to the fact that so many of the contracts of the powder manufacturers for saltpetre had been broken off by the advent of the war and the declaration of neutrality by England, which controls the India trade in this article. It appears, however, that the navy department had a left over stock of some eight million pounds of saltpetre, which would go into the making of about eleven million pounds of powder. The war department had a surplus of about the same amount, but since the big guns of the army now appear almost certain to be left unused, the transfer of any needed amount from the army to the navy would be a mere formality.

Meanwhile, the powder contractors are turning out about 4,000 pounds a day, nearly equally divided between the Duponts and the California works.

Chess in Masters' Tournament at Vienna.

Vienna, June 16.—The eleventh round of the international chess tournament was begun in this city yesterday. The players were paired as follows: Janowski vs. Blackburn, Schiffers vs. Showalter, Tarrasch vs. Schlechter, Alapin vs. Marco, Walbrodt vs. Steinitz, Burn vs. Maraczy, Trenchard vs. Halprin, Baird a bye, Caro vs. Lipke, and Pillsbury vs. Tschigorin. At two o'clock the first adjournment was taken. Caro and Lipke had drawn, Blackburne, Alapin, Halprin and Pillsbury semed to have winning chances, while the other games were even. The score follows:

Plot to Kill the Czar.

London, June 16.—Advices from St. Petersburg tell of a plot to assassinate the czar which has hitherto not been reported, every effort having apparently been made to keep the matter quiet.

It appears that the czar was recently present at the ceremony of the consecration of a new church at Tsarskee Selo.

Shortly before the time for the event it was discovered that the spot where his majesty was expected to stand during the ceremony had been undermined, and a large number of arrests were made.

Doan's Kidney Pills.
Can you believe your neighbors?
Read this statement made by a citizen:

Mr. Wm. Swalm, of 603 West Front street, says: "I consider Doan's Kidney Pills an elegant remedy for kidney troubles. I have used them and was greatly benefited. For several years I suffered from a severe pain across my back which annoyed me so much at night that I could not sleep. If I took cold it settled in my back and at such times I could scarcely get about at all. There was also a kidney weakness which was very distressing. I often had to get up at night, thus breaking my rest. I read about Doan's Kidney Pills and thought I would try them. My daughter got me a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store, and after using them a short time I felt much better in every way. The pain in my back does not bother me now at all and the other difficulty has been relieved. Other members of the family have used them with equally good results. Doan's Kidney Pills have my indorsement and I will recommend them whenever an opportunity presents itself."

Doan's Kidney Pills for sale by all dealers, price 50c per box. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

THE TAMPA EXPEDITION

Terrible Suffering of Troops While Cooped Up in Transports.

Tampa, Fla., June 16.—After much suffering caused by the inexplicable delay in getting the first military expedition under way, the last soldiers sailed for Cuba Tuesday. The men had been cooped up on vessels since last week and the suffering endured since then was something terrible. Not only were the decks and rigging filled with swarming crowds, but from glimpses you could gain through open ports, showed hundreds of men lying below in their little trough like bunks, built side by side across the hold in layers of three and four deep. It seems almost a criminal ignorance which made this delay necessary. There is no question that the men had much of the spirit taken out of them. They cried out to know the cause of their detention. They begged either to be sent on or put ashore. When told that fear of unexpected Spanish ships kept them here they declared themselves afraid, of no Spanish ships afloat. One man said: "We have two cannon aboard. Why don't they let us go in front if the navy is afraid!"

Ships which under regulations are permitted to have 500 passengers, all classes included, had 900 and 1,000 soldiers aboard. These men all lived below while the vessels were detained here. Officers took the upper state rooms. They were served by the ship's regular cooks and fared very well. But the men received no warm food of any kind excepting coffee. They ate cold bread, corned beef and bacon.

But all of this suffering was forgotten when it became known that the hour of departure was near. The spirits of the men, which had sunk down almost to its last peg, revived to a great extent. They seemed to smell the blood of battle from afar; at any rate, anything, no matter how dangerous to life, was preferable to the terrible experience they had undergone for almost a week.

GERMANY AND MANILA.

The Possibility of Repeating There the Kiao-Chou Experiment.

London, June 16.—The Star yesterday reiterated the story that Emperor William of Germany has ordered the German consul at Manila to oppose the debarkation of Americans unless in sufficient force to maintain order and protect the Germans.

The Star adds that a notification to this effect has been officially given to the United States embassy at Berlin and to Secretary Day at Washington.

Admiral Dietrichs, according to the Star, has 2,400 troops, and he could disembark 1,500, with two batteries of artillery, for the partial occupation of Manila.

The Berlin correspondent of the Daily News says:

"It seems almost impossible that Germany can have the idea of risking a war with the United States by interference at Manila. Nevertheless, it is equally impossible to ignore the significance of the fact that ideas of repeating the successful Kiao-Chou experiment are evidently floating in the brains of naval personages whose influence is so great that the matter deserves attention."

A special dispatch from Madrid, published yesterday afternoon, purports to give the substance of an interview with Senor Sagasta, the Spanish premier, who is quoted as saying that Tuesday's rise on the Bourse was due to telegrams advising leading financiers that Russia has taken steps to intervene shortly in the settlement of the Philippine question.

THE FRENCH MINISTRY OUT.

Resignation of Premier Meline and His Associates Accepted.

Paris, June 16.—M. Meline, the premier, has handed to President Faure the resignations of the whole cabinet, which the president has accepted, while requesting the ministers to continue the direction of affairs until their successors are named.

The cabinet met yesterday and reviewed the situation caused by the adverse action of the Chamber of Deputies in compelling the government to adopt a distasteful amendment to the order of the day. The ministers reassembled at 2.30 p. m., under the presidency of President Faure, when the resignations were presented.

It is expected that M. Ribot, ex-premier and minister of finance, will be invited to form a new ministry, and it is probable that M. Dupuy, who was the premier of the cabinet which preceded that of M. Ribot, will join the new ministry.

ANNEXATION BILL PASSES.

By a Vote of 209 to 91 Lower Branch of Congress Decides to Annex the Island.

Washington, June 16.—The House of Representatives passed the Hawaiian annexation resolution yesterday afternoon by a vote of 209 to 91. The announcement of the result of the vote was received with cheers on the Republican side of the House.

All the Republicans except three voted for annexation, and they were joined by thirty-two Democrats and Populists.

The resolution will be laid before the Senate to-day, and it is intended to have it at once referred to the committee on foreign relations, which will report it back before the expiration of the day's session, so that the debate in the Senate can begin the day following.

It is expected that the large majority by which the resolution passed the House will affect the Senate in its favor.

Senator Lodge spoke most positively about the necessity of immediate action in the matter of annexing Hawaii.

Sampson to Be Ready.

It is said that the president has urged Secretary Long to direct Admiral Sampson to be prepared as speedily as possible to send a fleet of first class vessels to Porto Rico, and the officers of the navy department are of the opinion that there will be no delay in the Porto Rican expedition on account of the navy. Admiral Sampson has progressed so far with his operations at Santiago that he will be ready for the other expedition very soon after the corps are landed at Santiago.

Prize Taken to Key West.

Key West, June 16.—The British steamship Twickenham, which was captured by the St. Louis, has arrived in charge of a prize crew. She has a cargo of 3,000 tons of Cardiff coal.

BRISK CALL FOR BONDS

Crowds at Sub-Treasury After Subscription Blanks.

SAME TREATMENT TO ALL

Only One Blank to Each Applicant for More Than $500—It Looks as if the Issue Will Be Quickly Oversubscribed—Form of Application and How to Fill It Out—Bonds Already at a Premium.

New York, June 16.—At 10 a. m. yesterday a long line of men and boys and a few ladies had formed in front of the sub-treasury on Wall street. At that hour the doors were thrown open and the applicants for blanks applied at the first window on the right hand side of the corridor. There were two piles of blanks, one of applications for sums of $500 or less, and the other for sums of more than $500. Of the latter sort, which were most in demand by corporations, only one was given out yesterday to each applicant. Of the former several were allowed to the individual applicant upon his representation that they were meant to be used by friends or relatives. The whole design of the distribution was evidently to give the humble individual subscriber the preference, and to let the corporations wait.

Form of Application.

Any one who desires to subscribe for the war loan may copy the following form and fill it out himself, provided the amount of his subscription is more than $500:

SUBSCRIPTION FOR MORE THAN $500.

.....1898.

Hon. L. J. Gage, Secretary of the Treasury:

Sir: I hereby subscribe for..... dollars ($.....) of the..... three per cent. (coupon or registered) bonds authorized by the act to provide ways and means to meet war expenditures, and enclose herewith, as a deposit of two per cent. of my subscription..... .....dollars ($.....) in..... .....(cash or certified check) and I hereby promise to pay for the bonds allotted to me in accordance with the terms of the Circular No. 101 of the treasury department, dated June 13, 1898.

Name.....
Street and No.....
City or town.....
County.....
State.....

Note—All subscriptions must be received at the treasury department, Washington, D. C., not later than three o'clock p. m., Thursday, July 14, 1898.

Drafts, checks, money orders, etc., should be made payable to the treasurer of the United States.

After filling it out it should be mailed to the treasury department, Washington, with cash, draft, money order or check for 2 per cent. of the amount subscribed.

Subscribers wishing to take $500 or less should use precisely the same phraseology, except that the cash, draft money order or check for the full amount is mentioned, instead of the deposit of 2 per cent., and the promise to pay is left out. In return the government officers will mail a receipt entitling the holder to interest on his money. Subscribers of the latter class may take their applications to the sub-treasury with the cash and get a government receipt for it at once. This receipt does not insure the allotment of the bonds subscribed for.

The first bidder for a $20 bond is the first man to whom a bond will be allotted. The $100 bonds will be next allotted and the $500 bonds next. If the bonds of small denomination should more than exhaust the loan of $200,000,000, the applications first made will be first served, and the later applicants will receive their money back with interest.

Secretary Gage has issued a circular to the press setting forth the nature of the bonds and how to subscribe for them.

Already at a Premium.

Up to noon yesterday fully 4,000 persons had called at the sub-treasury for circulars and subscription blanks and of this number several hundred had turned aside into the office of Deputy Maurice L. Muhleman to deposit cash for bonds. It was said by well informed treasury officials that Tuesday's subscriptions were nearly $50,000 and yesterday's would exceed $100,000, all in sums of $500 or less.

Manila's Desperate Condition.

Madrid, June 16.—A dispatch received here from Captain General Augusti, dated Manila, June 6, says:

"The situation continues critical. The enemy surround the town. I have had our lines drawn closer around the city and strengthened at intervals by trenches. Communication is still cut. I expect General Monet with reinforcements, but I have no news from him.

"The white population of the suburbs, fearing they will be massacred by the rebels, and preferring the risk of bombardment, have entered the fortified part of the town and will assist in its defence. I do not know when the bombardment will begin."

The Situation at Havana.

Key West, June 16.—Private advices from Havana state that matters are as satisfactory there as can be expected under existing circumstances. Little, if any business is transacted, every available man being at work on fortifications. Produce is being brought into the city from one hundred miles west of Havana.

Exchange for Hobson.

Madrid, June 16.—The government has authorized Governor General Blanco to entertain proposals for the exchange of Lieutenant Hobson and the other prisoners taken when the American collier Merrimac was sunk off the entrance to the harbor of Santiago de Cuba.

More Honors for Dewey.

Princeton, June 16.—Among the degrees conferred at the Princeton University commencement exercises yesterday was that of LL. D. in absentia to George Dewey, rear admiral United States navy.

LATEST FROM GUANTANAMO.

Why the Marines Were Landed so Soon.

Washington, June 16.—A telegram from Admiral Sampson says that he has been reinforced by several hundred Cubans and that affairs at Guantanamo are in a satisfactory condition. The town of Acerrederos has been occupied by troops under Rabi. The men under Garcia are co-operating with the American forces.

The naval authorities were relieved when they heard from Sampson. They had been worried over the position of Lieutenant Colonel Huntington's gallant band of marines, who are holding their own at Camp McCalla, on Guantanamo bay, against overwhelming odds.

Thus far the marines have had the best of the fighting, but the situation is grave, and they are exhausted with repelling almost incessant attacks.

After the first attack on Saturday night Lieutenant Colonel Huntington decided that another attempt would be made on Sunday night, and he caused entrenchments to be thrown up on all sides of the camp, and in the trenches the main part of the battalion waited for the attack that the colonel was certain would come. It began a short time after dark, and from that time until daybreak the firing was incessant and at times heavy. On the American side two men were killed and four injured. The dead are:

Sergeant Major Henry Goode, shot through the right breast.

Private Tauman, wounded and fell off the cliff and was killed.

The injured are:

Private Wallace, fell off the cliff and sustained a fracture of the leg.

Private Martin, shot through the left leg.

Private Roxbury, shot through the arm.

Private Burke, shot through the arm.

There has been some criticism of the action of the government in sending the marines ashore, and out of this has come an explanation of the reason for it. It appears that Admiral Sampson and his officers believed that the troopships from Tampa would arrive off Santiago last Friday or Saturday.

With this understanding the marines were landed to establish a base of supplies and operations for General Shafter's army. Everybody confidently believed that the troops would arrive on the day after the landing of the marines was made, it having been taken for granted at Santiago that the transports left Tampa on the original date set, Wednesday last.

The marines are ashore without prospect of relief by our troops until next Sunday at the earliest. They cannot be removed in safety and are not strong enough to advance. In consequence of these facts officers here think it would be bad policy to withdraw from the position secured and they predict that a strong force of marines and bluejackets from Sampson's fleet will be sent to support Colonel Huntington's battalion.

THE NICARAUGUA CANAL.

Rear-Admiral Walker, Head of the Commission, Gives Testimony.

Washington, June 16.—Rear Admiral Walker was before the senate committee on the Nicaraguan canal yesterday. He said that the commission of which he is president has not yet completed its labors, but from examinations already made, he thought the plan for a canal along the proposed route was entirely feasible.

He suggested some changes by which several dams could be avoided, and said that he thought the canal could be constructed at a cost of about $125,000,000.

Senator Morgan, chairman of the committee, said after the meeting that he hoped to get action on the bill during the present session of Congress if possible.

Camp Black Deserted.

Hempstead Plains, L. I., June 16.—The Twentieth Separate company from Binghamton, which has been in quarantine for two weeks on account of the measles, left here yesterday. Not a soldier of the volunteer troops now remains at Camp Black. Only General Pennington and his embryonic hospital corps are left.

The Binghamton company was taken to Long Island City and transferred to Governor's island, where it will be stationed with Colonel Barber, who has headquarters there. All the men were in good health and the contagion had totally disappeared.

Shot at Count Arcon.

London, June 16.—Count Arcon, secretary of the German embassy, was shot while standing in front of the embassy yesterday. The would-be murderer just missed Count Arcon's head, inflicting no injury. When the police attempted to arrest him the man fired twice at the policemen but missed both shots.

The police have another version of the shooting. They say that a policeman who was patrolling in front of the German embassy was shot in the breast, but was saved from injury by a pocketbook which he carried in his inside pocket.

Strike on Yale and Harvard.

Newport News, June 16.—The engineers, stokers and ordinary seamen who have been in service on the scout ships Yale and Harvard will refuse to go to sea on the vessels when they leave this port as auxiliary cruisers. These men were in the employ of the American line when the steamers were leased by the government and they signed articles of agreement for one year, but claim that they did not enlist in the navy, and, therefore, cannot be compelled to go into service on a warship, especially as most of them are subjects of foreign powers.

Attachment Against Leiter.

New York, June 16.—The sheriff of New York county yesterday received another attachment against Joseph Leiter of Chicago, Ill., in favor of the Thames and Mersey Marine Insurance Company for $81,815.13. Butler, Notman, Joline & Mynderse are the attorneys for the plaintiff. The attachment was granted by Justice Daly of the supreme court.

Nominated by New Jersey Prohibitionists.

Camden, N. J., June 16.—The Prohibition state convention yesterday nominated George Lamonte of Bound Brook for governor. He was the Prohibition candidate for governor in 1892.

Man Manufacturing.

The United States leads the world in the variety and excellence of its manufactures, but the most marvelous of its products out of raw material is that of man. The New York Journal in a recent leader anent the sneer of a Berlin "reptile" organ, "America with its mishmash of waste pieces of nationality * * * suddenly becomes an Anglo-Saxon race," has some pungent and vigorous comments:

The republic is a gigantic amalgamating mill. Persons like the Berlin editor, peasants, impoverished wretches for whom there is no room in Europe, no chance to make a living, come here and are made over into men. Citizens are manufactured out of clodhoppers, and the children of intellectual and physical runts from the old world become bright, active, well nourished Americans. That is the glory of this republic. Liberty means opportunity for the common man—the man who does the work and is taxed and fed down to within an inch of his life in the land of his ancestors. A human being can be one here instead of serving as a beast of burden for the nobility and gentry.

Anglo-Saxon genius and institutions specially under their republican form can alone recreate the most diverse elements into their own mold. No other race has shown this power of regenerating the raw material of other nationalities. Not only does the foreigner transplanted under these fresh conditions flower into fullness of manhood, but he becomes completely saturated with the spirit of his new habitat, more American in many cases than the American born. The English speaking race subjugates all others to its intellectual and spiritual sway. But in the American alembic this wonderful chemical force does its best work.

Eccentricities of Patriotism.

The enthusiasm which emblazons itself with the colors of Old Glory at this juncture is intensely human, even if some of its vagaries provoke a smile now and then. Men and women are proud to sport emblematic flags and ribbons, and we even see the shirt waists of the latter striped with the red, white and blue. Enterprising shopkeepers display nightdresses variegated with such colors to bring pleasant dreams, as did the people of Du Maurier's novel, and table napery is edged with the patriotic hues. The candy makers hide their sweets in imitation cartridge boxes and warships, and the fashionable florists construct their most popular bouquets with flowers deftly arranged in the beloved tints, a symphony of sight and odor, if such a bull can be tolerated. One of the most interesting and witty of these extravagancies is that shown in the barber's pole which adds the blue to the red and white stripes and spangles it with stars. This may be taken to symbolize the fact that we mean not only to "take the Spaniard by the beard," as was the favorite boast of that heroic old sea king and Spaniard hater, Sir Francis Drake, but to shave his bristles with a very keen razor as well as to give him a good lathering. Don Quixote of today, who has all of the old knight's pompous absurdity without his nobility of temper, has invited such "barberism" as a quid for his quo. Signs of exuberant patriotism are inspiring even if eccentric. Genuine effervescence is never quite stopped by the rim of the glass.

A poor little girl, unhappy enough to be born a cripple, lately poisoned herself because her childish acquaintances made life unendurable by taunting her with her lameness. They called her "limpy" and "cripple." They shouted after her when she appeared on the street until she could bear it no longer. The spirit shown by these incognates children who thus drove one of their playmates to death was fiendish, for none but a fiend can deliberately torment that which is helpless. It is the same spirit as that which tortures dogs and cats and dumb animals. If the offenders had been taught by their parents and teachers to be merciful and kind to misfortune, they would not have thought of teasing their lame comrade. It was the fault of the parents and teachers more than of the young ones themselves. Worst of all, it is not only children who torment those who are down. Among the lower and more ignorant classes of grown people it is the common habit to sneer and enjoy a wretched, contemptible merriment at the disgrace, loss or misfortune of acquaintances. Heaven have mercy on those who indulge such mirth! It is an infallible sign of ignorance and an evil, undeveloped mind.

The most enlightened diplomacy is now that which takes the whole people of a country into the confidence of their statesmen and shows them every step of the policy which is thought best and wisest for the nation. It was hoodwinking the ignorant masses of Spain and making them believe constantly that Cuba was being conquered which has brought the kingdom to its present state. The American government can trust its own people, and it should lead off in the new national policy of open dealing. Diplomatic mystery belongs along with the secret underground passageway and the murder vaults of the middle ages.

Before the war began there was greater activity among certain branches of American manufactures than had ever been known before, notably the iron trade. A number of orders had been sent in from Japan and Egypt for locomotive engines, while the Russians had called for 300 miles of steel railway tracks for Siberia.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

Representative Jerry Simpson, of Kansas, who was recently refused a commission to command a regiment of the volunteer troops of that State, is still determined to see more fighting. Mr. Simpson formerly sailed the blue waters of the great lakes, commanding large vessels and becoming familiar with all the hardships of a sailor's life. In fact, he began his career as a sailor when a boy of fourteen, which pursuit he followed in different localities for twenty three years. Therefore he announced yesterday that he should go to the Secretary of the Navy at an early date and volunteer his services wherever needed during the present war. Mr. Simpson carried a musket for a time during the Civil War as a private in Company A, Twelfth Illinois Infantry.

WHAT KANSAS THINKS.

Still it continues. A newly laid out town in Kansas has been named Deweyville. They say there is a great real estate boom there in consequence of the name.—Plainfield (N. J.) Press.

That's all right too. It takes a wide awake people like Kansan to think up such a thing. And it also takes a state which has something in it besides little, old, worn-out truck patches, to have anything worth naming for that progressive, pushing, go-ahead gentleman, Mr. Dewey. If some of our New Jersey friends would take a few days' outing and come to Kansas they might get some of the smoky smell of the back-log blown off them.—Parsons (Kansas) Evening Globe.

LITERARY.

The Century Magazine has arranged for a series of articles on the present war, somewhat in the manner of its famous "Battles and Leaders of the Civil War." The series will be entitled, "Battles and Leaders, Places and Problems of the Spanish-American War," and a number of important articles are already promised for it.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence to the Daily Press.)

Dunellen, June 16.—The closing exercises at the Lincoln School were held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock and were attended by the parents and friends of the scholars. The school hall was decorated with American flags and flowers. Superintendent Whitney had charge of the exercises and was assisted by Miss Fanny Smith, principal of the school. During the exercises an excellent address was made by Rev. Frank Fletcher, pastor of the Baptist church, New Market. The following programme was finely presented: Greeting song, school; prayer, Rev. Frank Fletcher; song, school; recitation, Bennie Dodwell; recitation, "Which Loved," Ethel Emery; recitation, "The Boy," Clarence Carman; motion song, scholars second and third grades; recitation, "A Tiny Girl's Plan," Mary Logan; "Don't," Peter Mohan; "School Room Trials," Cora Willett; doll drill, first grade scholars; recitations, "Her Answer," Susie Lowrie; "I'm Not Mama's Baby Any More," Jay Hoffman, Lewis Logan, Harry Giddes and Raymond Huff; "Meadow Talk," Annie Rinehart; "Mud Pies," Florence Jennings; "Miss Mischief," Mary Baldwin; "The Experiment," Earle Ising; "The Duel," Stella Eick; "Vacation Time," Joel Giddes; song, Alice Apgar; song, "Apples for a Penny," Pearl Dodwell; motion song, "Chickadees," first grade scholars; duet, "Old Black Joe," Pearl Dodwell and Alice Apgar; flag exercise, Russell Runyon, Harry Vliet, Edgar Starker, Harry Giddes, Ellis Carman. The song, "Uncle Sam," rendered with the flag exercises, was composed by H. B. Willis, county superintendent of schools In conclusion Superintendent Whitney made a short address and then presented books to the following scholars for faithful and punctual attendance during the year: Roy Jennings, Alice Apgar, Bennie Dodwell, Pearl Dodwell, Nettie Baldwin, Mary Baldwin, Henrietta Wedemier, Eva Tilton, Henry Kirchner, Edith Tilton, Mary Horn, Harry Vliet, Florence Jennings. The last named scholar was not absent a single day during the year, neither was she late for school any day. The exercises closed with a song by the school entitled "My Own Native Land."

An exciting runaway was witnessed on the main street yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock when a team of horses owned by Mr. Burke, the Plainfield hay carter, started from Maier's Hotel and ran several blocks. The load of hay was upset and general excitement prevailed. The horses ran at a break-neck speed, but were finally stopped when they collided with another hay wagon being driven by John Brokaw, of Piscataway township. Aside from upsetting the hay the damage was very slight.

Miss Bailey, of Williamsport, Pa., who has been visiting Mrs. Charles Carpenter, of Washington avenue, has gone to Massachusetts to visit relatives.

Mrs. Ira Dayton and daughter have returned to their home in Williamsport, Pa., after a pleasant visit with Mrs. Charles Carpenter.

Next Saturday the Dunellen baseball team will play a game in the borough with the Plainfield Cadet team.

Mrs. McMahon, of Prospect avenue, is confined to the house by illness. Dr. Brakeley is in attendance.

The condition of Mrs. Johnson, of South avenue, is much worse, and she is gradually growing weaker.

Mrs. A. N. Randolph, of Washington avenue, has returned from a visit with New York friends.

Samuel Churchill, of Jersey City, is visiting his brother, G. W. Churchill, of Washington avenue.

Mrs. Harry Swackhamer has returned from a visit with relatives at Pluckamin.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Terry are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Norwright, of Califon.

Miss Mary Randolph, of Basking Ridge, has been visiting Miss Della Fritts.

Conductor Dodwell has returned from a visit with friends at Flemington.

Mrs. Charles Boice has returned from a visit with Plainfield friends.

NEW MARKET.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

New Market, June 16—The Board of Education of Piscataway township has awarded the contract to John Apgar, of Dunellen, to build an addition to the public school.

The following officers have been elected by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Seventh-Day Baptist church: President, Mrs. Dunham; vice president, Mrs. Emmons; secretary, Miss Satterlee; treasurer, Mrs. Burdick. The society expects to make several improvements about the church during the coming year.

Miss Imogene Smith, now a teacher in the Dunellen School, has been engaged to teach at the Lincoln School next year. Miss Gaskill will teach the primary department.

Tomorrow afternoon the Piscataway Township Committee will meet to establish the grades through the township for the trolley.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Scotch Plains, June 16—As usual, a blacksmith shop was broken into just before an attempted burglary. This time it was Trayno's shop. A number of tools were taken, no doubt to be used in the attempted burglary at William Archibald's Sunday evening. This shows the work must be done by amateurs.

Much dissatisfaction is felt at the uncompleted piece of macadam on the borough end of Park avenue. It seems the committee on roads expended all their appropriation for large stone, leaving nothing for a top dressing. This leaves the road in an uncompleted state and forces people to drive on the sides.

Anthony Alberts, while riding his wheel down Spencer's Hill Friday afternoon, ran over Samuel Radin's dog and was thrown heavily against a hitching post. Fortunately he escaped with a few bruises, but his wheel was badly damaged.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Nicholl attended the Commencement exercises at Swarthmore College Tuesday.

Mr. Perry and family, of Philadelphia, have rented Mrs. Mann's cottage, on Quality Hill.

Mr. Sauville and family, of New York, have rented the Goodwin house in Fanwood.

WESTFIELD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Westfield, June 16.—Mrs. N. H. Griswold is visiting friends at Jersey City.

The third quarterly meeting of the New York branch of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society is being held in the Methodist church at Cranford today. The morning session began at 10:45 and was a devotional service in charge of Rev. Alfred Evans. The various officers and committees also reported at this session The afternoon devotional service was led by Mrs. J. S. Stone and addresses will be delivered by Rev. G W. Smith, D. D., Presiding Elder of the Elizabeth district; Dr. Mary Bryan, a returned missionary from Africa, and Mrs. S. L Baldwin. Mrs Baldwin is a very interesting talker, and she will tell of the work being done by the society in Corea, China and Japan, from which countries she has just returned. A large number of Westfield ladies are attending the meeting.

Richard Burke was badly hurt about noon yesterday while riding a bicycle on Broad street. He was peddling along at a pretty good gait when a wagon, belonging to Charles Mitchell, the painter, collided with him. Burke was badly bruised about the whole body and his left leg was injured so bad that it will probably be some time before he can ride again. The wheel was completely demolished.

Miss Sarah Currie gave a very interesting talk at the Christian Endeavor meeting in the Presbyterian church last evening. She told of the good work that the Fresh Air Fund was doing for the poor children of New York, and further stated that the camp at Westfield would be opened July 1st.

A. H. Barnett, who won the Milburn road race in 1896 has charge of the bicycle races to be run here on the Fourth of July. He has arranged for a two-mile handicap, a one-mile handicap, a mile open for Westfield riders, a mile open to all, a boys' race, one mile, and a one-mile race for colored riders.

Broad street is being torn up by the Cranford Gaslight Company, and the residents and property owners of that street are very much opposed to it, but the Township Committee cannot prevent the company from going through all or any of the streets in Westfield township.

A fire broke out at 11:30 yesterday in the barn owned by Wm. E. Terry, on Downer street Tne firemen were quick to answer the alarm and the flames were extinguished before any great damage had been done. It is not known how the fire started. The loss is about $50

Messrs. Ralph C. Pearsall, Walter Smith and Elmer Woodruff, who are with Company C. Third Regiment, Volunteers of New Jersey, at Fort Hancock, Sandy Hook, are expected to spend Sunday in Westfield.

There is talk of a tug of war between the members of Bucket and Engine Company and the members of the Hook and Ladder Company the Fourth of July.

Mrs. Uphouse and daughter, of Newark, have been spending several days with Mrs. George Clark, of Central avenue.

Rev. C. H. Patton, of Duluth, Minn., a former pastor of the Congregational church here, will occupy the pulpit Sunday.

The Normal Bible class will meet in the library room Friday evening, and will be led by Rev. Rufus Green.

H. F. Cristy is entertaining his sister, Mrs. John Rodgers, of Boston, at his home on Clark street.

Miss Maude Elliott, of Westfield avenue, visited friends at Rahway yesterday.

Miss Louise Sedgeman, of Morristown, visited friends in town yesterday.

Miss Clara F. Wyckoff, of Bayonne, is visiting friends on North avenue.

C. E. Love has purchased a new Waverly bicycle from Harry Hill.

Mrs. James Hurd, of Brooklyn, has been visiting friends here.

The Township Committee meets Saturday evening.

H. L. Dunham, of Dover, was in town Wednesday.

EARLY CLOSING AGITATED

whatever to do with the resolution presented to the Council at the last meeting asking for a repeal of the ordinance, although the resolution adopted by the Board is identical It was Fred Bird that had engineered the resolution to the Council and he secured the signers. Mr. Lounsbury stated further that when the ordinance was first under consideration before its first adoption, the committee from the Council absolutely refused to take out certain objectionable points. It was approved by some but not by the majority. The question, Mr. Lounsbury said, is, is the present ordinance satisfactory to the majority and are there any objectionable points?

Charles Hand's idea was that the ordinance should be so amended as to leave old frame structures alone, so that a man in improving his property would not be obliged to use iron on a wooden building.

Mr. Lounsbury introduced a new subject for the consideration of the members and it caused a great deal of discussion. It was in regard to the great number of Plainfield people who send from $1 500 to $2 000 out of town every month to building and loan associations in various parts of the State. He said that the matter was talked of at a recent meeting of the Board of Managers of the Board, and it was the general opinion that another building and loan association could be organized in this city and would do well. The president said that it was not the idea of the Board to organize such an association, but they would freely offer the use of their rooms for such a purpose. The reason for such a move emanated out of the consideration of endeavoring to secure certain factories to locate in this city. The owners of the factories, if they came here, would want to borrow some money from the Board, and the latter thought it would be well to have an association that would fill the bill.

Mr. Gilbert, J.D. Spicer and several others argued against the plan, and Mr Gilbert stated that it would be impossible to control the investment of capital, that capital would go where it could get the most in return. The question was discussed at great length and nothing definite resulted.

Secretary Runyon remarked that the application of J. H. Leggett made the one hundredth member in six months. He expressed a desire that during the next six months the Board would grow more rapidly. Mr. Runyon also stated that a number of the members objected to holding the meetings Wednesday evening, as it is prayer meeting night. This subject was not discussed. No further business was introduced and the meeting adjourned

NEW YORK FASHIONS.

Gowns of taffeta, foulard and light silks have now made their appearance and among them are some beautiful models. The foulards are so soft and light that they are bound to remain popular. This season's patterns are quite different from the last few years. Not so much blue and white is shown, and Oriental designs in soft tones on light grounds are more in favor than flowers.

A dainty dress for summer is made of striped green and white taffeta. The corsage is made of the silk opening over a yoke and vest of cream guipure. A small strap fastens the material at the top of the vest. Narrow velvet ribbon constitutes the trimming and the stock and girdle are of green velvet.

Are Women Neater Than Men?

Such was the question recently asked by a cynical old bachelor, who is a stern critic as to all that concerns a woman's attire.

This was the reply: "Women are endowed with strange vagaries, and, while extremely fastidious in many ways, are very neglectful in others. Even the smartest society girl is not so particular as to the freshness of her collar as the plain, every-day man of business. To change his linen at least once a day is a sort of religion with most men. With women it is different. They will inspect their collars after a day's hard wear, and decide that they will do again, not recognizing the fact that if any doubt exists on the matter they should be consigned to the laundry without demur.

"Again, a man is much more concerned as to the state of his foot-gear than a woman. The woman will gown herself handsomely, and forget to look at her shoes. She is willing to condone the loss of one or two buttons, and the consequent baggy appearance of her ankles. Like the peacock, she trusts to the gorgeousness of her plumage, and hopes that her skirts will cover all defects."

How the Eyesight Tires.

People speak of their eyes being tired, meaning that the retina or seeing portion of the eye is fatigued; but such is not the case, as the retina hardly ever gets tired. The fatigue is in the inner and other muscles attached to the eyeball, and the muscle of accby is gardening, and he varies it by commodation which surrounds the lens of the eye.

When a near object is to be looked at this muscle relaxes and allows the lens to thicken, increasing its refractory power. The inner and outer muscles are used in covering the eye on the object to be looked at, the inner one being especially used when a near object is looked at. It is in the three muscles mentioned that the fatigue is felt, and relief is secured temporarily by closing the eyes or gazing at far-distant objects. The usual indication of strain is a redness of the rim of the eyelid, betokening a congested state of the inner surface, accompanied by some pain. Sometimes this weariness indicates the need of glasses rightly adapted to the person, and in other cases the true remedy is to rub the eye and its surroundings as far as may be with the hand wet in cold water.

This Dog Eats Money.

A man at Narbonne, France, lost a 100-franc note in a funny way recently. He was in a restaurant and took the note from his pocket to pay for his dinner, when, as the note lay upon the table, a gust of wind flopped it into his plate.

Taking it out he placed it on the edge of the table to dry, whence it slipped to the floor.

Just then along came a hungry little poodle, and, sniffing at the note, he got a good whiff of the gravy, snatched up the paper and swallowed it. The owner of the note then sued the owner of the poodle for 100 francs, and the courts have decided that the latter must pay.

The hardest Japanese wood is the kiyaki, resembling oak in fibre, which takes a high polish, and is used for fine work and frames of ships, but is becoming very scarce, the price having doubled within the last few years.

Fashion's Fancies.

Although passementeries, galloons, arabesque trimmings, appliques, and gimps can never be called novelties as far as mere names go, they nevertheless deserve the title regarding their designs and combinations, and they certainly never possessed the importance they have gained this year. Not only do the latest importations appear in admirable imitation of ancient laces and embroideries, but they are brought out in a constant succession of new and beautiful devices. One of the novel patterns consists of a graduated set of Persian arabesques designed for the skirt bodice and sleeves. There are also mural devices in shaded effects, Gothic bands, Venetian and Vandyke points of every width, palm leaves and ferns which are wholly new in arrangement and the effect and which are disposed in various artistic ways on evening toilets, day costumes, and elegant small wraps, sometimes forming one continuous design on the skirt, sometimes graduated in widths at the sides or set on separate in pieces en applique to resemble very closely shaded silk embroideries wrought directly on the gown. Ingenuity never rests, and exquisite jewelled and sequined pieces are made in special designs for the girdle, rounded jacket fronts, yoke, guimpe, marrow, or flaring Medici collar, bretelles, sleeve cuff or puff, skirt border, and falling chatelaine—each design delicately shaded and massed to avoid heaviness.

But Could She?

Beware of the wife who, as she kisses you good-bye, slips a bit of paper into your pocket, saying:—

"There's a list of a few things I'd like you to get on your way home. Please don't overlook any of them. It will only take you a few moments, and I want all of them to-day. There's a dear."

Jenkins has such a wife. He takes the little slip, and says:—

"Yes, my dear; I'll get them."

He gives himself ten minutes to catch the train for home, and this is the list:—

"Six lemons, a dozen oranges, yard of blue ribbon, dozen shirt buttons, bottle of ipecacuanha, bundle of celery, bottle of vanilla extract, pound of almonds, pound of moist sugar, yard of white cambric, shilling's worth of chamois leather, box of glycerine jujubes for baby's cough, card of hooks and eyes, figs, dates, yard of lace like sample, boot-laces for Johnnie, packet of pins, piece of blue dress braid, and something for baby."

He arrives home with two lemons and an orange, and looks unutterable things when Mrs. Jenkins says:—

"You didn't have time to get the other things? Why, my dear, I could have bought them all in ten minutes."

A Pretty Case.

This is a new idea for the orderly woman. It is made of fine Russian leather rather harder than that used for pocketbooks, and the parts are prettily divided off for all kinds of pins, hair pins and little toilet necessities.

Advice to Cyclists.

To render a saddle soft and easy a simple method is to rub a few drops of castor oil thoroughly into the underneath side of the leather Too much should not be used, as the leather will soak it up and damage the clothes.

A lotion of cologne and quinine is a most efficacious panacea for aching muscles, if well rubbed into the skin. It is an excellent tonic for strengthening the weak members suddenly called upon to do unwonted duty. The proportions are sixteen grains of quinine dissolved in half a pint of eau de cologne, to be rubbed in directly after the bath. This will serve as a preventive of cold, a pain alleviator, and a tonic.

After winter storage, should it be found any rust has made its appearance on the plated parts of a bicycle while the machine has been stored away during the winter, it may be easily removed by rubbing the part affected with sweet oil and letting it remain for a day or two. Then rub it well over with powdered whiting on a cloth until the rust has quite disappeared.

Burlaps for the Wall.

The growing use of burlaps in wall treatment proves their desirability Decorators have found that they are especially useful in old rooms, where cracked unsightly walls or uneven partitions are to be covered. Some manufacturers put out the material with a specially prepared back, which takes paste or paper-hangers' glue readily, and goes on with ease and smoothness. It has been urged that the material is not cleanly, but it is quite as easily taken care of as paper or even painted walls. In lieu of the dry cloth or a wet sponge which these demand, burlaps needs a brush, and it can be as thoroughly rid of dust as a piece of cheese-cloth. Now that it is manufactured in many varieties, soft plain tints, baronial designs, and tapestry patterns, its use should largely increase.

THOSE TERRIBLE EYES.

Senator Cass Could Annihilate a Man with a Look.

Giant heads and brains were Webster and Cass. All the strength of New Hampshire granite was concentrated in those two sons. To look upon them made the ordinary man feel small. One removed to Massachusetts, the other to Michigan, and never were two States more highly honored. When these men met in the United States Senate they were the cynosure of all eyes, for they were as imposing as Mount Washington, under whose shadow they were reared. Wonderful eyes they possessed, and men have been known to shiver with dread when one or the other allowed his glance to fall upon them. Cass could look through a stranger in a way to make his brain burn and his kenes knock together. One searching stare seemed to destroy all mentality and fill the victim with paralytic emotions.

The other day the writer saw a man slap Senator Hanna on the back, cry, "Hello, Senator!" and receive a pleasant salute in reply. No man dared take liberties with Cass. In 1846 the propreitor of the National Hotel in Washington was a man who so closely resembled the great Senator from Michigan that he was often mistaken for him. An old friend, returning from a journey, entered the lobby, and, seeing him leaning against the desk, slipped up behind and hit him a terrific whack on the shoulder, saying cheerily and simultaneously: "Hello, old man; here I am back again! How are you?" Senator Cass straightened up his 6 feet 3, and turning upon the assailant his terrible, bloodshotten eyes almost annihilated him with a look. Not a word was spoken. That look was ample. The stranger was so "rattled" that he could not even apologize, but slunk dejectedly out of the hotel.

Later in the day, when Congress was supposed to be in session, the stranger returned to the hotel to shake hands with the proprietor and tell him all about the Cass incident. Walking bravely up he laid his hand down on his friend's shoulder, and, without waiting for a greeting, surprised him with: "See here, old fellow, you got me in a deuce of a scrape this morning. Why, you know I took old Cass for you; slapped him on the back, nearly taking off a shoulder, and the old fool looked at me as if he wanted to commit murder. The darned old lunatic—why doesn't he stay out of here? He knows"—— Again the great Senator from Michigan straightened up his 6 feet 3, again he turned his bloodshotten eyes, again he looked and again the victim fled. Two mistakes of that kind in one day were enough to disconcert the stoutest heart, and the man actually left Washington.—New York Press.

"PRACERS" IN PARLIAMENT.

Gladstone's Flask Still Unequal to Eloquence.

[illegible] of Commons is a very [illegible] assembly as far as intoxi[illegible]ors are concerned, but, [illegible] there is a very frequent and steady demand for pick-me-ups during every session of Parliament.

As a rule there are three occasions in the life of a Parliamentary man when he requires the "Dutch courage" which alcoholic pick-me-ups are designed to supply—the first when, as a new member, he timidly advances up the floor of the House to take the oath and his seat; the second when he rises to make his maiden speech; and the third when he retires from the House into the cold shades of oblivion.

The pick-me-ups of Parliament are not all compounded of intoxicating liquors. Each member has his own pet pick-me-up, and sometimes it takes the form of an innocent lemon squash. Mr. Jesse Collings always fortifies himself with one of these cooling drinks when he intends to make a speech.

In fact, the House of Commons is so much impressed with the importance of temperance that it is contrary to the standing rules for a member while making a speech to drink anything stronger than water. This rule—teetotalers will be sorry to hear—is more honored in the breach than in the observance. From the Prime Minister downwards it is broken with unfailing regularity.

When Mr. Gladstone was in the House of Commons he was the principal offender in this respect. Whenever he intended to make a big speech he would produce from the recesses of his capacious pockets a small glass bottle with wooden stopper filled with a mysterious compound looking like vaseline or bear's grease. As soon as this toilet-looking article appeared everybody knew that the G. O. M. was in fighting form. For in the "pomatum pot"—as it was aptly called—was a mysterious pick-me-up for renovating the voice and strengthening the lungs.

What was it? Nobody knows to this day. Mrs. Gladstone used to prepare it with her own hands every time William wanted to make a big speech. It was believed to be a concoction of sherry, eggs and honey; but whatever the ingredients they proved a splendid pick-me-up for Mr. Gladstone. On this lubricant he could speak for hours at a stretch.

"The Portland Range" doesn't give you worry—but comfort—and lots of it.

Great Carpet Week

—a week long to be remembered by you. Here's the story: We're about as proud as we dare be of the immense carpet business that's done here every working day in the year. It's a successful end of the store. But success knows no boundary line. This whole coming week will be Carpet Week—125 rolls have been "gone over" and marked from 15c to 35c a yard less than any other House ever asked. The quantity ought to last from four to six days—but early buying will be luckiest for you. 'Twill be a sale to make added thousands know our Carpet Store—a floor over 200 feet long, light, inviting, well stocked.

"Pay 75c a week—same as usual—if cash is short."

20 rolls 60c Extra Heavy Ingrains for 39c yd.
10 rolls 80c All-Wool Ingrains for 65c yd.
50 rolls 90c Tapestry Brussels for 75c yd.
Fully 6 different patterns in the Tapestries just mentioned.
20 rolls $1.25 Body Brussels for 90c yd.
10 rolls 90c Velvets for 75c yd.
10 rolls Moquettes and Axminsters—were $1 and $1.25—at 90c yd.

The Bedroom Suit floor couldn't be overshadowed by the most audacious carpet sale—it's got some of the richest things, from the $10.50 Oak Suit to the $35 and $50 specials, you've ever dreamed of!

That Hardwood Refrigerator—$5.49—with galvanized pan, pick and tongs "thrown in"—advertised last week. We'll duplicate last week's offer—snap it up quickly.

"Blue Flame Wickless Oil Stove."

"The Wickless Blue Flame Oil Stove" and "Monarch Vapor Stove"—both are great inventions of the age—worth your travelling 50 miles to see—we operate and show how really remarkable they are to all visitors. We've "Insurance" and "Quickmeal" Vapor Stoves too.

75c. A WEEK WILL DO IF CASH IS SHORT.

THE CHURCH IN INDIA

AN ESSENTIAL NEED OF HER NATIVE CATHOLICS.

They Require a Self Support System In Maintaining and Sharing Expenses of Their Missions—Various Attempts Made In This Line With Little Success.

Our excellent south Indian contemporary, The Catholic Watchman of Madras, has a very sensible article on the necessity of the native Catholics of India being gradually taught to contribute to the support of their own church, a lesson which they have yet to learn. The Watchman truly says:

"As to the native Catholics of India, they have always been the spoiled children of the church in the matter of money. The necessity of supporting their pastors and parochial institutions had never been brought home to them, with the result that the immense burden of maintaining missions has always been borne by the bishops, assisted by allocations from the Society of the Propagation of the Faith and the Sainte Enfance. The noble efforts of these societies are now being diverted to newer and poorer missions, and the bishops of India begin to realize the necessity of looking nearer home for the means of carrying on the ever increasing work of evangelization. Various attempts have been made to induce our native Christians to assume their share of the expenses of their own missions, but with very little success. Whether failure is to be attributed to the modus operandi we cannot say, but it does seem to us that our people would give more liberally if a proper and opportune system of collections was insisted on during Easter time. The natives are slaves to custom, and once the habit of contributing has been acquired all difficulties are over. Therefore we think it most essential to the success of missionary work that bishops should see that a collection is made in every village at least once a year. No matter if the first trial fail. Let the subscription book be presented every year regularly, and in time the people will realize the fact that they are really expected to contribute to the support of their pastors.

"Priests, whether they be European or native, should feel no delicacy in forcing the precept of the church on the attention of their Christians. There are many large and flourishing Christian missions where the Catholics can well afford to support a priest, and we have no hesitation in saying that, if they decline to do so, they are guilty of injustice to really poor missions, where priests cannot be maintained by the bishops for want of funds. The Sacred Congregation of Propaganda has on more than one occasion urged on the bishops of India the need of a self support system, and we have no manner of doubt but that sooner or later circumstances will force such a measure on our native Christians."

These are wise as well as weighty words and deserve the serious attention of our intelligent fellow Catholics of India, whether Indians or Eurasians. Since the establishment of the Indian hierarchy—more especially since the Syro-Malabar Christians in the south have been recently given even their native bishops—the church in India may be said to have emerged from childhood into manhood, or at least adolescence, and should no longer expect the exclusive parental support which a child naturally claims. Until this truth is realized, even the formation of a large and efficient native clergy on anything like a commensurate scale will not be within the range of practical policy.—London Tablet.

OUR LADY OF LOURDES.

New Grotto Dedicated In Her Honor on Mount Adams, O.

The monastery of the Passionist Fathers on Mount Adams was an objective point for many Catholics of Cincinnati, Covington and Newport the other day, besides those forming the immediate congregation on the hill. The occasion was the dedication of the handsome new grotto of Our Lady of Lourdes, the construction of which was begun a few months ago. The grotto is a reproduction in the main of the celebrated shrine at Lourdes, France, and the conspicuous features of it are the statue of the Virgin and the figure of the little girl, Bernadetti, to whom she appeared.

The services for the occasion were held in the monastery church and in the grotto, several of the fathers assisting in them. The dedicatory sermon was preached by Father Albert, who told eloquently of the history of Lourdes and the cures associated with its wonderful grotto. A procession from the church to the grotto was made by several hundred of those present, and water of Lourdes was distributed to a number of applicants. The new grotto will be a favorite shrine for the devout faithful.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Rev. Father Ryves on Spain.

The Rev. Father Ryves of St. Ann's church at Terre Haute, Ind., in the course of a sermon said:

"It seems that Spain has failed to learn the lesson of the century just closing and which should have been impressed upon her by the loss of her colonies through revolt against unjust and cruel treatment. I should indeed feel disinclined to speak against Spain because Spain carries on her banner the emblem of the cross. But Spain placed a man at the head of the army in Cuba who was as cruel as Cromwell was when he sold white people in slavery. Although Spain carries the emblem of the cross on her banner and Catholics do not like to fire on that cross, yet if Spain does not make her government a protection for human beings for whom Christ died she must take the cross off of her banner. I hope the Catholics will offer their lives for the liberty of those for whom Christ came upon earth."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

PLACE HARD TO FILL.

Cardinal Taschereau's Death Raises a Problem as to His Successor.

The death of Cardinal Taschereau of Quebec makes an additional vacancy in the college of cardinals which it will be very difficult to fill. Those who are in touch with ecclesiastical matters concerning the Catholic church will recall the fact that the late Cardinal Taschereau's elevation to the cardinalate was part of the fulfillment of the promise made by Pope Leo XIII to the British government—in an indirect and unofficial manner, however, as the British government has no official relations with the Vatican—that the empire should be adequately represented in the college of cardinals. This was determined upon before Leo's elevation to the pontifical throne—in fact, it was to be the outcome of the restoration of the British hierarchy 47 years ago, when the cardinal was appointed. At the present time England is represented by Cardinal Vaughan, Ireland by Cardinal Logue, Australia by Cardinal Moran and Canada was represented by Cardinal Taschereau, more worthy than whom no one could be found in all the Dominion. He represented not only the French people of Canada, but by reason of his great learning and broad minded spirit was the accepted representative of all Catholic Canada.

To find a successor to Cardinal Taschereau who will be so thoroughly acceptable to all classes of the Canadian Catholics as was his late eminence will be a very difficult matter. Now that the premier, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, is a Catholic, it is natural to suppose that he would wish the church to be represented in the capital city by the ordinary of Ottawa, Archbishop Duhamel, and considering Premier Laurier's conciliatory policy in connection with the Manitoba school questions it is possible that Leo XIII will favorably consider any suggestions made by the Canadian premier. If Archbishop Duhamel does not secure the red hat, the choice will lie between Archbishop Bruchesi of Montreal, Archbishop La Fleche of Three Rivers and Archbishop Begin of Quebec, who since 1888 has been Cardinal Taschereau's coadjutor.—Chicago Tribune.

MONK AND BOOKBINDER.

Brother Dunn's Interesting Life In the Gethsemane Monastery.

Mr. Hugh Dunn, who for the past few years has been staying at Gethsemane abbey, died there recently in the sixty-third year of his age of rheumatism. The day before he died he made his vow that made him a brother of the order. Those people who met the man loved him. He was a genial, whole souled Irishman. The warmth of his nature budded forth like a spring blossom, and the grasp of his hand recalled some pleasure. He was a genial companion and will be greatly missed by the visitors who met him at the abbey.

Most of his life was spent in Atlanta, where he was foreman of the Baptist Book Concern bindery department. There he lived with his family, but his wife died, his daughter married, his son became a monk at the abbey, and his little home was broken up. He tired of the world and desired to lead a more secluded life, yet not wholly away from association with mankind. The abbey offered just such a place, so before going there he purchased a complete outfit of binders' tools and fitted up a book bindery at the monastery. This gave him work at the trade he had mastered and an opportunity to repair the work of those old masters in that art who had lived centuries before him. Not only this—he could and did derive a revenue from the surrounding country, which desired work done. Knowing that he was treading down the valley from which no traveler returns and desiring that the bindery should live on after he had passed away, he procured permission from the abbot that his son, Father Edmond, should learn his trade, and there the two worked together until his health failed.—New Haven (Ky.) Echo.

Pope Leo's Prayer For Peace.

It was an impressive sight for the world to behold, to see the aged pontiff, Leo XIII, after saying mass in the Sistine chapel recently, turn and say these words:

"I have prayed to God with the whole force of my being, with the deepest fervor to avert war, and not to allow my pontificate to end amid the smoke of battle. Otherwise I have implored the Almighty to take me to himself that I may not behold such a sight."—Father Mathew Herald.

Catholic Church Notes.

Pope Leo XIII uses snuff, and it is made expressly for him by a firm in Baltimore. It is sent to Rome in one pound and five pound jars.

The death of Cardinal Taschereau leaves Cardinal Gibbons the only representative of the college of cardinals on this hemisphere.

Six of the 13 Dominican nuns of the school attached to St. Jarlath's church, Chicago, have volunteered as nurses in hospital or on the field during our war with Spain.

In a recent address Father Winters of South Norwalk, Conn., stated that Bishop Tierney of Hartford had within the past three years given the total abstinence pledge to 25,000 people, both old and young.

The Rev. Francis E. Gigot, S. J., professor of sacred Scripture in St. John's seminary, Brighton, has prepared an excellent book for Bible students in his "Outlines of Jewish History," recently published by the Benzigers.

The holy father showed a mark of his kindness toward Ireland by sending oranges to the students of the Irish college, Rome, on Easter Sunday.

An interesting relic of Michael Angelo, the great artist and architect, has been found in the archives of the Vatican. It is a notebook with prescriptions for diseases of the eyes.

COOKS IN THE NAVY.

FILL A VERY IMPORTANT ROLE ON BOARD A BIG SHIP.

It Is the Part of Wisdom to Placate Them As They Brook No Interference and Can Make Life Very Uncomfortable for Others.

The wise man-o'-war's man cultivates the ship's cook. As boss of the galley, and general manager of the mess cooks, superintendent of the stewards and mess attendants, and overseer-in-chief of all that appertains to the very important business of eating on board a man-of-war, the ship's cook is a good deal of a blue jacket, and he needs to be very carefully handled and nursed by all hands forward. Among petty officers he is second only to the master-at-arms in the degree of respect that he exacts and receives at the hands of the ship's company. Sailors and marines of experience fully understand the importance of standing well in his estimation. While they are perfectly well aware that they'll get their rations, anyhow, even if they happen to be regarded with slanting eye by the ship's cook, they are bothered by the knowledge that to be out of favor with the ship's cook is to be considered not altogether right, genuine or on the level by all hands forward.

It has always been thus in the American navy. No reasonable explanation can be given why even the old-timers in the service almost invariably seek the ship's cook's opinion of new men aboard before passing judgment upon them, but the fact remains that they do. The American man-o'-war ship's cook is always a man-o'-war's man of many years of sailorizing and he works his way into the galley through the possession of certain qualities, the most essential of which is that sort of ready pugnaciousness that fits him to give perpetual verbal or even fistic battle to mess cooks and strikers who develop ideas of their own about the right way to run a man-o'-war galley. The man-o'-war ship's cook is always a solid man in the physical sense of the word, and he is capable of very great extremes of friendship or hatred. The man forward who stands in with him gets privately prepared tit-bits and dainties such as never make their appearance on mess tables forward. The man who treats the ship's cook with indifference has a job to square himself with the ship's company.

A man-of-war ship's cook has the dozen or so of mess cooks, who do the actual cooking aboard ship, under absolute control. The ship's cook himself does not do any cooking. He is the master of the galley wherein the cooking is done, and the mess cooks who do the boiling and stewing and roasting are merely his satellites. The man with the representation of a curved iron pan on his sleeve for a rating badge apportions the amount of space each cook may occupy with his utensils on the range and on the galley tables, times them if they dodder around, criticises the makeup of their dishes with privileged frankness, makes remarks upon the cut of their jib in general and chases them out of the galley if they do not like it (though they rarely indicate it if they don't), and, in brief, holds them in a state of thorough subjection from the beginning of a cruise to the end of it. When a mess cook is shorn of the amount of cooking space on the ranges that he thinks he needs, he can't get the meals of his mess ready in time for the piping of mess gear. This not only gets him in trouble with his mess, the members of which call him many names worse than a blooming Dutch galleon with a jury rig in a head sea, but it gets him up to the mast and in the eye of the skipper for tardiness in meal serving. In a word, there is no comfort or happiness possible for the man-o'war mess cook who betrays the slightest disinclination to simply revolve in a remote outer orbit around the boss of the galley.

The Chinese mess cook is more diplomatic than the Jap, and he always achieves more success in the galley for this reason. The Chinaman aboard a man-of-war carries his sharp, discerning eye along with him, and the Chinaman in any condition of life seems to possess an instinctive knowledge of just the people it is necessary for him to placate in order to create smooth sailing for himself. It does not take the rawest, just-shipped Chinese mess cook on a man-of-war five minutes after getting over the side with his bag and hammock to discover that his duty aft is not a whit more hefty than his duty forward, and he begins the conciliation of the ship's cook by the time his enlistment papers are dry. For example, he snips off a dainty bit of the bird or the roast he has prepared for the cabin or ward room and pays initial tribute with it to the galley master. When he begins to sort over his gear a day or so after shipping he happens to find among his traps a "corking mat" (a sort of deck rug that bluejackets spread on deck for snoozing) or a silk handkerchief or a pack of Shanghai-made cigarettes that he feels confident the ship's cook would appreciate, and by these shrewd means he makes a hit where it is chiefly necessary for him to gain approval, and mortgages practically from the go-off about twice as much cooking space as he is rightfully entitled to and a hundred times the number of privileges that a Jap mess cook ever obtains in the galley from one cruise to another.—Washington Star.

MacLarty pitched for the Westfield team last Saturday afternoon and was well received by the people there. He pitched a good game and the visitors were unable to hit him freely at any time.

The Bachelors' Club team is arranging a game with the Leal School team for this or next Saturday afternoon. The Bachelors are beginning to consider themselves invincible and the Leal boys do not believe it.

Metz won the hearts of the small boys on the bleachers in last Saturday's game. After some good play he remarked "hurray" in a high falsetto key that kept the boys busy the remainder of the game in imitating him.

Probably the fastest man on the bases that is now a member of the Crescents is Neely Collins, the Fordham College crack. Collins was a fast man in the sprints while at college, and he shows it when he once starts around the bases.

Manager Mumford is trying to get up a game with the Orange Athletic Club soon, and then wants to arrange to play the Cuban Giants. The Orange nine is one of the strongest in the Metropolitan district, and the game will be well worth seeing.

The heretofore victorious rivals of the Crescents, the Williamsburg Field Club, will appear at the Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon. Last year the Williamsburg team defeated the Crescents after a hotly-contested game and they are hoping to do the same thing this year. The clean score of victories is a great incentive to the Crescents to win their next game, and the Brooklyn club will find it difficult to win.

Clarence Vroom will probably not play with the Crescents any more. Stevens is as good or better at the bat, is a strong fielder and has great ability as a pitcher. The departure of young Vroom also settles Lederer's position. At the first of the season, Manager Mumford had decided to put Vroom at second and place Lederer in the field as he feared that since the reorganization, the company might be too hot for the school boy. Lederer tried it for it a game and proved his ability to keep up with the procession and so he has been playing there ever-since This, however, assures him of of the place as Vroom will no longer be considered.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Captain T. A. Cumming will have charge of the Y M. C. A. bicycle run to New Brunswick tonight. This is the first run that the captain has taken with the boys this season.

A charming run for some Saturday afternoon is over to Perth Amboy, thence by ferry to Tottenville, Staten Island, and then around Staten Island. The roads are in excellent condition and none of the hills are steep enough to cause the ordinary rider any trouble.

All wheelmen of the city are invited to participate in the Y. M. C. A. Cycling League run to New Brunswick this evening. The start will be made from the Y. M. C. A. building at 7:30 o'clock. Captain Thomas A. Cuming will be in command, The New Brunswick boys have prepared a supper and entertainment for their visitors.

PYTHIANS DECORATION DAY.

Uniformed Rank to Decorate Dead Brethrens' Graves Next Sunday.

Crescent Company, No. 13, U. R. K. of P., met last evening and decided to observe next Sunday as Decoration Day, and decorate all the graves of the uniformed Knights with flowers and flags. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon the company will meet Rathbone Company, of Brooklyn, at the North Avenue station, accompanied by Unity Drum Corps, of Elizabeth. They will proceed through Watchung avenue to the North Plainfield Cemetery, where services will be held and graves decorated. From there they will march through Chatham street to Somerset street, to Front street, to Park avenue, through Fifth street to Plainfield avenue cemetery, where services will be held. The Knights will then take stages and go to Hillside cemetery and similar services will be held there. After that they will go to Scotch Plains and perform the same services over the graves in the cemetery at that place.

After this a collation will be served at Scotch Plains. The service used by the Plainfield company was originated by them and is now before the Supreme Lodge for adoption for general use. This makes the fourth year that the service has been used.

PHILLIPPINES IN A BAD WAY.

The American Victory Preludes Great Work for Christianity.

The subject of the prayer meeting held at the First Presbyterian church last evening was "Christianity in the Phillippine Islands." Rev. C. E Herring, pastor, had charge of the meeting. He gave two reasons why great work along missionary lines should be accomplished in the islands. First, because of the grand work performed by Rear Admiral Dewey and his ships; and secondly, because of the opportunity offered since Spain lost her hold of the islands, which will soon become the property of the United States.

He cited a town in the Caroline Islands, where there was a population of 1,000 people mostly Christians, and they were denied the privileges of their religion by Spain who sent gunboats, priests and convicts to the town expelling the missionaries.

When Mr. Herring concluded his remarks, Capt. Morrison was called upon for a few remarks. Capt. Morrison spent some time in the Philippine Islands in 1883, and he verified Mr. Herring's words as being absolutely true.

A FORECLOSURE SUIT.

Case of B. D. Ford Against Heirs of Mrs. Harriett Markham in Chancery

The foreclosure suit of Benjamin D. Ford against Washington L. Cooper and other heirs of Mrs. Harriett Markham came up before Vice Chancellor Reed in the Court of Chancery at Newark Tuesday. A special motion was made by the solicitor for the complainant, George Ball, to strike out the answer filed by Lawyer Charles J. McNabb, as solicitor for one of the defendants, F. M. Bacon, of Plainfield. No contention was made and the answer was stricken out.

Lawyer McNabb then made application to have the report of the special master, Charles H. Angleman, of Westfield, amended so as to include his client's side of the case. The Vice Chancellor granted the request and instructed Lawyer Ball to have Mr. Bacon summoned before the master and have the report amended.

PRIZES FOR BRIGHT SCHOLARS.

Miss Clara Van Fleet Gets $15 in Gold for Mathematical Work.

In the North Plainfield Public school Miss Clara Van Fleet, of the High School, is the winner of the $15 prize in gold in the contest in mathematics. Miss Elizabeth Hoagland gets the second prize, $10 in gold. Miss Bertha Stevens will be the valedictorian. There are thirteen members in the graduating class, and next week Friday the class will be photographed. The above prizes will be awarded to the successful contestants on the evening of commencement. The prize in composition has not yet been announced as yet.

A Partnership Dissolved.

In reply to inquiries, Miss Hellwig begs to state that she has been connected with the Plainfield French Kindergarten as co-principal in partnership, first with Miss Scribner and Miss Newton and then (or last) with Miss Scribner and Miss Green. The partnership has been dissolved by mutual consent. As mentioned before, Miss Hellwig continues teaching French and German at Miss Scribner and Miss Green's school.

To Be Examined for the Army.

Owen Holmes, of West Second street, left this morning for Elizabeth where he went to take his physical examination for admission into the volunteer army. Holmes applied two days ago to Captain Compton, who was in this city drumming up recruits last week, and received a notice to report for his examination this morning at 9 o'clock.

Thomas Quinn has now been promoted to be senior clerk in City Judge DeMeza's office.

JOTTINGS OF THE DAY.

ENTERPRISINGLY GATHERED AND CONCISELY TOLD BY REPORTERS.

Newsy Notes of More or Less Importance Bunched Together for the Ready Reference of Press Readers

—Ladies' white Swiss ribbed vests, lace tops, extra fine, 25 cents each—VanEmburgh's.

—Gavett has his line of fruit jars jelly glasses, jar rubbers, etc., ready now for the summer truck.

—The New Jersey Bicycle Club will give a concert tomorrow night in Washington Hall. Theodore Drury and Miss Maggie Scott will be the soloists.

—Work was begun today on the new culvert across Richmond street, at North avenue. The truckmen and teamsters have complained about the "dip" in the gutter which works havoc with their wagons and the freight they carry, and this will now be done away with.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. Zimmerman, of New Brunswick, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. F. A. Long, of the borough.

Senator Charles A Reed and family, of Washington Park, left this morning for Belmar, where they will occupy a cottage for the season. Mr. Reed will travel back and forth to Plainfield, looking after his business interests here and at the same time enjoying the ocean breezes.

Dog Bites a Child.

The five-year-old son of George Nolan, of the Elkwood building, was bitten by a dog this noon. The child was playing in front of the house when a man and his dog came along. The dog rushed towards the boy and seized him in the side. Had it not been for the thick clothing the bite would have been more severe. As it was the boy's mother took him to a physician who cauterized the wound. It is said that the dog belonged to Thomas Marley.

A Small Blaze.

A small blaze started in McDonough's shed, on Liberty street, between Third and West Fourth streets, last evening at 7:45 o'clock. An alarm was sent in from box 46 by Patrolman Flannagan at 7:52 o'clock Before the department arrived the fire was extinguished. The damage was very slight.

To Preach to Graduates.

The graduates of the North Plainfield High School will attend the services in Trinity Reformed church next Sunday evening, and to listen to a sermon to be preached by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D.

YALE'S TRAVELING LETTER.

It Has Been Circulated Among the Class Members for Fifty Years.

Probably no letter in the whole world in all time has been travelling for so long as that of the class of '44 of Yale College. Some fifty years ago some of the members undertook to keep a letter circulating, each man receiving it, adding whatever he considered would interest the others, and when the epistle got around to him again removing his previous effort and replacing it with a new one.

So the letter went on its endless way year after year, and to-day it is still moving, telling to the aged men who are left of the class of '44 what their fellows are doing—of their successes and disappointments, of deaths, too often, as the class dwindles away before the ruthless hand of time. Not all the survivors are members of the chain, but the letter writers are so well distributed that almost all the classmates are heard from and hear the news contained in the letter.

At present the letter makes a long journey in the intervals between its arrivals to any one man. A Worcester member is John A. Dana. He has just received the regretful comments of his classmates at the death of their old friend at college, Colonel John W. Wetherell, with comments on the newspaper biography which Mr. Dana had enclosed at his last sending. The letter had gone from Worcester to Lee, Mass.; thence to Chicago, to Minneapolis, to Passadena, Cal.; Birmingham, Alabama; Cape May and another New Jersey town; Plantville, Conn.; Pittsfield, Somerville, and back to Worcester.—Worcester Gazette.

Gun Cotton in Torpedoes.

Torpedoes are loaded with gun-cotton, which is ordinary cotton fibre soaked with nitric acid. When gun-cotton is wet it is a non-explosive except under certain peculiar conditions. Dry gun-cotton is very explosive, and wet gun-cotton will explode if the dry is placed with it and subjected to a shock or an electric current or fire from a fuse. It is the habit on men-of-war to keep the bulk of gun-cotton saturated with water and a small quantity of the dry for priming purposes locked up in the cabin or at some safe place where it will not be subject to contact and can easily be inspected. It is usually stored in a red steel box suspended to the wall or to one of the ribs of the ship. In another red box at a distance from all other explosives are kept the fuses for the torpedoes, which are made of the fulminate of mercury. These also are inspected every day and are never removed except in case of action or target practice.—Chicago Record.

A NEW TORPEDO BOAT

HOLLAND SUBMARINE DESTROYER AND HER MARVELOUS POWER.

Five Ways to Bring the Little Craft Out of Deep Water—A Discharge Can be Made One Hundred Feet Away but Sixty is Far Enough for Safety.

The Holland submarine torpedo boat has been under construction for more than a year, and it was not until last March that public trials proved the inventor's predictions regarding her marvelous powers. Of her first trip Colonel W. H. Glider writes:

It was just ten minutes before 3 when the crew of the little submarine boat went down into the mysterious interior and closed the door behind them that shut them off completely from the outside world. The adacent docks of the Raritan Dry Dock Company were crowded with interested spectators, who gave a cheer as the boat moved swiftly out into the stream, with the water flowing over the top of her superstructure and nothing in view but the top of the turret and the steel masts at either end, from one of which floated the Stars and Stripes, and from the other the Union Jack.

The tug followed closely behind the Holland as she moved up the stream, and at 3 o'clock her bow plunged beneath the water and it looked as if she would be successful on the first attempt. But as the bow went down the stern came up and showed the muzzle of her deadly dynamite gun above the water. It was then apparent that she had not sufficient ballast aboard to steer down, and her whistle called the tug to her side.

Another 200 pounds was transferred, and again the turret door was locked. The water tanks were refilled and, to the delight of every one board the tug, the Holland was seen to be much lower in the water than she had ever been before. Presently her screw propeller bgan to churn the water and she forged ahead slowly. Every movement she made was watched with breathless anxiety by the men on board the tug and with equal tensity by two women, who had braved the grime and dirt of a little tug to see the first dip of the craft that may carry terror to the stoutest hearts on board the mightiest battle ships ever constructed.

At that moment the forward mast was seen to dip down in the water, the turret disappeared from view and only a few feet of the top of each mast was all that could be seen of the Holland. A great shout of joy went up from every throat on board the tug, and the steam whistle shrieked a long and cheerful blast.

Then the little boat began to rise to the surface and danced along on a perfectly even keel. Twice more she disappeared below the surface and rose again at the magic touch of her navigator. Then he raised the cover of the coning tower, and as his bald head appeared above the edge he was greeted with three hearty cheers and three more blasts from the steam whistles. Every one was perfectly satisfied that the Holland submarine torpedo boat was a complete success and that her future was assured. Mr. Holland was asked:

"How many ways have you of coming to the surface from deep water?"

"Five. The simplest is to stop the engines, and then you float up. That is what the reserve buoyancy is for. You can blow the water out of the tanks with compressed air—that is another way—or you can steer her up when in motion; that is the usual way. The water can be pumped out of the ballast, tanks with one of the engines, or it can be pumped out with hand pumps. So you see it is easy enough to come to the surface whenever you want to."

"Can you see through the water when submerged?"

"Not a bit; that is, not in a silt-bearing river or muddy sound like this. Out at sea the water is much clearer, and you can see a little, but not much."

"How can you clear obstructions in that case?"

"That is always difficult in shallow water where there is much traffic. It is necessary to know your direction before you dive and make frequent trips to the surface to keep a good lookout. In deep water you can go down thirty-six feet, and that will carry you clear of all obstructions and under all shipping."

"Can you see the ship you intend to attack while under the water?"

"You can tell when you are directly under it, because your light is all shut out then, and when you pass beyond it grows lighter again. That is the time to let go your torpedo."

"How far from the vessel should you be when you discharge your torpedo?"

"It can be fired a hundred feet, but sixty is far enough for safety, and the probability of hitting is greater."

"How is the torpedo fired?"

"I use compressed air to overcome the inertia of the projectile and then fire it out with a charge of gunpowder.

BEYOND MY REACH.

It was peeping through the bramble—
That little wild white rose—
Where the hawthorn hedge was planted,
My garden to enclose;
All beyond was fern and heather;
All within was sun and shelter,
And the wealth of beauty's store;
But I did not heed the fragrance
Of floweret or of tree,
For my eyes were on that rosebud,
And it grew too high for me

In vain I strove to reach it
Through the tangled mass of green—
It only smiled and nodded
Behind its thorny screen
Yet through that summer morning
I lingered near that spot,
Oh! why do things seem sweeter
If we possess them not?
My garden buds were blooming,
But all that I could see
Was that little mocking white rose
That grew too high for me.

So in life's wider garden
There are buds of promise, too,
Beyond our reach to gather—
But not beyond our view;
And like the little charmer
That tempted me astray,
They steal out half the brightness
Of many a summer day.
Oh, hearts that fail with longings
For some forbidden tree,
Look up and learn a lesson
From my white rose and me!

'Tis wiser far to number
The blessings at my feet
Than ever to be sighing
For just one bud more sweet.
My sunbeams and and my shadows
Fall from a pierced hand—
I can surely trust His wisdom,
Since His heart I understand,
And maybe, in the morning
When His blessed face I see,
He will tell me why my white rose
Grew just too high for me.

EMBALMING PERFUMES.

Not Only People, but Crocodiles and Other Animals Were Preserved.

Myrrh, which was fabulously supposed to be the tears of Myrrha, who was turned into a shrub, was a plant of handsome appearance, with spreading fern-like foliage and large umbels of white flowers. It was found principally in Arabia and Abyssinia. In early times the perfume distilled from it was greatly in requisition for embalming.

Herodotus gives a detailed account of the ancient mode of embalming which is perhaps more instructive than pleasing. After the body had undergone much preparation, it was filled with powdered myrrh, cassia and other perfumes. It was then steeped in natron, a strong solution of soda, for seventy days. After this it was wrapped in bands of fine perfumed linen, smeared with aromatic gums.

Not only people were thus embalmed, but the crocodiles of Lake Moeris, which, after their mummification, were decorated with ornaments and jewels and laid in one of the subterranean passages of the great labyrinth with much pomp and display. The sacred cat, ichneumon and other cherished animals devoutly worshipped by the Egyptians were embalmed with scrupulous and fanatical care. On days special to the memory of the dead mummies were newly-sprinkled with perfume, incense was offered before them and their heads anointed with fresh oil—in the same spirit as we lay new blooms upon the graves of our dead.

When you buy a Piano

you naturally want to get the very best possible for the money you are going to pay. That is what we propose to give you. There is no Piano concern in America that sells Pianos as cheaply as we do. An ordinary Piano man will say "I must make a big profit for I only sell a Piano occasionally." We have always said "We make the profit small and thereby stimulate business." It has paid us to do so, for it stands to reason that quarter the profit when you sell ten is better than the whole profit when you only sell one.

Pay us TEN DOLLARS and you can have a Piano at once.

VICTORIOUS INSURGENTS.

Fought Many Spaniards at Manila and Defeated Them With Great Loss.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Hong Kong, June 17, 12:47 p. m.—Reports have reached here by a despatch boat from Manila of a severe engagement, the most important since Rear Admiral Dewey's great victory.

A force of 2,000 Spanish troops were attacked by a force of insurgents numbering 1,000. The Spanish were defeated with heavy loss. Many were captured by the insurgents.

The Spanish prisoners captured by the insurgents to date aggregate over three thousand men, including two generals of prominence and three governors of provinces.

A large quantity of supplies have been taken by the insurgents. The most valuable of them are two million rounds of cartridges that are now being used against the Spanish.

Manila is reported to be completely at the mercy of Rear-Admiral Dewey and the American fleet. It is completely surrounded, the insurgents on the land and the Americans in the harbor.

The sources of supplies have been shut off so that the populace are living on famine rations. The city will be stormed as soon as the first fleet of transports brings with it the American troops that are to take possession.

HAVANA NEXT.

McKinley Has Decided To Move at Once Against the Cuban Capital.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Washington, June 17, 10:55 a. m.—President McKinley has finally been won over to the views of Secretary Alger, of the War Department.

The President has decided upon a vigorous movement against Havana as quickly as can be arranged without waiting for the end of the rainy season.

This action was taken despite the strong opposition of General Miles, commander of the army. Gen. Miles favors the postponement of the movement against the capital of Cuba until the summer rains come to an end.

AT WASHINGTON.

Senate Committee Agrees to Report Favorably on Annexation Resolution.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Washington, June 17, 1:24 p. m.—Major General Miles arrived in this city this morning. He will consult with the President at once regarding the Porto Rican expedition.

Secretary Long, of the Navy Department, announced at the Cabinet meeting this morning that no important official despatches had been received.

Decisive news from the fleet and invading force at Santiago de Cuba is expected to reach here by Sunday.

The senatorial committee on foreign relations has agreed to report favorably on the Hawaiian annexation resolution.

Chairman Davis and a majority of the Republican and Democratic Senators will push the measure through. Indications are that the opposition is fast loosing strength.

SHOT STRUCK VISCAYA.

Reported Dynamite Shell from the Vesuvius Struck the Spanish Cruiser.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Madrid, June 17, 10:35 a. m.—Admiral Cervera cables from Santiago that the Spanish cruiser Viscaya was hit by a shell shot at a very high elevation, but was not injured.

Washington, June 17, 10:45 a. m—It is believed here that the Spanish cruiser Viscaya was struck by one of the dynamite shells from the Vesuvius.

GREAT DAMAGE DONE.

The Last Bombardment of Santiago Was Very Effective.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

With Rear Admiral Sampson's fleet off Santiago de Cuba, June 16, by despatch boat to Mole St. Nicholas, Hayti, June 17, 11:29 a. m—There is general satisfaction over the results of the last bombardment. Rear Admiral Sampson personally superintended it.

It is believed that the western batteries were totally destroyed by the fire from the American ships. The fortifications on the eastern side of the harbor were frequently hit and all guns silenced. The firing by the Texas was particularly complimented by the Admiral.

Troops to Florida.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Washington, June 17, 12:15 p. m—Major-General Brooke has just received orders from the War Department to select fifteen regiments of his command to be in readiness to move to Florida on short notice.

The entire second brigade at Camp Alger, Falls Church, is to be ordered south within a fortnight.

Gazelle Engine All Right.

The members of Gazelle Engine Company took their engine out for a "wash" last night. The place selected was the four-way hydrant near Spicer & Hubbard's mill, and with 1¼ inch nozzle a good stream was thrown over the chimney on the mill. The engine worked finely and everyone was satisfied that the engine is good for many years to come. After the "wash" the members adjourned to the Crescent Hotel, where a supper was enjoyed. During the supper speeches were made by the officers and regulars of the company, and a general good time was had.

A Quiet Marriage.

J. E. Plum, of Flemington, and Miss Emma Perrine, of Elm place, were quietly married Wednesday night at 7 o'clock by Rev. Charles E. Herring at the clergyman's home. There were two witnesses to the ceremony, one of them being Miss Abbott, of West Front street. The couple are living for the present at 404 West Third street. The groom is employed by James Clawson, the grocer.

A CHILLY RECEPTION.

Y. M. C. A. CYCLISTS DID NOT HAVE GOOD TIME LAST NIGHT.

The New Brunswick Association Seems to Be in a Bad Way, and Did Not Know Anything About Cyclists' Visit.

It was by far the chilliest reception that any wheelmen ever had, in fact, it was not a reception at all that greeted the thirty seven cyclists who went from this city to New Brunswick last evening in the regular run of the Y. M. C. A. Cycling League of Northern New Jersey.

As the body of wheelmen finished in front of the Y. M. C. A. building on Church street, New Brunswick, they were all prepared to partake with relish of the refreshments that always form a part of the entertainment for the visiting clubs. A cheer, intended to give notice of the arrival, was without effect. Then Capt. Thomas A. Cuming roused out a sleepy, grey-headed janitor. The janitor was dazed at the sight of the invading force, and it was some time before the situation could be explained to him. Then he said that there was no general secretary in New Brunswick any more. Neither was there any Y. M. C. A. bicycle club. In fact, he was not certain whether any of the association except the building remained. The visitors were welcome to the building, however, if they wanted it.

Then eight riders from the Rahway Y. M. C. A. and three from the Somerville Association came puffing up the hill and everybody went into the building and tried to enjoy themselves minus the welcome they had expected.

At last a few young men, the stragglers from the association, dropped in and explained that they had known nothing of any run. They had not been notified even of the forming of the League and so had no idea of this visitation.

Some of the visitors had friends in New Brunswick whom they hunted up. Others wandered about the town in search of adventure.

Going over, the Pumptown division, headed by Roy Phillips, Will Hobbie and Frank Dencklau, on a triplet, remained with the crowd, but they returned to Plainfield by themselves, the triplet pacing the others.

The main body left New Brunswick at 9:45 o'clock and reached here about an hour later.

MONEY FOR A MISSIONARY.

Warren Chapel Members Assist Miss Rachel Mair Financially.

The annual missionary entertainment under the auspices of the Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Warren chapel was held last evening in the chapel. There were about seventy members present and a large number of friends and members of the chapel. The exercises were in charge of Mrs. J. O. McKelvey, superintendent of the society, and the object for which the entertainment was held was to raise money to assist Miss Rachel Mair in her work in Africa. Last year the sum of $43 was sent to Miss Mair and it is expected that that amount will be realized this year.

The chapel was prettily decorated with American flags and wild flowers, under the direction of Mrs. Sutton. Miss Hattie Taynor also assisted in making the affair a pleasant one.

The programme consisted of songs and recitations by Florence King, Anna Martin, Ruth Wilson, Ethel Reynolds, Norah Schenck, Flossie Demarest, Minnie Freize, Jennie Smith and Carrie Krewson, and there was singing by the choir from the Junior Society. During the evening a collection was taken by Henry Wilson and Willie Brown. The entertainment was followed with the serving of refreshments by those in charge of the entertainment.

Franklin Council Nominations.

Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., met last evening and opened the nomination for officers for the coming term. The officers will be elected at the meeting next week Thursday evening. The excursion committee met after the meeting last evening and organized as follows: H. R. Thorn, chairman; H. M. Cooke, secretary; F. A. Long, treasurer; Isaac Squires and L. D. Townley. The excursion will be to Asbury Park, Thursday, August 18th. It is sincerely hoped that there will be a large attendance of the members at the next meeting.

BRIDGE FOR TROLLEY.

EXPENSE TO BE DIVIDED BETWEEN FREEHOLDERS AND RAILWAY.

Traction Companies Will Pay One-Half of the $20,000 and Somerset and Middlesex Counties the Balance.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, June 17—A joint meeting of the Somerset and Middlesex County Board of Freeholders, and the officers of the Brunswick and the New York and Philadelphia Traction Companies, was held in this place yesterday afternoon for the purpose of deciding about the erection of a bridge on Union avenue over Green brook, to be used by the trolley road.

It was decided to build a concrete bridge to cost $20,000 and each county agreed to pay one-quarter of the cost. Each traction company also agreed to pay one-quarter, which will make $5,000 each. The plans for the bridge are now out and bids will be received in a short time.

The Somerset Board also disposed posed of the election bills for North Plainfield by agreeing to pay one half of $15 instead of $20. The latter amount was wanted by the officers, but they finally agreed to accept the amount offered by the Board.

A PRESBYTERIAN SOCIABLE.

Chapel Decorated With Flags and Flowers—The Programme.

A pleasant church sociable was held last evening at the First Presbyterian church under the auspices of the women of the church. Those in charge decorated the chapel very prettily with flags and flowers, and small tables were arranged about the room, each one bearing a banquet lamp. The attendance was quite large and the opportunity given to become better acquainted was enjoyed by all.

During the evening an impromptu programme was presented. There were piano duets by Miss Remsen and Mrs. Gates, vocal solos by Miss Charlotte Messerschmith and Miss Kathryn Glen, piano solos by Miss Ida Tallamy, recitations by Miss Mary Lucky and whistling solos by Mr. Evans. Miss Mabelle Force was the efficient accompanist on the piano. The social was made complete with the serving of refreshments by the women in charge after the programme.

BROTHER A BRAVE MAN.

Commander of the Marines at Guantanamo Related to a Plainfielder.

Lieutenant Colonel Huntington, who commands the little band of marines, whose brave stand on the hill by Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, has made them famous throughout the civilized world, is the brother of Samuel Huntington, who lives on Franklin place. Mr. Huntington and his family are now away for the summer. Lieutenant Colonel Huntington has visited in this city, where he is known by a number who have met him at his brother's home.

The hero of Guantanamo is modest and unassuming, whose ability in the marine corps has landed him at his present high position in the force. He is very popular among his men and he accomplishes much by the force of example.

WANTS THE RAILWAY TO SETTLE.

Alex. Kane Has Retained Judge De-Meza to Look After His Interests.

Alex. Kane, the contractor, threatens to sue the Street Railway Company $200 for damages, he claims, done him a few weeks ago by one of the street cars, which ran into his horse and wagon on Richmond street, wrecking the cart, breaking the harness and injuring the horse, as told in The Press at the time.

Kane has retained City Judge De-Meza as his lawyer, and has instructed the City Judge to bring the suit. Kane claims that the company told him to get his cart and harness repaired and promised to settle for the bill, but, he says, now they say the bill is too high. The railroad company have not been seen in regard to the matter.

Seven Signers of the Pledge.

The usual weekly meeting of the Reform Club was held last night and resulted in seven signers to the pledge. Sylvester Scribner, Mr. Myers, Michael Armstrong, Michael Marcley and John H. Sayers spoke. It has been decided to hold a meeting some time in July to be followed by ice cream and cake, and also to hold Sunday night services beginning with next month, if they can be properly supported.

Trading Stamps Again.

The trading stamp companies opened their stores yesterday and notified merchants who had contracts with them that they would enforce the agreements now that Governor Voorhees had vefoed the anti-trading stamp bill.

LIVES WERE IN DANGER.

AN EXCITING RUNAWAY ON FRONT STREET YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

The Quickness and Bravery of Dennis Kane Stopped the Frightened Steeds—A Bicycle Smashed to Pieces.

If it had not been for the quickness and bravery displayed by Dennis Kane, of West Fourth street, a serious accident would have occurred on the corner of Front and Somerset streets yesterday afternoon, and Mrs. A. J. Grolimisch, of East Front street, might not be alive today. At the risk of his life Denny seized the bridles of a team of runaway horses, and stopped them just as they were about to trample women and children under foot.

The horses belonged to Mr. Schwartz, a farmer living on Clinton avenue, near South Plainfield. They were tied to a post in front of the Paul T. Norton feed store on East Front street yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock, when something startled them and they broke the tie strap and started down the street at full speed.

The streets were filled with women and children at that hour, and fatal accidents would surely have occurred had the horses run very far. When they reached Somerset street they attempted to turn the corner, swerved and took the sidewalk, just grazing the fountain and a telegraph pole. They had no sooner landed on the sidewalk than they turned off again, snapping a tie post that stood in their way.

Just where the horses ran up on the walk there were half a dozen women. They stood horror stricken at the sight of the maddened horses coming. Kane, who was standing near, saw at once what should be done. Pushing the women out of the way he leaped at the horses as they went by, caught the bridles, hung on for dear life, and succeeded in stopping them.

In their fleight the team knocked over Tommy Timbo's bicycle which was leaning against the curb in front of a store, stepped on it and broke and bent it all out of shape.

Schwartz and Timbo met together after the accident and came to some agreement about the damage done to the bicycle, and Schwartz promised to come to town Saturday night and make some kind of a settlement. The wagon was not injured in the least.

COLORED KNIGHTS ELECT.

Grand Commandery Officers Chosen in Cypress Lodge Rooms Last Night.

The annual meeting of the Grand Commandery, Colored Knights Templer, of New Jersey, was held last evening in the rooms of Cypress Commandery, West Front street, when the following officers were elected: Grand commander, A. W. Brown, Plainfield; deputy grand commander, N. J. Williams, Fairhaven; generalissimo, N. J. Newton, Camden; captain general, James Connett, Plainfield; grand recorder, P. T. Colding, Camden; senior warden, W. S. Jones, Plainfield; junior warden, Edward Turpin, Camden; prelate, Edward Paine, Camden; grand treasurer, William Douglass, Plainfield; sword bearer, B. E. Johnson, Plainfield; warder, J. H. Walker, Fanwood.

The officers were installed by P. T. Colding and William Douglass. After the meeting a good time was enjoyed by the members present.

AN EDUCATIONAL RECOGNITION.

High School Certificate in Modern Languages Accepted by Two Colleges.

Added recognition has come to the Plainfield High School from two of the greatest of the women's colleges in the country. Three years ago a French course was started at the High School. It was intended to have to have the pupils complete the course, which was to fit them for college in the subject in three years. The three years are now up.

Principal I. W. Travell applied to the faculties of Wellesley and Smith Colleges for an extension of the certificate privileges to modern languages, and the request has been granted. Now graduates from the High School may enter those colleges without having to take an entrance examination in modern languages. The High School certificate already admits them without examination in the principal branches.

Close of the Catholic Festival.

The strawberry and ice cream festival at the Catholic Club was closed last night. The affair has been a success both financially and socially. A musical programme somewhat different from the one presented Wednesday night was given, which included the medley sung the preceding night, by request, and quartette singing by Miss A. Keeley, Miss May Flanigan, and Messrs O'Connor and Harding. The attendance was very large, and everything was disposed of.

A YEAR OF STUDY IN MANY SCHOOLS ENDS.

CLOSING EXERCISES ATTEST TO THE GOOD INSTRUCTION GIVEN BY TEACHERS.

Little Folks in Kindergarten Work Acquit Themselves Creditably in the Park Club House—Public Schools at Dunellen, Westfield and Scotch Plains Close With Appropriate Exercises.

The pupils of Miss Fawcett's school and kindergarten held the attention of a large audience at their closing exercises in the Park Club last night. Fourteen members of the school took part, a few being absent, and acquitted themselves so creditably that both Miss Fawcett and her assistant, Miss Harriott, were highly complimented on the success of their instruction.

This summer ends the ninth year for Miss Fawcett as a teacher in North Plainfield. The exercises last night were, to a certain extent, a sample of the routine work done in the school, added to by a few recitations and a clever little farce, in which the characters were taken by three of the pupils.

The visitors were grouped around the centre of the assembly club hall, leaving a place in the middle in which the little ones stood while reciting. After the opening exercises, including two songs by the school, four recitations were given as follows: "Lyman's Valentine," by Lyman Hibbard; "Our Tom," by Miss Blanche Heideloff; "The Lost Penny," by Miss Kate Barlow, and "The Chrysalis," by Miss Gladys Crowe. In performing their parts the little ones showed confidence in themselves and the thorough training they have received.

Master Hibbard, who, with the exception of Gladys Crowe, is the youngest pupil, so pleased the audience that he was compelled to repeat his piece at the close of the programme.

The kindergarten games came next. All the pupils took part in these. "The Birdie in the Forest" was played, and in the game called the "Little Worm," all the pupils formed themselves into a long chain, with Evelyn Wells as the butterfly. "The Scissors Grinder" and "The Hunter and the Hawk" were exploited. In the latter game Lyman Hibbard was the hunter, Gladys Crowe the hawk, Cory Adams the robin, and Kate Barlow the bee.

Four pupils played school, in which Miss Helen Adams essayed the part of the teacher, and Miss Mabel Grant, Miss Mary Barlow and Cory Adams the pupils.

She called the spelling and grammar classes, but as the pupils behaved so badly she had to give it up and dismiss the school. Calisthenics were here introduced, and the little ones went through a wand drill.

Part two began with a pleasing little farce, lasting twenty minutes, entitled "The Mouse Trap." In it "Mrs. Somers," a fascinating widow, was ably portrayed by Miss Louise Saunders; Miss Marguerite Serrell made a clever "Jane," the servant girl; "Willis Campbell," engaged to "Mrs. Somers," was impersonated by Martin Fawcett; "Mrs. Somers" and "Mr. Campbell" were arguing about women's rights, and "Mrs. Somers" was boasting of how brave she and her sex were. At that moment "Mr. Campbell" discovered a mouse on the floor. At the word mouse the usual results followed. "Mrs. Somers" forgot her courage, and took refuge upon a chair. "Jane," the maid, followed her example, leaving "Mr. Campbell" master of the situation. The mouse proved to be a "sham" mouse, and the trick was discovered. The couple quarrelled, but soon made up, and all was peaceable in the household.

The parts taken by the little ones were difficult, but they carried them out with great credit to themselves and their teacher.

The school interrupted the exercises with two more songs, which were followed with three recitations: "One, Two, Three," Miss Evelyn Nells; "Uncle Podger Hangs a Picture," Miss Mai Faber, and "A True Story," Reginald Fawcett. The intricate movements of a march closed the evening's programme.

In one of the ante-rooms an exhibition of the work in drawing and water-color painting, executed by the pupils, was shown. This work is in charge of Miss Carrie Elliott, of Madison avenue, who was not able to be present last night.

Miss Lillian Force was the accompanist during the evening. Her programme of musical selections was of a patriotic nature. The various National airs were played for the marching of the little ones, and were greatly enjoyed.

Dunellen.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, June 17—Last evening the graduating exercises of the Class of '98, of the Public Schools, were held in the Presbyterian church at 8 o'clock. The church was filled to overflowing with parents and friends of the graduates, and the Commencement was one of the best ever held in the borough. The church was artistically decorated with choice flowers and the effect was very pretty.

During the evening instrumental selections were given under the direction of Miss Clara M. Davis, with Miss Mabel Ising, piano accompanist, assisted by Miss Emma L. Nelson, violinist; Mrs. J. D. Anderson, cornetist, and Robert Humpston, organist.

The exercises were in charge of Lewis T. Titsworth, president of the Board of Education, and he announced the various numbers on the programme. There were eight graduates as follows:

Lillian May Warden, Hannah Elizabeth Vail, Cora Evaline Pierson, Nancy Elizabeth Thomas, Frances Hunt, Louise Winter Brakeley, Lewis Thomas Churchill and Ruliff J. Fisher. Eacn one of the graduates presented an essay of excellence and showed that the scholars thus far have a good foundation for future education in life. The programme as presented is as follows: "Graduation March," Taupause, Miss Mabel Ising; prayer, Rev. A. I. Martine; singing, "Greeting Chorus," school; essay, "Small Beginnings," Hannah Elizabeth Vail; essay, "Richard Wagoner and His Operas," Nancy Elizabeth Thomas; singing, "Slumber Song," "Fawn Footed Nannie," school; essay, "Is Poverty a Curse," Francis Cecelia Hunt; essay, "Fault Finding," Cora Evaline Pierson; piano duett, Miss Nancy Thomas and Miss Josie Dealaman; essay, "Hawaii Should Not be Annexed to the United States," Lewis Churchill; essay, "Hope and Memory," Lillian May Warden; essay, "Civil Service Reform," Ruliff Fisher; singing, "Song of the Vikings," school; essay, "Friendship," Louise Winter Brakeley; singing, "The Bugler," school; benediction, Rev. Frank Fletcher.

At the the close of the programme President Titsworth made a few congratulatory remarks and presented the graduates with diplomas and prizes. The class motto is "Upright and Loyal," while the colors are ruby and gold. The class officers are: President, Lewis Thomas Churchill; secretary, Miss Nancy Elizabeth Thomas; treasurer, Miss Hannah Elizabeth Vail.

After the exercises refreshments were served to the graduates and members of the schools, and thus another successful school year closed. The instructors in the schools are deserving of mention for faithful and efficient teaching. They are A. J. Whitney, superintendent; Miss Imogene Smith, Miss Clara M. Davis, Miss Carrie Fisher, Miss Fanny Smith, Miss Anne D. Lloyd, Miss May O. Fulper. All of the teachers and members of the Board of Education were present and expressed satisfaction with the exercises.

In addition to the prizes received by the graduates, the following were also presented with prizes: Sutphen Kennedy, Charles Ward, Sadie Tilton, Willie Kennedy, Willie Giddes, Willie Herlick, Thomas Loughlin, Dora Reinhart, Irene Ayres, Lillie Kennedy, Mary Boyle, Kathie Samson, Mary Baldwin, Henry Kirchner, Pearl Dodwell, Mary Mahon, Richard Cooper, Eva Tilton, Henrietta Wedemayer and LeRoy Jennings.

Westfield.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, June 17—The Westfield Club hall was packed to the very doors last night, when the class of '98 of the Westfield High School held their graduating exercises. The hall was prettily decorated with flags and bunting, while one large American flag covered the whole front of the stage. There were also many handsome potted plants and beautiful cut flowers displayed on the stage, and these with the white dresses of the five "sweet girl graduates" and the teachers, who were seated on the stage, made a very charming picture for the large audience. The graduates were the Misses Lillian H. Williams, Mais M. Williams, Gertrude M. Wittke, Ethel A. Green, Mabelle B. Welch and Elmer Winter and Rogers Waldron. The teachers who occupied seats on the stage were the Misses May S. Apgar, Edith Hub-

THE PHILIPPINE AFFAIR

Further News of Fighting Near Manila.

WAITING FOR U. S. TROOPS.

The Fighting Continues Without Abatement—Many Are Fleeing from the City for Safety—Spanish Reports Confirming Insurgent Successes—The City Expected to Hold Out Until the United States Troops Arrive.

Madrid, June 17.—Advices received here by the Liberal from Manila, under date of June 6, practically repeat the news contained in the dispatch of June 15 from the Shanghai correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph, who forwarded upon that occasion information which he had received from Manila up to June 8, saying that on June 5 the insurgents forced the passage of the Zapote river and captured Las Pinas and Paranaki, since which time the fighting between the insurgents and Spaniards has been continous, the latter being gradually driven into the city of Manila. The Liberal's dispatch explains that "in the face of Aguinaldo's superior forces the Spaniards were compelled to retreat."

The Spanish correspondent also says: "The fighting continues incessantly. There are skirmishes at intervals day and night, and lack of provisions has compelled the Spaniards to yield at certain points. Both ammunition and food are scarce. Nevertheless, the Spaniards are animated by the best spirit and are fighting heroically. The wounded, who are crowding into the churches and convents, have been placed under the protection of the Red Cross. It is reported that the archbishop has gone to the insurgents in the hope of moderating their animosity and preventing acts of violence. The Jesuits are seeking places of refuge in the province of Betenzas, and the sisters are fleeing to places of safety in the province of La Guna.

"It is not expected that Manila will capitulate until the American troops arrive."

Our Transports Near Manila.

Hong Kong, June 17.—A report has reached here from Iloilo, Island of Panay, Philippine islands, that some United States transports from San Francisco were sighted off that place on the evening of June 9.

The British steamer Kwong-Hoi, has started from this port for Manila with a load of provisions.

The cruiser Charleston sailed from San Francisco for Manila on May 22. On May 25 the first transports sailed with troops. It would take at the best speed fully twenty-three or twenty-four days to reach Manila, and the transports were given until June 20 to make the voyage. As they may not have stopped at Honolulu, the trip may have been shortened several days, but still it is hardly likely that even the Charleston was sighted at Panav on June 9, although the fleet is probably near its destination by this time.

Third Manila Expedition.

Washington, June 17.—It was announced last night that the third and largest expedition for the Philippines will leave San Francisco not later than June 30.

It has also been decided that General Merritt shall on his way seize the Ladrone islands, leaving at least one transport there.

There will be ten thousand men in the third expedition and General Merritt personally will be in command.

He will be instructed to leave not less than thwo thousand men at the Ladrones, and in case the defence of Spain's mid-Pacific possessions should prove stronger than it is generally understood to be, he may land a greater number.

It is probable that the force left to hold the Ladrones will be made up almost entirely of volunteers.

The work of whipping the third expedition into shape has proceeded with great rapidity. It was not thought, however, until a day or two since, that it would be in readiness to start before the middle of July.

Should it get away on the date now set it would be impossible for Spain to rush additional protection to the Ladrones in time to anticipate the arrival of Merritt's forces.

Getting Fernandina Ready.

Washington, June 17.—The war department is hastening forward the preparations at Fernandina, Fla., which will make that point one of the most advantageous in the country for the concentration of a large body of troops.

Notices have been sent to the city authorities as well as to army officials, directing them to hurry the preparations. It is said at the war department that the special board which inspected Fernandina found the proposed camp so suitable by natural conditions and surroundings that several thousand troops could be accommodated there to-day if it were necessary to institute the camp at once.

The orders for this concentration have not yet been issued, although the inference is clear that they will follow when the Fernandina camp grounds are ready. The department calculates that the grounds will also accommodate 20,000 troops when all preparations are completed.

Another Flying Squadron.

Old Point Comfort, June 17.—There is now little doubt that the government has been collecting in the vicinity of Hampton Roads the vessels that shortly will rendezvous off Fortress Monroe to form a new flying squadron.

The Newark, which practically has been rebuilt at the Norfolk navy yard, is now in the roads. At Norfolk is the cruiser Cincinnati, which came out of dry dock yesterday, and which will be ready for sea again in a few weeks. The tug Apache, manned by Maryland naval reserves, is also at the Norfolk yard, as is the torpedo boat destroyer, formerly the fast yacht Penelope, and the collier Menemsha, sister of the sunken Merrimac.

SAMPSON'S THIRD ATTACK

He Opens Fire With Dynamite at Midnight. Forts Wrecked and Much Damage to Santiago.

Kingston, Jamaica, June 17.—Rear Admiral Sampson's fleet bombarded the batteries at Santiago de Cuba for the third time at daylight yesterday morning. For hours the ships pounded the batteries at the right and left of the entrance, only sparing El Morro, where Lieutenant Hobson and his companions of the Merrimac are in prison.

The western batteries, against which the main assault was directed, were badly wrecked. One was utterly destroyed. In others many guns were dismounted.

At first the Spaniards replied passionately and wildly, but impotently. Then most of the guns were deserted. Not a ship was struck nor a man injured on the American side.

It is believed that the enemy's loss of life was heavy.

As a preliminary to the hammering given to the batteries yesterday morning the dynamite cruiser Vesuvius on Wednesday night at midnight was given another chance. Three 250-pound charges of gun cotton were sent over the fortifications at the entrance. The design was to drop them in the bay, around the angle, back of the eminence on which El Morro is situated, where it is known that the Spanish torpedo boat destroyers were lying. Two charges went true, as no reports were heard—a peculiarity of the explosion of guncotton in water. Whether the destroyers were demolished is not known, but the destructive area of guncotton is large, and it will not be surprising if it is subsequently ascertained that one or both were destroyed.

The third charge exploded with terrific violence on Cayo Smith.

NOT TO BE A SHORT WAR.

Diplomats Believe Invasion of Cuba Makes Peace Impossible for Months to Come.

Washington, June 17.—A leading member of the diplomatic corps declares that the departure of General Shafter's first army of invasion to Cuba put an end to all present prospects of peace.

While none of the foreign representatives here has ever made peace overtures to the United States government, yet a peaceful solution has always seemed to members of the diplomatic fraternity as within the bounds of possibility, even probability, so long as the United States troops remained at Tampa and Key West.

Now, however, with 15,000 American soldiers about to take a position on Spanish soil, it is said that the conditions opportune for peace have undergone a material change, as it commits the United States to an aggressive land campaign and also makes it impossible for Spain to adopt any other course than that of defending her soil against invasion.

The presence of our ships at Manila, Havana and Santiago have not, this diplomatic official stated, constituted an actual invasion, although the ships had wrought much damage. The ships could have been withdrawn at any time. But with 15,000 troops landed on Cuban soil a new and more serious phase of the conflict was presented.

Instead of blockading and beleaguering a few Spanish cities, the American army has now entered Spanish territory, and that advanced the campaign from a passive to an active and offensive condition.

For this reason, he said, the hopes of a peaceful solution of the conflict had passed away, and he believed they could not be revived until the result of the first Cuban invasion was determined.

This would take some months, probably all summer, for this aggressive land movement would be followed by others, each one making the prospect of peace more remote.

Not Enough Bonds Issued.

New York, June 17.—An unofficial canvass of the street yesterday showed that there were subscription blanks already filed for five times the amount of the loan.

This means that financiers are offering $1,000,000,000 to the government. There are three duplicate bids for the whole amount and neither of these bidders expects to get a single bond.

Reports from Washington announced that the main treasury department had been completely snowed under by the mail applications and that 100 additional clerks had been set at work handling the correspondence.

ELOQUENCE AT BAY.

How a Preacher was Cured of Impromptu Eloquence.

It was a preacher who had that fatal fluency for whom an acquaintance laid a trap. He had a way of promising to preach, and on begining would say something like "I have been too busy to prepare a sermon, but if some one will kindly give me a text I'll preach from it." One determined to cure him. He therefore asked him to preach. The invitation was accepted. The time came and the visitor began his usual introduction: "Brethren, I have been so pushed for time to-day as to have been quite unable to prepare a sermon. But if some of you give me a text I will preach from it. Perhaps my brother there," turning to the plotter near him "will suggest a text."

"Yes, brother," came the response; "your text is the last part of the ninth verse of the first chapter of Ezra, and its words are 'nine-and-twenty knives.'". There was a pause, an ominous pause, as the preacher found his text. He read it out, "Nine-and-twenty knives," and began at once. "Notice the number of these knives—just exactly nine-and-twenty; not thirty; not eight-and-twenty. There were no more and no less than nine and twenty of these knives." A pause—a long pause. Then, slowly and emphatcally, "Nine-and-twenty knives." A longer pause Then, meditatively, "Nine-and-twenty knives." Again he rested. "Nine-and-twenty knives—and if there were nine hundred and twenty knives I could not say another word."—Harper's.

SHELLS FOR CAIMANERA

Attacked by the Texas, St. Paul, Marblehead and Suwanee.

TOWN'S DEFENSES RAZED

A Bombardment of One Hour and a Half—Bushes in Which the Fleeing Spaniards Took Refuge Shelled Also—Enemy Fired Five Shots in Reply, None of Which Did Any Damage—An Attack on Marblehead's Launch.

Camp McCalla, Guantanamo Bay, June 17.—The brick fort and the earth works at Caimanera, at the end of the railroad leading to the city of Guantanamo, were demolished yesterday in a bombardment by the Texas, Marblehead and Suwanee.

The warships opened fire at 2 p. m., and the bombardment lasted one hour and thirty minutes.

The Texas steamed slowly up the channel, leading to the fortifications, followed by the Marblehead. The Texas fired two shots as range-finders, both falling short and to the right. The Marblehead stood off to the west side of the channel and opened with her 5-inch guns on the fort, knocking down part of the wall.

The Texas then threw in some 12-inch shells, tearing down the wall of the fort and throwing the bricks and mortar thirty feet in the air.

After badly damaging the fort, the Marblehead stood farther in to shell the earthworks and barracks at the west end of the harbor. She knocked them into the air and when the Spaniards fled from the fort they were shelled by the St. Paul and driven into the bushes. The Spaniards fired only five shots, which did no damage.

After the ships stood out into the harbor the Spaniards in the bush opened fire on the Marblehead's launch, which replied vigorously.

The Suwanee then turned back and shelled the bushes, driving the Spaniards inland.

TWO OFFICERS TO BE TRIED.

Major Ramsay and Lieut. Leary of the 69 Regiment Will Be Court Martialed.

Tampa, Fla., June 17.—Camp Desoto, where most of the volunteers here are encamped, is aroused over the court martial which has been ordered to try Major Ramsay and Lieutenant Timothy Leary of the Sixty-ninth New York regiment of volunteers.

Both officers are charged in the specifications with conduct unbecoming gentlemen and officers, and the proof against them is said to be almost conclusive. Their particular offense was in engaging in a disgraceful street fight in Ybor City, a suburb of Tampa, with the local police authorities and in which they fired a number of shots at the latter and knocked down the city marshal, who, in the discharge of his duty, was endeavoring to maintain order.

The court martial convened yesterday and the trial began formally today. Since their arrest the officers have been confined in the guard tent of the camp. Colonel Duffy has been inclined to help his officers in every way possible, but the seriousness of the case compelled him to order the court martial.

Dynamite Shells Used.

Mole St. Nicholas, Hayti, June 17.—The first use in naval warfare of shells containing high explosives and hurled through the air by pneumatic power was made by the United States dynamite cruiser Vesuvius at the entrance of Santiago harbor on Monday night.

The Vesuvius dropped three shells, each containing 200 pounds of gun cotton, on the western headland at the entrance to Santiago. Only a terrific convulsion of nature had ever before produced such an effect.

There was no noise, no smoke, no flash when the Vesuvius discharged her guns.

Each mighty destructive missile started on its flight in silence, and silently arose, speeded, fell.

But as it struck the land shook, waves were raised as by an earthquake, the warships outside the harbor rocked. The report of the explosion was deafening, tons of rock were hurled in the air, clouds of powdered rocks rolled up.

TO REINFORCE SHAFTER.

Said That Five Thousand More Troops Will Be Sent to Join Regular Army.

Washington, June 17.—It is stated on excellent authority that 5,000 troops will be sent to Santiago to reinforce General Shafter's command.

The Spanish are said to have 15,000 men under arms at Santiago. They have the advantage of fortifications and breastworks. General Shafter has but 14,000 troops in his command. The additional 5,000, it is said at the war department, should certainly be allowed him.

Will Remain Neutral.

Berlin, June 17.—The Cologne Gazette publishes a note, understood to be semi-official, which reads as follows:

"According to trustworthy information, all conjectures in the press and in political circles, in Spain, which are being built on the supposed intention of Germany to abandon her neutrality in the Philippines question are entirely baseless. In Spanish official quarters the arrival of German men of war at Manila is regarded as perfectly natural, for the great German interests there demand protection."

Promotion for Hobson.

Washington, June 17.—The president has nominated Assistant Naval Constructor Hobson, the hero of Santiago, for advancement ten numbers in his corps.

This is equivalent to about 250 numbers in the line, and will make Mr. Hobson a naval constructor of the lieutenant grade and put him many numbers over all of the members of the class of 1885, with which he graduated.

SUPPLIES FROM NEW YORK.

A Cargo of Food for the Spaniards in Cuba.

Kingston, Jamaica, June 17.—A heavy cargo of food supplies has been landed here by the steamer Castle Edin, from New York.

The cargo bears similar marks to that of the cargo of the City of Kingston, which has been transferred to the Purisima Concepcion.

The cargo on the Castle Edin was shipped by the same people—Llera & Roca of New York—who furnished the cargo for the City of Kingston.

The Purisima Concepsion will sail probably to-day. She has obtained an English captain, Alexander Rennie, who will take command.

Her bill of sale is registered to Captain William Hunter of Montego bay, the pilot, who brought the ship around.

The Purisima's officers state that a Spanish naval officer was aboard the Twickenham, but had landed at some port before her capture.

Strong protests have been made by Mr. Dent, the American consul, against Jamaica being made the base for the shipment of provisions and supplies to the Spanish troops in Cuba.

Many Spanish ships which have called recently have been allowed to change to British register and take cargoes to Cuban ports. These, in many instances, have been landed at Batabano, and sent by railway to Havana. Others have been sent to Manzanillo, consigned to private persons, but later sold to the Spanish commissariat.

Fifty Thousand Men Wanted.

Washington, June 17.—Reports received at the adjutant general's office show that practically all the regiments now in the field which are to be filled to their maximum strength under the president's second call for troops, have sent recruiting parties to the states from which the organizations come to obtain the necessary men for this purpose. It will require between forty and fifty thousand men to fill the existing organizations to their maximum strength.

Meanwhile the war department is not making public the apportionment to the states under the second call for 75,000 men. After the regimental recruiting is well under way then the department will indicate to the states such new organizations as may be desired. It is preferred that as far as practicable the men recruited under the second call first shall fill the existing regiments and not be given the option of choosing between them and any new organizations. There are a number of states and territories which will not be permitted to furnish troops under the second call, as their quota is already filled.

Collector for Manila.

Washington, June 17.—The president has nominated Joseph F. Evans of San Francisco to be a commissary of subsistence, with rank of captain.

This appointment means that Captain Evans is to go with General Merritt's expedition to Manila, and after the military government is established Captain Evans will be appointed collector of customs for Manila and the Philippines.

Evans is an old treasury agent and has been here for some time making a study of the subject of customs for the Philippines. As it will be a military government, the collector has to be an officer of the army, and hence his appointment.

Steamship Rates to Go Up.

New York, June 17.—The saloon passenger rates agreed to by the steamship companies' conference in London will go into effect June 28. This will not affect the maximum rates, but raises the minimum rates of the Atlantic Transport line and the Wilsons & Furness-Leyland line $15. The present rate of $50 will be $65 after the date mentioned. The per capita war tax on steamship passengers will go into effect July 1. The tax for steerage passengers will be $1 on every fare up to $30. Between $30 and $60 the tax will be $2. Over $60 it will be $5. On July 1 the war tax of ten cents for each bill of lading will go into effect.

Nine Villages Burned.

Vienna, June 17.—Further details of the sanguinary conflicts between the Albanians and Christians in the Uskub district of European Turkey, northwest of Salonica, show that he Albanians have attacked and burned nine Christian villages, consisting of 450 houses, in the vicinity of Berana, near the Montenegrin frontier up to Wednesday.

The inhabitants have fled to Montenegro, whose representative at Constantinople has made strong representations on the subject to the sultan.

Another Comet Found.

Lick Observatory, June 17.—A comet of about the tenth magnitude has been discovered here by C. D. Perrine. Its position is: Right ascension, 3 hours, 29 minutes; declination north, 58 degrees, 36 minutes. Its daily motion is east one degree 34 minutes.

A telegram received by the observatory announces that another return of Encke's periodic comet was observed by Tobbutt, an Australian astronomer, on June 11.

No New Call for Volunteers.

Washington, D. C., June 17.—There was a rumor about the war department yesterday that another call for volunteers is about to be issued, this time for 50,000 men.

Secretary Alger and General Corbin both denied the correctness of the report.

Ex-President Harrison in New York.

New York, June 17.—Former President Benjamin Harrison is in the city on business connected with his labors as counsel to Venezuela in the boundary dispute. General Harrison will remain here for a month, after which he will go to the Adirondacks.

Behring Sea Award Paid.

Washington, June 17.—Secretary Day yesterday settled the Behring sea seal trouble forever by turning over to Sir Julian Pauncefote, British ambassador, a check for $473,151.56, in payment in full of all claims arising from the Behring sea seal industries.

Again Cadiz Fleet Sails.

Madrid, June 17.—It is again announced that the Spanish fleet has left Cadiz for an unknown destination.

TO CAPTURE CANARIES

No General Invasion of Cuba at Present.

MAY FIGHT SPAIN AT HOME

An Attack Upon Spain—The Porto Rico Army to Start Soon—The Point of Embarkation Will Be Fernandina, Fla.—Preparations Will Be Hastened as Fast as Possible—The Plans at Washington.

Washington, June 17.—It can be stated on the highest authority that the president is not considering a general invasion of Cuba at this time, nor does he contemplate an early attack upon Havana. It is stated that there will be no general invasion of Cuba until about October. The administration has another plan in view, and unless Spain, after the fall of Porto Rico, sues for peace, the army and navy of the United States will probably start a campaign against the Canary Islands. Plans for such an expedition are being carefully considered, but much depends upon Spain's action after a successful termination of the expeditions now on foot.

To Attack Spain's Coast.

The president is being strongly advised that it would be the best policy to allow the Spaniards to fight yellow fever alone this summer, and not to expose our troops to the infection during the rainy season, and that the army can be used to much better advantage in an attack upon Spain's other colonies, especially those near the Spanish coast, where the operations would be under the eye of the Spanish people, who are kept in ignorance of the reverses which the Spanish army suffer at a distance.

While there are some here who think Spain will sue for peace after the fall of Porto Rico, and the occupation of the Philippines, those who are well acquainted with the officials of the Spanish government say that Spain is not now fighting for her colonies, but to preserve her dynasty. A diplomat who has the best facilities for knowing the conditions says that the situation in Spain will not allow the Sagasta ministry proposing peace at this time. The greater portion of the population is kept in ignorance of the true situation.

If the United States should attack Spain near its own coast or capture the Canary islands, the Spanish people, it is believed, could not longer be kept in ignorance.

The president is said to be impressed with this idea, and the best informed officials in Washington say that he realizes that the speediest way of bringing peace is to strike Spain near home.

Orders have been issued by the war department to expedite matters so that the troops now in the South, as well as some of those at Camp Alger, may be ready to proceed as soon as possible to Fernandina, Fla., preparatory to starting for Porto Rico. It is the intention of the war department to mobilize nearly all the troops now mustered in at that point, and to have both the Porto Rican and the subsequent expedition to Cuba start from there.

The president intends to start the expedition to Porto Rico just as soon as the troops can be properly equipped and provisioned. The navy department is preparing ships for active service at San Juan, so as not to delay the starting of the transports when the war department has them ready. As it will take at least ten days to complete these preparations, the administration feels confident that Santiago will be reduced, and Cervera's fleet destroyed by that time.

Balloons With the Troops.

Washington, June 17.—What may become an important adjunct to the Santiago expedition is the military balloon equipment prepared under the direction of General Greely. It is in charge of Captain Joseph Maxfield. There was considerable delay in getting the balloon to Tampa from New York and this precluded any experiments with it on American soil.

The two foreign balloons obtained by General Greely in France and which lately arrived in New York are also now at Tampa, and will be used in future operations in Cuba and Porto Rico.

The Nictheroy Arrives.

New York, June 17.—The Nictheroy, formerly a dynamite cruiser in the Brazilian navy, soon to be rechristened the Buffalo and made into a formidable second class cruiser for the United States navy, has arrived at Pier 18, East river, where she will be entirely refitted with new boiler tubes.

This will take a week or ten days and she will then proceed to Newport News, to receive her offensive and defensive armament. Aside from her boilers, which have been idle and rusting for nearly five years, the Nictheroy is in splendid condition.

Cloudburst in Kansas.

Kansas City, Kan., June 17.—A cloudburst about 11 o'clock Wednesday evening, in the vicinity of Chelsea Park, a suburban pleasure resort about three miles southwest of here, caused the death of at least four persons and possibly more.

An artificial lake had been created in the park by the building of a dam across Jersey creek. The flood of water carried away this dam and a torrent poured out over the lowlands along the creek. Half a dozen houses standing near Jersey creek were carried away.

British Consul to Leave.

Kingston, Jamaica, June 17.—It is understood that the British warship Talbot, which brought thirty-eight refugees from Havana five days ago, sailed from Port Royal Wednesday for Havana to bring away the British consul there and any British subjects who are desirous of leaving the Cuban capital.

Lorillards Horse Won.

London, June 17.—Sandia, the Lorillard-Beresford's stable's four-year-old gelding, won the second year of the thirty-fifth new biennial stakes at Ascot yesterday.

ACTIVITY AT CHICKAMAUGA.

Men Expect to Be Ordered to Leave as Soon as Properly Drilled.

Chickamauga National Military Park, Tenn., June 17.—The work of equipping the volunteer army, in accordance with the rush orders received from Washington, is now the main thing at Camp Thomas. These rush orders, which were responsible for the rumors that fifteen regiments would go South at once, are taken by the officers to mean that a large part of the army will be used as soon as it can be put into serviceable condition. Just how long it will take to fully equip the whole army cannot be exactly stated, but the indications are that the work can be promptly finished. Ordnance supplies of every description began pouring into Chattanooga yesterday. Yesterday afternoon 7,000 rifles arrived from the Columbia, Tenn. arsenal, and to-day they will be sent to the camp and distributed. In several regiments a large number of guns have been thrown out as defective. These regiments will be provided for from this first lot.

Colonel Melville Grigsby has received notice from Washington that all arms and equipments for the cowboys are on the road and will arrive here within a day or two. The messages said they had been shipped several days ago. When the supplies reach the camp they will be distributed at once, and it will take only a short time for the regiment to be fully equipped. It is practically assured that Colonel Grigsby's men will be among the first to see service.

Several hundred recruits are arriving at the camp daily and all the regiments will be recruited up to the full strength during the next few weeks. The recruits come from all over the country and are secured by the recruiting officers sent out from here a short time ago. The recruiting work comes second in importance to the equipment work.

During the next few days nearly all the regiments will have rifle ranges for target practice. This feature of the training work has been considerably delayed, but the army officials have now become so impressed with its importance that there will be little further delay.

THE INVADING ARMY.

Will Not Reach Santiago Before To-morrow Night at the Earliest.

Washington, D. C., June 17.—The progress of General Shafter's army of invasion comes in for much attention, both at the war and navy departments, for there is a joint interest in the time when the army can fully reinforce the gallant band of marines now holding their fort at Guantanamo. No word is possible from this expedition before to-day or to-morrow, and then only in case Admiral Sampson has succeeded in repairing the cable at Guantanamo.

He has buoyed the shore end and the navy department is expecting almost momentarily to receive a dispatch direct from the flagship. If this operation is not concluded in a day or two then there will be the delay of waiting for the dispatch boats to reach Hayti half a day after General Shafter's army of invasion arrives. The officials will not hazard a conjecture as to the exact time of arrival. They say only that it cannot be before to-night at the earliest and is more likely to be the day following and possibly Sunday.

TO ADJUST STATE CLAIMS.

Board Appointed to Audit Bill For getting Troops Ready for service.

Washington, June 17.—Practical steps will be taken by the war department in a few days looking to the payment of the claims of the several states and territories for expenses incurred by them in the subsistence and maintenance of the volunteers prior to their muster into the service of the United States.

It has been determined to refer all such claims to a board consisting of an army officer designated by the secretary of war and an official of the treasury department.

This promises to be a work of considerable magnitude, as every state and territory and the District of Columbia have been put to more or less expense in providing for the volunteers before they were mustered in, and it will be the duty of the board to settle them with a view to the best protection of the government's interests.

MANY SOUGHT, FEW CHOSEN.

Twenty One Thousand Applied for 500 Army Positions.

Washington, June 17.—The organization of the volunteer army made necessary the appointment from civil life of a few less than five hundred staff officers and second lieutenants. The enormous amount of work entailed upon the president and the war department, particularly the adjutant general and his force, by these appointments, can be imagined when it is known that for the five hundred appointments there were more than 21,000 applicants.

Every one of the applications had to be briefed, arranged and filed, and before the appointments were made many of the applications had to be handled several times. Each one had to be answered and many of them were the subjects of considerable correspondence.

Sampson's Cable Ship in Peril.

Cape Haytien, June 17.—The steamer chartered to repair the cable communicating with this place, Guantanamo bay and Santiago de Cuba was ready to depart Wednesday afternoon, but, with characteristic Haytien diligence, her commander failed to procure the special clearance papers which he should have obtained at Port au Prince.

There is a serious delay in her sailing. It is expected, however, that she will leave before noon to-day and arrive at Mole St. Nicholas to-morrow.

The Spanish consul here is taking interest in the mission of the cable steamer and it would be a wise step for the United States government to furnish a naval escort for the steamer from Mole St. Nicholas to Guantanamo bay.

No Kingly Sinecure.

Subscribers leaving the city for the summer season can have The Daily Press sent to their new address by notifying the buisness office. The address will be changed as often as desired. "Home news" will prove most interesting while you are away.

The New Libel Law.

Those smart individuals of every community whose prospensities for "practical joking" are constantly incurring in them a desire to furnish their newspaper brethren with false news, to be exploited at the derision or defamation of the person who has been selected as a butt for their act, had better beware.

Governor Voorhees has signed the Gledhill libel law, which provides that any person who wilfully states, delivers or transmits by any means whatever to a newspapet for publication therein, any libelous statement untrue in fact is declared guilty of a misdeameanor, and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $500 or by imprisonment at hard labor not exceeding two years, or both. No matter how careful and astute an editor may be, there are times when he has been imposed upon by persons who have seemed willing to sacrifice their realiability and good name with the apostle of the sanctuary if, in doing so, they might satisfy a grudge, serious or otherwise, against some unoffending party to the newspaper.

Heretofore, the newspaper has been obliged to face the irate one with the whole liability and responsibility for the item, but under this new law, which goes into effect July 4th, the person at the bottom of the affair will be in a position to face the music with prospective consequences serious enough to relieve it of all humorous phases.

Back to Trading Stamps.

Governor Voorhees' name is legion in the households of many New Jersey women today. Yesterday the Governor vetoed the anti trading stamp bill, and today there is a rummaging of drawers seeking the coupon books that the long-delayed premiums may be secured. The trading stamp companies are all prepared to flourish as ever and levy tribute upon the merchants who think they are trade inducers.

Notwithstanding the powerful influences brought to bear to make the traffic in trading stamps illegal, the Governor felt that if he signed the measure it would be but a short time when the law would be declared unconstitutional and he therefore did not feel justifield in enacting it on the statute books.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

There are many strange happenings that form part of the experiences of every clergyman. Many of the most remarkable take place when some couple come to the minister's home to be married quietly. The other day a couple drove in from the mountains and called at the home of a local clergyman with the request that they be married at once. After the ceremony was over, the groom handed the clergyman a $2 bill.

"Oh," he sighed. "Times are hard The last time I was married, I gave the parson $5, but times are so hard now."

Then he told the minister the real comforting fact that the last clergyman to marry him had died two weeks later and he expressed the hope that the Plainfield divine would not meet with such hard luck. The two weeks are now passed and he feels much more comfortable.

Now that wheels are becoming so numerous and the army of wheelmen invade this section of Jersey on holidays, Saturday afternoons and Sundays, it is really wonderful how many little refreshment stands are springing upon every side. It is not surprising to see them on the main thoroughfares that connect the principal cities of the district, but they are not confined to those alone. Out on the country byway, beyond Dog Corners, some enterprising farmer lad has erected a stand. The road is in such a condition that wheeling in that neighborhood is well nigh impossible. Nevertheless the youthful proprietor says that his trade has been excellent. He explains, however, that most of his customers are his neighbors.

Councilman E. D. Moffett has an odd-looking cane which he carries on state occasions, and which has attached to it an interesting history. The cane is of Georgia maple, straight and smooth, with the exception of devices carved upon it by the jack knife of a life-prisoner in Macon prison, Ga. The cane was carried by this man, and a glance at the delicate workmanship displayed and a realization of the fact that it was all done by a sharp knife, will give one an idea of the time necessary to complete it. There are four faces cut on the stick—Grant, Sherman, Sheridan and McClellan, the shield and eagle, a cannon, the G. A. R badge, forty four stars, Sons of Veterans' badge and the Veteran Association badge. The carvings are finished off in indelible ink. The cane was presented to Mr. Moffett by a brigadier general, a near friend, who received it from the convict.

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

Next week at Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre, New York, will be made memorable by the vaudeville debut of the eminent character actor, J. H. Stoddart, whose many stage portraitures will live long in the memory of American theatregoers. With a selected supporting company he will present "One Touch of Nature," the little drama that is closely identified with his fame. A special scenic equipment will be given appropriate to the occasion. The vaudeville element will be of the usual high quality. Among the many leading specialists will be the Romalo Brothers, expert acrobats; Smith and Campbell in their funny talk; three Vilon Sisters in a classical musical act; Williamson and Stone, singers and dancers; Fred Valmore in popular musical selections; Howley and Leslie, character dancers; Joe Welch, Hebrew impersonator; Josephine Gassman and her pickininnies; Marie DeRossett, gun spinner; Hayes and Healy, eccentric comedians; Mitchell and Jess in a new sketch; and Allen Weightman, clay modeler. Edison's wargraph retains its recognized position as an attractive feature of the regular programme.

REDUCED RATES TO WASHINGTON.

Via Central R. R. of N. J., for National Educational Convention.

For this occasion the Central R. R of New Jersey will sell excursion tickets to Washington from points on its road at fare one way for the round trip, in addition to $2 to cover membership fee. These tickets will be good to go July 4th to 7th, inclusive, and for return leaving Washington July 12th to 15th, inclusive. By depositing tickets with the agent at Washington on or before July 12th, and on payment of 50 cents additional, the return limit may be extended to Aug. 31st, 1898.

A YEAR OF STUDY.

bard, A. L. Halsey, Blanche E. Felter, Maude Brainerd, Estella M. Clark, Grace F. Harped, Mabel E Read, Mazie C. Jones, Susan E. Colte, Lizzie Stryker, Emma G Binder, Lyde W Polk and Hattie E. Peck. The Board of Education, composed of President J. B. Green, District Clerk John J. Coger and Messrs. James O. Clark, Harry E Knight, E L. Taylor and Martin Welles, were also present.

The exercises opened with a selection by the orchestra, which was followed by prayer by Rev. N W. Cadwell, pastor of the Presbyterian church. "Helpful Bacteria" was the subject of a most interesting essay written and delivered by Miss Mabelle B. Welch. The class history was a short story of the class' past, and was well told in rhyme by Miss Lillian H. Williams The class orator was Frank Rogers Waldron, and taking for his subject "The Anglo-American Alliance" he delivered a very interesting and instructive address. "College Settlements" was the subject of a most interesting essay by Miss Mais M. Williams and was delivered in a bright and charming manner; Philip E. Winter had prepared an interesting paper on "Westfield, Past and Present," but he was excused from speaking. Miss Gertrude M. Wittke was the class prophet and her story of the future of the graduates of '98 was very amusing and very laughable. Miss Ethel A. Green, the valedictorian, took for her subject "Classic Myths" and made a very interesting paper which she read in a way which showed she had become well acquainted with her subject. The diplomas were presented by John B. Green, the president of the Board of Education. Mr. Green spoke for several minutes, giving the graduates much good advice.

Scotch Plains.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, June 17—The commencement exercises of the Scotch Plains Public school were held last night in the Baptist church. They were largely attended. Promptly at 8 o'clock the exercises were opened by a selection by the orchestra. Rev. J S. Braker offered prayer. After prayer the following programme was rendered:

Address.....Rev. J. S. Braker
Song. "The Star-Spangled Banner".....School
Orchestra selections all patriotic.

The church was patriotically trimmed. Three large American flags were draped at the back of the pulpit and other smaller ones tastefully arranged around the large room, forming, with the beautiful cut flowers massed around the pulpit, a very pretty effect. The graduating class were well remembered by their friends, the bouquets received being very handsome.

Mrs. Buckley's orchestra, of Plainfield, furnished the music for the reception that followed in the assembly room of the school building. The corps of teachers have worked hard to make the affair successful, and that they succeeded everyone admits.

Plainfield Academy.

The closing exercises of the Plainfield Academy, of 309 East Front street, of which John Dalziel is the principal, were held yesterday. There were no elaborate exercises, the principal and teachers chosing rather to let the work done by the pupils speak the praise of Mr. Dalziel's peculiar system of work.

Some of the work done by the pupils in wood carving and carpentry were shown to the parents, who were loud in their praise of the skill shown. The pupils all enjoy their school, and regret that they have the long vacation in front of them.

AT BOYNTON BEACH.

Popular Summer Day Resort Has Many New Attractions.

Boynton Beach, the popular summer day resort, is open again for the season of '98. Many improvements have been made in the place, and this season promises to be a very successful one.

William W. Stratton, of East Third street, is one of the men in charge of beach, and Mr. Boynton himself will have personal oversight of the place. Tomorrow afternoon the Sons of Malta Encampment, of New York, will have an excursion to Boynton, via the Iron Steamboat line. Beginning on July 1st, an orchestra will play every afternoon and evening, and there will be free dancing for old and young.

Hotel Arrivals.

The following are the recent arrivals at the Revere House: Mrs. S A. Brevoort, Miss Maude B. Fowler, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Wetmore, Miss M. F. deVelasco, D. T. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. H. M Fairchild, A. J. Miss Clara Kholer, of New York, is visiting her cousin, Miss Meyer.

Miss Gussie Wood, of Islin, L. I., is visiting friends here.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

LATEST IN BELTS.

Laces of All Kinds More Fashionable Than Ever.

(By special arrangement with the N.Y. Sun.)

Even if we do not always literallly follow the rules laid down for us by the oracles of fashion, we keep up a perpetual watch for the possible novelties. Simplicity of outline is the one thing for which we must strive now if we would be quite up to date with the latest advices from Paris. Small sleeves, scant skirts and the almost close fitting bodice are in high favor. Three yards is the prescribed limit of fullness for the very latest skirt. One of the most popular models has a narrow front breadth, and the remaining portion of the skirt is set on to a yoke as if it were a flounce. The yoke is narrow, falling just below the hips.

Many of the smartest gowns for both morning and afternoon are made of foulard. One special design, pretty for morning wear, has a plain five-gored skirt, measuring three yards and a half at the bottom, made with the lining attached, and no trimming. The foulard is red and black, and the guimpe waist, which is supplied with sleeves, is of soft white batiste, finely tucked. The silk bodice over this opens narrowly down the front to show the white; epaulettes of silk adorn the tops of the sleeves, square revers turn down on either side from the round cut neck, cuffs of silk finish the batiste sleeves, and all the edges are simply finished with a narrow fold.

Laces of all kinds are more fashionable than ever, and especially insertions which encircle the skirts of our new thin gowns. Venetian, Honiton, Guipure, and thread laces are very popular, as well as Chantilly and blond laces. A white lace called "Luxcule," made of braid and fine stitches, is very effective for boleros, yokes and any portion of the dress where flat trimming is desired. Tambour patterns on the new craquele mesh make a very desirable novelty. There are many inexpensive laces in narrow widths to form the little ruches used so much, and black Valenciennes is one.

The latest thing in belts to wear with shirt waists is a soft taffeta ribbon, five inches wide, made tight enough to wrinkle into half that width, and fastened with a pretty silver gilt buckle.

White Pique Outing Suit.

A stunning outing gown for the mountain or seashore is made of white pique. Although this is rather a warm material for hot weather it makes up so charmingly and [illegible] is included in nearly every woman's summer wardrobe.

A white pique suit which is somewhat out of the ordinary has the skirt made perfectly plain, with a stitched band of the material at the foot. The jacket has a rounded effect, coming down over the hips and back in the form of a basque. It is trimmed with stitched bands. Worn over a dainty waist of pale pink or blue lawn, this makes a decidedly jaunty suit.

A Simple Shirt Waist.

As the wardrobe of every woman should contain at least eight or ten shirt waists and as some new idea in the manner of making is always desirable, original designs continue to crop up.

A simple waist, suitable for gingham, lawn, or any fine material, has the back made perfectly plain, without a yoke. The material in front is laid in fine pleats from the shoulders and pouches slightly at the belt. The regulation shirt sleeves are finished at the wrist with a narrow cuff. Stocks are more fashionable than the standing collar and are usually of white pique.

A Tucked Dress.

Tucking is so very popular this season, for gowns of every variety from cloth to the finest lawn, that quite often some singular effects are obtained in the effort to be original.

A gown which is striking for its originality, made of tan colored drap d'ete, has the skirt decorated with three distinct groups of four tucks, coming to a point in the front and running up at the sides. The bodice is made quite plain, with the tucks arranged in precisely the same manner as on the skirt, this mode of ornamentation, also forms the trimming on the small leg-o-mutton sleeves.

Fifteen Thousand Violin Makers.

The only place in the world where violin making may be said to constitute the industry is Markneukirchen, in Saxony, with its numerous surrounding villages. There are altogether about 15,000 people in this district engaged exclusively in the manufacture of violins. The inhabitants, from the small boy and girl to the wrinkled, grey-headed veteran and aged grandmother, are all constantly employed making some part or other of this musical instrument.

A Cure for Insomnia.

The lecturer on health had finished his discourse and invited his auditors to ask any questions they chose concerning points that might seem to need clearing up, when a lean, skinny man rose up and asked:

"Professor, what do you do when you can't sleep at night?"

"I usually stay awake," replied the lecturer, "although, of course, every body should feel at liberty to do otherwise if he chooses. Are there any other questions?"

Perfect Understanding.

"Do you want my daughter for her money or for herself?" demanded the old gentleman.

"It's this way," stammered the young man, as he tripped backwards over the edge of the rug. "I want her for myself and I want her money for herself, and I want both of them for ourselves, and you certainly must understand."

A Pansy Center Piece.

An effective centre-piece arrangement at a recent dinner was a low oval mound of pansies. The centre was made up of the palest yellow, almost white, the flowers shading gradually through deep yellow into ruby purple, and finally the darkest and richest shade of that royal color for the extreme fringe.

Cup Custard.

An agreeable variation of the cup-custard is to flavor it with coffee in lieu of chocolate or vanila. The proportion is three tablespoonfuls of clear strong coffee to every pint of milk and three eggs.

The Belgian Government offers a prize of $10,000 to anyone who will discover a chemical that will take the place of white phosphorus in match-making.

Lauchstädt. Die Wittwe Minna Krahmer zog sich eine Verletzung des rechten Auges dadurch zu, daß ihr, während sie sich in der Küche im Dunkeln bückte, eine recht ungeschickt angehangene Drahtspitze in das Auge stieß. Es ist zweifelhaft, ob das Augenlicht erhalten werden kann.

Stendal. Tödtlich verletzt hat sich der Husarengefreite Blum, indem er beim Exerzieren vom Pferde in die seinen Händen entglittene Lanze stürzte. Die Spitze drang dem Unglücklichen in den Mund und kam an der oberen Stirnseite wieder zum Vorschein, nachdem sie den rechten Augenmuskel durchschnitten hatte. Mit Mühe nur konnte dem Besinnungslosen die Lanze aus dem Kopf gezogen werden.

Provinz Schlesien.

Glogau. Am 3. April d. J. entgleisten auf dem hiesigen Bahnhofe die vier letzten Wagen eines Personenzuges dadurch, daß eine Weiche umgestellt wurde, bevor diese Wagen dieselbe passirt hatten. Von diesem Unfall wurde der Bremser Schärke getödtet. Die hiesige Strafkammer verurtheilte den betreffenden Weichensteller, der schon einmal wegen fahrlässiger Gefährdung eines Eisenbahntransports vorbestraft ist, zu einem Jahr Gefängniß.

Görlitz. Die 4½ Kilometer lange Strecke Görlitz-Landeskrone der Görlitzer elektrischen Straßenbahn ist eröffnet und damit dieser berühmte Ausflugsort Niederschlesiens an das vorhandene Bahnnetz angeschlossen worden. Der Betrieb auf der neuen Strecke erfolgt mit sechs Motorwagen, das System ist die oberirdische Stromzuführung.

Provinz Schleswig-Holstein.

Altona. Hier soll demnächst ein Rennklub gegründet werden, welcher in Bahrenfeld eine Hinderniß- und Flachrennbahn nach dem rühmlichen Muster derjenigen in Baden-Baden zu errichten beabsichtigt. Es ist zugleich die Errichtung einer Trainingcentrale nach dem Maßstabe von Hoppegarten in Aussicht genommen.

Kiel. Der schleswig-holsteinische Bezirksverein des deutschen Fleischerverbandes sprach sich für Beibehaltung der freien Innungen und gegen die Einführung von Zwangsinnungen aus.

Provinz Westfalen.

Dortmund. Die Synagogengemeinde legte den Grundstein für eine neue Synagoge. Gegenüber dem neuen Postgebäude wird ein herrlicher Bau errichtet. Die Kuppel, der der ganze Bau zustrebt, wird auf Labrador- und Marmorsäulen ruhen. Den Bauplan hat Architekt Fürstenau in Charlottenburg gefertigt, der unter 59 Bewerbern den ersten Preis errang. Die Synagoge wird 1200 Sitzplätze fassen und die Kosten sind auf 451,000 Mark veranschlagt.

Great Carpet Week
—a week long to be remembered by you. Here's the story: We're about as proud as we dare be of the immense carpet business that's done here every working day in the year. It's a successful end of the store. But success knows no boundary line. This whole coming week will be Carpet Week—125 rolls have been "gone over" and marked from 15c to 35c a yard less than any other House ever asked. The quantity ought to last from four to six days—but early buying will be luckiest for you. 'Twill be a sale to make added thousands know our Carpet Store—a floor over 200 feet long, light, inviting, well stocked.
"Pay 75c a week—same as usual—if cash is short."

20 rolls $1.25 Body Brussels for 90c yd.
10 rolls 90c Velvets for 75c yd.
10 rolls Moquettes and Axminsters—were $1 and $1.25—at 90c yd.
The Bedroom Suit floor couldn't be overshadowed by the most audacious carpet sale—it's got some of the richest things, from the $10.50 Oak Suit to the $35 and $50 specials, you've ever dreamed of!
That Hardwood Refrigerator—$5.49—with galvanized pan, pick and tongs "thrown in"—advertised last week. We'll duplicate last week's offer—snap it up quickly.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning July 17. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Christians need never fear a comparison of their religion with the other religions of the world. Many good people feared the world's congress of religions, but such fears proved to be groundless. Elijah was not afraid of a test between the God of Israel and Baal, the god of Israel's enemies. Paul was not afraid to stand upon Mars hill, in Athens, and compare his God with the innumerable gods of the heathen Greeks. Our religion today will stand the test of comparison with all other religions. In the grandeur of its beliefs, the effects produced upon the lives of its adherents and the sublimity of its hopes for the future Christianity far surpasses all the other religions of the world.

1. Christianity surpasses all other religions in the grandeur of its beliefs. Its doctrines of God, of man and of the relation existing between God and man are infinitely superior to all modern religions. Brahmanism, the caste religion of India, is both pantheistic and polytheistic. Buddhism, which holds beneath its sway so many millions in India, China, Japan and other places, is essentially atheistic. It has no conception of God at all. Confucianism, the state religion of China, is also practically atheistic, having no real conception of God, and in all of these idols made by man's hands are worshiped in place of God. Mohammedanism has a distorted Christian idea of God. None of these religions has a higher idea of man than its ideas of God, and none has any way by which it can explain the relation existing between God and man. How inferior to our beliefs in an infinite, eternal, personal God, who has created man in His own image and who, though separated from God by sin, may be united to Him through Jesus Christ, His Son!

2. Christianity surpasses all religions in the effect it produces upon the lives of men. Christianity presents to man the highest ideals of life and gives him lofty motives for striving to reach these ideals. It teaches that a pure and holy life should be the aim of all, and everywhere the world over it produces the highest standard of moral life that the world has ever seen. The ethical teachings of Jesus are the best the world has ever had. Other religions debase and debauch men as a necessary result of their false doctrine and beliefs.

3. Christianity surpasses all other religions in its conceptions of the future. Buddhism is a religion of darkness and despair both for this life and the life to come. It is hopeless. The Mohammedan's idea of the future is a life of the grossest sensuality and sin. The hope of the Brahman is at last to be lost in Brahm, the universal soul. Death to the Brahman is the loss of consciousness. There is no hope of a resurrection, of a Father's home, of recognition of friends, only a rapid passing from one form of life to another until lost altogether in the one great soul. How hopeless! What despair as to the future! And how much more infinitely so when placed beside the Christian's hope of eternal glory and happiness in heaven!

As we compare Christianity, our beliefs and our hopes with those of others, how our hearts should burn within us to send them the gospel to give them true knowledge about God, themselves and the future!

Shall we, whose souls are lighted
With wisdom from on high—
Shall we to men benighted
The lamp of life deny?
Salvation, oh, salvation,
The joyful sound proclaim
Till earth's remotest nation
Has learned Messiah's name!

The Truest Friend and Helper.

The church teaches no one to do evil. It has no mixed standard of right and wrong. It aims to keep those who have not gone astray in morals in the straight paths of honesty, truth and virtue. It teaches parents to love their children and exhorts children to honor their parents. It warns men what will come to them if they choose the wrong in preference to the right. It is a great conserving force among men. Who can tell how great the wrongs of the world would be if we had no church?

When all distinctions become so confused that black is white and white is black, when wrong is right and right is wrong, it will then be possible to make out a case against the church as the enemy of mankind. But while love stands opposed to hate and virtue is better than vice the church must be accounted the truest friend and helper of mankind.—Independent.

Questionable Methods.

One of the drawbacks with which the church of Christ has to contend is the tendency to endeavor to raise money as a contribution to religious or benevolent causes by questionable means. This really deadens the nerve of true Christian benevolence and places giving on a wrong basis, while it taints the enterprise thus supported. Far better to give a smaller sum outright as a willing and thankful offering than to bring discredit upon the entire matter of Christian charity by ministering to frivolity or the passion of any questionable amusement in the name of religious benevolence.—Moravian.

The Picket Guard.

Missionaries are the picket guard of civilization. So much may certainly be said that the gospel and the mission schools are at present the most truly civilizing influences which work upon the natives, and that upon those influences more than upon any other agency does the progress of the colonial races depend.—Bryce's "South Africa."

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Lesson For the Week Beginning June 19. Comment by Rev. W. J. Yates, A. M. Topic, My Missionary Duty; God Send.

SCRIPTURE READING.—Rom. x, 14-17.

The more earnestly and soberly men think the clearer it becomes that the supreme value of this world lies in mankind. So far as we know, there is no other place in all the universe like this globe. If man is the most important object so far as known in all the created worlds, what stupendous consequences may hang for this and all other worlds on the race developing in the highest possible manner. But the supreme worth of man lies not in any physical beauty or intellectual attainment. The highest value lies in spiritual powers. Root and stalk are of value to the plant, but only in fruitage does its real character find its fullness. So in man all culture of body and mind has its proper place, but the reproduction of the divine image in spiritual nature shows the plan of the Master in making man.

All men worship. All men become like what they worship. Left to himself, man deifies the base things and becomes vile and vicious. This has been the case in all ages and in all lands. Heathen gods are earthly and the rites of their worship corrupting to moral life.

The gospel of Jesus Christ presents the one and only pure system of truth regarding God and man which the world has ever seen. In Jesus Himself is shown the only example of a pure life ever lived. He is the supreme fruitage of the race. He is the prophecy of what men may become. He is the inspires of all desires for like nobility of nature. In Him alone is found hope for other men.

The offers of help are made by Christ to all men. They are adapted to the circumstances of all men everywhere and are needed by all. No other way has been found by any one of attaining likeness to God and fellowship with Him. Here are purity, peace, goodness and love.

The one thing needed is to show men this loving One. The story of His love will kindle their devotion. His one command to us is to love one another and to go and tell others of His love.

Every true disciple of the Master feels the impulse strong within him to repeat to others the message which saves. The whole spirit of Christianity is that of evangelism. If our own souls know the joyous sense of salvation, the desire to have others share the blessed experience makes us messengers to them.

Wherever the missionary spirit is absent, we may be sure that the consciousness of personal salvation has been obscured or lost.

Those near at hand should be reached by personal persuasion. Multitudes are beyond our immediate reach. What of them? Send some one who can go. One of the most hopeful signs of the times is the increasing interest in reaching those in foreign lands with the gospel.

Every Christian heart should daily send up the earnest petition for the salvation of these in darkness and should prove the sincerity of its prayer by liberal consecration of money to aid in the work of carrying the gospel to all.

Our young people should seriously consider if their lives ought not to be devoted to mission work at home or abroad.

Others who are debarred from this work can by prudence and self denial support in part or in whole some devoted worker. Many in doing this are finding peculiar blessing in the feeling of a nearness to the work and in knowledge of results accomplished.

Indifference to the Individual.

There is much sympathy for the masses of the poor at the present time. There are great schemes and enthusiastic schemers for bettering the condition of humanity. All this sounds well, and yet it rarely does much good. The most deeply anxious one for society is rarely willing to do much for the individual, yet all elevation of mankind must take hold of single atoms. The best reformer is he who saves one man and then goes for another. In the wreck of a vessel the surest way of saving crew and passengers is to rig the life line and draw the people ashore one by one. There is too much tendency to sink the individual in the company. Organization can be carried too far. If it stifles individual effort and obliterates personal responsibility, it has gone too far. Co-operation is valuable, but it should never tempt one to forget his own position and duty. Society is good, but the individual must not be lost in the mass. Be yourself and help the next one to be a man. Indifference to the individual is suicide to society.

Our Country.

One of the greatest benefits of travel is the enlarging of the ideas which results and correcting the narrow views and partial estimates which are inseparable from experience in a contracted sphere of observation. If all cannot travel, all should read the results of others' touring. Especially should all our young people read the story of our land in its development of natural resources and arrive at some adequate notion of its possibilities. One of the best works to aid in this is "Our Country," by Dr. Josiah Strong. This should be read carefully by members of the League and several papers or talks prepared by different ones on various phases of the subject. A half dozen divisions or topics could be chosen and a whole evening given to the subject. A large map, photographs and other pictures will greatly aid in holding interest and fixing clearly in mind the facts. If all could be followed by a stereopticon talk with a good set of slides, it should be done. Ears do their best work when the eyes assist.

Prayer ardent opens heaven, lets down a stream
Of glory on the consecrated hour
Of man in audience with the Deity.

IN FACE OF DEATH.

During the winter of 1863-64 it was the fortune of Gen. Cullen A. Battle, of Alabama, to be president of the court martial of the Army of Northern Virginia. One bleak December morning, while the snow covered the ground and the wind howled around his camp, he left his bivouac fire to attend the session of court at Round Oak Church. Case after case was disposed of, and at length the case of the Confederate States vs. Edward Cooper was called—charge, desertion.

A low murmur rose spontaneously from the battle-scarred spectators as the young artilleryman arose from the prisoners' bench, and in response to the question, "Guilty or not guilty?" answered, "Not guilty." The Judge Advocate was proceeding to open the prosecution when the Court, observing that the prisoner was unattended by counsel, interposed, and inquired of the accused, "Who is your counsel?" He replied, "I have no counsel."

Supposing that it was Cooper's purpose to represent himself before the Court, the Judge Advocate was instructed to proceed. Every charge and specification against the prisoner was sustained. The prisoner was then told to introduce his witnesses. He replied: "I have no witnesses." Astonished at the calmness with which he seemed to be submitting to what he regarded as inevitable fate, Gen. Battle said to him: "Have you no defense? Is it possible that you abandoned your comrades and deserted your colors in the presence of the enemy without any reason?"

He answered: "There was a reason, but it will not avail me before a military court."

Gen. Battle then said:

"Perhaps you are mistaken; you are charged with the highest crime known to military law, and it is your duty to make known the causes that influenced your actions."

For the first time Cooper's manly form trembled and his blue eyes swam in tears. Approaching the president of the court, he presented a letter, saying as he did so:

"There, General, is what did it."

Gen. Battle opened the letter and in a moment his eyes filled with tears. It was passed from one to another of the court until all had seen it, and those stern warriors who had passed with Stonewall Jackson through a hundred battles, wept like children. As soon as the president sufficiently recovered his self-possession he read the letter as the defense of the prisoner. It was in these words:

"Dear Edward: I have always been proud of you; since your connection with the Confederate Army I have been prouder of you than ever before. I would not have you do anything wrong for the world; but before God, Edward, unless you come home we must die! Last night I was aroused by little Eddie's crying: "Oh, mamma, I'm so hungry!" And Lucy, Edward, your darling Lucy, she never complains, but grows thinner and thinner every day. And before God, Edward, unless you come we must die. Your Mary."

Turning to the prisoner, Gen. Battle asked: "What did you do when you received this letter?" He replied:

"I made application for a furlough, and it was rejected; again I made application, and it was rejected; a third time I made application, and it was rejected; and that night as I wandered backward and forward in the camp, thinking of my home, the wild eyes of Lucy looking up to me, with the burning words of Mary sinking in my brain, I was no longer the confederate soldier, but I was the father of Lucy and the husband of Mary, and I would have passed those lines if every gun in the battery had been fired upon me.

"When I arrived home Mary ran out to meet me, and embraced me, and whispered:

"'Oh, Edward, I am so happy; I am so glad you got your furlough.' She must have felt me shudder, for she turned as pale as death, and catching her breath at every word, she said:

"'Have you come without your furlough? O, Edward, go back! Go back! Let me and the children go down to the grave together; but, oh, for heaven's sake, save the honor of your name!"

"And I am here, gentlemen; not brought here by military power, but in obedience to the command of Mary, to abide the sentence of your court."

Every officer of that court martial felt the force of the prisoner's words. Before them stood, in beatific vision, the eloquent pleader for a husband's and a father's wrongs; but they had been trained by the great leader, Robert E. Lee, to tread the path of duty though the lightning flash scorched the ground beneath their feet, and each in his turn pronounced the verdict, "Guilty."

Fortunately for humanity, fortunately for the confederacy, the proceedings of the court were reviewed by the commanding General, and upon the record was written:

"Headquarters A. N. V.

"The finding of the court approved. The prisoner is pardoned, and will report to his company.

—Washington Post.

"Are we very much interested in this matter?" inquired the European monarch.

"Somewhat," replied the Minister.

"That doesn't answer my question with sufficient accuracy. What I wish to know is whether we are sufficiently interested to warrant our offering any 'disinterested remarks.'"—Washington Star.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Miss Emma Kitchen, of Duer street, has purchased a new bicycle.

The Eldridge Bicycle Company received a shipment of new Eldridge wheels yesterday.

The Frank L. C. Martin Cycle Company have put in a line of revolvers and cartridges. They will also handle fireworks this year, and are already getting in their supply for the Fourth. They will sell, too, at lowest prices.

The diamond at the Crescent Oval is in decidedly better shape than it was in the first of the season. It still lacks the excellence of last year's diamond. Manager Mumford hopes to get it in just as nice shape before the summer ends.

Henry Staats, of Park avenue, is arranging for a series of road races to be held on Park avenue Tuesday night at 7 o'clock. The course is from Randolph road to Holly's corner and back, which is five miles. Prizes will be awarded to the winners, and handicaps will be arranged later.

An exciting game is promised at the Orescent Oval tomorrow afternoon when the Crescents will meet their old rivals, the Williamsburg Field Club. Last year the Williamsburg Field Club, which comes from Brooklyn, defeated the Crescents. The local team hopes to turn the tables on them this time. The Brooklyn team is considerably strengthened over what it was last year so a hard fight may be looked for.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

Entries to the race meet to be given by the Central Union Jersey Trotting Association on Wednesday and Thursday next have closed, and all the classes are well filled, as may be seen by reference to advertisement in this issue. Those best informed are sanguine that many exciting finishes and hard fought races between the trotters and pacers will take place over the local track during the two days mentioned. Plainfield horsemen have responded nobly to the call for entries and nearly all our best horses will compete against others from all parts of the State. The race in which great interest seems to centre is the general road wagon race, owners to drive, and some of those who will contest in this race already feel sanguine that they have a mortgage on the said silver cup, donated by R. A Fairbairn, to this race. The matinee races tomorrow are expected to give an indication of the possible winner of the wagon race, as the horses entered in the several races for Wednesday and Thursday, will try conclusions with each other at that time.

ROD AND GUN.

Fred Sandford and John Haberle caught sixteen bass in New Market pond Wednesday.

A MECHANICAL ENGINEER NOW.

Walter B. Rittenhouse Graduated From Stevens Institute of Technology.

Among the sixty-five graduates at Stevens Institute of Technology, Hoboken, who received their diplomas last evening was Walter B. Rittenhouse, of East Sixth street. Besides the coveted sheepskin, he received the degree of M. E., mechanical engineer. The course at Stevens is the most complete in that branch of any educational institution in the country and a graduate from Stevens is considered well prepared.

Rittenhouse attended the Plainfield Public Schools and was a member of the class of '95, in the High School. He left in 1893, and entered the Stevens Prep School, going into the Institute the next year. He has always stood high in his classes. He was chosen class treasurer. He graduated among the highest in his class.

Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Rittenhouse, of this city, were present at the commencement exercises.

BOROUGH PAYS TO BE PAID.

Five Dollars Due to Dog Catcher Will Settle His Fine for Fighting.

North Plainfield is at present without a dog catcher and the reason for it is that the man who held that position was arrested this morning and locked up Isaac Randolph is his name and he was living with Mrs. Freeman and her daughter on Race street. This morning Randolph and the daughter engaged in a quarrel, with the result that Randolph knocked Miss Freeman down and slapped her face. The young woman had Randolph arrested, and when he was arraigned before Recorder Long a fine of fine of $5 or five days was imposed. As the borough owes Randolph about $5 for his services as dog catcher, he will be released and his wages will be used to pay his fine. It will now be the duty of the borough to secure another dog catcher.

To Celebrate the Fourth.

Friendship Council, No. 81, Jr. O. U A. M., of New Market, will celebrate the Fourth of July this year in a very appropriate manner with athletic sports in the afternoon and fireworks in the evening. The committee in charge are sparing no pains or expense to make this year's the grandest celebration ever held in New Market. The grounds are beautifully situated along the banks of the lake, and are spacious and well shaded. There will be several entirely new features in the afternoon and the fireworks will surpass anything ever before presented in this section. The committee, in order to give their whole time and attention to the sports and fireworks, do not intend to run the refreshment stands, but propose to let them out. See adv. in another column.

A Lively Runaway.

A horse belonging to John Kelly, a hackman, living on Clinton avenue, ran away yesterday afternoon back of New Market. One of the wheels broke and frightened the horse so that he ran away. By the time the animal reached Front street he was tired and weak, and probably so blind with fright that he could not see where he was going. In front of the New Market postoffice a lightwood wagon stood close to the gutter, and Kelly's horse jumped into it badly damaging it. Kelly's horse was caught and taken to Roberts' stable where its owner soon came after it.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

John Bonnell, of Grand Rapids, Michigan, who has been visiting Alfred Bonnell, of Manning avenue, has returned home.

Rutherford H. Daily, of Manning avenue, went to Sea Girt yesterday to enlist in Company H, and he will be assigned to that Company very soon.

The wedding of Miss Emma Vail Case, daughter of Col. Rufus K. Case, of 117 East Ninth street, to Mr. Geo. H. L. Morton, of Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., will take place at 5 o'clock Wednesday, June 22d, at the bride's home. The invitations are restricted to the two families and a few intimate friends of both parties.

Aged Lincoln Woman Dead.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Lincoln June 17.—Mrs. Hester Winans, an old and respected lady of this place, died at her home on Cedar lane last night, aged 84 years. She had been ill for some time and died of a complication of diseases. One daughter, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Harris, who resided with her mother, survives her.

Prize in Philosophy.

Isaac Titsworth of Dunellen, a member of the famous class of '95 at the Plainfield High School, is to graduate next year from Rutgers College. He has just been awarded the first Junior prize in philosophy. The prize is $25 in gold. Among the Juniors in the contest were the two men who won the pro entrance honors.

Bullet Glanced and Struck the Eye.

Charles Maltby and Bert Hinrichs were in the cellar of Lister's store shooting at a shovel, when one of the bullets glanced and struck Matthew Sweeny in the eye. The boy was sent to Dr. Ard for treatment. The injury was not serious.

CUBAN MAIDS AND MATRONS.

Old-Time Restrictions No Longer Observed in Havana Society.

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Springer, whose husband was attached to our legation in Havana, has excellent opportunities of observing society in Cuba, and in Leslie's Weekly she tells something about the maids and matrons of the "Gem of the Antilles."

Slender, graceful Cuban maids, with smoothly plaited tresses, black as the raven's wing; large, lustrous, dreamy black eyes; clear, pale complexion, resembling the waxen tint of the lily, have their pretty heads filled with dreams of love before they quit the schoolroom.

The strict watch maintained over the tender buds, the castiron rules of etiquette which prohibit them from too great an indulgence in athletic sports or outdoor life, which a Northern maid enjoys, precludes romantic ideas, and, rendering her less susceptible to the tender passion, which is fostered by a secluded existence, may be the reason why Cuban girls look forward to matrimony as a release from these irksome bonds. The romantic manner in which courtship is carried on tends to keep alive their illusions, for lovers usually walk up and down before their lady love's dwelling, like a sentinel on duty, because they are debarred from calling on a maiden until formally engaged, and then they can only see her in the presence of the family or exchange tender nothings under the Argus eye of a mamma, who keeps a strict watch over her offspring.

Many years ago no gentleman was permitted to touch a lady's hand, but he would bow deeply before her; while nowadays shaking hands is even more common than among our own people. It used to be the height of impropriety for a bride to be seen until the expiration of eight days after the wedding, and she would keep in strict seclusion during that period; while now the bridal couple do not shun society. One of the customs still prevalent is that no gentleman can escort a lady as far as the next corner, although his hair were snowy white, if she were not a member of his own family. However, greater intercourse with foreign nations, more extended travel—for Cubans are cosmopolitan—have tended to modify many of their customs. There is a peculiar feature in Spanish law which favors lovers. Provided a suitor can support a wife, no matter how low his social condition, and how inferior to that of the girl he loves, if she is willing to marry him in spite of her parents' opposition, he can appeal to law, the judge removes her from her own home to a friend's house and the marriage takes place.

Divorce is unknown in Cuba, because the Roman Catholic church does not sanction divorce, although separation is allowable in extreme cases. However, neither party can re-marry until death releases the survivor.

Being Certain!

We know that many people who have bought Pianos from us have come here with the idea that, knowing nothing about Pianos themselves, they could put their trust in our judgment and feel safe.

Good reputation is a first requisite in business—especially a Piano business—and our reputation is so good that we have yet to hear of a buyer of one of our Pianos who wasn't perfectly satisfied.

Good Pianos only, and straight liberal methods of doing business, have built our immense trade.

TO LAND IN CUBA TODAY.

Gen. Shafter's Expedition Reported in Windward Passage.

THE CADIZ SPANISH FLEET HAS SURELY SAILED.

Spanish Fleet Reported to Be About to Attack the New England Coast—Navy Department Says Its Destination Is Canary Islands—Augusti Resigns.

THE LATEST.

Three O'Clock.

SHAFTER IN SIGHT.

Reported That His Transports Have Been Sighted at Cape Maysi.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Mole St. Nicholas, Hayti, June 18, 12:22 p. m.—A report has reached here to the effect that the fleet of transports conveying Major General Shafter's expedition has been sighted off Cape Maysi.

The transports are expected to reach Guantanamo Bay this evening and a landing is expected at once.

Cape Maysi, where the American transports are reported to have been sighted from, is the most easterly point of the island of Cuba. It is across the Windward Passage from Mole St. Nicholas from whence comes the despatch.

A LANDING SOON.

Shafter's Expedition Must Reach Cuba Today or Tomorrow Say Officials.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Washington, June 18, 12:45 p. m—President McKinley will not be surprised to hear today that troops have landed on Cuban soil near Santiago.

At the navy department, however, information from General Shafter's expedition is not expected to reach Washington until tomorrow.

It is probable that the expedition will effect a landing before the department is advised of its whereabouts. It is thought that by tomorrow the ships will be at Guantanamo Bay and the troops will be ready for serious work.

In the meantime, while waiting for advices from the front, the administration will develope plans for the expedition to Porto Rico which will follow close on the heels of that to Santiago.

Another change has been made regarding the expedition against Havana. At a Cabinet meeting, it was decided to postpone the attack on the Cuban capital until fall in view of the rainy season. This conforms with the ideas of Major General Miles.

CADIZ FLEET SAILS.

Advices From Gibraltar Declare it is Bound for American Coast.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

London, June 18, 11 a. m.—Advices from Gibraltar make it a certainity that the Spanish fleet has sailed from Cadiz and is bound for the other side of the Atlantic.

It is known that the fleet is on good shape. It is believed that a dash along the New England coast is intended.

WHERE BOUND?

Destination of the Spanish Fleet is a Mystery—Probably the Canaries.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Washington, June 18, 1:45 p. m.—The navy department is nonplussed by the sailing of the Cadiz fleet. The fact that troops are aboard indicates they are bound for the Canaries.

The Administration is not of the opinion that they intend to bombard American coast cities. The Strategic Board attributes their sailing to an effort to influence public opinion.

AUGUSTI RESIGNS.

Wanted to Surrender But Other Officers Overruled His Wishes.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Hong Kong, June 18, 11:02 a. m—Governor General Augusti, of the Philippine Islands, has resigned his office and is succeeded by General Davilo.

General Augusti wished to surrender the city to Rear Admiral Dewey but his opinions were overruled by the officers of the council.

The new Governor General has declared his intention of making a strong resistance to the very last, and believes that he can withstand the insurgents and Americans until reinforcements arrive from Spain.

BRUSH NEAR SANTIAGO.

Cutters Fired Upon While Making Soundings In a Cove.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Off Santiago, June 17, by despatch boat to Mole St. Nicholas, June 18, 2:03 p. m.—A hot brush between Spanish troops and an American reconnoitering party in steam cutters occurred at daylight this morning.

It took place in a small cave west of Morro Castle. Lieut. Harlow entered the cove to take soundings.

When inside the inlet, the Spanish infantry opened fire from the blockhouse there. The Americans vigorously replied.

The New York's cutter, in charge of Naval Cadet Powell, which followed, was hit ten times. None of the men were injured.

The Texas fired with her six-pounders at the hillside. The Vixen steamed into the cove and opened on the block house. The Spaniards retreated.

Bad Practice for Boys.

William Britton, a young lad, was arraigned before the City Judge this morning charged by J. E. Beerbower, of the City Hotel, with throwing stones at two of the rear wiedows of the hotel and breaking the glass. The boy said that two other boys were throwing stones at him and that he retaliated by throwing others back, and in this way accidentally broke the glass. Young Britton was represented in court by I. L. Brady. City Judge DeMeza laid the case over for a week, and in the meantime the other boys will be apprehended.

Of Educational Interest.

Prof. H. J. Wightman, superintendent of the public school of North Plainfield, has just issued a neat volume of seventy-five pages reviewing the methods and work of the borough school during the past year. It explains the work of the school in a very creditable manner, and is of great value to teachers in general who wish to profit by the ideas prevailing so successfully under the supervision of Prof. Wightman, Drawbridge at Rahway.

The Union County Board of Freeholders has decided to erect a drawbridge at Rahway over the Rahway river at Bridge street. The old structure was erected in 1808 and has become unsafe.

TRIBUTE FOR THE HOME

TWO ORPHAN GIRLS SUCCEED WELL IN THE WEST.

Sent From the Children's Home Many Years Ago and Are Now Married and Happy in Their Own Homes.

Grant Biddle and Miss Janet Richards were united in marriage at the Congregational church at 8 o'clock last evening, in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives, Rev. J. C. Reeve, officiating. The bride was beautifully attired in blue and the groom wore the conventional black. * * The contracting parties are well and favorably known in this community. The groom is an intelligent young man and assistant cashier of the Citizens' Bank of this place. He is a son of D. B. Biddle, who is a prominent citizen of this place.

The above is an excerpt from a newspaper clipping received by Mrs. M. E. Kimball, president of the Children's Home, from a western town and furnishes a pleasant tribute to the work of the Children's Home. The bride in this case was an orphan girl who found a home in Plainfield's philanthrophic institution, and from there was sent to a western town where she was adopted by a family whose name she honored when she became the wife of what the newspaper clipping credits as "an intelligent young man and an assistant cashier"—ample evidence that she must have "done well."

The bride was one of two sisters who were taken into the home, both of whom went west together, and in a letter previously received by Mrs. Kimball from her she said:

"I think you will be glad to know that Lucy has married very well, more than a year ago, and now has a dear little girl four weeks old."

A few days later came a paper containing the marriage notice of the correspondent. Mrs. Kimball adds this very touching comment:

"Here are two happy women in good homes, instead of two poor, forlorn sisters that came to us."

NEWS FROM THE FRONT.

David L. Curtis Not a Deserter, But Has Been Appointed Orderly to Gen. Kent

Some malicious-minded person has been circulating a story about that David L. Curtis, son of E. P. Curtis, of New Front street, who enlisted in the Seventy-first Regiment, New York Volunteers, had deserted from the army and had been shot. That this is false Mr. Curtis knows because he has received a letter from his son, dated Tampa, Fla., in which the young man refutes all such stories and tells that he is in the best of health. He has been appointed orderly to Brigadier-General Kent, and is, therefore, allowed more privileges than some of the other men and, perhaps, that is where the story took rise. Curtis expected to sail for Porto Rico when this letter was mailed, June 10th, and must be on Spanish soil by this time.

KICKED BY A HORSE.

An Old Citizen of the Borough Lies in a Critical Condition.

Abel Stewart, an old citizen of the borough, now lies dangerously ill at his home on Chatham street, suffering from the effects of an accident which occurred last Wednesday at the blacksmith shop on Chatham street. Those who were there say that Mr. Stewart touched the animal with his cane, and the horse kicked. The hoof struck Mr. Stewart in the left side of the abdomen, inflicting a serious wound.

The blow from the horse's hoof staggered Mr. Stewart, and friends assisted him to his home nearby. A physician was called at once, but Mr. Stewart is now practically helpless and is unable to move about. There may be some internal injuries that may develop later.

PYTHIANS' GRAVES TO BE DECORATED

Impressive Services to be Held by Crescent Division.

Crescent Division, No. 13, U. R., K. of P., has completed arrangements for the celebration of Decoration Day which will take place tomorrow. In the morning details will be sent to the various cemeteries where the graves of the late Sir Knights will be decorated. Sir Knights Robert Rushton and Joseph Blimm will go to Hillside cemetery; Sir Knights W. Young and Stephen Higham to Evergreen cemetery; Sir Knight Charles McGinley to Samptown; Sir Knights Jacob Blimm and J. E. Flannery to North Plainfield and Scotch Plains. The decorating will be done tomorrow morning. At 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon the division will meet Rathbone Division, of Brooklyn, and the entire number will visit the various cemeteries and hold memorial services.

Fell and Broke Two Fingers.

While walking down the steps of the back piazza of his home yesterday Joseph Dunham, of Arlington avenue, slipped and fell, breaking two fingers of his right hand. Dr. Adams dressed the fingers, and today Dunham carries his hand in a sling.

SLAVE SONGS.

A Novel Service to be Held in the Congregational Church.

In the Congregational church tomorrow evening, Rev. Dr. Ryder, of New York, will give an address on Christian Truth in Slave Songs which will be illustrated with plantation melodies sung by a quartette. Dr. Ryder is secretary of the American Missionary Association. Rev. C. H. Richards, D. D., of Philadelphia thus writes of the service:

I like very much the programme for a "Praise Service" and think it will make a delightful and profitable evening for my church. My people were greatly pleased with your admirable address on "Christian Truths in Slave Songs," illustrated by the quaint, pathetic songs themselves. You deal with the subject in both a philosophical and prophetic spirit, so that the lecture is not only entertaining but instructive. I hope many of our churwill hear it.

A Disgraceful Fight.

A disgraceful fight took place on South avenue just beyond the city line late Thursday afternoon. The two combatants, strangers to Plainfield, were both under the influence of liquor. One man received two black eyes and was badly cut on the face. After they became exhausted they fell asleep by the roadside, a sorrowful looking spectacle to the passersby.

For the Soldier Boys.

A meeting to make flannel bands for the soldiers will be held Monday morning in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. This work is under the auspices of the Continental Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution. All interested are most cordially invited to assist and bring their sewing with them.

A Clever Artist.

The cover to the June number of Edward White's magazine, The American Queen, which represents a stately woman in the costume of a Red Cross nurse, grasping an American flag, was designed by Miss Jessamy Hearte, of Putnam auenue. One of Plainfield's most popular young society women was the model for the figure.

DEVOTION TO DUTY CAUSED HIS DEATH.

Excessive Work Brought Fatal Illness to Col. R. K. Case.

A DISTINGUISHED RECORD

A VALUABLE GOVERNMENT EMPLOYE FOR OVER THIRTY YEARS.

An Honorable Record as a Citizen of Plainfield Where He Had Lived Since Boyhood—Only Sick for Forty-Eight Hours.

A true soldier, an honest gentleman and a loving husband and father, Colonel Rufus King Case stood at his post until the end, faithful to his country. While he was not exposed to the storm of shot and shell as are Uncle Sam's brave soldiers who are now on Cuban soil, he displayed just as great heroism in his prompt response to the call of his country for extraordinary duties in supplying her armys with the necessities of life. He overcame physicial ailments, put aside the imperative demands of his body and finally gave his very life that the work of the Nation might go forward and the Stars and Stripes wave victorious over her soldiers.

This morning, at 3 o'clock, Colonel Case passed away at his home, 117 East Ninth street, after an illness of forty-eight hours. Beloved as he was by a host of friends in this city, and his numerous associates in the army, death will be greatly mourned, for in him Plainfield has lost one of her best and truest citizens and the United States a valued and faithful worker.

As chief clerk of the quarter master's department of the Department of the East of the United States Army, Colonel Case has had extraordinary demands on his time and efforts since the breaking out of the war. The business of the department has swelled to remarkable proportions. Everything done by department had to pass under Colonel Case's eye and, of late, he has been compelled to labor seven days a week, going to his office in the Army and Navy building, New York, on the 7:26 train and returning late in evening. Like the true soldier that he was, Colonel Case uttered no complaint but remained at his duty until his body, weakened by the terrible strain, fell an easy victim to pneumonia, and the Colonel, forty-eight hours after the attack, passed quietly away.

Like a true Christian, as all his past life has shown him to be, Colonel Case prepared for the end when he saw that it was inevitable. His labors were ended and he was willing to go, his only sorrow being that he must leave his loved ones behind. The end was peaceful and quiet, Colonel Case passing into a state of unconsciousness toward the last from which he never recovered.

Colonel Rufus King Case was born in Hunterdon county on Dec. 12, 1840. When but a lad his parents both died, and he and his brothers, Samuel and Augustus, came to Plainfield, where they were cared for by their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lacey. The greater part of his boyhood was spent in this place. He went to school here and had grown to age when the Civil War broke out.

Like many of his comrades, Colonel Case felt the stir of patriotism and enlisted from here in the Sixth Regiment of New Jersey Volunteers on August 26, 1861. On January 1, 1862, he was appointed regimental quartermaster sergeant. On June 23d of that year he was commissioned second lieutenant of Company C of that regiment by the Governor of New Jersey. He was promoted to the first lieutenancy of Company G, of that regiment, his commission being given by the Governor January 1, 1863. At the expiration of his term of service, September 7, 1864, he was honorably mustered out.

He entered the service again, however, November 23d, of the same year, when he was commissioned by President Lincoln as captain and assistant quartermaster of volunteers. He was commissioned major, by brevet, by the president February 1, 1866, for "faithful and efficient services." Later he was commissioned lieutenant colonel, by brevet, by the President, to date from March 13, 1865, for "gallant, faithful and meritorious services during the war."

He served on special duty as regimental quartermaster of the 6th New Jersey Volunteers, then as acting assistant quartermaster of the artillery brigade, 3d Army Corps. He was afterwards appointed aide-de-camp to Brevet Major General Rufus Ingalls, at General Grant's headquarters, during the campaigns from the "Wilderness" to Petersburg and before Petersburg. September, 1864, he became assistant chief quartermaster of the Army of the Potomac and remained in that position until the disbandment of that army.

He participated in all the campaigns of the Army of the Potomac, except Antietam, and in all the campaigns of the armies operating against Richmond. He was present at the surrender of the Army of Northern Virginia, to General Grant at Appomatox Court House. He was on duty in New York City from June 2, 1865, to May 31, 1866, when he was honorably mustered out.

After leaving the army Colonel Case returned to Plainfield where he took up his residence. He soon after entered the quartermaster's department of the Department of the East of the regular army, where he was made chief clerk, in which capacity he had served until his death.

He married Miss Lucretia Vail, of Quakertown, and they came here to live. Twenty-seven years ago they moved to their present home on East Ninth street, where they have resided ever since.

Colonel Case was a Republican but never took an active part in politics. He was placed on the Republican city ticket for the Common Council and served very efficiently in that body for three years. He was one of the principal advocates in the formation of the Muhlenberg Hospital and was president of the board of governors of the hospital.

Colonel Case was a prominent worker in the First Baptist church, of which he has been a deacon for several years. When Charles W. McCutchen resigned the superintendency of the Sunday-school several years ago, Colonel Case was chosen to fill that office.

In past years Colonel Case was an active worker in Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R.

His widow and five children survive him. The children living are Mrs. Charles VanWinkle, Mrs. Dudley Miller, Miss Margaret Case, Miss Emma Vail Case, all of this city, and Rufus Ingallas Case, of Philadelphia.

Miss Emma Vail Case was to be married Wednesday afternoon to George H. L. Morton, of Dobbs Ferry. The ceremony will take place, but it will be private.

Colonel Case was an exempt member of No. 2 Engine Company of the Plainfield Department. The Exempt Firemen's Association will turn out in a body to attend the funeral.

The funeral services will be held next Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock from the home on East Ninth street.

DEATH OF SAMUEL MILL'KEN.

Had Been a Sufferer for Over Thirty Years.

After an illness lasting over a period of thirty years, part of the time spent in intense suffering, Samuel Milliken, Jr., of 830 Central avenue, passed quietly away this morning at 8:30 o'clock. The funeral services will be held at 2:45 o'clock Monday afternoon from the residence.

Mr. Milliken formerly lived in Philadelphia and Bellefonte, Pa. Several years ago he moved to this city and took up his residence on Central avenue, opposite Ninth street. Mr. Milliken was engaged in the iron foundry business in New York, and although an invalid attended to it. For the past nine months Mr. Milliken had been confined to the house, part of the time to his bed. He had been slowly sinking for three days and the end was not unexpected.

Mr. Milliken leaves a widow and three children, one daughter, Mrs. James M. DeGraff, of Central avenue, and two sons, Edward and Foster, of New York. He was a Presbyterian and united with the Crescent Avenue church first and later with the First Presbyterian church. He was in his 78th year.

Saw the Soldier Boys.

Physical Director C. E. A. Heywood, of the Y. M. C. A., returned from a wheeling trip through Maryland and Virginia. Mr. Heywood went first to a conference at Philadelphia, then on to Washington and Baltimore, finally bringing up at Camp Alger in Virginia. Mr. Heywood spent one night with the Y. M. C. A. workers at the camp, and a part of the next day making personal visits among the soldiers in camp. Mr. Heywood spoke of the condition of of the men in camp, and said that they are in strightened circumstances, with poor food and little of it, and badly worn clothes.

Huckleberries at Any Rate.

Samuel Boss, of Central avenue, who has just returned from a trip through Pennsylvania, says that the crop of huckleberries this year will be enormous through that district.

WAS ASLEEP AT HIS POST

SERGEANT WISEMAN REDUCED IN RANK AND MUST DO HARD LABOR.

Findings of the Court Martial at Fort Hancock—Corporal Beadle Cleared—The Plainfield Boys Are All Well

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Fort Hancock, Sandy Hook, June 17.—The findings of the court martial in the case of Sergeant William C. Wiseman and Corporal Beadle, for being asleep on duty, were made public at 7 o'clock last evening.

The third battalion was ordered out on dress parade, Sergeant Wiseman was brought out under guard and received his sentence. It was announced that he had been found guilty of neglect of duty and of violation of the 62d article of war. He was sentenced to be reduced to the ranks and to three months' hard labor under the post guard at Fort Hancock.

Corporal Beadle was found not guilty of the same charges and was released from confinement. General Frank, in command of the post, was not satisfied with the findings of the court in Beadle's case.

The delay in the announcement of the sentence was due to the fact that the findings in all cases tried here must be sent to the headquarters of the department of the east at Governor's Island for approval before the sentence can be made public.

All are well here. The Plainfield contingent finds Fort Hancock not an unpleasant place, although there is little happening here. A number of the men have been granted twenty-four-hour furloughs during the last week. The commanding officer has been very liberal in that direction.

DOG BIT A WOMAN.

Dog Attacked at Her in a Yard at Netherwood This Morning.

Mrs. Wenzel, a German woman from Stony Hill, who peddles vegetables and garden truck about the city, was bitten by a savage dog at Netherwood this morning. Mrs. Wenzel went into Richard Kissam's yard on South avenue, near Berkman street, with some peas. As she entered the yard a big dog belonging to William Crook, a neighbor of Mr. Kissam's, sprang at her and fastened his teeth in the fleshy part of her thigh.

Owing to the thick dress the dog's teeth did not penetrate very far, and made only a fleeh wound. The woman was more frightened than hurt. Roundsman Frederickson, who was just then coming around the corner, did all he could to assist her.

Class Day Exercises.

There is a great demand at present at the Plainfield High School for tickets for the Class Day exercises that are to be held in the Franklin building Tuesday evening. The exercises begin at 8 o'clock. The programme will include an address by the president of the class, Henry W. Brower, the class history, the class prophecy, the class ode, several recitations and musical selections. There are 350 complimentary tickets out for the exercises. This is the first year that a graduating class at the High School has observed Class Day.

Visiting Clergymen.

Tomorrow several visiting clergymen will preach in the Calvary Baptist church. In the morning at 11 Rev. H. Harris, of Orange, will preach. At 3 o'clock the regular session of the Sunday-school will be held, and at 8 Rev. Mr. Wheeler, of Newark, will occupy the pulpit.

Queer Piece of Money.

Warden Thomas Martin, of the city jail, received a queer piece of money in some change last night, which is hard to make out. The piece bears the date of 1805, and is a little larger than a ten cent piece. Some think that it is a twenty cent piece.

Returned Missionary to Talk.

Miss Helen Newcomb, a returned missionary, will give an address on India at the First Baptist church Sunday evening at 7:45. Miss Newcomb is a speaker of unusual interest whose addresses have recently been quoted in the New York Tribune.

Entertained Her Sunday-School Class.

Miss Helen Bogart, of East Sixth street, entertained the members of her Sunday-school class Thursday evening. There were fifteen young people present, and the evening was passed in a pleasant way.

Cut By a Trunk.

A heavy trunk fell on the back of George Frazee's hand this morning at the depot, while he was handling trunks, and cut a deep gash. The wound is very painful and bled profusely.

Dr. Mabie to Address Graduates.

Dr. Hamilton W. Mabie, one of the editors of the "Outlook," will be the speaker at the commencement exercises at the Plainfield High School Thursday evening.

SPANISH POWER WANES

One Thousand Dons Surrender at Santa Cruz.

GENERAL AUGUSTI RESIGNS

Spanish Soldiers Are 36 Hours Without Food — Every Where the Insurgents Are Gaining Ground—A Council of War Considers the Question of Surrender—Spanish Troops Are Brave but Underfed and Incompetent.

Manila, June 6, via Hong Kong, June 18.—Spanish power is crumbling in the Philippine islands.

General Pena and a thousand Spanish soldiers have surrendered at Santa Cruz, and similar surrenders have occurred at other places.

The insurgents propose to form a republic under Anglo-American tutelage.

The insurgents are gaining everywhere and are now firing into Manila itself.

The insurgents yesterday rushed the passage of the Zapota river and also descended from the lagoon, took the Spaniards in the flank and captured several guns.

The Spanish soldiers made a good stand until they were ordered to retreat. Probably their ammunition was inadequate.

It is almost impossible to understand how such magnificent positions can be abandoned without a struggle.

The insurgents to-day captured Las Pinas, Paranague, Tungalo, Mall Bay and Pineda, all on the coast line. The Spaniards lost ninety men killed and wounded and seven thousand returned here unhurt.

The insurgents are now firing into Nalate, the southernmost quarter of Manila and a mile and a half from the center of the place containing the fort, magazine, telegraph office and club house.

The horse cars are running and ladies are visiting within rifle shot of the enemy, apparently unconcerned.

The insurgents are also in every outlying quarter of Manila, awaiting the signal to advance.

At Caloocan, a suburban railroad station, there are still a few Spanish troops in ridiculous little intrenchments.

The village is full of insurgents and the railroad line is broken outside the station.

It has now been officially admitted that the troops have been thirty-six hours without food.

Gunboats conveying volunteers sent into the lagoon to search for food for the city on Friday, June 3, returned here to-day, Sunday, and reported the total failure of their mission.

The commanders of the gunboats also report that every lagoon and town is hostile, and that their garrisons have probably been massacred.

The Spanish flotilla was unable to effect a landing in spite of prolonged firing upon the part of all the gunboats. Nobody, however, was killed.

This removes the last hope of provisioning Manila.

During the week all the garrisons of these small towns were simultaneously overpowered or surrendered as prisoners. The latter are well treated. A majority of thise who resisted were massacred.

Proposition to Surrender.

The captain general has held a council of war, at which it was proposed to surrender because resistance is clearly useless, and a deplorable expenditure of blood and heroic efforts would be rendered futile by lack of training and insufficient supplies and the smallness of the force.

The council was furious at this "humiliation by mere natives" and he resigned and was superceded by his second in command, who countermanded the withdrawal of the troops from the field.

THIRD MANILA EXPEDITION.

Possibly Not More Than Four Thousand Men Can Be Accomodated.

San Francisco, June 18.—Orders have been issued to have the City of Paris ready to sail with the third Manila expedition, on June 25. It is not expected, however, that the transports will sail much before July 1.

So far as decided upon they will consist of the Ohio, Indiana, Morgan City, City of Paris and Valencia. The last named, which was secured Thursday and can carry 600 men, is nearly new and has superior accommodations for officers. She will probably be made the flagship of Brigadier General King, who will command the expedition, or General Merritt, should he decide to go with the vessels. The steamers Progresso and Willamette have been examined and may be taken. If they are not secured the force of men under General King may not exceed 3,500 or 4,000, owing to the limited capacity of the steamers engaged. Seven transports have already sailed and only 6,000 men are yet on their way. It will require nearly twenty more troop ships to carry the 14,000 soldiers necessary to make up the 20,000 which is given out as the number which will occupy the Philippines.

If the deal with the British North American Pacific Company can be made the way will be opened for engaging more foreign vessels, and the government may yet get such steamers as the Coptic, Gaelic and Doric. The Belgic can hardly come in the list, for she sails to-day for the Orient.

The Porto Rico Expedition.

Washington, June 18.—After the cabinet meeting yesterday orders were prepared at the war department for the expedition to Porto Rico.

It is understood that eight regiments now at Camp Alger, Falls Church, Va., will be directed to prepare to go South, while 15,000 of the troops at Chickamauga will be ordered to prepare for the same expedition. They will be moved to Fernandina in a few days.

Wants $10,000,000 of Bonds.

Washington, June 18.—The secretary of the treasury has received a subscription for $10,000,000 of the new bonds from the New York Life Insurance Company and inclosing a check for $200,000, as required by the treasury regulations.

SAMPSON IS VERY IMPATIENT

Can Take Santiago When Land Forces Arrive to Hold It The Situation Is Critical.

Washington, June 18.—The navy department has received a long message from Rear Admiral Sampson making anxious inquiry as to when the invading army will arrive.

Admiral Sampson describes the situation around Santiago as being critical. He says the city should be immediately captured. It is at his mercy and can be captured when he has the army to occupy it.

The army transports are now on their way to Santiago and will not arrive there before Monday.

Will Not Give Up Hobson.

Key West, June 18.—Spain evidently has determined not to give up Lieutenant Richmond Pearson Hobson and the seven other brave men of the Merrimac. The "courtesy" of Admiral Cervera in offering to exchange the Merrimac prisoners for Spaniards captured on our prizes evidently was a mere Castillian trick to soften the effect of the barbarous act which the military commander of Santiago de Cuba has committed in placing Hobson and his men in the line of the American fire.

So it looks as if Hobson and his heroic associates would have to stay in the hands of the enemy until the war is over, if they do not fall under the fire of their own comrades in arms.

NEWS FROM ADMIRAL DEWEY.

The Insurgents Not Intending to Take Manila at Present.

Washington, June 18.—The navy department has received the following from Rear Admiral Dewey:

"Cavite, June 12, via Hong Kong, June 18.—There is little change in the situation since my telegram of June 3. Insurgents continue hostilities and have practically surrounded Manila. They have taken 2,500 Spanish prisoners whom they treat most humanely. They do not intend to take the city at the present time. Twelve merchant vessels anchored in the bay, with refugees on board, under guard of neutral men of war.

"This was done with my permission. The health of the squadron continues excellent.

"The German commander-in-chief arrived to-day. Three German, two British, one French, one Japanese men of war now in port. Another German man of war is expected. The following is a correct list of the Spanish vessels captured and destroyed:

"Destroyed—Two protected cruisers, five unprotected cruisers, one transport, one serving vessel, both armed.

"The following were captured: The transport Manila and the gunboat Callao."

REPORT FAVORS HAWAII.

Senate Committee on Foreign Relations Favors Annexation.

Washington, June 18.—Soon after the Senate convened yesterday Mr. Davis of Minnesota, chairman of the committee on foreign relations, favorably reported from that committee the Newlands joint resolution adopted by the House for the annexation of the Hawaiian islands. The resolutions were not amended.

Mr. Davis gave notice that immediately after morning business to-day he would move to proceed with the consideration of the resolutions.

Mr. White of California indicated that he would lead the opposition to annexation by requesting Mr. Davis to repeat his statement, the California senator not having heard it.

After Mr. Davis had repeated his announcement Mr. White resumed his seat evidently satisfied.

Leiter's Wheat Accounted for.

Chicago, June 18.—The wheat taken off of Leiter's hands and given to Armour Thursday aggregates 14,000,000 bushels, of which 10,000,000 bushels are in this country and 4,000,000 bushels in Europe and afloat. Half the stock in the United States is in the Northwest, the balance being here, at Buffalo and at the seaboard. The banks have 90c. loaned and are trying to get out, Armour acting as distributor. The general impression is that he has taken it on a joint account deal at the bank price, all he gets over what they have loaned reverting to Leiter.

New French Premier.

Paris, June 18.—President Faure has invited M. Ribot to form a cabinet, to succeed the Meline ministry, which resigned Wednesday last. M. Ribot has not decided whether he will accept the invitation or not.

M. Felix Joseph Ribot is an ex-premier and minister of finance. He constructed a cabinet on January 26, 1895, and it was upset on October 28 of the same year, after a sensational scene in the Chamber of Deputies, during which the Southern railroad scandals caused an exciting debate.

Exchange Not Authorized Yet.

Havana, June 18.—The Spanish government, it is said at the palace, has not authorized the exchange of the prisoners of the Merrimac.

The gunboat Yanez Pinzon exchanged communications Thursday afternoon with an American warship, under a flag of truce. The American commander was informed that Captain General Blanco had no authority to exchange Naval Constructor Hobson and his companions for Spanish prisoners.

Canadian-American Disputes.

Montreal, June 18.—It is announced that the international commission to discuss the Canadian-American difficulties will begin its sessions at Quebec on July 15, and that the Canadian commissioners will be Sir Richard Cartwright and Sir Louis Davies. Sir Wilfrid Laurier will also probably be in attendance, but more in a conservative than in an official capacity. The commissioners will have an agent at Quebec, probably Judge Langelier.

EFFECTIVE BLOCKADE

Authentic Reports by Two Cuban Commissions.

A GREAT LACK OF FOOD

What They Tell About Condit ons in the Districts East and West of Havana—The Spanish Gunboats Inactive—Engagements Between the Spaniards and Insurgents—The Number of Troops and Their Condition.

Key West, June 18.—Two Cuban commissions are now here, who were picked up by our steamers, one from a point between Cardenas and Matanzas. The latter is in charge of Major Prado. He is accompanied by two lieutenants, and although they report great scarcity of provisions they are healthy and robust. Major Prado said:

"We have come here to report and to seek provisions. In the district where I came from, we have 2,000 men, well armed, while the Spaniards, taking Cardenas and Matanzas together, have probably fifteen or sixteen thousand. Still, we are in complete control of the country up to within a few miles of either place. Early in this month 200 of our men had an engagement with 3,000 Spaniards in the woods back of Cardenas. The Spaniards admitted that they lost fifty men killed, while we did not lose a man. We were in the brush and they could not dislodge us. Food is very scarce, both in Matanzas and Cardenas. The Spaniards have no corn and are feeding their horses on rice. Gomez is in the central part of Santa Clara province and in need of provisions and ammunition."

The other Cuban arrivals are Colonel Arnao and Major Soto, who came from western Cuba, the Vuelta Abajo district. They report the Cubans to be in good health and hopeful, there, but subsisting only on fruits and herbs. They are nearly naked, so Senor Poyo says.

In Pinar del Rio there are reported to be from twelve to fifteen thousand Spaniards, well armed, and about five thousand Cubans. Both commissions reported to Senor Poyo of the junta and are here after provisions and ammunition.

Advices from the blockading squadron off Havana report that the Spanish gunboats have not attempted any demonstration since a week ago last Sunday, when four of the gunboats attempted to entice our fleet under the guns of the forts.

It was stated yesterday that the most conclusive evidence has been found against the Twickenham, going to prove that she was undoubtedly sailing under the orders of the Spanish consul after leaving Martinique. Several papers in her log book are missing. The Spanish officer, now held here as a prisoner, was found disguised as a fireman hiding in the engine room. An examination of his effects proved that he was undoubtedly the second mate of the Spanish hospital ship Alicante, lying off Martinique. Naval officers believe that this ship is supplying the Spanish torpedo boats with coal.

THANKS FOR LIEUT. HOBSON.

Resolutions Offering Thanks of Congress to Him and His Crew.

Washington, June 18.—In the Senate yesterday Mr. Morgan of Alabama offered a resolution, which was referred to the naval affairs committee, extending the thanks of Congress to Naval Constructor Hobson and the volunteer crew of the Merrimac, and authorizing the transfer of Constructor Hobson from the construction corps to the line.

In the House Representative Underwood, in whose district Lieutenant Hobson's home is situated, has introduced a resolution extending the thanks of Congress to Hobson and his crew, authorizing Hobson's transfer to the line and promotion to a lieutenant commander.

He conferred with the president and Secretary Long before offering it.

Big Mining Deal.

Cincinnati, O., June 18.—The formal transfer of all the mines in the Jellico, Tennessee district, was made yesterday at Jellico. The operators, lessees and mine owners are now there for that purpose. The purchasers are the members of an English syndicate represented by W. G. Burzy of New York, who several weeks ago sent maps of the property to London, and also the figures asked for the mines. On Monday he was authorized to close the deal.

The price is understood to be between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000, which, with other mining property the syndicate has purchased, runs its investments up to $50,000,000.

Spanish Spies in Kingston.

Kingston, Jamaica, June 18.—Spies are numerous at Kingston. Just now, as I was calling upon the United States consul, a servant had to be summoned to clear the doorstep of the consulate of loitering Spanish speaking persons pretending to be Cubans, but suspected of being spies for Spain. Mr. Dent is constantly watched and has to leave his hotel and go, for the sake of more privacy, to live at the club. Many refugees from Cuba are here, but sympathizers with what cause it is impossible to know.

Stampede at Tampa.

Tampa, Fla., June 18.—Two men of the Second New York regiment were dangerously hurt and a dozen men of the District of Columbia and Maryland regiments were more or less severely injured by the stampede of 3,000 horses and mules Thursday night. The camps of the three regiments were demolished.

It is not known what started the animals.

A Month for Temerario.

Asuncion, Paraguay, June 18.—The government of Paraguay, as a result of the inspection of the machinery of the Spanish torpedo gunboat Temerario, made at the instance of the United States consul, has accorded the commander of the warship one month in which to effect repairs, after which his vessel will be compelled to put to sea.

DUN'S WEEKLY REPORT.

Exports Larger Than the Corresponding Week Last Year.

New York, June 18.—The passing of the war tax bill, the offering of bonds and the collapse of Leiter and cash wheat, have made the week somewhat exciting. In spite of some features which cannot be justified, the tax bill was approved as probably the best that could be obtained from Congress this year, and gave assurance of needed revenue for the emergency. Its bond provision has already called out offers more than three times the amount desired, and it will probably prove the most successful loan ever invited by the United States. A great victory in the field could hardly be more important, especially in its influence on foreign opinion. In an age when wars are carried on with money, a nation which waits impatiently to loan its government $700,000,000, when it wants $2000,000,000, at 3 per cent., has reason to hope for peace. Not less significant was the excess of exports over imports in May by $56,980,359, making a merchandise balance in favor of the United States $571,889,037 in eleven months of the fiscal year, while net imports of gold were $102,026,989, though in no previous fiscal year have the net imports of gold exceeded $97,466,127, in 1882.

Foreign trade still shows the symptoms which foreshadowed the May return. Exports for two weeks have been 38 1-2 per cent. larger than last year, and imports 35 per cent. smaller than last year, and it is scarcely conceivable that such a change can occur as to prevent another heavy excess of exports. The cotton movement continues large for the season, although the price has advanced a sixteenth in spite of favorable crop prospects. There is also a stronger market for wool abroad, which with western excitement makes quotations of 100 qualities by Coates Brothers .4 or . cent higher than June 1st, but there is scarcely any buying by manufacturers who are in doubt about the coming season and have few new orders, except in army lines. The break in the price of 16-ounce Clay worsted to $1.20, has somewhat discouraged what promised to be a healthy market. Sales of wool were made extremely narrow by the wide differences between excited western holders and manufacturers who have an uncertain coming season to face.

Pig iron is extremely dull, though Bessemer holds last week's advance and other grades are not notably lower. No decline in consumption appears, and while bars are weak, with short time the rule in eastern mills, they advanced 2 1-2 cents at Pittsburg, while Chicago reports heavy season contracts still coming from wagon, car and other manufacturers. Heavy sheets are better at the East, but thin are not better anywhere. Plate mills are well employed and at Chicago the demand for pipe is better, especially from the Pacific coast. Shipments from there of rails in May included some to Sweden, Belgium, South Africa, Siberia and three other countries, while orders from Calcutta have just been taken. The anthracite coal output in May exceeded the allotment by 19.9 per cent. Shipments of boots and shoes for two weeks have been the smallest in eleven years, but most works have orders for from three to four months ahead, and prices have been generally advanced.

The stock market had a spell of weakness after the Leiter collapse, but rallied on Thursday and closed 58 cents per share lower for the week. Railroad earnings have been 7.9 per cent. larger than last year for the first week of June, and for May 14.8 per cent. larger than last year, and 15.5 per cent. larger than in 1892. With London buying 60,000 shares more than it sold, the dreams of local speculators alone accounted for the decline. Exchanges through clearing houses were 20.5 per cent. larger than last year, and 12.5 per cent.: larger than in 1892, and for the month thus far exceed those of 1892 by 13.7 per cent. Chicago east bound tonnage in two weks of June was 169,629, against 109,039 last year and 102,742 in 1892.

Expected To-day.

Kingston, Jamaica, June 18.—The transports having on board the American troops destined to reinforce the fleet of Rear Admiral Sampson have not yet arrived here but they are expected some time to-day.

The landing place of the army is not absolutely decided upon. It will be probably west of Santiago de Cuba.

To the Pole with Steam Rams.

Boats described as steam rams are now in use in ice-locked Russian harbors and rivers, and have proved that they can force their way through thick ice, even with 72 degrees of frost. The harbor of Vladivostok, till of late hermetically sealed for four or five months, has since 1893 been kept accessible through the winter; the Finnish port of Hango is now open to commerce throughout the year. And last winter a similar steam ram kept up connection with the Ural railway through the ice of the Volga at Saratoff. It is proposed now to keep open, by stronger boats of this kind, communication of St. Petersburg with the sea, and to force a winter connection through the ice from Archangel to the mouth of the Yenisei. Admiral Makarof, addressing the Russian Geographical Society, insisted that still more powerful boats of this kind might safely be counted on to cope with polar ice, such as Nansen had to deal with, and to cut a passage to the North Pole.—Chambers Journal.

Artificial Beauty Laws.

During the reign of Charles II., in England, laws with regard to artificial aids to beauty were very strict. It is interesting to note this curious act of parliament which was passed in the year 1670: "That all women, of whatever age, rank, profession or degree, whether virgins, maids or widows, that shall, from after the passing of this act, impose upon and betray into matrimony any of his majesty's male subjects, by scents, paints, cosmetics, washes, artificial teeth, false hair, Spanish wool, iron stays, hoops, high-heeled shoes or bolstered hips, shall incur the penalty of the laws now in force against witchcraft, sorcery and such like misdemeanors, and that the marriages, upon conviction, shall stand null and void."

PLANS AT WASHINGTON

Rumors of Proposed Changes in War Movements.

GENERAL MILES REPORTS

Rumored Tone of His Statements to the Secretary of War—The Lack of Wisdom in the Plan of Maintaining Camps in Unhealthy Places—Another Trial to the Holland Submarine Boat—What is Required.

Washington, June 18.—The return of General Miles to the war department, full of information about camp conditions in the South, gave special zest to the inquiries about the cabinet meeting yesterday. The meeting lasted only an hour, however, and when it broke up the members attending were more than usually reticent. Secretary Alger especially seemed preoccupied. The air is full of stories, which could not be traced to a definite source of the effect of his discoveries and his frank way of describing them upon the secretary.

It is beginning to dawn upon some of the powers that be at the war department that the location of our southern camps is open to other objections than inaccessibility and inconvenience. The delays in getting the men off after the start had once begun at Tampa has been excused on the ground that after all it did no great harm to the men individually, as they were going into a tropical country, and the experience of steaming and stewing on board a heated transport would serve only to harden them for what was coming later. This is the argument offered in palliation of the choice of camp sites in hot, low places by the water's edge.

The fact which is now forcing itself upon the department is that the idea of inuring soldiers to work in a heated country by keeping them in a fearful heat for some time in advance is a great blunder. The men who have gone through such an experience are not hardened. Their vitality is cooked out of them.

As has been pointed out to the responsible officer, the way the English prepare their armies for work in the hot lowlands of the East is to send them up into the mountains till they are thoroughly invigorated, and while they are still enjoying the effects of this they are brought down for a short, sharp, decisive campaign. Such preparation, followed by such quick and hard blows, are said to be the chief secret of the success of the British armies in the Orient.

The Holland submarine boat is to have another official trial about ten days hence. The navy department has required that the boat shall demonstrate her speed and the accuracy with which she can measure her own rate of progress by requiring that she shall go eight miles on top of the water, then two miles submerged and then ten miles on top again.

The recent performance of the Vesuvius has added fresh interest to the experiments with the Holland boat, for the Vesuvius showed what could be done with her dynamite guns when she had to make her approach to the shore in the night in order to escape observation and had to aim by guess work. It is claimed for the Holland boat that she can approach the enemy in broad daylight, entirely submerged except the top of the conning tower, which is only about three feet in diameter—just big enough for the commanding officer to turn his head and shoulders around in, that she can come within 500 yards of her target, at which distance she is out of danger of the guns of the enemy, as she presents no mark for them, and that she can carry sixty shells, containing 100 pounds of gun cotton each, and fire them at the rate of one every two minutes, doing fearful execution.

Riots in Galicia.

Cracow, Austrian Galicia, June 18.—The situation in the district of Gorlice in connection with the anti-Semitic excesses is of the most serious character.

Bands of men from other districts have reinforced the petroleum workers and peasants of Gorlice and are attacking, plundering and burning public buildings.

They have attacked the towns of Biecz and Gorlice, which had to be defended by troops.

The Invading Fleet.

Washington, June 18.—No news is expected from the fleet at Santiago before Sunday. That statement is made at the navy department and is based upon an accurate knowledge of the course adopted by the troop transports, and the rate of speed at which the vessels are travelling. The naval officials are still confident that the vessels have taken the easterly course by way of Cape Maysi. They should have rounded that point by this time.

The Cadiz Fleet Seen.

Gibraltar, June 18.—The captain of a German steamer which arrived here yesterday morning reports having sighted the Spanish Cadiz fleet off Ceuta, north coast of Africa, about opposite and seventeen miles south-southeast of Gibralter, Thursday evening. The warships, it is added, were going in an easterly direction.

The fleet consisted of two battleships, four large cruisers and four torpedo boat destroyers.

An Iron Wage Settlement.

Youngstown, O., June 18.—An agreement has been reached between the iron manufacturers and the wage committee of the Amalgamated Association on practically the present rate of $4 a ton on a one-cent card rate for puddling, and the present finishers' scale. About 25,000 men are affected by this decision. The minor changes affect the rules. The new year commences on July 1.

The Elections in Germany.

Berlin, June 18.—One hundred and ninety-one results show the election of seven Conservatives, four members of the Reichspartei, forty-two Centrists, two members of the Reformpartei, four National Liberals, one member of the Freisinnigeunion, thirty Socialists and one Independent, with second ballots necessary in 100 constituencies.

SANTIAGO FORTS SILENCED.

Sampson's Gunners Knock the Estrella Battery to Pieces at Break of Day.

Kingston, Jamaica, June 18.—Admiral Sampson has just completed the destruction of the forts commanding the entrance to Santiago harbor.

The bombardment was entirely effective and was carried out in the most workmanlike manner.

At daybreak the ships left the blockading station and stood inshore. The first gun was fired at twenty minutes past five.

The morning was clear and bright and the sun was just showing above the horizon when the battleships Indiana, Iowa, Texas and Massachusetts and the cruisers Brooklyn, New York and New Orleans attacked the Estrella and Morro batteries.

The auxiliary cruiser Hornet silenced a small new battery two miles to the east.

The shooting of the American ships, especially with shells thrown against the batteries on the crest of the hill at the eastern entrance of the harbor, was greatly better than the attack on Monday week.

The batteries on both sides of the entrance were silenced after about half an hour's firing, and Morro was apparently deserted by the garrison, though the Spanish flag was still flying.

Shortly after the action began a shell from the Oregon struck a magazine in the Estrella battery. A terrific explosion followed. Masses of earth and stones and pieces of wrecked gun carriages rose amid an enormous cloud of smoke. An ammunition case was thrown high in the air, bursting as it flew skyward.

The Estrella battery, the most powerful of Santiago's defences, was absolutely silent after the explosion.

The loss of life in the vicinity must have been enormous.

The ships then went closer to the Morro batteries. The New York, at a range of 3,000 yards, made splendid practice against the guns on the crest of the hill. The shells burst all round them and they were hidden again and again from sight by the sand and earth thrown up by the exploding projectiles. In ten minutes the battery was silent and deserted.

The Spanish ships in the harbor came down behind Morro and opened a long range fire on the bombarding fleet.

A couple of projectiles fell close to the Iowa and the Oregon, lying directly opposite the harbor entrance, but none of the American ships were hit at all during the action.

The American ships replied vigorously to the Spanish vessels and drove them back up the harbor. The New York then signalled the ships to resume their station.

When the bombardment began the New Orleans steamed a mile along the coast and through a gap in the hills brought her fire as nearly as possible on the same area as that of the New York.

As a spectacle this was the finest part of the bombardment. The guns were given a great elevation so as to clear the high promontory between the sea and the harbor.

Of course it is impossible to know the effect, as the town and the harbor are hidden behind a hill three hundred feet high, but there is no doubt it was terrible.

SPAIN'S TROOPS IN CUBA.

Cuban Officer Says Over 10,000 Are Guarding Coast in Mantanzas.

Key West, June 18.—An auxiliary gunboat which has arrived from off Havana reports all quiet along the blockade. Small gunboats of the enemy still try to lure American ships within range of the batteries, but occasional exchanges of shots have done no damage.

The gunboat, which has been on the Havana blockade for three weeks, had on board Major Prado and two aides from Colonel Roja's insurgent forces, with dispatches for the Cuban junta.

Major Prado and his aides left the interior of Matanzas province on June 4 and went through swamps to the coast near Cardenas. They waited there for seven days, eluding Spanish troops, finally getting a small boat, in which they rowed to the nearest American ship.

The Cuban major says there are between 10,000 and 15,000 Spanish troops under General Molina, in Matanzas province, most of them near the coast, between Matanzas and Cardenas.

The Cuban forces number between 6,000 and 8,000 men in the same territory.

Both sides are reported to be well armed but sorely in need of provisions, especially the insurgents. The Spaniards have no corn for their horses and are feeding them on rice.

Arrival of American Troops.

London, June 18.—A special dispatch from Madrid says that, according to a dispatch just received from Hong Kong, four warships carrying the flag of the Philippine insurgents have appeared in Manila bay and attacked the city from the sea, in combination with the insurgent forces on the land.

This dispatch probably indicates the arrival at Manila of the cruiser Charleston and the transports Australia, City of Sydney and City of Pekin, carrying 2,600 United States troops, under command of Brigadier General Anderson. Our transport fleet was due at Manila on June 15, so that news of its arrival on that day or the day before could have reached Hong Kong by now. Of course there are no insurgent warships, and if an attack was begun by Dewey's fleet, as seems probable, and a junction with the insurgents effected by the troops, the American flag now floats over Manila.

New Implements of Warfare.

Washington, June 18.—The quartermaster's department, late yesterday afternoon, awarded contracts for 2,000 10-inch wire cutters. They are to be delivered as quickly as possible and shipped south. They are intended for cutting the trochas in Cuba.

Armor Packing Plant Burned.

Chicago, June 18.—Fire in the stock yards district Thursday night destroyed some auxiliary buildings of the Armour Packing plant, containing the tin shop, lithographing department, boiler and tank rooms. Loss $100,000; insured.

Transformation of the City Park.

The transformation of the city park, under the direction of the Woman's Town Improvement Association, from a waste of land distinguished by weeds and tall grass, whose rank growth was interrupted only by a couple of footpaths a year ago, into the present beautiful landscape view, is a sight that makes glad the heart of every citizen who takes pride in the city.

The women whose ingenuity and indefatigable efforts planned and carried out the Fete Champetre last summer may now look at this public breathing spot and say well done! For, indeed, they have accomplished that which had long been regarded as an ideal that seemed never to be a realization. With its smooth lawn of verdant, its graveled paths in strait and curved lines, its overhanging, shady boughs of chestnuts, hickorys and oaks, its pretty and thriving flower beds, in the midst of all of which sets invitingly for a cool and pleasant rest numerous benches, it is now a practical ornament to Plainfield.

Now that it has been put in such a delightful condition by the women of progress let us hope that it may never again retrogate into the disgraceful condition that the public-spirited fair ones found it in. It is an object worthy of the care and expense of the city itself, and when the time is opportune for a small appropriation to be made to maintain it in its present condition, the city fathers should not be parsimonious in the matter.

Has a Queer Look.

Not long since many millionaired Hetty Green applied the name of "legal buzzards" to the lawyers and said all her troubles had been caused by them. Hetty wronged the profession. There are no more conscientious, high minded men anywhere than are to be found among the lawyers as a class. They are as much opposed to extortion or swindling in any shape or form as reputable physicians are to quacks. "Legal buzzards" is awfully suggestive as well as sweeping. Take it back, Hester!

And yet what are we to conclude when in all the large cities there are lawyers so called, members of the bar and of legal societies, who for a steady thing watch the death records and almost before a deceased person has been buried thrust their business cards impudently under the noses of the surviving relatives, trying to drum up business? We submit whether this practice would not naturally suggest in an imaginative mind the comparison to a carrion crow. It is certain that the best class of lawyers have too much sense and delicacy to do a thing like this, but when a man or woman who has just lost the dearest member of his or her family opens the mail the next day and finds the card of a lawyer who wants to settle up the deceased's affairs what will that man or woman conclude concerning all lawyers? It is like an undertaker who tries to obtain a corpse for burial before the life is out of it.

There is always a place to draw the line, and we think the legal profession should draw it hard and quick on lawyers who lie in wait to pounce upon the remains of the newly dead.

Taxation or Borrowing.

Matthew Marshall of the New York Sun is certain we are able to pay for this war as we go along without the government issuing any bonds to raise money. The war will not cost more than $25,000,000 a month at most, and

TROOPS LEAVING PORT TAMPA.

"On to Cuba" has for some time been an actual fact at Port Tampa, Fla. Men, munitions and food loading into transports at the docks in readiness for the short voyage to Cuba is a common sight. The bustling scene does not, however, lose its interesting features because of repetition.

Mr. Marshall says the taxation necessary to raise that would not be onerous on 72,000,000 people. He writes:

On some accounts it would not be a bad thing if the opponents of a bond issue were to prevail and if taxation and not borrowing should be the means adopted for raising money for the present emergency. That taxation could, if necessary, be made sufficient for the purpose is indisputable. Thirty years ago, when the country's population was less than half as great as it is now, the government's net revenue was between $400,000,000 and $500,000,000 annually, whereas for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1897, it was only $348,000,000. Hence half the taxation per head of 1866 and the years immediately following it would give us an additional revenue of from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000; an equal rate would add not less than $450,000,000 to the present revenue and doubling the rate would provide us with a sum beyond the most extravagant estimates of our needs imaginable. A taxation of $15.73 per head of a population of 35,500,000 in 1866 yielded $558,000,000, and taxes of $20 per head of a population of 72,000,000 would yield over $1,400,000,000. One argument in favor of taxation in preference to borrowing has not been considered sufficiently if at all, and that is the demonstration of financial strength which our resort exclusively to taxation would make to foreign nations. They know that we have men enough, materials enough and mechanical ingenuity enough to cope with any or all of them at sea or on land. It remains now to show them that we also have ample pecuniary means to do it.

Any European country, even though it is prejudiced in favor of Spain, must admit the magnanimity and generosity which Admiral Dewey exercised at Manilla. The effect of the fight in Manilla bay was to leave the city entirely at his mercy. Indeed he telegraphed to the department at Washington, "I can take Manilla at any time." He was unwilling, however, to precipitate conditions which he knew would follow the capture. Such capture would have been the signal for the wildest demonstrations on the part of the insurgents. They are only half civilized, anyhow, many of them, and they would have run amuck in the streets of Manilla, looting, butchering, torturing not only Spaniards, but other Europeans. If the admiral had had troops enough to not only hold the Spaniards but also the insurgents themselves in check, he could have held Manilla in an orderly way without any attendant scenes of robbery and murder. But he did not; therefore he refrained. Dewey showed himself not only a brilliant naval commander, but a humane man.

Indications are that before the war with Spain is ended some of the nations of Europe will be drawn into it in one way or another. If this should be the case, it will be the beginning of the great European war for which mankind has been looking during a generation. Perhaps it will be the world's last great war, and after that the nations will dwell with one another in universal peace.

There is one way in which patriotic women can help their country, even though they cannot go to war or even be Red Cross nurses. They can follow the example of Helen Gould and give money for the prosecution of the war.

The war has made the woolen and cotton mills boom. Among the first orders given by the United States at the beginning of hostilities was one for 3,000,000 yards of cotton goods and 2,625,000 yards of woolen fabrics.

What other country than ours on the face of this earth could have raised and equipped an army of 100,000 men, volunteers at that, in less than a month?

Spain's navy is about two-thirds as large as ours, but in superiority of our fighting seamen over hers we are at least 16 to 1.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

At one of the recent strawberry festivals that was held on the lawn of a Plainfield residence it was quite amusing to watch the encounters between the guests and the mosquitoes. The little insects were in their glory. They made ravenous attacks on every unprotected spot. Fans were kept moving to drive them away, while conversation would be suddenly interrupted by a slap and a muttered exclamation.

The City Park has now assumed an appearance that makes it really a credit to the city. There is a thick carpet of closely-cut grass under the great oaks and the paths are even and regular. The city has to thank the Town Improvement Association for this remarkable change in its park. If for no other reason than that, it was a good day for Plainfield when that organization came into existence. The wire baskets that were placed about the streets in the business section have not been a great and glorious success, however. They were smashed and crushed long ago while the papers, which they were intended to receive, still blow around until the Street Commissioner's men clean them up.

It is always a lively contest at a wedding between the newly-wedded couple and their friends who are always very anxious to give the married ones a "good sendoff." One Plainfield couple, who were recently wedded in this city, drove to Fanwood after the ceremony to outwit their friends and escape from any demonstration at the depot. One young man, more courageous than the rest, jumped on the back springs of the coach as the bridal party drove away from the house. In that dusty place, he rode all the way to Fanwood, his dress-suit and white shirt bosom having assumed a strange appearance.

At Fanwood, he hid until the train came and boarded another car. After the train strated he wandered into the car where the couple sat, and to the great amusement of the other passengers, placed a large sign, "We are just married," on the back of the seat behind them.

Big things are not the only things that attract the attention of Mayor Wilson, of the borough. His Honor believes that little things are equally important many times, an evidence of which is shown frequently in his official duties. Only a few days ago the Mayor was walking along Somerset street and noticed that a cellar had been excavated for a new house near Manning avenue, and that the contractor had not properly protected the sidewalk so that pedestrians would be prevented from making a misstep and perhaps seriously injuring themselves. Now it was not the Mayor's duty to hunt up the contractor and tell him of this, but Mr. Wilson is not a man who parleys with duty in such an instance. He spent considerable time in looking up the man and cautioning him of the danger for which he was responsible and was not content till he had the contractor's promise to provide proper protection.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence to the Daily Press.)

Dunellen, June 18—Moses Terrill, of Plainfield, spent yesterday with Dunellen friends.

An illustrated lecture was given in Apgar's Hall last evening under the auspices of Wm. G. Holton Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., and it was well attended. The pictures were of a varied sort and many showing present war scenes were thrown on the canvass. The proceeds of the lecture will be for the benefit of the council.

The prospects of the borough securing a water supply very soon are quite slim. There seems to be some difficulty existing between officials, and as a result nothing is being done for the present.

Most of the public school teachers will soon leave town for the summer months. They will spend their vacation at various places.

Most of the material for the trolley road in the borough has arrived and the work has been started laying the ties and rails.

R. P. Bache, of Lincoln, is now collector for the Dunellen Electric Light Works, in place of H. N. Spencer, of North Plainfield.

F. T. Dickerson and family, of North avenue, left today for Dover, where they will remain during the summer months.

Rev. Frank Fletcher will make an address before the Sunday-school scholars at Lincoln tomorrow afternoon.

The members of the W. C. T. U. will hold a concert in the Presbyterian church next Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Terry, of Washington avenue, have returned from a visit with Califon relatives.

Next Tuesday evening the Borough Council will meet and take up the sidewalk ordinance.

Miss Nellie Mosier is visiting her cousin, Miss Mamie Kingsland, at Delawanna, N. J.

W. H. Terry, of Church street, spent yesterday with his mother at Metuchen.

W. H. Taylor is in Boonton, N. J., for a few days on matters of business.

Alexander Frazee, of North Plainfield, is visiting friends in the borough.

The Misses Jamison are entertaining company from Rahway.

NEW MARKET.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

New Market, June 18—The public school has closed for the summer months. The exercises were held yesterday afternoon, when the scholars presented a programme of interest.

Tomorrow morning Rev. J. W. Richardson, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, Plainfield, will occupy the pulpit of the Baptist church, in exchange with Rev. Frank Fletcher.

The Piscataway Township Committee met yesterday afternoon and agreed upon the grade to be used by the Brunswick Traction Company. The work is now progressing rapidly.

Miss A. Cozzens, of Pueblo, Colorado, is a guest of her cousin, Mrs. Woodcock.

Miss Birdie Gaskill will teach in the South Plainfield Public School next year.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Scotch Plains, June 18—Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wilbur, of Plainfield, visited friends in town Thursday evening.

Mrs. David Dock, a colored woman, died quite suddenly at her home on Westfield road Thursday morning. Interment was made at the expense of the township Friday afternoon in Hillside cemetery. Mr. and Mrs. Dock lately came from the south, taking up their residence in one of E. M. Johnston's houses on Westfield road. They were strangers to all and as Mr. Dock was out of work he made application to the overseer of the poor and the township took hold of it.

Miss May Johnston, who resigned her position as teacher in the public school, received several handsome presents from her pupils, with whom she was very popular.

Beginning tomorrow evening the service in the Methodist church will begin at 7:30, instead of 8 o'clock. This arrangement will continue through the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Collins, of Putnam avenue, Plainfield, attended the Commencement exercises Thursday evening.

Rev. J. S. Braker led the prayer meeting in the Baptist church last evening. The subject was "Resurrection of Christ."

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society met in the parlors of the Baptist church this afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Vail and family, of New York, are spending the summer at Mrs. Flanders'.

WESTFIELD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Westfield, June 18.—The Township Committee hold a regular meeting in the township rooms this evening.

Fireside Council, Royal Arcanum, will give an entertainment to their lady friends Thursday evening of next week. That day will be the twenty first anniversary of the organization of the Royal Arcanum, and Fireside Council propose to make it a red-letter day to its members and friends.

There is a large crowd at the Broad street baseball grounds this afternoon witnessing the game between the Westfield Club team and the Brighton A. C of East Orange. McLarty, of Plainfield, is pitching for the home team.

The Fourth of July celebration committee will meet in the rooms of Empire Engine Company this evening at 8 o'clock, when the final arrangements for the day's programme will be made.

A patriotic tea will be given by the Woman's Association of the Congregational church at the residence of Mrs. Wilfred Johnson, on Carleton place, Tuesday evening.

The pulpit at the Congregational church Sunday morning will be occupied by Rev. C. H. Patton, a former pastor, who is now stationed at Duluth, Minn.

Central Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., met last evening and decided to raise their new flag the Fourth of July in connection with the regular celebration.

Rev. Henry Ketcham will leave the Congregational church October 1st. He has been granted a two months' vacation in the meantime.

Mr. Hill, of Fanwood, will deliver the address at the Children's Day exercises in the Locust Grove chapel tomorrow evening.

Thomas Crutchfield, of Oak Hill, N. J., will spend the summer with his brother, Frank Crutchfield, on Mountain avenue.

Mrs. William Cousin and daughter will leave next week for Meriden, Conn., where they will spend the summer.

Fred Stopford, of Chatham, has been spending several days with Madison Schoonover, at Mountainside.

Children's Day exercises will be held in the Congregational church tomorrow evening.

Miss Minnie E. Stackhouse, of Albany, is the guest of friends on South avenue.

The June number of St. Paul's Church Chronicle was issued this morning.

Fireside Council, Royal Arcanum, will hold a special meeting Monday evening.

Miss Lizzie Apgar, of Hackettstown, is spending several days in town.

LINCOLN.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Lincoln, June 18—Just after the picnic, which was held at this place Thursday, the people who were waiting for the 4:43 train for Dunellen, witnessed a very narrow escape from what might have been a fatal accident. Harry Baker, employed by Winfield Smalley, of this place, attempted to cross the Central Railroad tracks with a load of hay just as the 3:45 express from New York was approaching. Owing to the Lincoln Tool Works, the engineer was unable to see Baker until he was fairly on the tracks. Baker saw his danger, however, and whipped up his team just as the engineer blew for "brakes." Everyone expected to see both driver and horses killed, but the engine just grazed the wagon, going close enough, however, to tear some hay from the rear of the load.

An impressive sight was witnessed Thursday when the people attending the picnic marched up Lincoln Boulevard, headed by the band, to where Lincoln's statue stands, and as the band played the "Star-Spangled Banner," the multitude with reverence lifted their hats.

Albert Hunt, of Company H., Third Regiment, National Guards, of New Jersey, stationed at Fort Hancock, who has been visiting his parents, returned to his company yesterday afternoon.

Children's Day at the Lincoln Sunday-school will be held tomorrow The speakers will be Rev. Frank Fletcher, of New Market, and Rev. T. E. Davis, of Bound Brook.

The Baseball Club met last night to arrange for a picnic to be held in Lincoln Grove, July 4th, in connection with their baseball game that day.

The Lincoln School held Commencement exercises yesterday afternoon in the school building.

Mr. Lewrence, of Marnoraneck, N. Y., moved his household effects to Lincoln today.

Top for Pincushion.

A pretty cover for a pincushion is easily made at home. With cotton No. 24 begin in the center with 10 double knots, 1 picot, 10 double knots, close, repeat five times more. Work the following round the same except where the star joins the centre star, where you draw through the picot of the centre star. Work as many rounds as required, always joining to the picots of previous round.

For the outer line join to picots of previous round, and work for the corner stars on three of the closed eyes 10 double knots, 3 picots separated by 1 double knot, and 10 double knots. The inner stars are joined to those previously worked at the 4 closed eyes, and the other two have 10 double knots and two closed eyes with 3 picots separated by 1 double knot. The tatting looks best on a cushion covered with satin. It makes a pretty cushion for a baby's basket in the size shown.

Paris Fashions.

The newest French etamines are barred with satin and figured with pretty Louis XIV. designs in natural colorings.

The latest Parisian disposition of the persistent box pleat, which has so generally adorned the front of many fancy bodices, places it this season from shoulder to belt on each side, with a band of lace insertion or rich passementerie laid over it. Turn-back revers finish the immediate fronts, these faced with some handsome contrasting fabric. A dainty chemisette of net or tucked silk or chiffon shows between, and the fulness is drawn more closely in at the waist, leaving very little, if any, of the former pouch effect in front.

Challie House Gown.

There is a charming simplicity shown in some of the summer styles which is grateful to the eye; and if there is not much originality, there is certainly variety. One decidedly youthful house gown, of cream colored batiste has the round skirt made with a deep flounce at the foot.

The full blouse of the plain material, is plaided with insertions of cream lace. The shirred sleeves are of embroidered bastiste, with a small puff at the shoulder, finished at the wrist with a ruffle. This gown would look well made up in any soft material and would be especially becoming to a full figure.

Kissing of Hands Forbidden.

It has hitherto been the custom of the children attending the public schools in Austria and Hungary to kiss the hands of their teachers on arrival and departure. This has now been forbidden by a ukase just issued by the Imperial Board of Education, which bases its decision on a declaration of the Sanitary Council to the effect that kissing is a dangerous proceeding, and should not be practised when not absolutely necessary.

The extraordinary precocity of children in India has called forth the astonishment of a recent traveller, who says that many of them are skilled workmen at an age when children are usually learning the alphabet

White All the Rage.

Aside from the new white toilets and costumes of nun's veiling, pique, Swiss muslin duck, India linen, organdie, grenadine, etamine, foulard, silk, and taffeta, are those of white barege—a material brought into favor among numerous other revivals. A very girlish and pretty model in white barege is made up over white taffeta. The gored skirt has only three tiny frills around the hem. The elaboration of this dress is in the round waist, which shows a mixture of the barege and white accordion-pleated chiffon and satin ribbon. One band is placed straight down the centre of the front and another down the back. Two other rows are started at the belt, on each side of the front, and are carried up, expanding slightly on the shoulders, and are then returned to the belt in the back. A cluster of satin loops is set upon each shoulder, and there are folds of the lustrous ribbon about the waist, with two oblong-shaped buckles at the back.

Spectacled Cows.

Cows with spectacles are to be seen on the Russian steppes. The steppes are covered with snow more than six months of the year. The cows subsist on the tufts of grass which crop above the snow, and the rays of the sun on the snow are so dazzling as to cause blindness. To obviate this calamity, it occurred to a kind-hearted man to protect the cows's eyes in the same way as those of human beings, and he manufactured smoke-colored spectacles which could be safely worn by cattle. These spectacles were a great success, and are now worn by upwards of 40,000 head of cattle, who no longer suffer from the snow-blindness which once caused such untold suffering amongst them.

Gowns for Traveling.

Tailors are making use of whipcords in neat reversed silk and wool stripes closely woven to form a smooth surface that repels dust. These are for travelling and walking costumes. They come in blue-grays, tobacco-brown, tan, and hyacinth-blue shades, and are forty-eight inches wide. Of the same width are the popular checks and hair-line stripes in stylish green and white, iris-blue with white, and Havana brown with pale ecru. English serges of well-defined twills come in several handsome shades of brown and green, in silver-blue, in reds both bright and dull, and of course, in the serviceable navy blue, with a pale light army blue in addition. These are full double width and cost ninety cents a yard.

Government Secret Codes.

Every Government, and almost every department, has its secret codes of signs, figures, or words devised by some clever code composer, for use in the transmission of messages of supreme importance, and with regard to which secrecy is of vital consideration. One which is said to be the cleverest of all those now in use is employed by the United States State Department. It is called the "Sphinx." The "Sphinx" was devised by one of the officials in the State Department, and is as susceptible to changes as the combination lock of a safe. Hundreds of messages have been sent by it, and it defies all attempts to unravel its meaning by those unacquainted with the key.

A Dainty Party Hood.

A large hood to throw over one's head, when going any distance to party or theatre, is a necessity, even in the summer. When in a closed carriage even it is risky to go out with the head uncovered, and as these hoods are made large and comfortable there is no danger of the hair being disarranged.

A lovely model is of white china silk, lined throughout with the same material. A ruffle of lace forms the cape of the cap; a frill of accordion pleated chiffon encircles the face, while a large bow of white satin ribbon adorns the top of the cap.

Beautiful Lace Patterns.

Great is the rage for lace appliques in black, white, or cream color, used on elegant gowns, capes, jackets, fancy waists, and in high-class millinery. Adjustable vests, yokes, guimpes, plastrons, revers, and collars are made of guipure in Honiton, Venetian, or Flemish designs. Very fine old-fashioned thread patterns in cream color are also laid over velvet bands and cape-collars, and likewise from beautiful borders to revers and spreading bretelles on elegant gowns of ceremony.

A Mountain of Gold.

The most famous and most puzzling of all gold mines is Mount Morgan. It is supposed to be the product of a hot-water spring, and is simply a mountain of gold, but of gold that has already been treated by Nature. In some far-off age the hill has been a huge natural crucible, and all the gold it contains has been already mined, chemically dissolved, and precipitated by Nature herself. All the gold ever discovered in the mountain exists in a sort of golden flour dissolved through iron-stone.

PROPOSALS FOR ERECTING FIRE HOUSE

Pursuant to a resolution of the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, adopted June 6th, 1898, notice is hereby given that the Committee on Fire and Buildings will meet on Wednesday, June 29th, 1898, at 8 o'clock p. m., at the Chief Engineer's office, Fire Department Headquarters, on East Second street, in the City of Plainfield, at which time and place said Committee will receive sealed proposals for doing the work and furnishing the materials for the construction of a new fire engine house to be erected on property now owned by Elston M. French on West Fourth street, opposite Darrow avenue, in the City of Plainfield, according to the plans and specifications prepared by Edward V. French, Architect, and now on file and open to the inspection of bidders in the office of the City Clerk, No. 109 Park Avenue, Plainfield, N. J. the work to be completed on or before November 1, 1898.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals the said Committee will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided said parties or agents choose to be then and their present and also make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Committee.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check for $300 payable to the Treasurer of the City of Plainfield.

The right to reject any or all bids is expressly reserved by the said Committee.

All proposals should be endorsed, "Proposals for fire-engine house."

Great Carpet Week

—a week long to be remembered by you. Here's the story: We're about as proud as we dare be of the immense carpet business that's done here every working day in the year. It's a successful end of the store. But success knows no boundary line. This whole coming week will be Carpet Week—125 rolls have been "gone over" and marked from 15c to 35c a yard less than any other House ever asked. The quantity ought to be luckiest for you. 'Twill be a sale to make added thousands know our Carpet Store—a floor over 200 feet long, light, inviting, well stocked.

Proceedings of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County.

[OFFICIAL]

Regular meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, held on Thursday, June 2d 1898, at 2:30 p. m.

Roll call showed all members present—17.

The minutes of the previous meeting were, on motion, approved as read.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Elizabeth, June 2, 1898

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders:

Gentlemen:—Your Committee on the Bridge Street Bridge at Rahway would report, that they have carefully examined said bridge, and find it to be in an unsafe and dangerous condition. Your Committee do not think that it would be advisable to attempt to repair the said bridge, and would recommend the construction of a new bridge.

Your Committee would further recommend that they be given authority to take what steps may be necessary to ascertain the style or character of the bridge, that it would be for the best interests of the County to build, also the probable cost of same, report to be made at the next meeting of the Board.

Signed,
Chr Ehrlich,
John Farrell,
Benjamin King,
M. M. Scudder,
Jacob Brucklacher,
Committee.

Freeholder Miller moved the adoption of the report, which was so ordered without dissent.

By the Committee on Gibbons Street Bridge in Linden:

Linden, N. J., June 2, 1898.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union:

Gentlemen:—Your Committee appointed to examine and report upon the advisability of building a new bridge over West Brook at Gibbons Street, Linden, beg leave to report, that they examined the old bridge on May 24th, and in their judgment and belief, it is advisable to build a substantial iron beam bridge, the full width of the street, over said brook, and have instructed Mr. Louis Quien, engineer, to examine and report the cost of such a bridge to this Board.

Signed,
F. T. Higgins, Chairman,
Benjamin King,
W. H. Hulskamper,
Committee.

Attached to the report, was an estimate by Mr. Quien, stating that the cost of such a bridge as recommended would be $3,127.50.

Freeholder Farrell moved that the report be received, which was so ordered without dissent.

NEW BUSINESS.

By Freeholder Burnett:

Resolved, That a committee of three (3) be appointed to look into the advisability of building a new bridge on Long Avenue, Saybrook, and also one on Faltoute Avenue, Roselle (Union Township)

On motion of Freeholder Brucklacher, the resolution was adopted without dissent.

The director appointed as the said committee, Freeholders Burnett, Roll and Hulskamper.

By Freeholder Robison:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed with power to build two bridges on La Grand Avenue, Fanwood, at a cost not to exceed $450.00 for both bridges.

Freeholder Brucklacher moved the adoption of the resolution, and on roll call it was unanimously adopted.

The Director appointed as the said committee, Freeholders Robison, Wahl and Brucklacher.

By Freeholder Higgins:

Resolved, That the committee appointed at the last meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders, be empowered to build an iron beam bridge over West Brook at Gibbons Street, Linden, 40 feet wide as per plans and specifications of Mr. Louis Quien, at a cost not to exceed $2,000.

Freeholder Farrell moved the adoption of the resolution and on roll call it was adopted unanimously.

By Freeholder Miller:

Resolved, That the committee on Elizabeth drawbridges be empowered to have the necessary stone and mason work done on South Street bridge, Elizabeth, at a price not to exceed $340.

Freeholder Brucklacher moved the adoption of the resolution, and on roll call it was unanimously adopted.

By Mr. Farrell:

Resolved, That Messrs. Louis Quien, John D. Runyon and John N. Wilcox be and they are hereby appointed as a committee and requested to make an estimate of the damages to be paid for land necessary to be taken to widen Westfield Avenue from Elizabeth to Plainfield as indicated on the maps recently prepared by Messrs. Bauer and Hubbard, and that in making such estimate the cost in each municipality be stated separately; and be it further

Resolved, That in case any of the members of said committee shall be unable to serve, others may be appointed in their place by the Committee on County Roads.

On motion of Freeholder Miller, the resolution was adopted without dissent.

By Freeholder Roll:

Resolved, that a committee of three (3) be appointed by the Director, to ascertain the advisability of building an iron bridge over west branch of Rahway River on Mountain Avenue, Springfield Township, and report at the next meeting of this Board.

On motion of Freeholder King, the resolution was adopted without dissent.

The Director appointed as the said committee, Freeholders Roll, Tier and Scudder.

By Freeholder Farrell:

Resolved, That the Director and County Collector be authorized to borrow in anticipation of the taxes of the present year, such an amount as they deem necessary, said sum not to exceed one hundred thousand dollars.

Freeholder Farrell moved the adoption of the resolution, and on roll-call it was unanimously adopted.

By Freeholder Roll:

Resolved, That the County Collector be and is hereby authorized to have his annual report printed in pamphlet form at a price not to exceed $100

Freeholder Robison moved the adoption of the resolution, and on roll call it was unanimously adopted.

By Freeholder King:

Resolved, That the County Road Committee be authorized to procure for the use of the Board of County Road Inspectors, 250 copies of the ordinance relating to obstructions of the county road.

Freeholder Roll moved the adoption of the resolution, and on roll call it was unanimously adopted.

County Road Inspector J. W. Fink, who was present, said that his attention had been called to obstructions on sidewalks of county roads; particularly with reference to property owned by Mr. Bunnell, in front of which a Mr. Woodruff had piled on the sidewalk a large number of poles. He had notified both parties to move said poles, but as yet they had failed to do so. Mr Fink said he desired to know what course the Board wished him to pursue.

During some discussion which followed Mr. Fink's statements, it was shown that sidewalks of other County Roads had been obstructed in a like manner. It was finally ordered, on motion of Freeholder Farrell, that the County Road Inspector enforce the ordinance governing obstructions on County Roads

On motion of Freeholder Roll it was ordered that when this Board adjourns, it stands adjourned to meet on Thursday, June 16, 1898, at 2:30 o'clock.

The following bills, audited and approved, were read and on roll call unanimously ordered paid, viz:

There must be a cause!

There must be a reason for our unique position in New Jersey. With countless competitors in the field, you would expect that the business of one or two of them would nearly approach in size the business of the largest, but the truth is that ours is many times larger than any other single one.

One of the causes is that we sell Pianos that we know are the seven best, in their different grades, that America produces—CHICKERINGS, GABLERS, HARDMANS, VOSES, STERLINGS, STANDARDS and HUNTINGTONS. These names are a cause unto themselves.

THE BEST FOR THE COUNTRY.

Let's hope for the best for the country, whatever the powers may be;
The birds still will sing in the blossoms—the river dash on to the sea;
The storm feel the flush of the rainbow however the thunder may fall;
The same sun is shining in splendor—the same God over us all!

Let us hope for the best for the country; there is joy for the night and the day;
The ringing of bells in the cities and dells—sweet-singing our sorrows away;
There are stars for the gloom of the midnight however the shadows may fall;
The same skies are bending above us—the same God is over us all!

Let's hope for the best for the country; here's spring with her banners unfurled—
The breath of the showering blossoms that are blown by the wind o'er the world;
The seed that climbs high to the harvest, and musical voices that call;
The world's in the light of the glory of the God that is over us all!

A PECULIAR CASE.

"Adams is a good man," said the chief of the detective bureau. "He is persistent, and has ideas of his own. We've about given up the Foster murder, but Adams still stays on it."

"Where did you get Adams?" asked the police marshal.

"Volunteered; said he'd just come out of the hospital after a spell of sickness—was a stranger, and had nothing to do; had been reading accounts of the murder, and wanted to try for the reward, so I let him go ahead. He claims to have two clues—a broken iron seal and a torn piece of coat lining. Here he is now."

A man of about thirty-five entered the room where the two officials were sitting.

"Anything new, Adams?" said the chief.

"Yes, sir," replied the newcomer, emphatically. "How could we have missed it? Look at that!"

Carefully he took from his pocket a large, white envelope, stamped and postmarked. It was partly torn, but this much of the superscription remained: Mr. William Dryden, Fairfi—

The chief examined it curiously, and then said, rather contemptuously,—

"Why, Adams, we found a bushel of old envelopes in the dead lawyer's office. You haven't abandoned the seal clew?"

The chief winked merrily at the police marshal, but a moment later he bit his lip with vexation at his own stupidity.

"I have abandoned nothing, sir," replied Adams, with some heat. We have accounted for every person we know of who entered the lawyer's office the morning of the murder. We have missed this man Dryden. Examine the postmarks on the other, that of Fairfield of August fifteenth. Dryden received that envelope on the morning of the murder, came straight to the city and went to Foster's office with it. How else would it have gotten there? Dryden killed him, and I am going to get Dryden.

He was on the train the following morning for the suburban town of Fairfield. During the long, sleepless hours of the night the name of Dryden had haunted him. He had tried his best to recollect who it was of that name he had once known, but at last he gave it up with a gesture of wearied resignation. Notwithstanding his loss of sleep he was feverishly awake. He was on the eve of solving the great murder mystery. There was no one to divide with him either the honor or the reward, not even Jackson, his envious brother detective. What better avocation could he have chosen, and at a time, when the future had seemed so hopeless?

It was but a short ride to Fairfield. Adams went at once to the little country hotel. As he registered he looked up at the portly landlord and casually asked,—

"Any city people here?"

"A few, sir. The Bradbury's, the Gillespies, old Mr. Dundon and young Mrs. Dryden, poor thing!"

"Why 'poor thing?'"

He tried to conceal his anxiety on the question, and felt he had failed. But the landlord was stupid and loquacious.

"Didn't ye hear of it, sir? Her husband left here the middle of August and has never been heard of since. Some thinks he's dead, but his wife don't. He was only here once—I was away at the time. She never leaves her room now, except to go to the postoffice every day."

Adams was at the postoffice the next day at the time the morning mail was being distributed. He kept in the background, for he wished to see without being seen. Already he felt ashamed of himself. The idea of spying upon a broken-hearted woman and laying a trap for the one she loved was something more than merely distasteful to him.

She came at last, a fair, golden-haired woman. Even at a distance he knew it was she before he made an inquiry. As she drew near he retired behind an alcove in the postoffice and watched her with staring eyes. Slowly and with seeming reluctance she left the delivery window after her futile errand. In her face there was an expression of infinite sadness, yet in her eyes still flickered the light of hope. Adams stood there long after she had disappeared—stood there knowing well that his mission was at an end. Never through his efforts would her husband be captured. Short as was the time he had seen her, he knew that he loved her. In his heart he felt there had always been just such an image of a gentle face.

Out of the postoffice he drifted aimlessly. A crowd of people were coming from the railroad station, where a train had just arrived. Suddenly his face flushed in anger as he recognized among the number his fellow detective Jackson. In a sort of frenzy he rushed at him and grasped him tightly by both arms.

"What are you doing here?" he demanded.

"I came at the request—"

"Go back at once. I am going. There is nothing in it. Foster requested that the letter be returned to him immediately. That is the explanation of the envelope. I have seen Dryden and investigated everything. The man had nothing to do with the murder. Are you going?"

"Yes, but—"

himself with impatient rage. "I will join you at the station. A train will be due shortly. Stay there, or I'll—strangle you."

Jackson looked at him in amazement, hesitated a moment, and then turned and walked back to the station.

"Then go!" screamed Adams, beside enter the building, when he wheeled around and strode rapidly to the hotel. He would see her again—perhaps speak to her.

He entered the room which served the double purpose of an office and a sitting-room. There was no one there. He walked to the desk and the little dog-eared hotel register caught his eye. With an exclamation of impatience at not having thought of it before, he was at once engrossed in the register. Page after page he went back over the names with his fingers until suddenly he stopped as if checked by an electric shock. The little clock on the wall above him ticked off five minutes, but still he stood there his eyes glued to the page and his finger at a name. The door of another room opened and he heard the voices of the landlord and Jackson. In an instant he had torn the leaf from the register and crushed it into his pocket.

Jackson entered the office and started back when he saw Adams. But in the latter's eye there was no longer any anger. Instead, he regarded the other detective calmly, but steadfastly. Jackson felt reassured.

"Adams, old man," he began, "what is the matter with you? I'm not here on your assignment; I'm here on another matter altogehter. Show me up, landlord."

The two left the room and ascended the stairs. Adams waited awhile and then followed them. At the first landing he found himself in front of the hotel parlor, the door of which stood ajar. It was impossible not to have seen within, and he saw there the woman to whom his heart had gone out conversing with Jackson.

Within one hour he was in his apartments in the city. He got out the broken seal and the torn piece of coat-lining and placed them upon a table. Then he sent for his physician.

The doctor found him in a state of excitement, bordering on fever. But he was surprised to learn that he had not been sent for to prescribe for his patient.

"Doctor," said Adams, endeavoring to control himself, "when you treated me for my wound at the hospital, was there any scar left after it had healed?"

"Why, how did you learn it?" the doctor broke out involuntarily. "It is impossible for you to see it yourself without artificial means."

"I understand that. Was there anything peculiar about the scar?"

"There was, Mr. Adams, although I have never mentioned it before. The scar is in the shape of a Maltese cross. But you must not think of it."

The doctor never knew how it happened, exactly, but he had hardly disclosed his secret when he found himself ushered out of the house and dismissed.

Adams went back to his room trembling, his forehead damp with perspiration.

"God!" he exclaimed, "what made me think of it! What made me examine it!"

Then he snatched up the detached broken arm of the seal and brought it down heavily upon a pad of paper. The impression formed was a Maltese cross.

"Here! Here is where it is," cried the districted man as his hand clutched the back of his head. He staggered back as if to fall in a faint when his distended eyes rested for a second on the piece of lining. A newly born unnatural energy siezed him. With the piece of lining in his hand he bounded to his wardrobe and tore down his clothes like a madman. He was not long in finding it—an overcoat, with a part of the lining gone, which the piece matched and fitted. With clenched hands he raised himself to his full height and then fell upon the bed in a heap.

They found him there the next day at noon—Jackson and the lady from Fairfield. When they entered the room his eyes were like those of a man suddenly killed. At the sight of her, life seemed slowly to kindle in them—the eagerness—then struggling recognition—and then the light of a joyful awakening. As the wife threw herself into the arms of her husband the veil lifted through which his memory had so long and vainly tried to peer. In the fraction of a second it all came back to him: His visit to the lawyer who had tried to ruin him; the seizure of the papers which had been stolen from him; the murderous pistol in the hands of the other and his successful struggle to secure it; the cruel blow from behind with the broken seal; the renewed attack by the infuriated scoundrel; himself dazed and lapsing into unconsciousness, yet battling for his life, and finally the indistinct vision of a man beneath him, whose throat he grasped with tightly closed hands.

Often again the hideous vision came before him, but he told no man or no woman what he saw. For his conscience had acquitted him.—Short Stories.

The Y. M. C. A. game for this afternoon has been called off.

The game today between the Y. M. C. A. nine and the Bachelors' nine has been called off, but the Y. M. C. A. boys will play some other team if possible.

Manager Mumford is making a strong effort to arrange a game with the Orange Athletic Club. The O. A. C. team will not come to Plainfield so the Crescents will have to go there. The game will probably be played on a Wednesday afternoon as the schedule of the O. A. C. is complete for every Saturday.

Manager Mumford, of the Plainfield Crescents, has announced the schedule for his nine up to and including Independence Day. It is as follows:

June 25—Staten Island A. C.

July 2—Dreadnaught A. C. of New York.

July 4, a. m—Brooklyn A. A.

July 4, p. m—New Brunswick A. A.

The Staten Island nine is supposed to be the champions of the borough of Richmond. On that team Vroom and McLarty formerly played. The Dreadnaught team is one of the strongest in upper New York. It is composed of young men, most of them ex-college players. At football the club was nearly invincible and an equal record is claimed for the representatives on the diamond. The Brooklyn A. A. is one of the candidates for championship honors in Brooklyn and is a formidable rival of the Oak Field Club that the Crescents defeated here several weeks ago.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Elvaine Van Name, of Elmwood place, has learned to ride a bicycle.

Mrs. Daniel Page, of Elmwood place, has been presented with a new bicycle by her husband.

The county road, just beyond Fanwood, is in very poor condition. The dust is two inches deep while beneath it are ruts that make riding decidedly unpleasant for all the wheelmen who venture in that locality.

RAN INTO THE ORGAN GRINDER.

Leonard S. Smith Severely Hurt While Out Cycling.

Because of the stupidity of an Italian organ grinder, Leonard S. Smith, of 109 Duer street, lies at home today with a deep gash in his right leg that will confine him to the house for several days to come.

Mr. Smith, Wm. VanSyckle and Herbert Taylor rode out to Meluchen last night. On the way back Mr. Smith scorched ahead. Near Campbell's hotel an organ grinder stepped out of the bushes with his organ, right in the path of Mr. Smith, who could not stop. The organ grinder kept on across the bicyclist's path, and the result was a collision, in which the wheelman came out the worst.

A deep gash was cut in Mr. Smith's leg. He picked himself up and attempted to ride on again, but feeling faint threw himself down on the bank. Here he was found by his companions when they came up. He was helped in the hotel and later sent home in a carriage. Dr. Probasco attended to the wound and had to take several stitches in the cut before binding it up.

MANSHANDA DANCED A JIG.

Farmer Pitts' Murderer Happy Over Escaping the Death Sentence.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, June 18—George Manshanda, the Summit murder, who Thursday escaped the gollows, will be taken to Trenton today to serve his sentence of twenty years. Manshanda was so overjoyed at saving his neck that he danced a jig in the jail when he was led back from the courtroom.

All his pretended illness has passed away since he learned what his fate was to be, and today he is the happiest and most cheerful man in the jail. Warden Blore has all along claimed Manshanda was shamming sickness.

Memorial Service for Dead Volunteer.

The Volunteers of America will hold a memorial service for the late Theodore Herrmann, who was a member, tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. All his friends are especially invited to attend. Lieut. Worthington will also be present to assist Capt. and Mrs. Milford during the summer.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

SANTIAGO MUST FALL.

Shafter's Army Has Arrived and Is Ready to Land.

MANILA HAS BEEN DECLARED INDEPENDENT.

Shafter's Expedition Reported Off Santiago—Landing Expected Today—Spaniards Threaten to Burn Cuban Town—Blanco Refuses to Exchange Hobson and Comrades—News from Manila.

TROOPS OFF SANTIAGO.

Shafter's Expedition Is Reported To Have Arrived—Landing Yet To Be Made.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Mole St. Nicholas, June 20, 10:47 a m—Reports have reached this place to the effect that the fleet of transports bearing General Shafter's expedition against Santiago has arrived off Santiago de Cuba and Guantanamo Bay.

The landing of the troops will probably be accomplished today, unless there is some unexpected delay. The reports do not mention any landing as yet but such information is constantly expected.

The marines at Camp McCalla have been reinforced by a force of marines from the different ships aff Santiago until the landing of the regular troops.

No concerted action against the city is contemplated until the latter part of the week.

It is reported, that on the arrival of the troops, the Spaniards intend to burn the city of Caimanera, and retreat to the mountains.

The marines expect an attack on Camp McCalla soon before the reinforcements under the command of General Shafter arrive.

BLANCO REFUSES.

Says Spain Will Not Permit the Exchange of Hobson and Comrades.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Washington, June 20, 1:17 p. m.—A despatch has just been received by the Navy Department from Commodore Watson, commanding the blockading squadron off Havana.

The message relates to the negotiations that have been in progress for some time looking toward the exchanging of Hobson and his comrades. It is as follows:

"Blanco states Spanish government refuses to exchange Merrimac's crew.

"Watson."

MANILA INDEPENDENT.

Independence Declared and a Provisional Government Formed at Cavite.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Manila, via Hong Kong, June 20, 1:56 p. m.—A provisional government was proclaimed off Cavite June 12th. A declaration of independence renouncing the Spanish authority over the Phillippine Islands was read.

The insurgent government will not oppose an American protectorate or occupation. There is no talk, however, of annexation to the United States.

The rebels have just captured a Spanish Governor and a garrison of three hundred men besides a quantity of supplies.

SITUATION UNCHANGED.

Transports Not Yet Reached Manila, But Expected Soon—Foreigners Leaving.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Manila, June 17, via Hong Kong, June 20, 1:33 p. m. The situation here remains unchanged. The insurgents are still unable to take the city of Manila, owing to the lack of field guns, even if Rear Admiral Dewey would permit them, which he will not do.

The report that the United States transports from San Francisco, bringing troops here, have arrived is incorrect. They are not expected until the 20th.

The foreigners here fear a sack of the city and a massacre by the insurgents and are leaving on neutral ships.

PREPARING FOR NEXT MOVE

Expedition Against Porto Rico Will Sail About the First of July.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Washington, June 20, 1 p. m—The officials of the War Department are of the opinion that the expedition against Porto Rico will start from Florida about the first of July.

Active preparations are being made for the expedition under the direct supervision of Major General Miles. Orders have been issued to the chiefs of the various bureaus to rush supplies with all possible haste to the camp at Fernandina.

Fifteen regiments, that are now encamped at Camp Thomas, have received orders to prepare to move to the camp at Fernandina where the expedition is to be mobilized.

NO NEW CALL.

Third Call For Troops Not Likely to Come Just Now.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Washington, June 20, 12:58 p. m.—The third call for volunteeers will not be made immediately. General Corbin says that the third call is not yet in prospect.

He admits, however, the possibility of a new proclamation calling for troops under certain circumstances which may develop in a few days.

FRANKLIN P. NOBLE MARRIED.

Joined in Wedlock to Jennie Sampson Bockoven, of Mendham.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Mendham, N. J., June 20—Miss Jennie Sampson Bockoven, of this place, and Franklin P. Noble, recently of Plainfield and now of Glen Cove, L. I., were married at the home of the bride Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. It was a charming home wedding and was attended by a number of friends and relatives of the couple. The ceremony was performed by Rev. George B. Noble, of Mendham, father of the groom, assisted by Rev. James Avery Morris, of Glen Cove, L. I.

Mr. and Mrs. Noble will reside in Glen Cove where Mr. Noble is rapidly building up a good business as a civil engineer. He was formerly in the employ of Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett, of Plainfield, and later with Frank J. Hubbard, borough engineer of North Plainfield.

Saw the Boys at Fort Hancock.

William B. Goff and James Stanfield spent yesterday visiting the soldier boys at Fort Hancock and fishing off Highland Beach. They found the Plainfield boys enjoying excellent health and anxious to go to the front. As a result of their fishing excursion both brought home a big catch of fish.

Mrs. Richard Trewin, of West Front street, suffered a stroke of paralysis Saturday and she is confined to the house helpless. She also has lost her speech. Dr. Tomlinson is in attendance.

CLOSE FINISHES BY THE LOCAL TROTTERS

Continuation of Matinue Races By Plainfield Driving Club.

THREE EVENTS SATURDAY.

EX-JUDGE W. A. CODDINGTON WON THE EVENT FOR ROAD WAGONS.

"Highland Boy" Defeated "Myrtle Twig" in Two Very Exciting Heats, Finishing Neck and Neck—S. H. Edward's Mare in Her First Race.

The interest in fast horses and good trotting seems to have donned "seven league boots" this season, as far as Plainfield is concerned. The approaching meet of the Central New Jersey Driving Association may be the cause of it, however. At any rate, the matinee races of the Plainfield Driving Club, that were continued on the Gentlemen's Driving Park on Park avenue, Saturday afternoon, were well attended and a gread deal of interest shown.

The track was fast although the brisk south-east wind rather impeded the progress of the horses on the first turn and along the back stretch. There was plenty of good sport nevertheless. A number of improvements in the general appearance of the Park were noticed, the preparation of the Driving Club for the big meet Wednesday and Thursday.

The event of the afternoon that attracted the most attention was the match between several prominent horsemen in road wagons. What made the race of unusual interest was the fact that the starters in it were the same as those who are entered for the special race at the race meet Wednesday. The contestants were W. A. Coddington's brown mare "Belle," "Belle Hayes," driven by her owner, I. F. Randolph, of Elizabeth, Johnny Osborne's "Roxie French," N. B. Smalley's black trotter, "Ned Norton," and Robert Fairburn's roan mare "Lady Harrison." Randolph used a top buggy and the others pneumatic tired road wagons.

There was considerable trouble in getting them started. "Lady Harrison" broke time after time just before reaching the wire until her owner withdrew in disgust. After several other trials they got a fair start. From the very first 'Belle" pulled into the lead and there she stayed without a skip until she went under the wire at the finish. Randolph's mare was apparently the only one to push her. The two horses stayed together the entire distance. At the finish "Belle Hayes" responded well to her owner's efforts but could not overcome the lead. "Roxie French" and "Ned Norton" fought it out along the stretch for third. The heat was a repetition of the first. Judge Coddington and Mr. Randolph were bunched all the distance and the other two straggled along in the rear.

Samuel H. Edwards' bay mare "Molly" made her first appearance of the season in a race in the 2:30 class. She trotted against Douglas Darby's "Sunday" and was defeated in two closely contested heats. "Sunday" won by a neck in the first heat after leading all the way. She won by a larger margin in the second. "Molly" was driven by Frank Edwards, a son of the owner, who has trained, brought up and driven the horse.

The closest races of the day was the 2:25 class, in which "Highland Boy" and "Myrtle Twig" were the only starters. Brantingham's mare "Myrtle Twig" had the pole in the first heat and took the lead. The chestnut horse crept up on the back stretch but dropped back on the turn. As they turned into the home stretch, "Highland Boy" came by with a rush and took first half way down the stretch. It was neck and neck and Brantingham's mare began to gain when they passed under the wire, with "Highland Boy" a nose to the good.

The second heat was trotted slightly faster and with equal closeness. Charles Brower, who was piloting the winner, tried the same tactics with success although the bay mare made a plucky fight. "Highland Boy" has a lower mark than "Myrtle Twig."

W. F. Williams, R. A. Fairbairn, and Nathan Robins officiated in the judges' stand.

The summaries of the events of the afternoon were as follows:—

HE DIED A HERO AT THE THROTTLE.

Engineer McHale Remained at His Post To Save Others.

CRUSHED IN THE WRECK.

BAD ACCIDENT ON THE CENTRAL NEAR MAUCH CHUNK.

Easton Train That Passes Through Plainfield in the Evening—The Smoking Car Rolled into the Lehigh River.

[Special to The Daily Press.]

Easton, Pa., June 20—The passenger train on the Central Railroad of New Jersey due here shortly after 6 o'clock p. m. was wrecked six miles above Mauch Chunk at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The engineer, Richard McHale, of Easton, and the news agent, Charles Ebner, of South Easton, were killed. Wilfred Yeomans, the fireman, and Charles Taylor, the baggagemaster, both of Easton, were badly hurt.

The train was east-bound, and while rounding a curve at a lively rate the rails spread and the engine, baggage car and smoker left the track. The remaining three cars of the train stopped before they reached the broken rails.

The engine ploughed into the embankment, but McHale heroically remained at the throttle to save the passengers. He was frightfully crushed between the engine and the enbankment. He died in a few moments. Yeomans was cut about the head and body, but it is believed he will recover.

The baggage car was smashed to splinters, and the roof and other portions of it flew up on the embankment, along which runs the Lehigh Valley track, and struck a moving passenger train on that road. The Lehigh Valley train was, however, not damaged.

Ebner and Taylor were conversing in the baggage car when the crash came. The former was fatally injured and died at Mauch Chunk, where he was taken. Taylor's breast is bruised, and he is believed to be internally injured He is in the Easton hospital.

The smoker tumbled into the Lehigh river. There were about a dozen passengers in the car, but none were killed. Some were painfully cut and bruised, and all are suffering from shock.

A BLOW TO CAVALRY CHURCH.

Delegates Were Not Accorded Usual Privileges at Baptist Convention.

The services in Mt. Olive Baptist church last night were attended by about three hundred persons to listen to the new pastor, Rev. E. E. Jackson, who will be formally installed as pastor next Thursday evening.

An interesting announcement was made by the delegates to the New England convention held in Brooklyn last week, when they stated that the members of the Cavalry Baptist church were not accorded recognition there because they had not been regularly organized. It was stated that they were advised to return to Mt. Olive church and live in peace.

After the report Rev. E. E. Jackson in his sermon exhorted the congregation to imitate the better class of white people that they might be respected as a people of high attainments.

CALLANT CHIEF GRANT THERE.

He Bravely Stopped a Runaway Horse This Morning.

An exciting runaway occurred early this morning at the corner of Park avenue and Second street. The horse and butcher wagon owned by J. Mintz, a local cattle dealer, was left standing on Second street close to Edward Brown's butcher shop, when suddenly he started to run away. The horse made a dash across Park avenue and struck the sidewalk in front of the City Hotel, driving two men into the hotel to escape injury. The animal whirled around and started through Park avenue toward Front street. When near the ladies' entrance to the hotel Chief Grant distinguished himself by gallantly stopping the horse in his flight. The Chief quickly brought the horse to full stop, thus preventing any further damage.

Clubhouse on Park's Golf Course.

John Abbott, of West Front street, has received the contract to erect a clubhouse for the Park Golf Club on their new grounds in Hyde's woods. The work will be started at once and pushed rapidly to completion. The work on the links progresses favorably and it is hoped that the grounds will be ready for play by the middle of August.

THE VISITING TEAM WAS SNOWED UNDER

Crescents Administered Overwhelming Defeat.

REMARKABLE FIFTH INNING.

THE VISITORS WERE FROM WILLIAMSBURG FIELD CLUB.

The Final Result Was 30 to 6 in Favor of the Crescents—Sixteen Runs Were Scored in One Inning—Terrible Batting by Home Team.

Truly, Saturday's baseball game was a record breaker. Never was there such an exhibition of the kind before in this town. Even the small boy, who hangs up the score on the big score board after each inning, was non plussed. The score had gotten beyond his powers to keep it. For the benefit of those who did not see the game, it should be explained that the Crescents won. In fact, they were so far ahead that their opponents, the Williamsburg Field Olub, were not in sight, and it is doubtful whether they will be seen again, in Plainfield at any rate.

The score was about 30 to 6. The word "about" is used advisedly, as the Crescents' runs came in so fast that the scorers found difficulty in keeping up with them. It was not less than 30, anyhow.

The mistake that caused all the trouble occurred in the first inning. The Crescents had an idea that they had at last found foemen worthy of their efforts, and they began to show what they were made of. Last year the Williamsburg team defeated the Crescents 15 to 5. But, as one of the visitors significantly remarked, it was a different crowd they ran up against this time.

The visitors made a warm opening. The first man to bat received his base on balls. Then followed clean hits by Shea and Grady that filled the bases The cranks on the stand opened their eyes in wonder and prophesied that the Waterloo for the Crescents had now arrived. Then McLoughlin, who was in the box for the Crescents woke up to the importance of the occasion. The next two men succomed to his curves and were retired. Jim Mc Meel made a clean hit and brought in two runs amid deafening yells. Mc Meel then tried to steal second and Grady was caught at home by a clever trick

The Crescents then made that woeful mistake. They thought they had met their match and opened up with such possibilities for the future that everybody trembled for the visitors. A single by Hollister, two bases on balls, two passed balls and a double by Stevens netted four runs for the Crescents.

For the next two innings, Mac struck out six men and no runs were were scored for the visitors. In the third, the Crescents made three more on a double by Cavanaugh and single hits by Collins and Vroom.

The Williamsburg boys did nothing in the fourth while the Crescents, now fully entered on their campaign, saw four men complete the circuit. It was clean hitting, too, that was the cause of it all. Hollister, Metz, Collins and Lederer hit safely for one base while Stevens sent the ball over the centre fielder's head, nearly to the track, and ran three bases before the ball could be fielded back.

And then came the fifth inning. There is not much use trying to describe it. MacLaughlin was first to bat and he had two other chances before the inning was over. Did they hit the ball? Never was such batting seen in Plainfield. Nelson had been taken out of the box, for the captain of the visitors thought that the Crescents were hitting him too hard. But the reception that the new man, Charters, received was enough to take the heart out of the best twirler on the diamond. That poor little leather sphere was batted all over the field without rest. And when the ball did go anywhere near one of the visitors he promptly dropped it, for the fever was upon them and they were powerless.

There were, however, few errors on the part of the visitors. It may have been from lack of opportunity, for the Crescents covered every part of the field where there wasn't anybody. They lost the ball several times in the high grass and everybody ran bases and laughed and yelled until the grand stand itself nearly expired at the exhibition. The wind was just right to carry the ball out into the field and that aided in the fun. Everybody made a hit or two, a run or two, and then a Williamsburg fielder made Impressive Memorial Service of Crescent Company.

VISITORS FROM BROOKLYN.

A MONUMENT DEDICATED IN THE METHODIST CEMETERY.

Several Cemeteries Visited by Details of Knights—Rain Interferred in the Afternoon—A Banquet Served in Hand's Hotel at Scotch Plains.

The rain of yesterday interfered materially with the observance of Decoration Day by the members of Crescent Company, No. 13, U. R. K. of P., and Rathbone Company, of Brooklyn. In the morning the graves were decorated by details from Crescent Company.

In the afternoon at 2 o'clock Crescent Company met Rathbone Company from Brooklyn at the North Avenue station. The two companies, headed by Unity Drum Corps, of Elizabeth, marched to the North Plainfield Cemetery, where a service was held. The march was then continued to Fifth street and Park avenue. At this point it began to rain very hard, and the Sir Knights took shelter under some trees, but many of them were thoroughly drenched. Mrs. E. R. Pope, of Park avenue, invited the Knights to her porch, where they remained until stages could be secured to continue the journey.

When the stages arrived the Knights went to the Plainfield avenue cemetery and held services and dedicated the new monument recently erected over the grave of the late George Rutherford. The continued rain necessarilly cut the services quite short at this cemetery as well as at Hillside. At the latter place George Lee photographed Crescent Company and Rathbone Company separately and then together.

From Hillside Cemetery the Knights went to Scotch Plains and held services there, after which all adjourned to Hand's Hotel where dinner was served. The Knights returned to Plainfield from there and the visitors returned home on the 8:32 train to New York.

Those who took part in the services held at the various cemeteries were First Sergeant, J. U. Blimm; chaplain, J. S. Higham; captain, J. E. Flannery; first lieutenant, Jacob Blimm; and Friendship, Charity and Benevolence were represented by Wm. Young, Louis Mohring and Charles McGinley. At the dedication of the monument in the Plainfield avenue cemetery there was an address by Stephen Higham and a prayer by Chaplain J S. Higham. There was also singing by the Knights.

TOO MUCH WEIGHT FOR THE BUGGY.

Scotch Plains Men in an Accident That Threatened to be Serious.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, June 20—Freeholder John Robison, Assistant Chief of the Fire Department John Radin, and Samuel Radin, a Republican leader, all of Scotch Plains, were mixed up in an accident Saturday afternoon that for a time looked as though it might result in serious injuries to all. The Messrs. Radin had been to Fanwood and were returning home when they met Freeholder Robison and invited him to ride with them. The latter accepted, but when the corner of Forest avenue was reached and the horse was turned to go into the latter thoroughfare, the weight of the three men proved too much for the buggy to bear and a wheel was wrenched off the axle. The occupants of the vehicle were thrown out in a promiscuous manner and the horse took fright and started to run away. One of the Radins, who was driving, held on pluckily, and after being dragged for a short distance, brought the frightened animal to a standstill. All of the men were more or less bruised, but none were seriously hurt. They consider their escape quite miraculous.

$125 for Mt. Zion Church.

A rally was held at the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church yesterday morning, afternoon and evening, and $125 was raised for the benefit of the church. In the morning Rev. Mr. Coster, of Plainfield, preached, and Rev. R. R. Phipps, of Bound Brook, preached in the afternoon. The evening service was in charge of Rev. J. C. Cuff, of Summit. All three services were largely attended and interesting.

Will Come in Handy Now.

The machinery for the eight disappearing gun carriages being built at Pond's is now all ready to be put together. In a short time the carriages will be completed.

WHILE YET IN YOUTH FEAR NOT A HARD TASK.

Common Sense Sermon of Dr. Schenk to Graduates.

JEREMIAH'S GOOD ADVICE.

LIFE IS NOT ALL ACTIVITY; MEDITATION FIGURES LARGELY IN IT.

Both Qualities are Necessary to the Proper Development of Youth—Work Hurts None, It's Worry That Kills—Yoke of Religion Needed.

Thursday evening of this week fourteen young people are to graduate from the North Plainfield Public School, and take their part in the busy world. Preliminary to their going it was very fitting that Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph.D., of the Trinity Reformed church, should address the members of the class in his church last night. Owing to the inclement weather only ten of the graduates ventured out. Those who were present heard some excellent advice which was applicable to all.

The text was taken from the Lamentations of Jeremiah, 3d chapter, 27th verse: "It is a good thing for a young man to bear his yoke in his youth."

Upon this text Mr. Schenck spoke somewhat as follows: "These are the words of an old man, and because they come from a person of experience and observation, we should heed them. The yoke represents something that is not agreeable—perhaps galling. The horse and the bullock resent the yoke in their old age unless they had been broken to it when they were young, and so it is with man. The time for adapting himself to circumstances is in his youth.

"We must bear in mind the difference between things that are pleasant and those which are good. As the pruning knife and the hammer are necessary to the tree and the rock, the one to improve the quality of the fruit and the other to bring out the hidden metals, so the yoke is necessary to bring out what is best in the heart of the young man.

"Jeremiah says that it is necessary for the young to bear affliction. No Christian can make progress in a calm. The young often think that life is made up of activity, but that is not so. Life is made up of activity and meditation, which are related to each other as the roots are related to the branches; both are necessary to growth. The young man should bear yoke of submission. We are under the yoke of authority; none of us are free.

'The prophet also suggests the yoke of toil and work. Work hurts no one, it is the worry that kills. Finally the prophet warns young men to bear the yoke of religion, which gives the character its added element. If we put on this yoke in youth we will not feel its weight, when in latter years its very touch will be burdensome. The world wants good young men and women today, who will not be afraid of the sneers of the other half."

In closing Mr. Schenck made a few personal remarks to the graduates, advising them that the world never wore such a bright face for them as it does at the present, and telling them that the opportunities for achievement are many. With the graduates who were seated in the front of the church, were two of their teachers and State Superintendent Baxter.

DR. WARDE LOCATED.

Erstwhile Military Academy Man is Staying in Binghamton.

Dr. Andrew D. Warde, the missing superintendent of the defunct New Jersey Military Academy, has at last been heard from. He is located at present at Binghamton, N. Y., where he is boarding. His present location was learned through the friends of a Plainfield family who were interested in the school. The Doctor gave this friend's name as a reference where he went to board. The boarding housekeeper applied to them and, as they had not heard of Dr. Warde's trouble, they gave satisfactory statements about him. Then they afterwards heard of the trouble in Plainfield, and wrote to their Plainfield friends to tell where the missing superintendent was staying.

Medicine for the Dons.

Thomas H. Kellar, of this city, as eastern representative of the Peters Cartridge Company, completed a deal with the United States Government Saturday for $132,000 worth of ammunition for the army. The ammunition consists of 45-70 cartridges for the rifles and 45 and 38 calibre Colts for revolvers.

HAVE WE BEEN FOOLED?

Oviedo's Visit to Sampson May Have Been a Ruse

EXPLORATION HIS OBJECT

A Feeling That We Have Been Duped Hourly Gaining—Fears Are Now Entertained That Hobson and His Men Are Not Well Treated—It is Thought Cervera Sent His Captain to Sampson to Find Out How the Merrimac Lay.

Washington, June 20.—Officials of the navy department are awakening to what they believe was a clever ruse on Admiral Cervera's part and their confidences in his assurances that Lieutenant Hobson and his men are being well cared for is weakening.

A feeling is hourly gaining ground that the visit of Captain Ovideo under a flag of truce to the flagship New York after the sinking of the collier Merrimac in the channel of Santiago de Cuba was not made because of Spanish admiration of American bravery, but because the Spanish admiral wanted to learn just what his chances were for overcoming the barrier that penned his fleet in the harbor.

With this, too, there is a feeling of uneasiness for the brave men who were taken prisoners and are suffered to be confined now in Morro Castle.

The sincerity of the assurances that the prisoners are being kindly treated is being doubted more and more. If all these encouraging assurances be true, if Captain Ovideo really did visit Admiral Sampson for the sole purpose of telling him that Hobson and his men were safe, then there has been a display of Spanish gallantry that most officials intimately acquainted with the true inwardness of Spanish character say is anything but characteristic.

The real purpose of the visit to the American flagship, they say, was to ascertain if there was any possible chance for the escape of the Spanish fleet.

First reports of the capture of the Merrimac's crew said that Admiral Cervera had communicated with the American admiral and offered to exchange the prisoners. In later reports Admiral Cervera has said that the matter of an exchange was something with which he had nothing to do. It rested entirely with General Blanco. The Spanish officers are now finding Hobson and his men an excellent protection for Morro Castle against American shells.

Now that all the facts of Captain Ovideo's visit are being made known here, it is pretty certain that all of Cervera's actions in the Hobson affair are being viewed with suspicion.

Admiral Sampson, when Captain Ovideo approached with a flag of truce, signalled his ships to form in their most formidable array. He wanted to give the Spanish officer an object lesson he would not soon forget. The Spanish captain, after his conference with the American admiral, stood for a moment at the rail before descending the iron ladder of the New York, swept his keen glances over the great American fleet and made a show of being deeply impressed. This is now thought to have been a clever piece of stage play on his part.

The tug Colon, which had brought the captain out for the interview, loitered over the wreck of the Merrimac. Another small boat, too, that had accompanied the Colon, stood near the wreck. While the Spanish captain was talking with Admiral Sampson keen Spanish eyes were making a careful examnation of the barrier.

Captain Ovideo had left the Colon to take the New York's launch. When he boarded his tug it was noticed to pass the wreck on the opposite side from that which it took when it brought the captain out. The small boat also passed in on the opposite side.

Whether the Spaniards have decided, after their careful examination of the wreck, there is no way of removing it or will try to pass, remains to be seen. In the meantime fears are entertained for the safety of Hobson and his gallant men.

The Army Landed.

Kingston, Jamaica, June 20.—When the auxiliary cruiser Yosemite left here suddenly on Friday it was with the firm conviction of the officers that the army whose start had been so long delayed would finally arrive at Guantanamo Sunday, and relieve the little band of marines whose valor has been put to unnecessarily hard tests.

There is every reason to believe that the dispatch boats will within the next few days bring stories of more important actions than have yet occurred in the war. In the meantime the younger naval officers have been loudly complaining because the fleet commander has permitted nothing except the throwing of a few shells at inferior fortifications. Excessive caution is marking every step. The escape of the Purisima Concepcion from the Yosemite is discussed on all sides here. There is little doubt that the neutrality laws were violated in spirit, though not in the letter in Jamaica, one of the few places where war proves an unmixed benefit. Several large steamers have taken cargoes of American food for Spanish soldiers in Cuba. The Purisima Concepcion had a Spanish officer aboard superintending purchases.

A device for changing the flag, which all Spanish vessels are anxious to do, through a sail, with strings attached, makes it possible for a steamer really Spanish to openly load provisions and proceed to non-blockaded ports in perfect safety.

Pay for New Yorkers.

Tampa, Fla., June 20.—Information received here and considered trustworthy, says the New York volunteer troops will be paid in full by the assistant paymaster of the state of New York to-day, and as the governor purposes a full settlement Tuesday it would appear that hard times in the camp are things of the past.

Rejected Officers and Men to Be Paid.

Washington, June 20.—The officers and men who were rejected by the United States medical officers will receive pay for the time they spent in camp. The adjutant general gave the order last week.

WILL BE 22,000 STRONG.

General Miles Will Be in Command of the Porto Rico Invasion.

Washington, June 20.—Much is yet to be done in the way of sending supplies and equipments to Fernandina. Arrangements have been made with President Duvall of the Florida Central and Peninsula Railroad Company to have several side tracks constructed at Fernandina. An abundance of cold storage houses will be built along the tracks at that place. Profiting by the experience of the gathering of the Santiago expedition, the department will take every precaution against a block on the railway. The troops will be taken from the train and immediately shipped on board the transports, thus avoiding any delay in breaking camp.

The army for Porto Rico will be 20,000 strong. Major General Miles will be in command and Major General Coppinger second in command. In all probability General Miles will return to the United States in the fall and command the main army of invasion in Cuba. General Coppinger will remain in Porto Rico as military governor.

The importance of capturing Porto Rico at the present time is very apparent to the administration. If by any possibility Camara's fleet should come to this side of the Atlantic, the Spaniards would naturally make Porto Rico their base of supplies.

It is not deemed necessary, however, that the expedition leave before three weeks, but everything is being hurried as rapidly as possible in order hat there will be no unnecessary delay.

The latst advices from Porto Rico say that Spanish regulars are being concentrated in the vicinity of San Juan. The port of Mayaguez has been mined and the buoys have been changed. Nine-tenths of the population, according to these advices, prefer annexation to independence.

RED CROSS SECURES THE ADMIRAL.

Yacht Will Be Used in Cuban Waters as Headquarters for Miss Barton.

New York, June 20.—The sub-committee on purchase for a medical supply vessel for the American National Red Cross Relief committee has purchased the steam yacht Admiral from R. W. Comstock.

The Admiral is 154 feet 6 inches over all, 117 feet water line, 20 feet beam and 8 feet draught. She is a flush deck vessel, built at Providence in 1892, and is 126 gross tons. The hull is copper sheathed below the water line, adapting her specially for southern waters. She carries a naphtha launch, whaleboat, and two gigs, and her average cruising speed is twelve knots.

The Admiral will be used as a headquarters for Miss Clara Barton and the relief committee, and will for the present be stationed at Tampa. Mr. Comstock, the former owner, contributed $2,500 toward the cause.

The Admiral was bought for $40,000, and is at present at Providence. She will be brought at once to the Atlantic Basin, Brooklyn, where she will be painted white, with red stripes and will be rechristened Red Cross. She is expected to be in readiness in five days and will be examined by the naval inspectors and a commission issued by Secretary Long.

Hobart Defeated in England.

Liverpool, June 20.—In the lawn tennis games at Algburth Saturday, Clarence Hobart, the American player, met H. L. Doherty to decide the championship, with the result that Doherty beat Hobart three sets to love.

Popular opinion favored Hobart's chances, but Doherty was in the finest form and won the two first sets, by 6-1 each. In the third set Hobart greatly improved, and was frequently applauded. He got out of difficulties time after time in a marvelous fashion, but Doherty's net play was too good and he won the set by 8-6.

The Columbia Sails.

New York, June 20.—There was a great demonstration along the East river front early Sunday afternoon, when the cruiser Columbia, with every evidence of her recent collision obliterated, sailed from the Brooklyn navy yard and made her way to the man of war anchorage off Tompkinsville, Staten island. The big commerce destroyer had been freshly painted while in dry dock and as she glided down the stream spick and span and with colors flying she male a beautiful picture.

Supplies for Havana.

Port Antonio, Jamaica, June 20.—Well authenticated reports reach here that Havana is receiving supplies through Batabano, on the south side of Cuba, opposite Havana. The supplies are taken to the Isle of Pines, off the south coast of Cuba, in large ships and are carried across at night in small boats to Batabano, and from there are taken to Havana, a distance of twenty-five miles, by rail.

The American commercial agent at Port Antonio has warned the Washington government that this is going on.

No Discord After All.

Washington, June 20.—It is officially announced that General Miles is to lead the army of invasion at Porto Rico, despite the silly talk about friction between the president and the commanding general of the army. Idle gossips have persistently endeavored to promote discord throughout the army by the circulation of the wildest kind of stories about the jealousy existing between Secretary Alger and General Miles.

Fell from a Toboggan Car.

Philadelphia, June 20.—During a picnic and excursion of the combined Sunday schools of Tioga, at Menlo park, near Perkaisie, thirty miles from this city, Saturday, Mrs. Arnold W. Jeffries was instantly killed by being thrown from a toboggan car while it was flying around a curve fully forty feet from the ground. She was terribly mangled and disfigured.

Bids for Battleships Invited.

Washington, June 20.—The navy department has issued advertisements calling for proposals for building the three great battleships authorized by the last naval appropriation bill. These bids will be opened at the department on September 1, and thirty-three months will be allowed for the completion of the ships after the contracts are signed.

CAMARA'S WEAK FLEET

It Is Not Believed to Menace Our Squadron.

AT CARTAGENA FOR ORDERS

Not Likely to Appear at Any Point Where American Forces Are—Five Ships May Have Gone to the Canaries—The Ships Carried About Four Thousand Men—Said to Have Taken 20,000 Tons of Fuel.

London, June 20.—Interest in the development of the Spanish-American war is now directed chiefly to the movements of Admiral Camara's fleet. The concensus of opinion is that the fleet is only manoeuvring and really has no intention of making a hostile movement. The various reports that the squadron is destined for the Philippines, for the Canaries, for Porto Rico or the New England coast are equally discredited. The latest and what is deemed the most accurate, information comes in a dispatch from an American correspondent at Gibraltar. He says:

"I have obtained from an absolutely reliable source the following information respecting the movement of Admiral Camara's squadron:

"The Cadiz fleet sailed from Cadiz at five o'clock Friday afternoon in an easterly direction. It was composed of the Pelayo, Carlos V, Rapido, Patriota, Audaz, Osado, Proserpina, Colon, Alfonso XI, Giralda Pielago, Covadega, Antonio Lopez, Isla de Panay, Bueno Aires and San Francisco. The minister of marine is aboard the Pielago.

"The first eleven of the foregoing passed Gibraltar at five o'clock Saturday morning and are going to Cartagena for orders.

It is not known where the other five are.

"All the auxiliary cruisers except the Rapido, Patriota and Buenos Ayres have had their guns removed and their naval crews replaced by formerchant service officers and crews.

"The Antonio Lopez is loaded entirely with ammunition. The Buenos Ayres has a regiment of cavalry on board, and the Isle de Panay another. The San Francisco has a regiment of marines.

"The other auxiliary cruisers carry twenty thousand tons of coal and abundant provisions.

"The steamer San Augustin has been released. She sailed from Gibraltar for Cadiz ostensibly. The Spanish government guaranteel that her coal was for commercial purposes only.

"The Alfonso III and Vitoria remain at Cadiz as guardships. Neither is formidable. Both are defective.

"It is reported from Cadiz that more German ships have been purchased by the government and are to join the fleet elsewhere."

Bank of Spain Bankrupt.

London, June 20.—The Statist, the leading economic paper of London, asks "Is the Bank of Spain solvent?" answering the startling question by a series of figures distinctly in the negative.

French bankers, it says, are now keenly alive to the necessity of ending the war and the danger of lending more money to Spain, "and it is now practically impossible for Spain to raise money abroad on any conditions except selling actual property."

Spain's only resource is in increased note circulation.

"The Spanish government is now reduced to the expedient of using the printing press to meet its war outlays, and the longer the printing press is in operation and the more notes are issued the greater will be the depreciation in value of the paper peseta.

"If war lasts much longer we may thus see the paper peseta, now at a discount of nearly 50 per cent. as compared with gold, depreciate as did the assignat of France at the close of the last century.

"A formal suspension of specie payments cannot long be delayed."

Warships Leaving.

Newport News, June 20.—The next few days will see an exodus of warships from this vicinity. Two United States vessels left Saturday, one went yesterday and perhaps three will get away to-day.

The torpedo boat Yankton, which has been at the navy yard for the last six weeks undergoing conversion into a warship, left her moorings Saturday and swiftly steamed through Hampton Roads to the Capes, where she shaped her course for Key West. She is equipped for action and as she has a high rate of speed she will be used as a fleet lispatch boat, in the same capacity as the Scorpion, formerly the Vixen. She is the last of the yachts to be converted into a torpedo gunboat.

The Yankton was accompanied by the large collier Southery, which carries three thousand tons of coal for the warships in southern waters.

WANTED THE BIRDS CARED FOR.

Oom Paul's Statue Has the Crown of the Hat Made Concave to Hold Water.

There is a story just now current in Rome to the effect that a sculptor in that city, in an evil hour for his reputation as an artist, undertook some time ago to produce "to order" a bronze statue of President Kruger. One of the conditions imposed was that no liberties were to be taken with Oom Paul. He was to be represented in all his native heaviness of features with the fidelity which Oliver Cromwell exacted; and for personal decoration he was to be depicited in his ordinary frock coat and tall hat. The most trying stipulation of all was, however, that Madame Kruger, Oom Paul's amiable lady insisted that the crown of the hat should be made conclave so that it might catch and hold rain water for the refreshment of little birds! This concern for the welfare of the harmless little birds is creditable to Madame Kruger's maternal heart, but humanitarians of this kind is certainly not conducive to the production of a keen aesthetic sense.—St. James Gazette.

ENTERED SANTIAGO HARBOR.

The Texas Engages the Forts and Comes Out Uninjured.

Mole St. Nicholas, June 20.—The Texas entered Santiago harbor Friday night, passing Morro Castle, and inflicted much damage upon the fort, Castle Zocopa, on the east shore. No one was hurt on board the Texas.

News from Guantanamo Bay up to Saturday morning shows that naval operations there continue most active and with the advantage on the side of the Americans. Friday morning, at 9.30 o'clock, the American vessels resumed the bombardment of Guantanamo town and in the course of one and one-half hours threw into it seventy-five shells, a great majority of which appeared to have been effective. Six of these shells were 13-inch projectiles, eight 8-inch and the rest smaller. The men in the tops could see many of the shells strike in the very midst of the town, while others fell among the shipping and commercial buildings near the water's edge.

Smoke arose in dense clouds from the places where the shells fell, and it is believed that he damage both by impact of the missiles and consequent conflagration is very great.

On Thursday evening the ships had thrown four 13-inch and nine 8-inch shells into the town. This bombardment began at 4 o'clock and ended at 5. Much smoke and confusion were discerned in Guantanamo during its progress. Crowds of people and troops of soldiers were seen moving about and the vessels in port hurriedly changed their anchorage.

Nobody was killed in any of these actions on the American ships.

Two Spanish officers who were captured on Wednesday in Guantanamo Bay are reported to be on board the Marblehead.

The news of the work on Wednesday night by the Vesuvius and New Orleans in Santiago bay, is confirmed. The Vesuvius hrew shells into the water to explode the mines, while the New Orleans engaged the fortifications along the shore.

The Marblehead has captured a Spanish sloop in Guantanamo harbor and made eight soldiers who were on board prisoners.

The Americans are now practically in full possession of Guantanamo bay and the white tents of the land force present a rather imposing spectacle. There is occasional firing from the Spanish land forces, but it is always inefficient and of no importance.

Thursday our soldiers captured at Gpantanamo a Cuban with dispatches which he was carrying to the Spanish general. He was turned over to the Cuban commander and shot. Another Cuban was also captured the same day under similar circumstances. His fate is under consideration.

NO CHANGE IN PLANS.

Decision Reached at a Council in the White House.

Washington, June 20.—The original plans for the conduct of the war against Spain will be adhered to and will be pushed with vigor and energy. That decision was reached at a council of war held at the White House Saturday, at which President McKinley, Secretaries Alger and Long, General Miles, Assistant Secretary Meikeljohn, Admiral Sicard and Captain Mahan were present. Of course some slight modifications will be made necessary by the changes that have occurred since the beginning of hostilities, but these will not affect the general plan of operations. Gen. Miles returned from Florida with a store of information respecting the condition of the troops, the difficulties to be expected in the progress of the campaign and the needs of transportation and terminal facilities, which will be freely availed of to correct the defects in the present system developed by experience. The conference was entirely harmonious. The only reason Gen. Miles did not visit the White House Friday was the president's desire that his advisers should have the benefit of the general's recital of his observations at first hand.

The stories of friction between Gen. Miles and his official superiors are declared absurd and Saturday's proceedings gave ample evidence that the utmost harmony prevails between the president and the military branch of the government.

New Russian Ambassador Arrives.

Washington, June 20.—Count Cassini, the new Russian ambassador to the United States, has arrived here and will present his credentials to the president this week. His daughter is with him. The new ambassador comes directly from Paris, where he was at the head of the St. Petersburg embassy for a number of years. He succeeds Count Cantacazune, who went home some months ago. Mr. De Wollant, who has been charge d'affaires in the interim, will start at once for Russia.

Mails for Hawaii.

Washington, June 20.—Although many of the ships heretofore carrying mail to the Hawaiian islands have been called into the government service, the navy and war departments have done what they can to continue the service.

It has been ordered that all naval vessels and transports proceeding from San Francisco to the Philippine islands shall carry mail to the Hawaiian islands in addition to that for the forces at Manila.

An Admission from Sagasta.

London, June 20.—Senor Sagasta, replying in the Cortes Saturday to a question as to whether Manila had fallen, replied in the negative, but he added that he situation there was of the gravest character.

The dispatches from Madrid agree that this statement, together with the report that the rebels are attacking the walled city has caused intense depression.

Troops Ordered to Fernandina.

Washington, June 20.—General Butler has received orders to move his army division from Camp Alger to Fernandina. The troops will probably leave the camp Wednesday.

They will number 25,000 and be used in the Porto Rico campaign.

Thirty Eight Cadets.

West Point, June 20.—The academic board completed the examination of the '98 candidates who applied for admission to the Military Academy last week. Only thirty-eight passed successfully.

THE SANTIAGO BATTLE

It May Be In Full Progress To-Day

QUICK ACTION IS THE WORD

The Suspense at Washington — Shafter's Army of Invasion Due—Battle May Be Fought To-day — Sampson Impatient and Ready to Begin Operations at Once — War Council at the White House Saturday.

Washington, June 20.—Even now the invading army of General Shafter may have reached Santiago and the battle expected to attend the landing may be in progress.

With the first real engagement in Cuba momentarily expected, national interest is naturally keyed up to the highest tension. At the White House and the war, navy and state departments bulletins from Santiago are eagerly looked for.

General Shafter and his invading army were due at Santiago yesterday. The president is anxiously awaiting to hear that General Shafter and Admiral Sampson have commenced their attack upon Admiral Cervera's troublesome fleet and the Spanish troops in that vicinity.

The campaign against Santiago will be short, sharp and decisive if the plans of Admiral Sampson are carried out.

There will be no dilatory tactics displayed, as quick action is the watchword all along the line.

According to the latest information received from Admiral Sampson it was the intention to land the invading forces yesterday or to-day and begin the attack at once. Every reasonable precaution has been taken by the war and navy departments to guard against the failure of the expedition, for the president realizes that the whole course of the war may be changed by the result of the battle at Santiago.

The war council at the White House Saturday developed the fact that the army and navy are working together in absolute harmony. The reports from both branches of the service show that the army and naval forces now before Santiago are fully equipped for a three months' siege if necessary. While it is not probable that the Spanish forces there can withstand the attack very long, the plan of campaign is to try to be prepared for any emergency that may arise.

There is much evidence that Admiral Sampson is very impatient at the delay in the arrival of the troops at Santiago. The navy, he feels, has done everything to clear the way for the troops. But while Sampson has been waiting for Shafter the Spanish have been busily repairing the damage done by the shells from the fleet. News from Sampson up to date is as follows:

Admiral Sampson is standing close in shore at present. The Spaniards are repairing the batteries which were destroyed the other night. The outer defences are still capable of considerable resistance and the task of taking the city is growing harder daily. It is thought that by brisk work immediately after the arrival of the troops a successful attack can be made.

All have confidence in Admiral Sampson and hope the troops will be in possession of Santiago within forty-eight hours after their arrival.

Gen. Merritt Sails this Week.

San Francisco, June 20.—General Merritt has issued an order to General Otis, designating the troops to compose the third Philippine expedition, under command of Brigadier General King. The order names the troops as follows:

The two battalions of the Idaho volunteers, the 13th Minnesota, two battalions of North Dakota volunteers, the 7th California, the Wyoming battalion of volunteers, Batteries G and L of the regular artillery, commanded by Captain B. J. Randolph and Captain W. E. Birksimer. These troops will be transported by the steamers Morgan City, City of Para, Ohio, Indiana and Valencia, all of which are being made ready as rapidly as possible, under the direction of Major Long, depot quartermaster, who is rushing coal and supplies on board in the expectation of having his work completed by Wednesday.

The exact date of sailing has not yet been fixed, but it will probably not be later than the end of this week. The commissaries of the commands have been instructed to report to Colonel Baldwin, chief commissary, what supplies are necessary to be taken on the transports.

Leiter's Loss Not Light.

Chicago, June 20.—Young Joe Leiter's losses in the wheat pit have been much greater than generally supposed. Those close to the young plunger now place the figures as high as $10,000,000. His holdings at the opening of Monday's business were enormous, fully 30,000,000 bushels of wheat, half of which was in cash and half in futures. Both the cash and futures were scattered all over the world.

Up to last Monday it is said Leiter had had $6,000,000 of his father's money, which would be his share of an estate valued at $25,000,000.

Tampa Still a Base of Supplies.

Tampa, June 20.—Tampa has won the right to be the base of supplies for the army, and the troops now here will remain and others will begin arriving in a few days to take the place of those which went with General Shafter's army of invasion.

Six regiments of volunteers had been ordered to Jacksonville and were on the eve of departure when the countermanding order came from Washington. It was welcome news for the people of Tampa.

Why Augusti Resigned.

Madrid, June 20.—It was said here yesterday afternoon that Captain General Augusti resigned the military leadership at Manila to the Spanish general commanding there so that he capitulation of that place may be signed by the latter and thus have less importance in the eyes of the natives than if signed by the captain general of the Philippine islands.

THE CREWS AT NEW LONDON.

Getting Ready for the Great Boat Race.

New London, June 20.—Final arrangements for the boat races next Wednesday and Thursday are being made. W. L. Meikelham, an old Columbia oarsman, has been appointed referee for both the 'varsity and freshman races and has accepted. Mr. Meikelham arrived at Gale's Ferry Saturday afternoon and will remain until after the races. Harvard's officials for the two races were announced Saturday as follows:

'Varsity Race—Judge, J. J. Storrow; timekeeper, R. C. Lehman; judge at the finish, J. R. Perkins, a substitute on the 'varsity crew.

Freshman Race—Judge, E. C. Storrow; timekeeper, James H. Perkins, judge at the finish, W. A. Frost.

A disappointing hitch has occurred in the plan to bulletin the progress and result of the races by a system of signals from the Thames river drawbridge. The officials of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad have objected to the telephone company placing the signal poles and balls on the bridge, fearing an accident on account of the passage of the regular trains. The poles will probably be erected on the high point of land at the New London end of the bridge, and the race will be reported from there by the same plan as was proposed from the bridge.

Bonds Still in Demand.

New York, June 20.—Another crowd gathered at the sub-treasury Saturday morning to subscribe for bonds. These subscriptions are for sums of $500 or less. The law provides that to the smaller bidders shall be allotted bonds before the big bids are considered. Meanwhile bankers are advertising to pay a bonus for the little bids.

United States sub-treasury officials refuse to give exact figures, but it is evident that there is no abatement to the demand. At least 3,000 bids have been made at the sub-treasury and it is thought that they average almost $500, the limit for the small subscriber.

Chicago, June 20.—One million dollars a day is the estimate made by Assistant United States Treasurer Williams as to the rate at which Chicago people are now subscribing for the new war bonds. The activity in the war loan business is not confined to the subtreasury. The postal stations throughout the city have their share of visitors. It now seems certain that Chicago will subscribe for more than $25,000,000 of the 3 per cent. paper.

Boston, June 20.—Scores of people were waiting in line in the sub-treasury office Saturday morning, all anxious to subscribe for the bonds of the war loan. At 10 o'clock the doors were opened and at 11 o'clock all the blanks were gone. A telegram was received by Assistant Secretary O'Neil from Secretary Gage instructing him to receive no applications for more than 500 of the new 3 per cent. bonds.

Tillo Won the Suburban.

Brooklyn, June 20.—To the surprise of nearly everyone Tillo won the Suburban race at Shepshead Bay Saturday. Omanient, the favorite, was hopelessly beaten.

Stride by stride he fought his way to the front, and then, running game and true, as only the royally bred racehorse can, he crossed the finish, winner of the greatest and most popular all-aged race in America. At his saddle girth when he finished was Bromley & Co.'s Semper Ego, who was only a short length before Marcus Daly's Ogden, winner of the sensational Futurity of two years ago.

The Yankton Ready.

Norfolk, Va., June 20.—The converted yacht Penelope, rechristened the Yankton, and designed for use as a torpedo boat destroyer, left the Norfolk navy yard Saturday evening, dropped down to Hampon Roads and anchored in line with the big cruiser Newark.

The Yankton is heavily armed, considering her small displacement, and, as she is swift, she will make matters exceedingly interesting to such of the enemy's small craft as come her way.

Railroad Earnings Increasing.

Chicago, June 20.—The gross earnings of 132 American railroads for the first five months of the present year show an increase as compared with the corresponding period of 1897, of $29,902,830. The aggregate gross earnings of these roads was $224,761,111.

For the single month of May the gross earnings of 134 roads aggregated $46,547,011, an increase of $5,744,201. This figures out $459 a mile, which is within one or two cents of the average of the phenomenal month of May, 1893.

Gives Part of His Salary for War.

Washington, June 20.—A New York draft for $100 was received by the treasurer of the United States Saturday from an employe of the postal service stationed in the Northwest, who wishes his name withheld, as a donation to be applied to expenses of the war. This, he says, is for the months of April and May, and adds that he will send a proportionate amount of his salary for every month the war lasts.

Postoffice Goes With Army.

Key West, Fa., June 20.—Louis Kempner, who was in charge of station B, New York postoffice, arrived here Friday on his way to Cuba to establish the first American postoffice in that island. He presented his credentials to Commodore Remey, who will furnish a ship to transport Mr. Kempner and his equipment to the place where the army will make its landing.

Slow Work on the Wisconsin.

San Francisco, June 20.—Work on the battleship Wisconsin, at the Union Iron Works, is almost at a stand still in consequence of the non-arrival of the steel armor plates. The material should have reached here six months ago, and until it does arrive active work on the vessel will cease.

Italian Ministry Out Again.

Rome, June 20.—In the Chamber of Deputies Saturday the premier, the Marquis di Rudini, announced that the ministry, which was only formed on May 31, had resigned.

It is generally thought that the resignation of the ministry foreshadows grave events.

FOR THE VACATION SEASON.

Subscribers leaving the city for the summer season can have The Daily Press sent to their new address by notifying the buisness office. The address will be changed as often as desired. "Home news" will prove most interesting while you are away.

Early Closing of Stores.

In view of the fact that the profits on the goods sold in the local stores do not exceed, and usually do not equal, the amount of bills for illumination after 7 o'clock, and the additional consideration that by uniform action of all the merchants there is a guarantee that custom will not be diverted to a rival, there ought not to be any good reason for the failure of the Board of Trade movement for the early closing of stores.

Leaving out all question of sentiment or feeling for the welfare and pleasure of the clerks who might benefit by the success of the movement, it seems, under the above condition of things, that the early closing idea is a good business proposition at any rate. The trading which is done in the stores after 7 o'clock now would certainly be added to the volume of business transacted previous to that hour if people knew the stores were to close, and that would not incur any loss. On the contrary it would be a very gratifying change to all parties concerned in business.

The early closing movement ought to succeed.

English the Coming Language.

If the number of persons habitually using and writing it are any test of the growing importance and popularity of a language, then English is at the head of all tongues spoken on this globe today. It is the language of practical force, power, push and advancement in material things. French was formerly universally the language of diplomacy, because in French one can say so much and mean nothing at all. English is the language in which the commercial and industrial business of the nations is transacted because English says just what it means. Even in the Spanish-American republics the foreign mails contain more letters addressed in the modern Anglo-Saxon than in any other tongue.

Civilized languages, those written, spoken and printed at the present day, number altogether 12. They are used by half a billion people. Of these fully one-quarter speak English as their native tongue. These are, however, less than half of the number who habitually employ it to communicate with their fellow men. Two-thirds of all the world's letters are written and addressed in English. It is the people of the English speaking countries who write the letters and do the business of the world. All the Spanish-American republics put together, those of Central and South America and Mexico included, send in a year fewer letters than the colonies of faraway Australia do.

We only mention these little facts by way of reminding the American people, especially those who wish to write for newspapers, of the weight of responsibility that rests on them in the matter of learning how to use this glorious English language correctly.

Strength of Woman.

Charles Reade went so far as to declare that women were physically stronger than men in some of their muscles, especially those of the back and loins, if they would only train and use their bodies. The exploits of Charmion, a young French girl now giving acrobatic performances in this country, go far to prove that women may certainly be as strong as most men if they will undergo athletic training. Charmion is a girl only 19 years old, weighing 117 pounds. Lately in a test she compared her actual strength with that of the most powerful men of the time. They were Sandow, the professional athlete; Lovering, the former college champion strong man, and Godfrey, the strongest man among Bowdoin students. All these are men of mature age and fully matured powers. A trial of strength of lungs, legs, back and arms was made. The girl, without any previous especial training, proved herself to have greater lung power than Godfrey, while she was 9 points behind Lovering and only 33 points behind the great Sandow himself. Again this mere girl, who had never prided herself especially on mere dead strength, showed that she had nearly half as much leg and back power as Sandow.

Of the athletic training of women in general Charmion says truthfully in the New York Journal, "If women of the present day would pursue physical exercises diligently, the women of successive generations would be models of physical development, not to say beauty."

The London Times is usually considered, not altogether without just ground, as mildly hostile to the United States. These words from a recent editorial in its columns are therefore all the more weighty: "As the American people have been stirred to interference in Cuba by feelings which again and again have prompted serious action in this country (England), so they will carry on the contest in the Anglo-Saxon manner. They will probably make some mistakes, as we almost invariably do, but with them, as with ourselves, mistakes will only increase the dogged tenacity of purpose which knows how to convert mistakes into stepping stones of success." We are fortunate in having the approval of the London Times in our present line of conduct, at least in the estimation of the London Times itself.

In some respects the most remarkable man in the public service of the United States is Senator Justin S. Morrill of Vermont. It has been given to few public men to remain in office, retained there by the voluntary suffrage of their fellow citizens, till they are 88 years old, and to preserve unweakened all their powers of active usefulness. And in what a period of the world's progress it has been Senator Morrill's privilege to live! Hon. J. J. Ingalls in a letter to the New York Journal says with truth: "The span of Senator Morrill's life includes the period of greatest material and intellectual and moral development in the history of manhood. The human race has made more progress in the last 88 years than in the 6,000 that preceded."

The pet name in Spain for the inhabitants of the United States is "American swine." There is no language so rich in abusive epithets as Spanish, and at present it is taxed to its utmost limits to convey the feelings toward us of those who speak the tongue on its native soil in all its juicy glory.

The Cincinnati Commercial-Tribune speaks of "a face that had seen better days." This is good.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

The commissioners appointed by the Board of Chosen Freeholders to ascertain the cost of widening Westfield avenue, from this city to Plainfield, have stated that they are not ready to report the cost, and need at least a month more time. This is a matter of very great importance, and should be considered with the utmost care. The opponents of the proposed improvement base their opposition almost wholly on an exaggerated statement of the cost of the land which would be taken in widening the avenue. The commissioners should, therefore, make the most careful and accurate estimate possible, not only for the information of the Board of Freeholders and the people, but to meet and completely controvert the opposition. The Westfield avenue improvement must come. It is inevitable, and it must come soon because there will never be a time when it can come with less disturbance to property and less cost. With reference to expenses, however, there is every reason to believe that they will be fully covered by the bids which the Board of Freeholdees will receive for the trolley franchise, and that not a dollar will have to be assessed against any property, and not a dollar be left as a new debt upon the county at large. The commissioners will do well to get exact information about the cost, but whatever the cost it will be paid without burden to the people, and the improvement will be made.—Elizabeth Journal.

RABBI MARRIED THEM.

HAPPY WEDDING CEREMONY IN THE BOROUGH YESTERDAY.

Miss Rose Flechner United in Wedlock to Arthur A. Philo, of Keyport—Ceremony at Groom's Brother's House.

There was great rejoicing at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Philo, of Grandview avenue, yesterday afternoon, when their ward, Miss Rose Flechner, was united in marriage to Arthur A. Philo, of Keyport, N. J., brother of her guardian. The ceremony was performed before a number of the relatives and friends of the couple at 5 o'clock.

Rev. Dr. Joseph Leucht, of Newark, performed the marriage ceremony. The bride was gowned in white organdie, and carried white roses. The bridemaid, Miss Ella Flechner, her sister, wore a gown of Ceree organdie. She also carried white roses. The best man was Joseph Philo, of New York, a brother of the groom.

The house was handsomely decorated with cut flowers and palms. After the ceremony followed the wedding supper.

A reception was given to the guests and dancing ended the evening. Prof. Philo furnished music. The newly-wedded couple took the 10:22 train for New York after receiving a rousing send-off by their friends. They will go to Akron, O., where they will visit relatives. On their return they will take up their residence at Keyport.

Among the out-of-town guests present were: Mr. Salz and Bert Mount, of Keyport; Rev. Dr. Joseph Leucht, Mr. and Mrs. M. Lundheimer, Mrs. J. Eckstein, the Misses Hersh, Mr. and Mrs. Herrmann, Miss M. Lyons, the Missss Eckstein, Miss Strab, Miss Mollie Wolf, H. Sthall, H. Solomon, of Newark; L. Schekan, of Paterson; Miss May Solomon, of Elizabeth; Philip Mitz, of New Market; Rev. and Mrs. J. Wermes, Miss R. Wermes, Mr, and Mrs. A. Ceylon, Miss Goldstick and Harry Philo, of New York.

Congratulatory despatches were received from Akron, Ohio, and from Lime, Vancouver and Victoria, British Columbia, from married sisters of the bride.

BUNKER HILL ANNIVERSARY.

Revolutionary Memorial Society of New Jersey Holds Exercises at Somerville.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, N. J., June 20.—The anniversary of the battle of Bunker Hill was celebrated at the Wallace House, Washington's headquarters at this place, Friday by the Revolutionary Memorial Society of New Jersey. A large number of the Daughters of the American Revolution and others from New York, Newark, the Oranges, and other places were present. Richard F. Stevens of Newark, President of the society, and Mrs. Daniel McLean, Regent of the New York charter of D. A. R., made addresses.

The celebration was the occasion of the formal presentation of many historical relics to the headquarters, including the famous collection of colonial relics contributed by the late James Elmendorf of Millstone.

The attention of all contributors is called to the circular asking for their contribution for the benefit of the Cuban sufferers and soldiers' families. An immediate response is requested to this urgent appeal. Mary S. Andrews, secretary.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence to the Daily Press.)

Dunellen, June 20—Miss Viola Sherwood, of New York, is the guest of Miss Lillie Warden.

The members of William G. Holton Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., are now completing arrangements for the Fourth of July celebration. The grounds on North avenue are being put in good shape and everything now points to a successful affair if the weather will permit.

Tomorrow evening the Council will meet and consider the sidewalk ordinance. There is certainly a chance for improvement in this line in the borough.

The popularity of the preaching by Rev. E. S. Jamison, pastor of the M. E. church, results in large attendances at both services Sundays.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Oakley, of New Brunswick, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Swackhamer, of Church street.

An entertainment will be given this evening in the Presbyterian church under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society.

Mr. and Mrs. James Manning, of Trenton, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Runyon, of Washington avenue.

The friends from Rahway who have been visiting the Misses Jamison, of Church street, have returned home.

Louis Thomas, of Princeton, is visiting his mother, Mrs. Nancy Thomas, of Washington street.

John Runyon, of Washington avenue, has been visiting his son, Augustus Runyon, of Plainfield.

Mrs. S. Z. Dickson has returned from Deer Isle, Maine, where she has been visiting her parents.

Miss Lizzie Martine is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wyckoff, of Flemington.

W. H. Terry has returned from a visit with relatives in Brooklyn and New York.

Nathan Reed, of Philadelphia, is visiting J. R. Maltbie, of West Dunellen.

Irving Martine has returned from a visit with relatives at Nyack, N. Y.

New Market, June 20.—Miss Titsworth, who graduated last Thursday evening from the State Normal School, has returned to her home for the summer.

Rev. Frank Fletcher made an address before the Sunday-school at Lincoln yesterday afternoon. In the morning Mr. Fletcher preached at the Park Avenue Baptist church, Plainfield, in exchange with Rev. J. W. Richardson, who preached in the Baptist church, this place.

Thursday evening of this week the Daughters of Liberty will meet and make arrangements for assisting in the Fourth of July celebration at this place. They will act in conjunction with Friendship Council, Jr. O. U. A. M.

Sunday afternoon, July 3d, Rev. Frank Fletcher will make an address before the G. A. R. men of Plainfield in the Y. M. C. A.

Stanley Day has been visiting friends in Plainfield for a short time.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Scotch Plains, June 20—The funeral services of the late John Hughes, a former old resident of the town, were held in the parlors of the Baptist church yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Rev. J. S. Braker, officiated. Mr. Hughes died in the Morris Plains Asylum, where he had been five years, Thursday afternoon. Interment was made in the cemetery adjoining the church.

Miss Currie, an East Side missionary of New York, who during the summer has charge of the Fresh Air Camp at Westfield, gave a very interesting talk in the Baptist church last evening on her work as an East Side missionary, and of the good Camp Wolfe has done. Miss Currie proved to be a very interesting talker and has no doubt interested many in the camp work. The societies of the church donated $25 to the work, the Sunday-school $5; the Christian Endeavor Juniors $5, and the Ladies Circle, $15.

The New Providence and Berkeley Heights baseball teams crossed bats at New Providence Saturday afternoon. New Providence won by a score of 23 to 22.

Frederick Mervin, a former old resident of the town, but now of Newark, spent Saturday and Sunday visiting old friends in town.

Thomas Emery has given up his hotel at South Plainfield and taken a position with the Plainfield Bottling Company.

The Choir Guild of All Saints church will give a dramatic entertainment in Excelsior Hall this evening.

Miss Sadie Riger will spend her vacation with her parents at Succasunna, Morris county.

William Hosinger, of South avenue, Plainfield, visited his mother yesterday.

Richard Hunt, of Brooklyn, spent Sunday with his friend, John Stiliger.

Frank Holborn, of Newark, spent yesterday with relatives in town.

E. A. Dorward, of New York, spent yesterday with his family.

Phillip Radin spent yesterday with his daughter in Plainfield.

WESTFIELD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Westfield, June 20.—Ralph C. Pearsall, Elmer Woodruff and Walter Smith, members of Co. C, N. J. Volunteers, came up from Fort Hancock Saturday evening to spend Sunday with friends in town.

The Fourth of July celebration committee met in the rooms of Empire Engine Company Saturday evening and completed arrangements for the day's programme. At sunrise there will be a salute fired from the large cannon owned by C. P. Wilcox. At 9 o'clock there will be a bicycle parade and this will be followed by foot races, running and walking, a sack race, tub race and greased pole climbing. At 10:30 the Westfield Club baseball team will cross bats with the Volunteer A. C., of Newark. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon the new flag of Central Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., will be raised with appropriate exercises. The bicycle races follow and will consist of a boy's race, a mile open, a mile handicap and a fat man's race. Then comes a baseball game between the Westfield Club team and a team from the Cranford A. C. In the evening there will be a grand pyrotechnic display on the ball grounds.

"My Missionary Duty, Go or Send," was the subject of a very interesting meeting of the Epworth League in the Methodist church last evening. The leader was W. H. Burr.

"The True Worth of Faith," was the text of an interesting sermon delivered by Rev. George A. Francis in the Baptist church yesterday morning.

The Township Committee held a regular meeting Saturday evening but only business of a routine nature was transacted.

Rev. C. H. Patton delivered a very instructive as well as interesting sermon in the Congregational church last evening.

Rev. George A. Francis will preach in the Second Avenue Baptist church, New York, Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Fitch entertained a number of friends at their home on Carleton place Saturday.

Miss Libbie Dickerson, of Paterson, spent Sunday with friends on Central avenue.

His Wife is After Him

Elwood Reasoner, colored, was arraigned before the City Judge this morning upon complaint of his wife who claimed that he did not pay her the monthly instalments as ordered by the court a few months ago, when he was arrested upon complaint of his wife for non-support. Reasoner claimed that he had paid them as regularly as he could, and offered receipts in evidence. The Judge laid the matter over for a few days so as to give him a chance to look into it.

SALUTED THE RAINY DAY SKIRT.

A Boston Lady Complimented by a Stranger for Her Good Sense.

The rainy day skirt has been accorded a lordly salute, and by one of Boston's most dignified and best-known citizens.

Early the last week, when the rain had been falling for over twenty-four hours, and the streets and crosswalks were in such a shape as to well nigh ruin an ordinary dress skirt unless the wearer held it up nearly to her knees, one of Boston's well known women dressed in a neat and well-fitting rainy day costume, was returning from Old Colony Station, after bidding goodby to a friend. While walking erectly and freely across the Lincoln street crossing, where scores of other women were holding up one side of their skirts while the other side dragged in the mud, she was suddenly confronted by a middle-aged, country gentleman, who was an entire stranger to her, and lifting his hat he addressed her thus:

"I beg your pardon, madam, but a woman who has the good sense and courage to wear so comfortable and appropriate a costume on the streets deserves the most respectful salute. I take off my hat to your short skirt."

"I thank you, sir," was the pleasant reply, "but if all women knew the comfort and cleanliness of such a garment I am sure they would wear no other on such a day as this."

After this short dialogue the two persons passed on, the woman more than ever convinced that the future of the short skirt was fully assured, and the man glad with the thought that the age of reason among women was making satisfactory strides.—Boston Herald.

SNAKE SKIN NECKTIES.

Worn in Maine as a Cure for Rheumatism —They Cost $2.50 Each.

The latest and more approved cure for rheumatism in Maine is for the afflicted persons to wear neckties made from the skins of the banded water snakes, which are plentiful in boggy places and muddy ponds. Hitherto rheumatic sufferers have rubbed themselves with angle worm oil, hoping to make themselves as limber as the worms are, or with fish oil, because fish can live out in the wet without getting lame. This year the fashion has changed, and no sufferer will think of using anything but the silky skins of the water snakes.

The snakes are skinned, after the manner employed on eels, and the skins are boiled for several hours in a mixture of hemlock bark and linseed oil, after which they are stretched upon a smooth stick, and placed behind the stove to dry. When thoroughly cured they are made up into bows or four-in-hand ties, according to size, and are worn by those who believe in their efficacy. The colors are alternate rings of dark bottle green and straw yellow, and when these tints are set off with a bright scarf pin and placed in contact with a white linen shirt front, the effect is rather pleasing. The effect of the ties upon rheumatism has not been reported fully enough to pass accurate judgment, but the wearers believe they will be cured if the charms are worn long enough.

Washington's Blind Preacher.

Over fifty years ago a boat carrying more than three hundred passengers was making its way down the Ohio River. Amongst those on board were a lot of senators going to Washington for Congress. A young Methodist minister, twenty-two years of age, was also on board. This young man was totally blind, but quite alive to the card-playing and whisky-drinking that went on on board.

One moonlight night he preached a sermon, soundly rebuking the Congressmen for their share in the disgraceful habits on board.

They were greatly surprised at his attack, but admired his pluck all the same. They gave him a sum of money, and offered him the post of chaplain of Congress. In due time he was elected, and still holds that office. This is the famous Dr. Milburn, D. D., whose sermons are known all over the world.

A Conclusive Argument.

One was a slight, beautiful woman of middle age, faultlessly dressed and speaking in a voice whose every intonation betrayed culture, relates the New York Tribune. The other was a brusque, jolly looking young creature in a chic business suit, and the two were arguing warmly.

"Yes, I attend the life class, and I believe it is all right. I must, if I want to become an artist," said the younger woman.

But you, a Christian," remonstrated the older woman, severely.

"Yes, and you," cried the artist, "who reproach me, have a painting of the Christ in your drawing room that you could not have if the human form was not studied by artists and sculptors."

The conversation ended abruptly.

Spectacles for Horses.

Spectacles for horses have been patented by an inventor, and are being used with considerable success. Their object is not so much to magnify objects as to make the ground in front of the horse appear nearer to his head than it really is. The result is continual high stepping, which, after a while, becomes natural and gives to the horse an aristocratic gait, which he will retain for many years.—Philadelphia Record.

A Quaker once, hearing a person tell how much he felt for a friend who needed assistance, dryly observed: "Friend, hast thou felt in thy pocket for him?"—Tit-Bits.

Mutilating the Teeth.

It is curious to what an extent the mutilation of teeth goes on among savage nations, and even among certain civilized people, such as the Japanese. With them a girl is never married without first staining her teeth black with a repulsive kind of varnish, and the custom is especially adhered to amongst members of the richer classes.

On the west coast of Africa a large proportion of the teeth are deliberately broken when children reach a certain age. Both in the New World and in the Old, the custom exists of extracting the two front teeth of domestic servants. In Peru the custom has existed from time immemorial, and used to be a sign of slavery in the days of Incas. This is also the custom on the Congo and among the Hottentots. Teeth are stained in various colors among the Malays.

A bright red and a bright blue are not uncommon, and a bright green is produced with the aid of arsenic and lemon juice. Livingstone related that among the Kaffirs a child with a prominent upper jaw was looked upon as a monster and immediately killed. On the Upper Nile the negroes have all their best teeth extracted in order to destroy their value in the slave-market, and to make it not worth while for the slave-traders to carry them off.

Experiments with Color.

An interesting illustration of the effect of color is that shown by some experiments recently made. It was found that with the same temperature in both rooms, one of which was furnished in blue and the other in red, nearly every person who entered the two pronounced a difference of from four to six degrees in heat in favor of the red room. There is something peculiarly stimulating about red. The fact that it can be seen at a greater distance than almost any other color is well known, showing that it arouses the vision in proportion. Blue is correspondingly depressing, these two colors being more decided than almost any other of the list. The advocates of the "new thought" (as it is called) look with horror upon the wearing of black as a mourning emblem, or, indeed, as a color for any garb. They would like to bring about a reform in men's dress in this respect, and they unhesitatingly exclaim that putting one's self in black garments affords a distinct armor against receptiveness. It is certainly true that the wearing of black clothes to indicate mourning is being very much lessened. Where it is put on, it is much more quickly put off than used to be the case. On general principles, this is certainly desirable.

Madame Patti's Fan.

Adelaine Patti has a unique fan; a fan with vellum leaves decorated with gold. On the leaves several European sovereigns have written sentiments over their autographs.

The Czar wrote: "Nothing brings peace like your song."

William I., Emperor of Germany: "To the nightingale of all time."

Queen Christina: "To the Spaniard, a Queen who is proud to count the number of her subjects."

Patti was born in Madrid in 1843, but her father and mother were Italians.

Queen Victoria wrote on her fan: "If King Lear says truly, 'A sweet voice is a precious gift to a woman,' you are, my dear Adelina, the richest of women."

The Emperor of Austria and the Empress Elizabeth were content to affix their signatures; the Queen of the Belgians, with her Royal hand, traced the first lines of "Il Bacio."

Theirs wrote "Queen of song, let me clasp thy hand," and signed himself, "Monsieur Thiers, President of the Republic."

Fears of Children.

Some interesting facts dealing with the fears of children have been collected by a well-known professor. He found that 1,701 children were afraid of 6,456 things. The leading fears were lightning and thunder, reptiles, strangers, the dark, death, domestic animale, water, ghosts, insects, rats and mice, and high words. Some of the fears were the results of personal experience, i.e., in a district where a great wind had wrought havoc the children were afraid of it. In other cases the analysis showed by what means parents had worked upon the imagination of their children.

In one district sixteen poor little ones were dreading the end of the world. The most gratifying fact of all was that not one child had been frightened into obedience or good conduct by the fear of the devil. A century or two ago that fear would have led all the rest. The pleasing inference is that parents now dwell upon affection and love to insure the goodness of their children, instead of terrorizing them with Satan's wrath.

Early Risers.

The German Emperor and Empress are the earliest risers of all European Sovereigns, but with them it is a case of following out the rule of "Early to bed and early to rise," for they retire as early as ten o'clock. At five o'clock in the summer and six o'clock in the winter the Emperor is up and about, and the Empress rises only a little later, that she may be ready herself to prepare her lord and master his first cup of coffee. The children of the Imperial pair are brought up to follow their parents' example in this as in every way. The Emperor of Austria is another monarch who breakfasts with the lark.

Enthusiasm is one of the most powerful engines of success. When you do a thing, do it with a will, do it with your might, put your whole soul into it, stamp it with your own personality.

Corporation Notice.

PROPOSALS FOR ERECTING FIRE HOUSE

Pursuant to a resolution of the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, adopted June 6th, 1898, notice is hereby given that the Committee on Fire and Buildings will meet on Wednesday, June 29th, 1898, at 8 o'clock p. m., at the Chief Engineer's office, Fire Department Headquarters, on East Second street, in the City of Plainfield, at which time and place said Committee will receive sealed proposals for doing the work and furnishing the materials for the construction of a new fire engine house to be erected on property now owned by Elston M. French on West Fourth street, opposite Darrow avenue, in the City of Plainfield, according to the plans and specifications prepared by Edward V. French, Architect, and now on file and open to the inspection of bidders in the office of the City Clerk, No. 109 Park Avenue, Plainfield, N. J., the work to be completed on or before November 1, 1898.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals the said Committee will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided said parties or agents choose to be then and their present, and also make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Committee.

BATTLE OF THE KEGS.

FIRST TIME THE TORPEDO WAS USED IN THE WORLD'S HISTORY.

Brushnell's Invention Did but Little Damage at That Time but It Can Well be Claimed as the Father of All Modern Submarine Warfare.

It is a long step in the development of invention from a tiny tea-kettle buzzing on the grate with the force of its escaping steam, to the modern locomotive with its powerful driving wheels and train of freight cars. The improvements in submarine warfare have had quite as wide a range and as interesting a history from the primitive herring kegs charged with gunpowder to the modern submarine torpedo boat which dives under water, and carrying its deadly charge in any direction required, sends the mightiest man-of-war with all its turrets and barbettes spinning into the air.

And as the idea of the locomotive was first taken from the domestic kettle, so that of the torpedo was developed from the common beer or herring keg. The "Battle of the Kegs" is little known but one of the most decidedly interesting in American history. It was one in which the British were worsted after that famous ferrying party in which Washington crossed the Delaware and was one of the most amusing and facetious incidents of the entire Revolutionary war. It was also the first real battle in which the torpedo ever figured, if a keg charged with gunpowder to be exploded by contact, and floated down the stream towards which the British lay, could be called a torpedo. And yet such was the first torpedo and the father of all modern submarine warfare.

"The Battle of the Kegs" was fought Jan. 7, 1778, in the Delaware River, when four Britishers were killed and several others wounded. The Kegs would have been given a better account of themselves only that for some reason the British merchantmen that were anchored in the river moved close to shore, otherwise the kegs would have played havoc to the British shipping. Whenever the kegs came in contact with any obstruction it promptly went skywards and the repetition of this then strange phenomena, so terrified the British Admiral that he ordered some boats to be manned and a picked detachment of marines to go forward and suppress this strange uprising of water and stones and flames. One witty Quaker, who viewed the scene from shore remarked that "The infernal regions must have opened their windows in order to enable the King's troops to escape from the merciless fire of Washington's sharpshooters." As soon as the detachment pulled their boats over the floating buoys to which the kegs were attached, they exploded, killing four men and wounding several others.

The Hon. Francis Hopkinson, the father of the author of "Hail Columbia" and of "Columbians all the Present Hour," and who was himself a national bard of no small fame, thus commemorates the incident in these stirring stanzas:

The soldiers flew, the sailors, too,
And scared almost to death, Sir,
Wore out their shoes and spread the news
Running till out of breath, Sir.

"Arise, Arise!" Sir Erskine cries:
The rebels, more's the pity,
Without a boat are all afloat
And ranged before the city."

The royal band now ready stand
All ranged in dead array, Sir,
With stomach stout to see it out
And make a blood day, Sir.

Such feats did they perform that day,
Among those wicked kegs, Sir,
That years to come, when they get home
They'll bay and boast and bray, Sir.

The unusually sober, and dignified Philadelphians were like Indians around a ghost dance that day. When the alarm of the first explosion spread the whole city was in confusion. The British soldiers ran from their shelters to their assigned places of muster and both city and river was filled with such an appalling and unearthly noise that it really seemed as if the bottomless pit had burst its crusted roof and spat flame and sulphur into the skies. The surface of the water was placid save for some blocks or floating ice which, however, concealed the buoys, and such a thing as a possibility of explosive beneath the water was at the time as unheard of as the ticker or the telegraph.

The kegs were charged with gunpowder and had a wad of wood separating the explosive and a charge of stones and scrap iron overhead which was just far enough below the surface to effect concealment and at the same time to do real injury as well as make a grand spectacular demonstration when exploded. A spring lock set off this crude torpedo of 120 years ago. The inventor was one David Bushnell, and the reason why more havoc was not then accomplished, was, he says himself, because the pilot in the Delaware was imperfectly acquainted with that part of the river in which the shipping lay. These kegs being placed under cover of darkness were floated too far from the ships, the distance at night having greatly deceived Bushnell and his friends. They set them adrift with the ebb of the tide but much too distant, and they did not arrive until after being caught in the ice, thus exploding after the ships had raised anchor and in most cases in widely dispersed directions causing less damage than the revolutionary leaders intended.

However, Bushnell's invention was tried with greater effect against King George's Man-of-War Cerberus. While this vessel was lying at anchor some of the seamen observing a line towing astern, and thinking it a mere fishing line commenced vigorously hauling in, feeling confident that they had nothing of less dimensions than a baby whale at least, on the hook end. When the sailors had about fifteen fathoms of the line hauled in they were astonished to find that it was buoyed up at regular intervals by little bits of sticks. The necessity of these devices in fishing were not apparent to the Englishmen but nothing daunted and with a hee-haw the British tars kept towing the anticipated whale. Suddenly the refrain of the seamen ceased and they found a machine which was much too heavy for two men to haul up. "It can not have been a whale," thought they, "though it may be the very devil himself," as they pulled the peculiar contrivance on board. It weighed upwards of five tons, and all hands were called to get it upon deck. Commander Symonds who commanded the Cerberus was a little apprehensive that it was "another trick of those damned rebel Yankees" but nevertheless feeling it a rich find that was destined to be gazed on for ages in the British Museum, he, like a brave disciple of Drake and Cook, ordered the strange nugget to be examined with a mixture of feeling begotten half of fear and half of fatal curiosity. The whale instantly took breath, shooting a volume of flame and smoke into the Captain's face, killing three men and throwing a fourth into the water. One of the ship's boats was also blown from the davits. There was consternation upon the deck of the Cerberus and for two days at least the British sailors fluttered in quite as awful terror as had the Philadelphians. Commodore Symonds at once sat down to solemnly write a heavy report to the British Admiralty not to haul in any more whales "filled with that kind of combustible that burns though in the water."

Captain Symond's report concludes thus—"The mode these villains must have taken to have swiftered the ship was to row off on the stream a considerable distance leaving one of their infernals on shore and floating the other end at the distance of the line. From the quantity we have got aboard, nearly 70 fathoms, and what the men saved, which was upwards of 150 fathoms more, there must have been nearly 300 fathoms in all. They at the length of this line put the other in the water and left it for the tide to float down. As the ingenuity of these people is singular in their secret modes of mischief, and as I presume this is their first essay I have though it indispensably my duty to give you the earliest information of the circumstances to prevent the like fatal accident happening to any of the advanced ships that may possibly be swiftered in the same manner."

Such was the first use and the first official report ever made upon the torpedo in submarine warfare.

Man Is Condensed Air.

Liebig, the greatest chemist of the century, writes: "Science has demonstrated the fact that man, the being who performs the greatest wonders, is formed of condensed air and solidified and liquid gases; that he lives upon condensed as well as uncondensed air; and that, by means of the same mysterious agent, he moves, or causes to be moved, the heaviest quaint little egg-men to accomplish weights with the velocity of the wind.

"But the strangest part of the matter is that thousands of millions of these tabernacles of condensed air are destroying each other in pitched battles, using implements which are but other forms of condensed air, the material of which they themselves are formed or composed.

"Chemistry supplies the clearest proof that man is—to all appearances, at least—composed of materials identical with those which compose the structural being of the ox or the dog, or even the lowest animal in the scale of creation."

The Oldest City in the World.

Damascus is probably the oldest city in the world, and is estimated to be about 4,200 years old. It is supposed to have been founded by a great grandson of Noah, and for many centuries was famous for its manufacture of jewelry, silks and swords. In the Middle Ages a Damascus sword was more highly prized than any other; but the Damascene method of tempering steel and the famous swords are no longer made. In point of age Jerusalem comes next to Damascus amongst the oldest cities in the world, it having been a Jebusite city in the days of Abraham 3,900 years ago. Athens is the oldest city in Europe, being about 3,453 years old. Rome is the next oldest, and after that comes Marseilles, founded by a colony of Greeks when Rome was still a small village. London and Paris have neither of them been in existence two thousand years.

Wife (time, midnight): "Hark! Husband! Wake up! I hear the rustling of silk and the clank of chains."

Husband: "You do? Horror! Then the reports are true. I was told the house was haunted."

Wife (much relieved): "Oh, is that all? I was afraid Fido had broken loose, and was tearing my new ball-dress."

Dramatist—They're yelling for me in front. I've never made a speech in my life; what shall I say?

Leading Lady (had a bad time of it)—Say you've a wife and three kids dependent on you; throw yourself on their mercy, somehow.

THE WAY OF A MAID.

She was a maid of notions strange
Concerning man,
Her fancies took a goodly range,
As woman's can.

She said she loved an eye of gray—
My own are blue.
I would I could in any way
Have changed their hue.

The sort of hair that pleased her best
Was brown, she said.
Which caused me oft supreme unrest—
My own is red!

Her taste in "nose" was aquiline;
Oh, cruel rub!
In vulgar parlance one like mine
Is termed a snub!

She liked a stately man and tall—
Alas! my fate
Has blessed me with a stature small,
Not five feet eight.

She doted on a figure slim;
Without a doubt,
I could not satisfy that whim—
For I am stout.

And, knowing this, how could I dare
(A boor like me)
To ask that maid her life to share—
My wife to be?

And yet I did! egregious ass,
I must confess;
I popped the question—and, alas!
She answered, "Yes."

"BILLY" MACINTYRE.

William MacIntyre was a nice little boy; at least he looked a nice little boy when you first saw him, and he wasn't such a bad boy when you got to know him thoroughly: the drawback to him was that he took a lot of knowing just at the intermediary stage.

So, when I first made his acquaintance at the age of ten in his happy home in the Australian bush, I must say I regarded him as the kind of "Tommy" that dies young to slow music. The intermediary knowledge of him only began to dawn on me when, on an occasion on which he was helping the milk boy to persuade a refractory cow to put her head in the pail, I was an unobserved and unsuspected witness to what was then uppermost in his mind and in his language.

Up to that hour indeed, though I had seen many men and cities, I had never understood what swearing meant. Then I heard it as a classic in which perfect fluency was united to a careful choice of expression, which, under the greatest provocation, never repeated itself.

When I next met him after the stockyard incident he had grown a good deal, and had reached the mature age of twelve. I then happened to be traveling in the same steamer with him. His mother kept her cabin a good deal, but Billy made up for it by being all over the ship. Some of us, and I was one, barred him altogether, but there was a contingent who were amused at the precocity of the child, and in spite of the protests of the senior passengers would have him in the smoking room to enjoy the edifying spectacle of seeing him smoke a cigarette and drink a sherry cobbler through a straw. It was just as he was engaged in such a delaissement so suitable for his years that our Bishop (we had a Bishop on board) unbent so far as for the first time to look into the smoking room.

What the Bishop said does not matter much; the words were probably well chosen, and the reproof was certainly severe and deserved. What Billy replied at the end of the lecture amused us by its audacity, in spite of our feeling how entirely the Bishop was in the right. I can't set it down in full, and if I dared I could not give the languid drawl of the child. Hardly looking up from his straw, he invited his lordship to "go to h——."

And yet a third time I had to do with Billy—Billy the unrepentant, Billy the unfathomable; and this time he was a man of thirteen.

Tall for his age, as becomes a colonial, he regarded himself as ready and fitted at any time to undertake a man's work. A man of few words, he would answer an inquiry with laconic simplicity—without reverence certainly, but with sufficient civility, as of one equal to another. If I am asked how his education had been so neglected—being, as he was, the son (though not the only one) of educated parents—I should have to go into details quite foreign to my short story. Billy was the outcome of such education—or want of it—as his parents had bestowed on him. Born and bred fifty miles from the nearest possible school, and utterly neglected if judged by an English standard, (let us admit it at once,) the habits of a 'possum, or the make and shape of a stock-whip handle, had caused him much more anxiety than had ever the rule of three or the multiplication table. Thus for some time he had been doing a man's work, nor was he ever happier than when at a "muster" his "swag" was rolled up and stowed with those of the other men on the heavily-laden pack-horse.

I knew about these things, for I was a neighbor. I can't say I was attracted by the child—rather the reverse; but I regarded it always as much more of his parents' fault than of his own that he was "born blind," nor had we ever had any passage of arms such as passed between him and the Bishop; for, however much my tongue longed and my fingers itched to administer a reproof, I always felt Billy was too old for it, and, besides, at that time I was not often brought into contact with him. This much has been necessary as explanatory of the incident that follows.

I was on my way to the coast, and the morning's run of twenty-five miles had considerably exhausted my too-fat horses. It was a hot, dusty day, and the big twenty-mile plain lay under the tropical sun in all the sweltering heat of midday in midsummer.

Both I and my horses knew we should find in the timbered country we were about to enter a well belonging to old MacIntyre, where unlimited water and well-earned rest awaited us.

And now the first trees of the forest country began to give us their scanty, intermitten, but welcome, shade. Slowly up the opposing sand ridge the weary horses dragged the light buckboard, the tires shining like silver as they emerged from the tawny sand. We were just within hearing of the well, though the hut prevented one from seeing it, when Billy's not easily to be forgotten voice was borne along the still air in accents which would have made the Bishop's hair stand upright, and me, I must confess, perhaps only to smile, had they not contained, quite apart from the words employed, a tone which caused my heart to stand still.

That Billy was once more swearing it required no Webster to predicate, but I was in a pitch of such anguish as I hope I may never again know. Sure that there was something gravely wrong, I lashed the surprised horses. In a moment I was in sight of the well and there was poor Billy lying jammed under a coupling of the iron bar of the horse power, of which the connecting pin had half-severed his thigh. To leap from the buggy, to rush to his side, to remove him with all the care I could into the hut, were things I must have done mechanically, for I scarcely remember the action. But the sight of what had happened when I looked at the injury was to a layman's eye so awful that at the first look I should have fainted but for the reassuring and composed voice of the child. He began to explain—more than that, the uppermost thought in his mind was to excuse himself from any stigma that he had been clumsy or inefficient. He had come to the well, but the Chinaman whose duty it was to keep the tank full was gone and the tank empty; he had taken his own horse—"

"Billy, old man," I interposed, "don't tell me about this; let us see what I can do for you."

I proceeded with such simple surgical treatment as I knew and as the resources of the place permitted. These were indeed simple. A needle and cotton belonging to the absent Chinaman were brought to light, and with them I sewed up the awful wound. Billy suggested kerosene as an antiseptic, which, being the only medicament that there seemed to be in the hut, I applied it and bound the poor little leg in such cotton bandages as my own torn shirt would make.

All ths time the little hero was boiling over with the explanation that it was not his fault. He seemed to regard his leg as the leg of some one else, to be prescribed for and treated to whatever there was that was likely to do it good. I would spare you any needlessly terrible description, but the blunt pin of the coupling rod had missed, as I learned afterward, the main artery by no more than a hair's breadth. Returning now to the cause of the accident, Billy explained that he had put the horse he was riding into the horse power; that, being unused to the work, it had given him a great deal of trouble; that at the moment when he had finally got him started, as he was running behind, the pin of the coupling caught his trousers, and, dragging him below the rod, had on each revolution cut into his leg, while the horse had only just stopped of his own accord as I came up.

With the cool of the evening and with poor Billy stretched on the tray of my buggy, I began my slow journey to his home. What the motion must have meant to him I could only gather from my imagination and those tightly compressed lips, which uttered no sound during all those weary fourteen miles; each jolt seemed to vibrate through my nerves in the anxiety for the boy.

The rest is soon told, and what the end was is worth telling. Whatever I thought of Billy before, whatever—if he lived—he might grow up to be afterward, he became from the moment of our meeting at the well—my child. I gave up the business I had in hand, and staid to take my share of nursing him in his home.

Fever, and then fever and delirium, followed quickly on one another, and then symptoms worse than either, and I felt sure Billy's days were numbered.

It was Christmas Eve, and I had just lain down on my mattress on the floor, while the hot night air, disturbed only by the noise of the bull-frog in the swamp, failed to relieve the sick chamber of the latent heat which its walls were even then giving out. Presently a great silence fell on everything; the frog ceased to croak, and the night insects to "cheep"; the restless tossings of the little sufferer had ceased, and even his breathing could not be heard from where I was reclining. But as I rose and noiselessly approached his bed, wondering whether the end had come, his voice rang out loud and clear. To my fancy, in the stillness that was reigning around, it seemed something else than human, and awoke in me such feelings as the impassioned minor chords of a great funeral march when some young, loved, and honored soldier is being taken to his resting place.

Without preface it commenced: "Our Father, which art in Heaven, hallowed be Thy name, Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done—" Here he hesitated; then he repeated: "Thy will be done, Thy—Thy—Thy—There, God, that must do!" And the great silence seemed even more intense than before he spoke.

My hand sought his heart, which was beating calmly and evenly; a soft moisture had taken the place on his skin of the fire that had been burning before. He was sleeping peacefully. In the Place where these things are ordered, it was decreed that Billy should not die this time.—Black and White.

BOUND TO HAVE A RECEPTION.

Borough School Commencement Will Not be Without its Social Side.

The graduates of the borough public school were considerably surprised a day or two ago to learn that the alumni of the school did not intend to give them a reception following the Commencement exercises next Thursday evening. Heretofore the alumni has always given a reception the night following the Commencement, but it has always been attended with more or less expenses, until now the alumni is in debt about $30. Considering the financial side of the question the members of the alumni have decided that they cannot afford to give a reception this year.

Unfortunately, this news has not been conveyed officially to the superintendent of the school. The only information obtained was second handed from scholars in the school, and it leaves but a very short time to make any arrangements for a reception. A reception will be held, however, and will be given by the graduates themselves. They are now making arrangements for the affair. It be held Friday evening of this week and will have all the pleasant features associated with it. The graduates, naturally feel quite indignant to think that the reception usually given should be allowed to go by default.

More Trouble for Farmer Jeroloman.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Liberty Corner, June 20.—William P. Jeroloman, who told a tale in Morristown of having been drugged and robbed while on his way from his farm to Newark with a load of produce, was placed under $500 bail Friday to appear at court. Jerolaman, it is charged, returned home drunk Thursday and drew a revolver on his wife and son, threatening to shoot them. His son grappled with him and succeeded in getting the revolver. Mrs. Jeroloman swore out a warrant for her husband's arrest before Justice Layton, and after a hearing he was placed under $500 bail.

Apoplexy of the Brain.

Mrs. Clarkson Mundy, of East Third street, was stricken with apoplexy of the brain yesterday morning and is now in a critical condition. She is unable to utter a single word. Mr. Mundy discovered his wife's condition when he called her for breakfast and she did not answer. The affliction causes a great deal of sympathy among those who know Mr. and Mrs. Mundy. They are worthy people, but not blessed with an abundance of the world's goods.

Henry B. Drake, of Duer street, has returned from a visit in Providence, R. I.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss May Sebring, of LaGrande avenue, is at Asbury Park.

Miss Mary Van Eps, of East Front street, is visiting Trenton friends.

Miss Katherine Thorn, of New York, has returned home after a visit at the home of B. O. Bowers, of Franklin place.

Miss Edith L. Burt, of West Seventh street, returned home Saturday from Wellesley College for her summer vacation.

This morning the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Dunavan, of East Front street, was brightened by the arrival of a baby boy.

Conductor Charles Dodwell, of the Central Railroad, returned to his duties this morning after enjoying a week's vacation.

Miss Olive Newell, of the State Normal School, has returned to her home for the summer. She expects to return to school in the fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert P. Simonds, of Bridgeport, Conn., spent Sunday with Mr. Simond's mother, Mrs. Herman Simonds, of Watchung avenue

Mrs. C. M. Collins, of Saratoga Springs, who has been visiting her cousin, Mrs. Wm. E. Alpaugh, of East Third street, has left for home.

Miss Amy Gertrude Burt, of West Seventh street, returned Saturday from boarding school at Northfield, Mass., on her summer vacation.

MRS. CHAPIN'S RAILWAY.

A System of Railways in a Florida City Owned and Managed by a Woman.

There is an electric system of railways in Tampa which should possess more than ordinary interest for the ladies throughout the country from the fact that it is practically owned and operated by a woman. Her name is Mrs. Chapin, and there is not a detail of the operation of the railway that she is not thoroughly familiar with. The system which she owns is practically a belt line, and every place of interest in Tampa is touched by it. Some of the routes are of much beauty, and one which runs from the heart of the city to Ballast Point, a distance of six miles, is full of picturesque and other attractive features. On this particular line observation or double deck cars are used, and nearly every one takes seats on the upper deck under an awning. On account of the many curves in the route the cars are run at a slow rate, which is a matter of satisfaction for it enables the passengers to more thoroughly enjoy the beauties of the pine woods, the fascinations of the orange groves and the glimpses of Tampa Bay, which are obtained through the woods every few minutes.

For some time it is said Mrs. Chapin has been endeavoring to extend her Ballast Point route to Port Tampa, but thus far difficulties in connection with the right of way have prevented her from carrying out her desires. At Ballast Point, near which she has a fine residence, Mrs. Chapin owns considerable property, and here she has erected an artistic pavilion of the Chinese style of architecture, which is used by dancing and pleasure parties from Tampa.

Mrs. Chapin not only owns practically all the stock of the Tampa street railway system, but she oversees all the details of its operation and herself directs them. She owns a handsome car, which she calls Fair Florida, and on this she takes daily trips all over her lines, and from it she directs the work of the road. While not a young woman, Mrs. Chapin is said to be still in the prime of life. She has a wonderful capacity for business and possesses strong powers of endurance.—Philadelphia Ledger.

"ANCY" JOHNSON.

How He Won the Irish Vote in a Congressional Contest.

In the Pinch precinct, Memphis, the majority of the voters in which are Irish, Andrew Johnson, when a candidate for Congress, and his opponent, Gus Henry, met in joint debate. Henry opened, and, as a bid for the Irish vote, he told in withering terms how Johnson, when in Congress before, had voted against a bill for an appropriation to assist Ireland during a time of famine; he himself had done yeoman work for the passage of the bill, while this other man, who was now asking their support, had done every thing possible to defeat it. It was a fine point, and the speaker made the most of it, burning before it the lamp of his eloquence, until the crowd was wild with excitement. Then Henry sat down and Johnson got up amid catcalls and scoffs to answer him.

"What my opponent has told you is true," he said. "Ireland was suffering and I voted against an appropriation for her relief, for the money which it was thus proposed to give away was not mine, but yours—yours because it was in the public coffers. I refused to give away money which did not belong to me; but I went down in my own pocket, and out of my own private funds, which I had a right to bestow, I subscribed $250 to the relief fund which was being quietly raised. How much of his own money did Mr. Henry give? Not a cent! He was too busy trying to give away yours. Now, gentlemen, which of us two did the better part by suffering Ireland?"

The effect of this was magical; the catcalls were now for Henry and the cheers for Johnson, and the votes went with the cheers.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

GASHED BY A GOLF BALL

A PECULIAR AND SERIOUS ACCIDENT SATURDAY AFTERNOON.

The Ball Was "Sliced" by a Stroke of Howard Wharton's Stick and Soared 250 Yards Away to Hit Fred Walz.

A serious accident occurred Saturday on the Hillside Tennins and Golf Links, which can not be blamed to any one and is liable to happen to any one. Howard Wharton was driving a ball from the seventh tee when he happened to "slice" it. Sailing through the air at tremendous speed it struck Fred Walz, who was fully 250 yards away, fairly on the forehead, cutting a deep gash just over the eyes.

The young man was carried to Frank A. Barnaby's house across the street, where Dr. Hedges, was obliged to take several stitches in the wound before binding it up.

The accident is a serious one, and although not affecting Mr. Walz's sight, will confine him to the house for some time. The accident brings to mind one that happened to L. W. Serrell, Jr., fairly on year, when he was struck by Mrs. Serrell with a golf stick as she was about to drive a ball.

A MYSTERIOUS FIRE.

T. A. B. Hall Threatened With Destruction Early This Morning.

At 4:35 o'clock this morning Patrolman Flanagan sent in an alarm of fire from Box 46, corner of Liberty and West Second streets Just a few minutes before that time he discovered that T. A. B. Hall on West Fourth street was on fire. The department responded with its usual quickness, and inside of three-quarters of an hour the fire was extinguished. The chemical engine and one line of hose from a hydrant was all that was used.

The origin of the fire is mysterious. It broke out on the north side of the building near a place where a stove stands. It burned considerable and reached the eaves of the building before it was put out. There was no fire in the stove neither, had there been of late. The loss will probably amount to about $50

CAN'T MACADAMIZE NOW.

Property Owners Along Summit Avenue Did Not Subscribe Enough.

The statement recently published in the News that the street committee of the borough had decided to macadamize Summit avenue, is not true. In conversation with Councilman Woolston, chairman of the street committee, a Press reporter was informed that the amount of money subscribed by the property owners along the street, representing about 1,200 feet, was only $114, which would not warrant the committee in undertaking the work which would cost at least $600.

The committee are sorry that the work cannot be done, but now they can only grade and fill-in the centre of the street with a quantity of slag they have on hand at the present time until such a time as the property owners raise enough to do the macadamizing.

In Memory of Late Col. Case.

The service at the First Baptist church yesterday morning was a very impressive one, and the pastor, Rev Dr. D. J. Yerkes, made a few remarks concerning the late Rufus K Case, whose death has had such an effect in the church. He paid a loving tribute to the memory of the departed and told of his associations in church and Sunday-school work. The pulpit was beautifully and impressively decorated with a large American flag. This was done by the young women of the church in memory of the deceased.

Peter Knows Enough Not to Do It.

The New Jersey Contractor says that the report that Peter Breidt, the Elizabeth brewer, is contemplating the erection of a brewery in this city, at the corner of Fourth street and Spooner avenue, is without foundation in fact. The only occasion for the circulation of this report by the News is that Mr. Breidt has acquired a house on Spooner avenue by the foreclosure of a mortgage.

Heard a Missionary Talk.

Last evening at the First Baptist church an interesting lecture was given by Miss Helen Newcomb, a returned missionary from Inda. She gave a talk concerning her work in India and related a number of interesting facts in relation to the work in that field. Considering the stormy weather there was a good sized audience present.

Fell From The Mow.

One of the workmen employed in C. V. D. Corle's livery stable on East Second street, fell out of the hay mow this noon. A doctor was called to look after his injuries, which are not thought to be serious.

Exempts Not To Turn Out.

At the request of the family, the members of the Exempt Firemen's Association will not attend in a body the funeral of the late Col. Rufus K. Case this afternoon.

Miss Anna Flaag, of Hasbrouck Heights, is visiting Plainfield friends.

Gen. Swayne, of New York, was the guest over Sunday of Col. Mason W. Tyler and family, of West Seventh.

SAMPSON WIRES LONG TROOPS ARE THERE.

All Will Be Ready When the Soldiers Are Landed.

THREE LANDING PLACES.

REPORT THAT HOBSON'S WORK WAS NOT EFFECTUAL DENIED.

The Navy Department Receives Cable that Shafter's Expedition Is Ready to Land—A Kingston Despatch Disbelieved by Navy Officials—Merritt Gets Orders—Will Look After Government.

Washington, June 21, 10:53 a. m.—Sampson wired this morning that the transports had arrived off Santiago yesterday. Advices just received confirm the report that the Spanish fleet has returned to Cadiz.

With Sampson's fleet off Santiago, June 20, via Kingston, Jamaica, June 21, 2 p. m.—Shafter's fleet arrived at 12:10 today. The army is ready to land. The ships will attack the city while the troops close in on the city by land. Three places for the landing are under consideration. One place is ten miles above the city and another below and the third at Guantanamo.

Kingston, Jamaica, June 21, 9:32 a. m.—A reconnoitering expedition from Sampson's fleet into the neck of Santiago harbor finds that the Merrimac does not block the harbor. It lies to the right of the channel, leaving plenty of space for the passage of the warships.

Washington, June 21, 1.41 p. m.—The Navy Department refuses to confirm the alleged Sampson's report to the effect that the Merrimac does not block Santiago harbor. Prominent officials say that no such report has been received. As far as is known Hobson's work was effective.

Washington, June 21, 11:43 a. m.—General Merritt gets his final orders today. He has been given authority to transfer the command of the army corps to the next officer in rank so that he can give more attention to the government of the Philippines.

Washington, June 21, 12:16 p. m.—The news of Shafter's arrival at Santiago was received coming from Col Allen of the Signal Corps, to General Greeley, direct by cable communication which is now established with Guantanamo via the French cable.

Death of Mrs. Pearson.

The death of Mrs. William J. Pearson, of Vine street, occurred yesterday afternoon after a long and tedious illness. The deceased has not enjoyed good health for many years, and of late her condition was such that her death was not wholly unexpected. She was born in Hunterdon county, and has lived in the borough during her married life. She was the wife of Mr. Pearson, of the firm of Pearson & Gayle. Mrs. Pearson was a woman of many excellent qualities and she had a host of friends who will learn with sadness of her death. She leaves a husband, one daughter and a son.

A. T. A. B. Excursion.

For the first time in the history of the T. A. B. Society they are going to give an excursion. The date has not been decided yet, neither has the place, but it will occur some time the latter part of August. The Elizabeth society will go too, and a game of baseball will be played between the two teams. A meeting to make final arrangements will be held tonight.

Off for Bonnie Scotland.

Miss Joan M. Anderson sailed on the Furnissia Saturday last for an extended visit to her relatives in Scotland. She expects to pass a month or two visiting friends in the Highlands, London and Paris. A large number of her friends met her at the steamer, and she was the recipient of a number of bouquets and steamer letters.

Cut by a Swinging Shelf.

Grocer P. H. Currin, of Grandview avenue, sustained a severe cut in his cheek under the left eye yesterday while he was in the cellar under his store looking for something. He struck his face against a swinging shelf. The cut is a bad one and caused the face to swell considerable.

Invitations are out for the wedding of Miss Rebecca Levin, of West Front street, to Hilel Gold, of Park avenue. The ceremony will be performed at six o'clock at 204 West Front street, and will be followed by a reception.

AGE DETERMINED GIFT.

SUCCESSFUL BIRTHDAY PARTY GIVEN AT GRACE M. E. CHURCH.

A Pleasing Programme, Divided into Four Parts to Represent the Seasons, Was Presented—Those Who Had Charge

The members of the Epworth League and the Ladies' Aid Society of the Grace M. E. church gave a birthday sociable last night, followed by an ice cream and cake sale. Each person attending was expected to bring in an envelope provided for the purpose a sum of money equivalent to the number of years old he or she was, and deposit it with Miss Della Voehl at the proper time.

This scheme to raise money was extremely light on the young, but as a person's age increased the contribution grew larger. The proceeds went towards the interest fund.

Preceding the sale of refreshments, a programme was presented. It was divided into four parts, one for each season of the year. First, of course, came spring. Dyckman Winckler opened this part of the programme with a violin solo, accompanied by Miss Alice Carroll, entitled "Spring Song." Three poems, one upon each of the months of March, April and May were then read by Miss Lizzie Hoagland. After the reading of the poem for each month the people having a birthday in that month came forward and deposited their bags of money. The bags were received by Miss Vohel and turned over to M. Charles and Lewis A. Hummer, who counted their contents.

The next part, "Summer," was opened with a selection by a chorus composed of Miss Grace Carroll, Miss Alice Carroll, Miss Schuck, Mrs. Winckler and Mrs. Most. The selections were read by Mrs. Taft. Louis Hummer rendered a piano solo as an introductory to autumn, and the poems were read by Dr. H. K. Carroll. A very pretty contralto solo by Miss Grace Carroll opened the last part of the programme, and John Steiner read the winter selections. After the last selection the choir sang "Jingle Bells" and the audience joined in the chorus.

After all had delivered up their bags of coin, it was found that most of the birthdays came in January, nineteen of them, with a total amount of $6.33, while September ended the list with 79 cents and only seven birthdays. The committee in charge of the ice cream and cake consisted of Mrs. J. H. Carney, chairman; Miss Margaret Schuck, Mrs. J. K. Winckler, Miss Grace Clark, Mrs. Edward Sebring, Miss Carrie Tingley and Mrs. Andrew Lutkins. Altogether about $42 was realized from the birthday bags, and quite a little more from the sale of cake and cream.

COMPLAIN ABOUT THE ODOR.

East Front Street Residents Say That the Fat House is a Nuisance.

Theodore Glaser, who keeps the fat house back of French's mill, was arrested yesterday afternoon on a complaint sworn out by John A. Powlison, of the firm of Powlison & Jones, who charges him with maintaining a nuisance. Mr. Powlison claims that the place has been very offensive to him and all the residents who live near, or who have occasion to come by the place.

Glaser was represented by William G. DeMeza, and he entered a plea of not guilty. His trial was set down for July 8th. Meanwhile he is under $200 bonds, with David Smalley as bondsman.

This fat house has been located back of the race for years, and the Board of Health has threatened to make a complaint against it many times.

A Fine Work of Art.

The Burlington (Vt.) Free Press and Times under date of Wednesday, June 15th, has the following to say regarding a Plainfielder: "Julian Scott, the famous painter, whose production of the Battle of Cedar Creek, which hangs in the State House at Montpelier, has won so many admirers, is the guest of Judge R. S. Taft, and is engaged on several oil portraits for Burlingtonians. Mr. Scott, whose home is in Plainfield, N. J., was born in Lamoille county."

Closing Exercises at St. Mary's School.

The closing exercises of St. Mary's School will be held in St. Mary's School Hall Thursday and Friday evenings. PREPARED THE BOYS FOR COLLEGE LIFE.

Closing Exercises of Prof. Leal's Preparatory School.

THE WINNERS ANNOUNCED.

WHERE SEVERAL OF THE GRADUATES WILL CONTINUE STUDY.

The Exercises Held in the Casino Last Night—Eight Creditable Essays Presented—Cultured Audience was Present, and Bestowed Liberal Applause on the Young Men Who Were Honored in the Class

The closing exercises of John Leal's school for young men and boys were held last evening in the Casino. They were attended by a fashionable audience who frequently gave hearty approbation of the achievements of the young men who furnished the programme.

The Casino was patriotically decorated with American, English and flags of other nations, while a pretty display of palms, flowers and flags formed the decorations on the platform. In the arrangement of flags the American flag was given the preference and the scene was most attractive.

Seated on the platform as guests of honor were Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh and William B. Wadsworth. Mr. Leal also occupied a seat on the platform and announced the several numbers on the programme. Interspersing the programme, which was composed of selections for the senior contest, there were selections of music by Rogers' orchestra.

Each essay was accorded applause on the part of the enthusiastic audience. The judges were Rev. A. C. Nickerson, pastor of the Unitarian church, A. V. D. Honeyman, a member of the Borough Board of Education, and Dr. B. VanD. Hedges, of this city.

After listening to the various essays, eight in number, the judges decided that Thomas Lewis Thomas, of Dunellen, was entitled to first prize, and George Huntington Richards, of this city, second prize. The subject selected by the former was "Fort Wagoner," by Stansbury, while "The Fall of Pemberton Mill," by Phelps, was the subject of Mr. Richards' essay. Both young men acquitted themselves in a meritorious manner.

The other contestants and their subjects were as follows: "The Slave Who Saved St. Michael's," Stansbury, Aubrey Congdon Crowe; "The Traitor's Deathbed," Lippard, Howard Emery Bushnell; "The Greatness of Stonewall Jackson," Hoge, William Austin Townsend; "Christmas Day at the Workhouse," Dagonet, Orville Theodore Waring; "The General's Client," adapted, Owen Howard Fleming; "The Southern Negro," Grady, Henry Way Leal.

Those who did not receive prizes were given honorabe mention.

At the close of the programme Rev. G. Kennedy Newell, pastor of Hope chapel, announced the prize winners in the junior contest which took place yesterday morning at Mr. Leal's school. The first prize was awarded to Dudley Paul Babcock, while Samuel Wickham Corwin won the second prize. Mr. Leal announced the winners of the contest in the evening, and each winner was given a hearty handshake and a word of congratulation when the prizes was awarded. In conclusion Mr. Leal addressed a few words of congratulation to the graduating class composed of Irving Wayne Clark, Charles Griffith Davis, Walter Lester Glenney, Paul Wellington Kimball, Henry Way Leal, Willard Wadsworth and Orville Theodore Waring.

Mr. Leal then announced where the graduates would go next year. Irving Clark and Paul Kimball will continue their studies at Princeton, Charles Davis and Orville Waring will go to the University of Pennsylvania, Walter Glenney will go to Columbia, Henry Leal will go to Yale, while Willard Wadsworth will go to Harvard.

At the conclusion of these announcements, the members of the school congregated in one corner of the hall and gave the school yell several times. There were not many that could understand it, but it was enjoyed nevertheless.

In the senior contest the first prize was $10 and the second $5. The first prize in the junior contest was $5 and the second $2 50.

Suing for Wages.

The case of Ismatiza Lepensky vs. Mrs. Anna Gwynette will come up at Elizabeth tomorrow. City Judge De Meza is counsel for the plaintiff and Robert M. Clark for the defendant. The plaintiff is suing for wages which he claims due him.

COUNTY JAIL WARDEN IS CHARLES W. DODD.

The Plainfielder Assumed Office This Noon.

SUPREME COURT DECISION.

DECLARES THAT VETEAANS' RIGHTS ACT IS UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

Contention Made by Craig A. Marsh is Upheld by the High Court—Mr. Blore Accepted the Decision and is Now Out of Office—Freeholder Hubbard is Pleased Over the Decision.

Captain J. Frank Hubbard, the director of the Union County Board of Freeholders, and Charles W. Dodd, the newly-elected warden, wear expressions of great satisfaction this morning. The Supreme Court yesterday decided the contest over the wardenship of the jail in favor of Mr. Dodd. The director has taken a keen personal interest in this case from the beginning. He knew how efficient an officer Mr. Dodd had been during his former term as warden, and he believed that the attitude of Warden Blore in denying the authority of the Board of Freeholders and holding possession of the jail by force, was wholly unwarranted.

Warden Blore refused to deliver the jail to Mr. Dodd or to recognize the authority of the Board of Freeholders to dismiss him from office, and in so doing relied upon what is called the Veteran Act, passed by the Legislature last winter. This act declared that honorably discharged Union soldiers should be entitled to preference in appointment to office and should not be removed from office except for cause and then after a regular trial. Mr. Blore in refusing to give up the office said that he had been advised by his lawyer, Mr. Lindabury, that the Board could not remove him and he was entitled to hold the office continuously as long as he did his duty.

Mr. Dodd obtained an opinion to the contrary from Craig A. Marsh, whom he engaged to bring suit in the Supreme Court to turn Mr. Blore out of the office and obtain possession of the jail. The case was heard in the main court at Trenton on June 10th and was decided yesterday, the court declaring the Veteran Act of 1897 to be unconstitutional.

The ground of the decision is that the title of the act is confined to veterans in the public service of State of New Jersey, whereas the body of the act attempts to extend its provisions to veterans in the service of cities, towns and counties.

Mr. Blore had the papers served upon him this morning and his counsel agreed to give up possession of the office at noon today.

SONS OF TEMPERANCE ELECT.

Michael Armstrong Chosen Worthy Patriach of Howell Division.

Last evening at the meeting of Howell Division, Sons of Temperance, the following officers were elected: Worthy patriach, Michael Armstrong; worthy associate, Miss Wright; recording secretary, Rev. B. W. Hand; assistant recording secretary, Mrs. Bush; financial secretary, Mrs. Andrew Cox; treasurer, Mrs. Sarah Mattox; chaplain, Mrs. Corwin; conductor, Miss Sarah Mattox; assistant conductor, Mrs. Lee; inside sentinel, Mr. Lee; outside sentinel, W. E. Koyer. The officers will be installed on the evening of July 6th. July 27th the Grand Division of the State will meet in this city in convention.

School Buildings to be Repaired.

A special meeting of the Plainfield Board of Education was held last evening. It was decided to have the walls in the Stillman and Franklin buildings stippled and tinted. The contract for the work in the Stillman building was awarded to Woolston & Buckle for $132, and for that in the Franklin building to E. E. Marshall & Co., for $145. New desks were ordered for the Lincoln, Washington and Irving buildings.

About the War.

The present war has made a demand for a book furnishing details of the two navies and the parts of the world that have been brought into notice through the different campaigns. Mast, Crowell & Kirkpatrick have issued as the July number of the Farm and Fireside Library a book that just answers the need. It is called "The Handy War Book," and is prepared by Lieutenant E. Hannaford.

Vacation for the Cops.

The vacation season for the police has arrived and the first to enjoy an outing are Patrolmen Nicholas Myers and Andrew Saffron. Mr. Myers will spend his ten days in Philadelphia.

THEN ESCAPED UNSEEN

THOUGHT TO HAVE HID IN THE HOUSE AT NOON TIME.

When Mrs. Vanderbeek Went to Col. Case's Funeral the Thief Ransacked the House for Valuables and Carried Away a Good Many of Them—Suspicious Man Seen—Police on the Case.

The most daring robbery that has occurred in this vicinity in many a day took place yesterday afternoon between the hours of 2 and 4 o'clock at the home of Andrew M. Vanderbeek, 98 Duer street. The thief carried off everything of value that could be taken, and even used Mr. Vanderbeek's satchel to assist him in taking the valuables. Thus far there is not the slightest clew to the robber. The supposition is that the thief is well acquainted in the neighborhood and especially with the house he entered, for he seemed to know exactly where to go for the valuables.

Mr. Vanderbeek is quite positive that the thief gained an entrance to the house shortly after noon yesterday, while Mrs. Vanderbeek was in the back yard hanging up clothes, and secreted himself in some out of the way part of the house. To substantiate this theory the fact remains that when Mrs. Vanderbeek left the house to attend the funeral of the late R. K. Case, she securely fastened every door, the back door being made doubly secure with two locks. When she returned the back door was unlocked.

While Mrs. Vanderbeek was away the robber got in his fine work. He first operated in Mr. Vanderbeek's bedroom and a more completely ransacked room one could not find. The bureau drawers were pulled out and papers of more or less value were scattered about the floor. On the bureau there stood a jewel box containing many valuable little pieces of gold and silver in the shape of scarf pins, buttons, etc. These were all taken, as well, in fact, as everything that had the slightest value attached to it.

From this room the thief went to the room occupied by Raymond Poole, a nephew of Mr. Vanderbeek, but nothing was taken here. The intruder then went to the dining room where he made another great haul. Silver and gold ware, spoons, knives, forks and money were taken. The money was hidden in a small drawer which was inside another drawer. A silver table set was also taken. This was not so valuable as regards its actual worth, but it was prized highly by the owners. The thief so thoroughly cleaned house that there was not enough left to set the table last evening for supper. Included among the things taken were many things that were presents to the couple when they were married, and on account of the association attached to them they were prized.

While all these operations were going on Mr. Vanderbeek's six year-old boy was playing across the street with Frank Bailey and another lad. They noticed a strange man come down the street, whose pockets seemed to be filled to the limit. The boys stopped playing ball to watch him. He went down Duer street to Lincoln place where he turned. At the corner of Duer street and Lincoln place the man stopped and removed his coat, after which he proceeded on his journey. He walked slow and was apparently in no hurry.

When Mrs. Vanderbeek returned home about 4 o'clock she at once noticed that the back door was unlocked. When she reached her bedroom she was dumbfounded. The room was in a terrible condition. It required only a short time for her to learn of the thief's visit and word was sent to her husband. Chief Marshal Wilson was consulted at once and he is now working on the case. In his opinion the thief does not live a great way from the scene of the robbery. The robbery has also been reported to the officials of other near by places and every effort will be made to catch the guilty party.

Among the things stolen was a silver watch valued very much by Mr. Vanderbeek. It was given to him by his uncle, Andrew Vanderbeek, of this city. Mr. Vanderbeek estimates his total loss to be about $200. He says that among the missing articles there are many that could not be duplicated and which are prized more for the association attached to them than for any money value.

TURTONS FINALLY WIN.

COMPLICATED CASE ENDED IN COURT OF ERRORS AND APPEALS.

Originally it Was a Will Contest, But by the Death of John Young It Became a Suit to Recover Certain Moneys.

The Court of Errors and Appeals yesterday, by a vote of ten to one, sustained the decree of the Court of Chancery in the case of Waters B. Parrot, administrator, against James Craig, executor. This case in its different branches has now been in the courts for three or four years. Originally it was a will contest. Mrs. Catharine Craig, a few hours before her death, called Mrs. Turton to her bedside and dictated two or three lines, which Mrs. Turton wrote on a sheet of letter paper. They were as follows: "All I have and possess I give to Morgan Turton and his wife to do with as they please." Mrs. Craig signed the paper, and two nighbors were called in to witness it. The paper was executed Sunday. After Mrs. Craig's death, her nephew, John Young, in whose favor she had made two wills not long before, began a contest, R. V. Lindabury representing him, and Craig A. Marsh representing the Turtons. The court held that the paper written by Mrs. Turton and signed by Mrs. Craig was a good will and revoked the earlier wills.

During Mrs. Craig's life-time she was in the habit of handing moneys to Mr. Young, which moneys Young deposited in a savings bank in his name as trustee for Catharine Craig. He had deposited in this way about $3,500, but had drawn it all out and spent it on himself in the life-time of Catharine Craig. After the Turtons won in the will case, they demanded of Young that he account for the money which he had spent. Young replied that Mrs. Craig had made him presents of these moneys as she had a right to. Young died suddenly and the Turtons then brought suit in the Court of Chancery against his executor. This suit was brought by Mr. Marsh for the Turtons and defended by Charles H. Hartshorne, Esq., of Jersey City for the Young estate. The Turtons were successful in the Court of Chancery, and the Young estate took an appeal to the Court of last resort. The appeal was decided yesterday in favor of the Turtons, with costs.

COLORED RECRUITS.

Eleven Dusky Patriots Will Join a West Virginia Artillery.

Sergeant William Holmes, colored, of the Twenty-second Regiment, West Virginia Artillery, is in this city this week looking for volunteers for the government to form a colored regiment. This morning he took away the first detachment, numbering 11, to Newark, where they will be examined and mustered in. A Mr. Black, who has authority from Captain Jenkson, of Newark, to enlist another colored regiment, is also in town today, and will leave sometime tonight with what recruits he can raise.

EARLY CLOSING A SUCCESS.

Local Merchants Will Shut Up Shop at 7 P. M. After July 4th.

Horace Sherwin, H. Schwed and F. T. Woodhull, the committee from the Board of Trade who have the early closing of the stores in charge, met this morning after having interviewed the merchants and gave their report.

All the dry goods men, the gentlemen's furnishing stores and the clothiers have agreed to close at 7 o'clock through the summer, beginning July 5th, and lasting until Sept. 1st, Saturdays excepted.

Death of Capt. Simpson.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, June 21.—The death of Capt. James A. Simpon, one of the most respected and best known citizens, occurred this morning from heart disease. Capt Simpson was engaged in the ship chandling business in New York, and had been ill for sometime. He was fifty years of age. He was an active worker in the Methodist church of this place. He leaves a widow and two daughters. The funeral will be held Thursday evening from his late home on Ross avenue at 8 o'clock.

Hot Reception for Burglars.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scoteh Plains, June 21.—Burglars attempted to gain an entrance into E. L. Hand's Central Hotel yesterday morning at 2 o'clock. Mr. Hand was awakened by the sound of someone attempting to open a window in the rear of the building. He rushed to the window in time to see two fleeting figures. He fired at them with his revolver but did not hit them.

Enlisted in the Cavalry.

John LeMaire, who was until yesterday a clerk in J. P. Laire's hardware store, yesterday enlisted at Elizabeth in the Sixth U. S. Cavalry.

DR. YERKES' TRIBUTE TO COL. CASE'S LIFE.

Solemn and Impressive Services at the Dead Man's Bier.

ELABORATE FLORAL PIECES.

LARGE DELEGATION OF GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS PRESENT.

Dr. Yerkes Spoke Consoling Words to the Bereaved and Drew an Inspiration for the Living From the Exemplary Life That the Deceased Had Lived—Baptist Deacons as Pallbearers.

Solemn and impressive were the funeral services held yesterday afternoon in honor of Colonel Rufus King Case at his late residence on East Ninth street. The beautiful June day, the scent of many flowers, the presence of many warm friends and the tender words of song, prayer and address, united in paying the last honors to a man whom all Plainfield held in highest respect, and who will be sadly missed in social and church circles, as well as in the government office where he served so efficiently and so faithfully for over thirty years.

The service began at 5 o'clock and was conducted by Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, in whose church, the First Baptist, Colonel Case was for many years an honored member and an earnest worker. Dr. Yerkes read a selection from the Scriptures, which included comforting words concerning death, the future life and God's care for His own. A choir composed of Mrs. H. E. Rider, Miss Blair, Miss Needham, Miss Nancy Randolph, L. H. Biglow, Jr., Chas. W. McCutchen and B. T. Barnes, then sang with much feeling the beautiful hymn beginning "Go to the grave in all thy glorious prime" This was followed by an earnest, sympathetic address by Dr. Yerkes. The text was that beautiful word of the Lord Christ's: "Be of Good Cheer; I Have Overcome the World."

The doctor gave a brief account of the important events in Colonel Case's life, his enlistment at the age of 21, promotions for meritorious conduct, and his long service in his responsible government position. He united with the church at the age of 14, kept the faith amid the temptations of military life, and entered upon religious work with new zeal at the close of the war, becoming finally superintendent of the Sunday-school and deacon of the church. His character was well summed up by his pastor and friend, who described him as of discreet judgment, brave but modest, profoundly conscientious, of firm principle and religious belief, steadfast to duty, devoted to the service of his Master—a man whose life was a definition of consecration. The doctor spoke warmly of the influence of such a life, and then closed with a few tender words of comfort and cheer addressed to the bereaved family.

The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful. A large cross, with a pillow at the foot, was the gift of Col. Case's late associates in the quartermaster's department. Other beautipillows were from his children and from Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., of which he was a member. A floral harp came from the Exempt Firemen's Association, and an exquisite broken column of flowers from the officers and teachers of the First Baptist Sunday-school. There were also a large number of floral offerings from relatives and friends.

The following officials from the Quartermaster's Department in New York, where Col. Case was Chief Clerk, were present: General R. M. Batchelder, Quartermaster-General, U. S. A., retired; Captain C. M. Littell, Assistant Quartermaster; C Bollinger, Chief Clerk, property branch; Major W. Ewald, Chief Clerk, transportation branch; Thomas Ryan, transportation branch; George F. Otis, J. Pressler, E. W. McLaughlin, Geo. W. F. Randolph, M. B. Lovejoy, B. D. Creighton, T. E. Brown, C. B. Brown, J. B. Hodges, T. J. Stedman, property branch; Capt. Alex Sutorius, A. Noble, store keeper; J. Peacock, property branch.

Interment was made at Hillside cemetery, this morning. The bearers were L. W. Serrell, Sr., Dr. J. B. Probasco, George F. Brown, E. L. Bonny, George Batchelor and L. W. Randolph.

A $5,000 Residence.

Hugh McDonald, of Park avenue, has begun the erection of a $5,000 house on his lot next to the brook. Mr. McDonald has done a great deal to improve the appearance of that part of the city.

—The second dance of the season will be given at Vail Brothers' Wheelmen's Rest, at Pumptown, Wednesday evening.

FREEDOM IS DECLARED

But Insurgents Will Not Be Permitted to Take Manila.

AGUINALDO IS PRESIDENT

Foreigners Leaving on Neutral Ships—Admiral Montejo Accused of Cowardice—Steamer Advices Say Iloilo Has Been Captured—Merritt May Sail on the Philadelphia—No Help from Germany.

Manila, June 17, via Hong Kong, June 21.—The situation here is unchanged. The insurgents are unable to take Manila owing to their lack of field guns.

They could not take it even if Admiral Dewey permitted, which he will not.

The report that the United States transports from San Francisco had been sighted is not correct. They are expected on June 20.

All the foreigners are leaving in neutral ships.

Independence Declared by Insurgents.

Chicago, Ill., June 21.—A special cable to the Record from John T. McCutcheon, a staff correspondent with Dewey's fleet, reads as follows:

Hong Kong, June 20.—General Filipino officially proclaimed a provisional government in Old Cavite June 12. There were great ceremonies and a declaration of independence was read, renouncing Spanish authority. General Aguinaldo was elected president and Daniel Perindo vice president. The insurgent government will not oppose an American protectorate or occupation.

More Insurgent Victories.

The rebels have captured the Spanish governor and the garrison of 300 men at Bulucan. The governor and garrison at Pampanga are surrounded and the governor and garrison of 450 men have been captured at Batangas.

On June 9 the family of Governor General Augusti fled to the interior for safety. The Spaniards in Manila are reported as having shot thirty carbineeros for attempting to desert to the rebels. Aguinaldo sent an ultimatum to the governor that if more were executed he would retaliate on Spanish prisoners.

The Baltimore sailed yesterday to meet the Charleston and troopships.

The French warship Pascal arrived June 15. The German warship Kaiser is expected daily.

No Help Expected from Germany.

Madrid, June 21.—In the course of conversation Monday a prominent politician said he did not believe that Germany would do anything in the Philippines on behalf of Spain. Nor had he any faith in help from the European powers.

"If Admiral Camara is successful in the Philippines," he said, "it will be of assistance to Spain in adjusting peace; but no power or combination of powers is likely to oppose America's policy. Should the Liberals retire, the next government will take the earliest opportunity to negotiate for peace."

A Fleet of Cripples.

Dublin, June 21.—The Freeman's Journal says that three English engineering experts who went to Cadiz to examine and report the condition of Admiral Camara's squadron found things in a frightful state of disorganization.

The Cadiz arsenal and the ships of the squadron were defective in almost every particular, the latter especially having been grossly neglected. This they found to be particularly true in respect to the ships' engines, the power of which was greatly impaired. The vessels were also short of ammunition and armament. These deficiencies were not capable of being remedied at Cadiz owing to the absence of modern appliances.

Miss Barton Has the Money.

New York, June 21.—Mr. August Belmont, the banker, said yesterday that the $5,000 sent by the French Red Cross Society to Miss Clara Barton had remained in his hands for some time owing to the absence from the country of Miss Barton. However, the money had finally been transferred on Miss Barton's order, to her bankers, Riggs & Co. The money was not sent to the relief committee, but to Miss Barton, and that is why the relief committee has not received it. Miss Barton has the money and no doubt the French Red Cross Society will get her receipt in due time.

Ohio Republicans.

Columbus, O., June 21.—The Republican state convention meets here today. General Grosvenor will be temporary chairman. There is a contest between Hanna and McKisson delegates from Cuyahoga county.

The nominations are to be one candidate for judge of the supreme court, clerk of supreme court, dairy and food commissioner, secretary of state and member of the board of public works. All are to be renominations except the latter.

Y. M. C. A. Hall for Williams.

Williamstown, Mass., June 21.—Philip M. Brown, chairman of the student committee on the proposed Young Men's Christian Association building, announced yesterday that the students had already pledged themselves or had secured $7,300 of the $10,000 needed for the endowment fund for the new building.

A Chicago Grain Decision.

Chicago, June 21.—A decision handed down by the Illinois supreme court yesterday backs up the board of trade in its fight on the grain warehouse men. The board has contended that public warehouse men cannot legally deal in grain. The decision of the lower court in favor of the board is sustained.

The Yellow Fever Cases.

Washington, June 21.—Yesterday's official dispatches regarding the yellow fever situation continued favorable. There have been no new cases reported since the first discovery at McHenry.

THE INVADING ARMY.

No Official Intelligence Has Yet Been Received.

Port Antonio, June 21.—The transports carrying the invading expedition under General Shafter were sighted off Cape Maysi Sunday. It is certain, therefore, that they arrived at Santiago de Cuba yesterday.

Washington, June 21.—No doubt is entertained at enther the war or navy departments that General Shafter's military expedition has arrived off Santiago.

It is believed that the first of the transports arrived near the blockading fleet on Saturday night. According to the plans arranged for the debarkation, the fleet of transports was to lie in a safe place until Rear Admiral Sampson had cleared the way for a landing.

The selection of the landing place has been left entirely to the judgment of Rear Admiral Sampson and General Shafter, the military commander, and the first business in order, upon the arrival of the transports off Santiago, would be a war council between Admiral Sampson and some of his naval captains on the one hand and Major General Shafter and his staff on the other, the purpose being to settle all the details of the debarkation.

Meanwhile, the fleet of transports would lie out at sea at least ten miles beyond the blockading squadron, in order to be entirely safe from attack by Spanish torpedo boats, against which a transport would be absolutely helpless, necessitating the strictest watch by the convoys until the trops are landed. The present is regarded as the most critical moment in the whole operation.

The work of debarking the troops is not to be one of hours, but rather of days, according to the opinion of army officers. A great deal depends on the point selected for the landing. It was thought that Aguadores, to the east of Morro Castle, about six or eight miles, would be a likely landing in view of the fact that it has a wharf, the property of an iron ore company, which would be extremely useful for landing the heavy supplies and ordnance of the siege train.

The army officials feel confident that General Shafter will make an effort to open cable communication as soon as he has landed a force, and they are expecting a cable dispatch at almost any moment announcing the fact that he has succeeded. Some surprise is expressed that the French cable has not already been reopened, as the cable steamer was at Mole St. Nicholas the middle of last week with all of the necessary material and men for repairing the breaks and opening up the station.

College Crews All Ready.

Gales Ferry, June 21.—The 'varsity crews of Yale, Harvard and Cornell, which will take part in the four-mile race on Wednesday afternoon, have now finished their training. All the final touches of the coaches have been put on and nothing remains to be done except for the crews to practice racing starts and keep in condition by doing a little paddling to-day. The same is practically true of the freshman eights who are to compete on Thursday. The interest in the 'varsity race has, as usual, shoved these boys into the background, but they will, nevertheless, furnish an interesting race, probably just as close and hard fought as the 'varsity contest.

The one great unknown quantity in the 'varsity race is Cornell. The fact that the Ithacans did all their training at Ithaca and have not rowed four miles on time since they came to the Thames has made it impossible to get any satisfactory estimate of the speed o fthe Cornel boat. The only way in which it is possible to rate Cornell is by comparison of her present eight with the eight which won for her last year at Poughkeepsie. Judged in this way there is no doubt that Cornell has just as good a crew this year and perhaps better than she had last year. Various hard luck stories have come from Ithaca regarding the misfortunes with which Cornell has met in the development of her present eight. All of these stories have been exploded since Cornell reached the Thames.

A RAFFLE FOR SOULS.

A Peculiar Notice in a Catholic Church in Mexico.

The Rev. Francis S. Borton, a missionary in Pueblo, Mex., says, in the Christian Endeavor World, that he recently saw the following notice in a Roman Catholic church in Mexico:

"Raffle for Souls—At the last Raffle for Souls the following numbers obtained the prize, and the lucky holders may be assured that their loved ones are forever released from the flames of purgatory:

"Ticket 841—The soul of the lawyer James Vasquey is released from purgatory and ushered into heavenly joys.

"Ticket 41—The soul of Mme. Calderon is made happy forever.

"Ticket 762—The soul of the aged widow Francisca de Parras is forever released from the flames of purgatory.

"Another raffle for souls will be held at this same blessed Church of the Redeemer on January 1, at which four bleeding and tortured souls will be released from purgatory to heaven, according to the four highest tickets in this most holy lottery. Tickets, $1. To be had of the father in charge. Will you, for the poor sum of $1, leave your loved ones to burn in purgatory for ages?"

Considerate Arab Widow.

When an Arab woman is tired of widowhood and desires to marry again, she goes the night before the wedding to her husband's tomb and prays him not to be offended. To make quite sure of his forgiveness, she brings with her two large goatskins, filled with water, and with these she waters the grave, that the refreshing liquid may soak down to the defunct husband's bones. Having thus done all she can to propitiate his spirit, she goes off with a good courage to start life again as a wife.

Inclined to Fret.

It is a great misfortune to have a fretful disposition. It takes the fragrance out of one's life. The habit of fretting is one that grows rapidly, unless it be sternly repressed.

THE CUBAN BLOCKADE

Reports of Insurgent Messengers From Havana.

HIGH PRICES FOR PRODUCE

Food is Scarce and the Army on Half Rations—Work on the Defences Continues Uninterruptedly—Conditions at Cardenas. Fortifications Being Strengthened—Reports of Vessels Entering the Harbor With Supplies False.

Key West, Fla., June 21.—A vessel arrived here from the Cuban blockade yesterday and reported all quiet along the line. She brought an officer of the Cuban army and a pilot, who are carrying important dispatches to Senor Estrada Palma of the Cuban junta from General Alexandro Rodriguez, the insurgent commander of Havana province.

The Cubans were taken on board last Saturday from an auxiliary gunboat which had picked them up. They give a very interesting account of their experiences. After leaving the insurgent camp they made their way into the city of Havana, spent several days there, proceeded to one of the small inlets in the neighborhood, stole a small boat and rowed out to sea in the hope of coming across an American vessel. They were three days in the boat before they were picked up.

The Cubans report that there are no supplies of rice, maize, potatoes or eggs in Havana. Flour, they say, costs fifty cents per pound, and the army has been placed on half rations.

The Cubans also report that lard is selling at Havana at 50, rice at 20, beans at 25, and meat at 75 cents per pound, and all are scarce, and they say that all horses of private families, stores and livery stables have been confiscated by order of General Arolas, the military governor of Havana, for the use of the troops. There is hardly any traffic in the streets of Havana, and groups of more than two persons are not allowed to loiter on street corners. The Ferro Carril Urbano, or Street Railway Company, whose cars are drawn by horses, are obliged to run a car every hour instead of every five minutes as heretofore, as the horses of the company have been taken by the government.

The messengers class as false the reports that vessels have succeeded in entering Havana with supplies. They assert that since the blockade began only three small fishing vessels have entered the harbor and that no food whatever is received from Cienfuegos.

The Cubans confirm the reports that work on the defences of Havana is proceeding steadily. Two lines of torpedoes extend across the mouth of the harbor, which is said to be further protected by two automobile torpedoes, one at each side, dischargeable by pressing a button. The only war vessel in the harbor of Havana are small gunboats and the Alfonso XII.

The Spanish vessels in Havana harbor are the Conde de Venadito, Neuva Espana, Vincente Yanez Pinzon and Alfonso XII, the last named being used as a hospital ship. No other gunboats or converted tugs are in port.

An auxiliary gunboat off Cardenas has been visited by a Cuban officer from the shore, who reported that place to be effectively besieged by the insurgents on land and by the warships in front. He made the statement that in two weeks' time the whole population of Cardenas will be starving. The Cuban officer has his father and wife in Cardenas and he was concerned for them. He described the people as living on palm buds and on dog meat, which he claimed is considered a delicacy.

The vessel which arrived here yesterday has been patrolling a regular beat off the Cuban coast, "just like a policeman," going back and forth during the day and night. Sometimes she saw Spanish troops moving about, but on the whole the blockade was uneventful.

It is also reported that there are 3,600 armed Cubans in Havana province pitted against 50,000 well equipped Spaniards.

The health of the Cubans in Havana province is excellent. Their camp is situated at Zonca.

THE YOUKON GOLD FIELDS.

Report of an Engineer on the All-Canadian Route.

Montreal, June 21.—J. R. Roy, resident engineer of the Dominion government, who was sent up with Mr. Coste, the chief engineer of the public works department, to examine the all-Canadian route to the Yukon, has returned to Victoria, B. C., and reports the Stickeen to be a fine body of water, which steamers drawing not more than thirty or forty inches of water and having powerful enough engines may navigate for six months in the year. The trouble this season has been, he says, that several steamers with engines not powerful enough have attempted to ascend the river. The government boat Sampson, sent to remove obstructions, could only ascend seventy-five miles, but beyond the work will be carried on from large Indian canoes.

The Yale Battery.

New Haven, June 21.—It is stated officially that the battery containing the Yale volunteers will soon be sent South to a school of instruction, and that every effort will be made later to send it to the front. There are fifty-one Yale men in the battery, and yesterday a recruiting office was opened here to enlist, if possible, as many more.

Ammunition and Supplies for Spanish.

London, June 21.—A dispatch from Paris says that an Austrian agent has returned from Madrid, where he delivered to the Spanish authorities, via the Pyrenees, three million empty cartridges and 120 tons of explosives, derived from the French, Austrian and Belgian sources.

The Kaiser Wilhelm Delayed.

Southampton, June 21.—The North German Lloyd steamer Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, Captain Engelbart, has arrived here from Bremen, with a damaged rudder, and is in dry dock having it repaired. She will proceed to New York on Friday.

Stories of the Street.

Plainfield People are Talking About it on Every Corner.

It is sometimes an easy matter to fool the public, but you can't keep it up very long. They are sure to find you out; and every time a man is fooled another skeptic is made. Skepticism is allowable when reading in a home newspaper about some incident occuring in San Francisco or Iowa, but the circumstances are entirely different when it refers to some one right here at home, friends and neighbors, people you know, whom you can see, and with whom you talk it over. This is the kind of evidence at the back of Doan's Kidney Pills—home statements by home people, and the astonishing local work they have been doing has caused more talk among our citizens than the doings of any other modern wonder. Read the following:

Mr. Richard Day, of 134 E. Front St., says: "I have been troubled at times with symptoms of kidney complaint for the last four years. My chief difficulty was a miserable pain across my back and a sort of lame feeling over my kidneys. Standing any length of time or walking any distance aggravated it greatly. I have never been sick much in my life and consequently have never taken much medicine, so when I first began having these attacks I paid but little attention to them. They however grew worse instead of better so I had to look about for a remedy. I had read quite frequently in our papers about cures brought about by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills so I got a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store and after taking them I felt greatly relieved. I have recommended them to my friends and those who have used them speak very highly in their praise. I consider that Doan's Kidney Pills are a splendid remedy for complaints like mine."

PUBLIC NOTICE.

County of Union } ss.
City of Plainfield }

Public notice is hereby given that application by petition has been made to the Mayor and Common Council of the City of Plainfield for the consent of said Mayor and Common Council of the City of Plainfield to construct, operate and maintain a street railway upon the following streets and avenues in said city of Plainfield: East Second street from Watchung avenue to the present terminus of East Second street, between Leland avenue and Netherwood avenue; thence over a private right of way in continuation of said East Second street to the line of the City of Plainfield in Terrill road; and in Richmond street from East Fifth street to East Second street. That said petition has been presented by the Plainfield Street Railway Company, a corporation organized under the laws of this State. That said petition was filed with the Clerk of the City of Plainfield on the 6th day of June, eighteen hundred and ninety-eight. The road intended to be constructed, operated and maintained is either a single track street railway or a double track street railway, and the motive power to be used thereon is electricity to be supplied from overhead wires, supported by poles, and the streets through which the same shall extend are as above mentioned.

The Common Council of the City of Plainfield has fixed Thursday, the thirtieth day of June, eighteen hundred and ninety-eight, at eight o'clock in the evening, as the time, and the Council Chamber, No. 100 Park avenue, in the said City of Plainfield, as the place, at which said Common Council will consider said application and will give a public hearing to all persons interested therein.

A DEBATE ON HAWAII.

The Question of Annexation is Brought Before the Senate.

Washington, June 21.—In the Senate yesterday, ten minutes after the session opened, Mr. Davis of Minnesota, chairman of the committee on foreign relations, moved that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the Hawaiian annexation resolution.

The quick disposition of morning business and the large attendance in the Senate indicated an intention on the part of the senators to press the Hawaiian question to the front as rapidly as possible.

In answer to an inquiry from Mr. Hoar of Massachusetts, Mr. Davis said it was the purpose of the foreign relations committee to occupy not only the morning hour, but the entire time of the Senate in the consideration of the question of Hawaiian annexation. "The committee," said he, "considers this a most important measure, to which it is very desirable to give prompt attention. Of course there will be no disposition to unnecessarily impede other business, but we regard it necessary to press this measure to the exclusion of ordinary matters."

Mr. Hoar said he desired simply to obtain time at an early date to have considered the conference report on the bankruptcy bill and he hoped that there would be no objection to its consideration.

After minor business the vice president declared the Hawaiian resolution to be before the Senate.

Senators Davis and Frye spoke in favor of the measure and Senator Morrill in opposition.

HOW CUBA GETS SUPPLIES.

Regular Service from the Isle of Pines—Plans to Break It Up.

Washington, June 21.—The navy department has received information that the Spanish military forces in Havana province are not so greatly in need of food and supplies as has been for some time believed by the government authorities in Washington. It is learned that subsistence supplies are being received constantly from the Isle of Pines, after having been landed there from Jamaica. Between the Isle of Pines and the southern coast of Cuba the water is shoal, but between the Isle and Jamaica deep water makes navigation possible with the largest ships.

The navy department has learned on good authority that a regular line of light draught ferries has been established between the Isle of Pines and Cuba, and that supplies from Jamaica have been repeatedly landed in the provinces of Cuba, particularly in Havana, where the principal forces are located. Plans are now being made to break up Spain's communication between the Isle of Pines and Cuba, and between the smaller island and Jamaica.

Serious Riots in China.

Tacoma, June 21.—Oriental advices received here tell of a piratical raid sixty miles above Canton. Pirates boarded a Chinese steamer at Canton as passengers, and, reaching a favorable place, attacked the crew, which resisted, and after several hours' fighting drove them from the boat.

The steamer drifted ashore during the struggle, and had not been floated several days later.

Serious rioting is reported from Shashi, China. The customs station was burned and the commissioner of customs had been made away with. The British consulate was attacked and the flag staff torn down and the flag torn to pieces. The building was burned to the ground.

Reports from Canton state that the grave diggers are not able to keep up with the death list from the ravages of the plague.

Prince Kung, a member of the royal family, is reported to have died at Peking on May 29. The news is credited by Chinese and Japanese papers.

SMOKELESS POWDER EXPLOSION.

Supposed Work of Spanish Spies Near Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, June 21.—Sunday night the smokeless powder finishing house at King's Mills, twenty miles northeast of Cincinnati, was completely destroyed by an explosion. The building contained 200 kegs of finished smokeless powder, said to have been made for the government. Several days ago the company received word from the government that Spanish spies were in Cincinnati. The force of watchmen was increased. A stranger, who is accused of applying the fuse, is the only person hurt. He is now in the custody of the sheriff at Lebanon, Warren county. He is of foreign descent, and is believed to be a Spaniard or in Spain's employ.

More Troops for Santiago.

Washington, June 21.—The Harvard and the Yale, formerly the American liners New York and Paris, will be ready to sail from Newport News, Va., this week, with troops to reinforce Gen. Shafter at Santiago de Cuba. One of the vessels will be prepared to sail on Wednesday and the other on the following Saturday.

Wind Storm in Western New York.

Middleport, N. Y., June 21.—A terrific wind storm struck Niagara and Orleans counties early Sunday morning. The storm travelled in a belt three miles wide and seventy miles long. In Orleans county hundreds of orchards were entirely destroyed. The damage will reach many thousands of dollars.

Spanish Prisoners in the Philippines.

Hong Kong, June 21.—A steamer which has just arrived from Manila, says the insurgents now hold four thousand Spaniards and one thousand native prisoners with their arms.

WILL NOT FREE HOBSON

Blanco Refuses to Exchange Prisoners of War.

NO TRUCE FLAG RESPECTED

Commodore Watson Receives Word from Blanco—Heavy Shells Fired at Our Warships—Blanco's Motions Are a Puzzle to Washington Authorities—May Be Holding Hobson to Exchange for Some Other Prisoners We Are Likely to Capture Soon.

Washington, June 21.—The following was received yesterday from Commodore Watson, commanding the vessels blockading the northern coast of Cuba, and undoubtedly relates to the negotiations for the exchange of Lieutenant Hobson and his fellow prisoners of the Merrimac:

"Captain general states Spanish government refuses to exchange prisoners."

The absorbing topic at the navy department is the action of Spain in the Hobson case, which although strictly within her rights, is an extraordinary proceeding. Secretary Long, when on his way to the White House for a long conference with the president, said that he had official confirmation of the report that the Spanish authorities had refused to exchange Hobson and his men. It could not be ascertained that any reasons were assigned for the refusal, and it set all the department guessing. The prevailing opinion was that the Spaniards had learned what a popular idol Hobson had become in the United States and were proposing to hold him for exchange for some Spanish prisoners of very much higher rank possibly Admiral Cervera himself.

The theory that the appearance of a half-masted flag over Morro Castle at Santiago was a sign of Hobson's death receives scant consideration in military circles here. In the first place it is very generally believed that Hobson and his companions are not in the castle. In the second place the idea that the Spanish authorities would half mast their flag for the death of a prisoner is not accepted. In the third place the notion that the Spaniards would harm him and his companions deliberately, or permit any harm to come to them which could possibly be prevented, would be contrary to all the usages of civilized warfare in which the enemies' officers, at least, if not the common soldiers, are well trained.

It was freely predicted of the navy department yesterday that if the Hobson party had been deliberately exposed to our fire, or if anything else, equally inhuman, had been done to them with fatal results, it would be Rear Admiral Sampson's way to act without waiting for orders from Washington, and if he captured the Spanish officer who was responsible for the outrage to hang him without ceremony.

Key West, Fla., June 21.—It is learned from naval officers here that Captain General Blanco has notified the American blockading fleet that hereafter he will recognize no flag of truce, adding that every vessel within six miles' range will be fired upon whether flying the Stars and Stripes or a white flag.

A United States vessel which arrived here yesterday morning from the blockade reports that Morro Castle keeps firing heavy shells at the blockading squadron and it is not believed such accurate shots can be fired by Spanish gunners. On Friday a 12-inch shell exploded dangerously close to the American warships, raising a column of water and smoke over 100 feet high.

Peace Prospects at Madrid.

Madrid, June 21.—The newspapers say the cabinet, at its meeting Sunday, discussed the "peace tendencies observable in the United States and in certain personages in Spain." But the newspapers assert that this country, Spain, will "unanimously repudiate unworthy conditions," adding that peace is only possible "if the conditions are honorable and include the retention of the colonies."

The ministers deny the renewed rumors of cabinet dissensions and the reported resignation of the minister of finance, Senor Puigcerver. It is understood that there will be no changes in the ministry until the Cortes suspends its sittings, which will depend upon the voting of the budget, which will probably take place at the end of this week. In the meanwhile the cabinet will refuse to enter into any discussion of the war or the international situation, as being likely to impair the government's liberty of action.

Government circles affect satisfaction at the situation in Cuba, but, in regard to Manila, the belief is expressed that Captain General Augusti will ask the foreign warships to land detachments to occupy Manila, on the ground that he is no longer able to resist the insurgents.

Paying New York Troops.

Chickamauga, June 21.—The most important happening of yesterday at Camp Thomas was the arrival of Gen. Healy and staff of New York to pay the troops of that state for services before being mustered in as United States volunteers.

Gen. Healy, the chief paymaster, had been long expected and anxiously awaited by the New Yorkers, and his arrival was the signal for unbounded enthusiasm. As soon as the pay rolls can be put in shape a work which is now progressing rapidly, all four of the New York regiments will be paid.

The first paid will be the Eighth infantry. Col. Henry V. Sackett of Gov. Black's staff arrived Sunday and arranged with Colonel Chauncey the pay roll of the Eighth. The total to go to the New Yorkers will be about $150,000.

Generals Named.

Washington, June 21.—The president yesterday sent the following nominations to the Senate:

War—To be brigadier generals, Adel- of Massachusetts, Joseph W. ew Jersey.
n E. Hopley of Ohio to be uthampton, England.

OUR SHIPS AT ILOILO.

The Boston and Concord Said to Have Taken Possession.

Victoria, B. C., June 21.—According to news from Manila by the Esmeralda, which, after considerable trouble, was given permission by Americans and Spaniards to sail to the United States, the steamers Boston and Concord left on May 12 to attack Iloilo.

The cruisers are reported to have reached the point without resistance and to have taken possession in the name of the United States.

The American coal-laden ship Saranac, which was seized by the Spanish gunboat El Cano, was recaptured. She was anchored in the stream without a person on board, the prize crew left on board by the Spaniards having deserted here when the American warships hove in sight.

NICARAGUA CANAL.

A Bill Agreed Upon by the Senate Committee.

Washington, June 21.—The Senate committee on the Nicaraguan canal yesterday agreed to report a bill providing for the construction of the Nicaraguan canal, but on lines very different from those of bills previously reported. The bill authorized yesterday practically provides for the construction of the canal by the United States. The Maritime Canal Company is to be continued in existence, but all the stock is to be held by the government of the United States, Nicaragua and Costa Rica. The bill provides for the payment of $5,000,000 to the present stockholders for the work already performed.

INTERNAL REVENUE RECEIPTS.

Increase Over Last Year of $3,000,000 in the May Collections.

Washington, June 21.—The monthly internal revenue statement shows that the May collections amounted to $14,098,117, an increase over May last year of $3,281,225. The receipts from the several sources of revenue and the increases, as compared with May, 1897, are as follows:

Spirits, $7,096,460; increase, $1,988,057; tobacco, $3,754,062; increase, $1,018,759; fermented liquors, $3,131,505; increase, $247,887; oleomargarine, $88,014; increase, $23,712; miscellaneous, $28,074; increase, $4,962.

The net increase in the receipts during the last eleven months was 19,938,808.

The Wheat Crop Abroad.

London, June 21.—The "Marke Lane Express," in its weekly review of the crop situation, says:

"The warmer weather comes in time to help the wheat, which has reached the critical caring stage, but the most which can be hoped for is an increased acreage, to balance the decrease in the yield.

Rust has invaded the wheat fields of France and heavy rains have laid the corn in entire departments; but it is still hoped that there will be an average crop.

There are good reports from Russia, both of the Asima and Ghirka sowings."

Earthquake in Tennessee.

Knoxville, Tenn., June 21.—Three distinct earthquake shocvks were felt in this region Sunday afternoon, coming one minute apart and lasting two, four and three seconds respectively. There was a swaying movement from west to east, which was not noticed by persons in the business part of the city. Reports from Ducktown, Kingston, Crossville, Steedville, Newport and Erwin show that the earthquake was general over eastern Tennessee. It was also felt at Big Stone Gap, Va.

California Town Burned.

Tracey, Cal., June 21.—A fire caused by the explosion of a gasoline stove destroyed the entire business portion of this town, which consisted of three blocks of closely connected buildings. The wind blew a gale and the efforts of the citizens to stay the course of the flames were of no avail. The residence portion of the town escaped damage, and is all of Tracey now remaining. The total loss is about $87,000; partly insured.

Spaniards Put Out Their Lights.

Washington, June 21.—Consul Sprague at Gibraltar reports to the state department that official notice has been received by the Gibraltar authorities that the Malaga, Torrox, Velex, Estepona, Motril, Cartagena and Escombrera lighthouses have been darkened by order of the Spanish government until further notice.

Elevator and Wool Storehouse Burned.

Owosso, Mich., June 21.—The elevator and wool storehouse of F. E. Close & Co., at Byron was destroyed by fire Sunday, together with 3,000 bushels of beans and $4,000 worth of wool. The loss is $25,000, with $15,000 insurance. A number of Ann Arbor freight cars that were standing on the track were also burned.

Opera House Burns Down.

Albuquerque, N. M., June 21.—Fire has practically destroyed the Grand Opera House building in this city, causing a loss approximating $200,000. The building contained many offices, the contents of which were totally destroyed. Insurance on building and contents amounted to $127,000.

Hundreds Have Died

Key West, June 21.—Messages from Havana say that the condition of the Pacificos about Havana is wretched. Hundreds have died of late. The government has sent many to the country.

The Cubans have allowed them to raise vegetables and their condition is now much improved.

Picnic Party in a Collision.

St. Louis, Mo., June 21.—A picnic party returning from Benton Park in a wagon Sunday night collided with a street car on the Southern Electric Railroad. Three men were probably fatally injured.

Still No French Cabinet.

Paris, June 21.—M. Dupuy having failed in his efforts to form a ministry, M. Sarrien has undertaken the task, and hopes to construct a cabinet by Thursday.

Russian Progress.

A paper by Julian Ralph in Harper's Magazine on the stir and activity of the Russian nation in recent years is well worth reading and thinking about. When Russia wishes to gain advantages westward, in Europe, she must go about it in a secret, burrowing, diplomatic way. In the other direction, on the Asiatic side, however, she moves boldly and carelessly. Her object is the gaining of new territory, the development of her own resources and the increase of her army and navy and her commerce. To achieve these ends her statesmen work sleeplessly, her generals move onward ruthlessly.

Mr. Ralph furnishes various portraits of Russian statesmen, military men and others. Along with these he gives pages of facts and figures going to show the gigantic forward strides of the czar's empire among the nations of the earth. Russia simply takes possession without hindrance or scruple of all that lies in her path. She has already annexed the seventh part of this globe and the dream of all intelligent Russians is that "sooner or later they are to absorb all Asia down to and including India."

We can well understand this spirit, looking at the striking portraits of Russians in the article, men powerful, fearless, aggressive and intellectual, overflowing with the prophetic spirit of a great destiny. Are the Russians, after all, the coming race?

Spain's habitual juggling with words as well as with common honesty is nowhere more manifest than in her pronunciamento in regard to privateering. Her war vessels, the document says, will not attack neutral flags carrying the enemy's merchandise except the merchandise be articles contraband of war. Moreover, she will not attack the enemy's flag when it flies over neutral merchandise. Nevertheless—and here is the colored person, a very big, fat one, in the wood pile—Spain reserves to her cruisers the right of search of all vessels on the high seas and in the enemy's waters.

The American who hereafter opposes the acquiring by the United States through perfectly equitable and peaceable means of naval stations in all parts of the world, whether such acquirement involves annexation of islands or whatever it involves—that American will prove himself a traitor in the eyes of his fellow countrymen.

By the gift of $100,000 to the United States for national defenses Helen Gould has proved herself more of a patriot than most millionaire American men have done. Thus 10 per cent of one of the Jay Gould millions at any rate will be used for a noble purpose. Miss Gould may go up head.

In a letter to the New York Evening Post Mr. E. V. Smalley, advocate of municipal ownership of public enterprises, asks this question: "If a city can provide public parks, build bridges, establish hospitals and lay sidewalks, why should it not own gas plants and street railways?"

We observe in the pages of our esteemed contemporaries devoted to the interests of agriculture considerable discussion about when a lamb becomes a sheep. This order is reversed in city restaurants. There a sheep becomes a lamb, and a lamb it remains till doomsday.

GENERAL CALIXTO GARCIA.

Next to General Gomez in command of the Cuban forces is General Calixto Garcia. He has a force which is said to number about 8,000 men, fully equipped. General Garcia's field of operations is in the vicinity of Santiago de Cuba.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

The American who just now will haggle with the government to get an extortionate price for goods it needs deserves to have his pitiful little wares confiscated and to get nothing at all for them.—Plainfield, (N J) Constitutionalist.

It seems just at present that there are a great many men who think they are playing an exceedingly bright and sharp trick on the Government of the United States by either giving a short count in supplies or scant weight in provisions and not getting caught. Such men are not worth the protection which they are receiving, and to spend time in tracing out their littleness would be a waste of time.—Parsons, (Kan.) Evening Globe.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

Two women bicycle riders rode to this city Sunday and put up at a local restaurant for dinner. They were dressed in extreme bloomer style, short divided skirts, cap and all. When they went to the toilet room to rid their hands and faces of some of the dirt which they had picked up on their ride, the laundress, who mistook them for males, insisted at first upon their using the men's wash room, and raised quite a laugh before the attendant could be made to see her mistake.

George Taggart seems to be getting along swimmingly with his pen and brain in New York. Mr. Taggart's clever work in a dramatic line is a regular feature of the Dramatic Mirror every week, and not infrequently his old Plainfield friends read other literary gems from his pen that impress themselves upon the minds of the great editors as being pretty good. Now, however, George has developed into a song writer. The fact that his first work in that line is a good composition is evidenced in the announcement of the New York Journal that next Sunday its musical supplement will be made up of the touching ballad, which is entitled "Charity Begins at Home." The words are set to the music of Kerry Mills, who has gained fame by writing the music to "Let Bygones be Bygones." Mr. Taggart has the best wishes of his Plainfield friends for further success in the musical realm.

A rather laughable incident—but not without its embarrassing features to at least one of the actors—was observed at the North Avenue station a few mornings ago. When the train arrived from New York at 8:17 o'clock a short man of light build jumped off of one of the coaches and loitered around the platform for a few minutes and then engaged in conversation with some acquaintance. When the Philadelphia train, arriving at 8:48 o'clock, rolled into the station, the man of short statue hurriedly bid his friend good-bye and made a rush for the train. But he only got within a few feet of the coach when he heard the brakeman yell:

"Train for Philadelphia!"

The man halted quickly, turned and walked back towards the waiting room. It was evident that he did not want to go to Philadelphia, and had made the start for the train without knowing its destination. Just at that moment an employe of the railroad, whose duty it is to announce the destination of trains, walked by him. The latter had just called out the train inside and outside of the station, but not in stentorian tones.

"Why didn't you call out that train?" asked the short man who had made the mistake of running for it.

"I did," replied the man in the uniform.

"Well, I didn't hear you. You want to yell a little louder," said the stranger with a commanding tone.

The uniformed man looked at him as if surprised at his termerity in telling him how he should perform his duties.

"Where did you want to go, anyway?"

From the tone of the train caller's voice it was evident that he was slightly exasperated at the stranger's catechism, but the latter was not awed.

"I guess you don't know who I am, do you?" exclaimed the stranger with considerable spirit.

"No sir, I don't," was the rather brisk and unsuspecting reply.

"Well, I am H. P. Baldwin, general passenger agent of this road."

If a bolt of lightning had suddenly descended from the sunny sky and struck the latter at that moment he would not have been half as surprised and not one-tenth as much disconcerted as he was at those words.

And it was H. P. Baldwin. But the uniformed man didn't know it, and he hasn't heard the last of it yet.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials Address,

NEW YORK FASHIONS.

The patriotic American woman is showing her loyalty to her country by omitting to send her yearly order for handsome garments and dainty bonnets to her Parisian dressmaker and milliner. And the antagonistic manner which France has evinced towards the United States since the beginning of hostilities with Spain, will be extremely detrimental to the conturieres of that country in as much as thousands of American dollars are deposited in their coffers yearly by their rich patrons from the land of the free and the home of the brave.

But in spite of the all-absorbing interest of the war question the latest fashions still continue to play an important part in the daily routine of a woman's life. In fact to keep track of the changing styles is almost an impossibility. There are some exquisite patterns from Paris, however, which may be copied by the home dressmaker and which it is safe to say will prove almost if not entirely as satisfactory as the importations.

Suffice it to say therefore that all thin wool materials, including nun's veiling, albatross, challies, etamines and the like will be extremely popular this season. In wash goods ginghams dimities, organdies and grass linens still hold sway, while for evening wear silk grenadines and satin striped Brussels net is quite the newest thing and make charming and novel gowns. All the thin silks, foulards especially are included in the materials designed for summer dresses, and these soft pliable textures lend themselves very easily to fashion's whims in the tucks, shirrings and cordings which constitute such an important part in the composition of the summer frocks.

White will be worn very extensively this season and white muslin gowns for morning wear are so becoming and so easily laundered they are bound to prove fashionable. An important item in the wardrobe is the petticoat. Very few of the summer frocks are lined therefore it is imperative that the underskirt should be made with as much care as the outer one. They are cut quite long, just escaping the floor. To wear with delicate reception or evening gowns, white taffeta is the most satisfactory material to use, while lawn is a good substitute for lining simple summer frocks, as it keeps its stiffness and gives a pretty effect to thin goods.

In the matter of trimming ribbon plays a very important part. Plain and fancy, gathered and ruched it will be employed on our summer frocks Velvet ribbon is an especially dainty mode of ornamentation, and nothing could be daintier than a fine white nun's veiling dress trimmed with rows upon rows of bebe velvet ribbon. In addition to this mode of trimming embroideries, tucks and cordings and every conceivable conceit in the way of decoration will be seen.

Parasols designed for the summer girl surpass all previous years in gorgeousness and elaborate decoration There are parasols made of plain striped silks and checks to carry in the morning, but these are a small item compared with the confections designed for dressy occasions. Tiny ruffles are a popular fancy, while filmy lace chiffon and gauze will play a prominent part. Canopy tops are often seen and are one of the popular shapes. The sticks on parasols are not as thin as formerly and the club sticks with natural wood handles are novel and pretty.

Of No Consequence.

Augustus and Clara became engaged after the usual manner of young people who haven't anything else to do, and Clara manifested a disposition after some time to dissolve the tie.

"Augustus," she said one evening, "let's don't be engaged any longer."

"What's that for?" he inquired, with some surprise.

"Oh, I'm tired; and besides it was only a sham engagement on my part, anyway. Here's your ring."

"Don't trouble yourself about the ring, Clara; it's only a sham diamond anyway. I bought half a dozen for three shillings, just to use in little engagements like this. Good-bye. Don't tell any of the other girls about the ring, please."

The total cordage required for a first-rate man-of-war weighs about 80 tons.

Speyer. Die Vorstandschaft des Vereins für Volksheilstätten in der Pfalz hat über die Platzfrage jetzt in so weit entschieden, als für die Errichtung der ersten Volksheilstätte eine 380 Meter über dem Meeresspiegel gelegene Waldes-Anhöhe im südlichen Theile der Pfalz, zwischen den Dörfern Eußerthal und Dernbach in der Nähe der Bahnstation Albersweiler, in sichere Aussicht genommen ist. An freiwilligen Beiträgen sind bis jetzt etwa 100,000 Mark aufgebracht; einige pfälzische Städte, worunter Ludwigshafen, stehen mit ihren Zuwendungen noch aus.

Landau. Der Hagel, der kürzlich die Gemarkungen Maikammer und Diedesfeld betraf, hat namentlich in den Weinbergen arg gehaust. Die schönen Aussichten des Winzers sind gänzlich vernichtet. Der Schaden der Gemarkung Maikammer wird auf 1,000,000 Mark, der Schaden der Gemarkung Diedesfeld auf etwa die Hälfte geschätzt.

Württemberg.

Stuttgart. Die in der letzten Generalversammlung der „Deutschen Verlagsgesellschaft Union" vorgelegte Bilanz pro 1897 weist, nachdem auf Immobilien und Einrichtungen 82,341 Mark 26 Pfennige abgeschrieben und für die Amortisations-Reserve der Verlagswerthe und Vorräthe aller Art 300,000 Mark zurückgestellt worden sind, einen Reingewinn an den technischen Anstalten und Verlagsgeschäften von 1,099,280 Mark 72 Pfennige gegenüber 1,097,364 Mark 49 Pfennige im Vorjahr auf. Es wurde die Vertheilung einer Dividende von 10 Prozent auf die Aktien (wie in allen vorausgegangenen Geschäftsjahren) und von 5 Prozent auf die Genußscheine beschlossen.

Krailsheim. Kürzlich Nachts wurde in den Uhrenladen des Uhrmachers R. Reuß hier eingebrochen und über 90 Stück, theils neue, theils ältere Uhren gestohlen. Von dem Thäter hat man bis jetzt keine Spur.

Reutlingen. Die Wahl des Sekretärs des Stuttgarter Stadtschultheißenamtes, Amtmanns Hepp, zum hiesigen Stadtschultheiß ist bestätigt worden.

Tübingen. Dieser Tage hat sich hier in seiner Wohnung Dr. phil. Heinrich Lehmann aus Hamburg, Assistent am physikalischen Institut dasier, 36 Jahre alt, durch einen Revolverschuß in die Herzgegend getödtet. Der Unglückliche soll seit geraumer Zeit an Melancholie gelitten haben.

Ulm. Die Strafkammer verurtheilte den angesehenen Maurermeister Matthias Fischbach von Oggelsbeuren wegen Majestätsbeleidigung zu zwei Monaten Gefängniß.

Unterreichenbach. Auf der hiesigen Station wurden einer Etuismacherin aus Stammheim, welche aussteigen wollte, ehe der Zug anhielt, beide Beine am Knöchel abgefahren.

Vaihingen. Wegen 3 Mark wurde der Sohn des hiesigen Weingärtners Pfeil, der in Pforzheim in Arbeit stand, von einem seiner Kameraden erstochen. Der Unglückliche mahnte den Mörder, ihm die schon längst geliehenen 3 Mark zurückzugeben. Der rohe Bursche verließ, ohne weitere Bemerkungen zu machen, die Wirthschaft und erwartete Pfeil in der Nähe des Bahnhofs, wo er dem Ahnungslosen das Messer in's Herz stieß, daß der Getroffene bald darauf den Geist aufgab. Am anderen Morgen gestand der Mörder seine ruchlose That.

Baden.

Karlsruhe. In der Wurstfabrik von Gebrüder Hensel schraubte der Metzgerbursche F. Haibach beim Auskochen von Knochen den Deckel eines großen luftdicht verschließbaren Kessels zu fest zu. In Folge dessen explodirte der Kessel unter fürchterlichem Knall, wobei der Metzgerbursche im Gesicht und am Arm verbrüht wurde.

Heidelberg. Der von einem Hagelwetter am Himmelfahrtstag in der Gemarkung Schönau angerichtete Schaden wird auf 70,000 Mark, der Schaden in der Gemarkung Blumenthal auf 10,000 Mark geschätzt.

Konstanz. Bei der Einfahrt des Dampfbootes „Kaiser Wilhelm" in den hiesigen Hafen gerieth ein Ruderboot unter den Radkasten und kippte um, die drei Insassen, junge Leute, die eine Vergnügungsfahrt machten, stürzten in's Wasser; einer derselben, Robert Thiel aus Forst i. d. L., wurde gerettet, die beiden Anderen, Max Finke aus Görlitz und Joachim Pimpel aus Matlow, ertranken.

Mannheim. Der Neckarauer Bürgerausschuß beschloß mit 58 gegen 21 Stimmen die Einverleibung von Neckarau in die Stadtgemeinde Mannheim.—Der erste Bürgermeister Alfred Bräunig, der seit 22 Jahren hier amtirt, hat die ihm angebotene Stelle eines Bürgermeisters der Stadt Rastatt angenommen.

Elsaß-Lothringen.

Straßburg. Die Strafkammer verurtheilte den Architekten Landshut und den Vorarbeiter Jaggi zu acht beziehungsweise sechs Monaten Gefängniß auf die Anklage, den bei dem Hauseinsturz am 8. März erfolgten Tod von acht Arbeitern verschuldet zu haben.—Dieser Tage scheuten auf dem Rotmagn die Pferde einer Batterie und rasten davon. Sieben Soldaten wurden verletzt, darunter einer schwer.

Sesenheim. Massenhaft traten hier die Maikäfer auf. In acht Tagen wurden 18 Centner eingesammelt, wofür die Gemeinde 5 Pfennige pro Pfund bezahlte. Rechnet man 500 Stück auf ein Pfund, so gibt es 900,000 Maikäfer.

Luxemburg.

Luxemburg. Der Großherzog glitt neulich Abends vor dem Schlafzimmer aus und zog sich eine Verletzung des linken Hüftgelenkes zu. Komplikationen sind nicht vorhanden. Das Allgemeinbefinden ist zufriedenstellend.

PROPOSALS FOR ERECTING FIRE HOUSE

Pursuant to a resolution of the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, adopted June 6th, 1898, notice is hereby given that the Committee on Fire and Buildings will meet on Wednesday, June 29th, 1898, at 8 o'clock p. m., at the Chief Engineer's office, Fire Department Headquarters, on East Second street, in the City of Plainfield, at which time and place said Committee will receive sealed proposals for doing the work and furnishing the materials for the construction of a new fire engine house to be erected on property now owned by Elston M. French on West Fourth street, opposite Darrow avenue, in the City of Plainfield, according to the plans and specifications prepared by Edward V. French, Architect, and now on file and open to the inspection of bidders in the office of the City Clerk, No. 109 Park Avenue, Plainfield, N. J., the work to be completed on or before November 1, 1898.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals the said Committee will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided said parties or agents choose to be then and their present, and also make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Committee.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check for $300 payable to the Treasurer of the City of Plainfield.

The right to reject any or all bids is expressly reserved by the said Committee.

All proposals should be endorsed, "Proposals for fire-engine house."

STREET RAILWAY ORDINANCE.

An ordinance locating the tracks of the Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway Company on Westfield avenue and Westfield road, within the township of Fanwood, in the county of Union, and authorizing and empowering the construction and operation and maintenance of the same and granting permission for said Company to use electricity as the propelling power of its cars and prescribing the terms and conditions upon which such location of the tracks and permission are granted.

Whereas, The Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway Company, a corporation organized under the provisions of an act entitled "An act to authorize the formation of traction companies for the construction and operation of street railways, or railroads operated as street railways, and to regulate the same," approved March fourteenth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three, having first filed in the office of the Secretary of State of the State of New Jersey, a description of the routes, together with maps exhibiting the same, did present their petition or application to the Township Committee of the township of Fanwood, praying the said Township Committee of the township of Fanwood, for its consent to the construction, operation and maintenance of a street railway in the township of Fanwood, and the right to locate its tracks conformably to the route filed in the office of the Secretary of State of the State of New Jersey, which route in the township of Fanwood is upon and along Westfield avenue and Westfield road and was set out in the said petition, and

Whereas, Public notice has been duly given of such application and of the intention of the Township Committee of the township of Fanwood to consider the same by publication, also by posting a copy of the said notice in five or more of the most public places in said township of Fanwood at least fourteen days prior to the date of the meeting of the said Township Committee, and

Whereas, Upon the day fixed by said notice and upon such days as the said hearing was adjourned to, public hearing was given to all persons desiring to be heard in favor of or opposed to or in any wise interested in the said application for the location of its tracks and the said matter having been duly considered by the said Township Committee of the township of Fanwood, and the said Company having filed with the clerk of said township the consent in writing of the owners or their duly authorized legal representatives of at least one-half in amount of the lineal feet of property on said Westfield avenue and Westfield road, within the township of Fanwood, and upon which permission to locate, operate and maintain said street railway is asked.

Now, therefore, Be it ordained by the Township Committee of the township of Fanwood, as follows:

Section 1. That the tracks of the Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway Company, be, and they are hereby located in the following streets, avenues, or highways, in the said township of Fanwood, in the county of Union, to wit, as set out in the following description:

Beginning at a point in Westfield avenue where it is intersected by the centre line of Forrest road, said point being distant five hundred and twenty-nine and six-tenths feet in a magnetic course of north forty-eight degrees and forty-three minutes east from a point where Westfield avenue is intersected by the centre line of Park avenue; thence along Westfield avenue in a magnetic course of north forty-eight degrees and fifty-eight minutes east for a distance of twenty-two hundred and thirty-two feet and seventy-five hundredths of a foot to a point in Westfield road; thence along Westfield road in a course of south forty-four degrees and forty-one minutes east for a distance of nine hundred and ten feet and five-tenths of a foot to a point; thence south forty-four degrees and twenty-two minutes east for a distance of fourteen hundred and sixty-two feet and five-tenths of a foot to a point; thence south forty-four degrees and twenty-seven minutes east for a distance of four hundred and thirty feet and five hundredths of a foot to a point; thence south forty-five degrees and two minutes east five hundred and six feet and five-tenths of a foot to a point; thence south forty-five degrees and forty-three minutes east for a distance of ten hundred and forty-three feet and five-tenths of a foot to a point; thence south forty-six degrees and seventeen minutes east for a distance of nine hundred and ninety feet and fifteen hundredths of a foot to a point in the centre of North avenue where the same is intersected by the centre line of Westfield road aforesaid. Conformable to the amended route of the new line of street railway and the map exhibiting the same, filed in the office of the Secretary of State of this State; and said Company is hereby given the right, power and authority to maintain and operate cars upon the said railway by electricity as the motive power. The said Company shall complete the construction of its whole line of railway within the township of Fanwood in the manner herein provided, and all its fixtures and appurtenances, and commence the operation of the same and the running of its cars for the transportation of passengers on or before December first, eighteen hundred and ninety-eight, or this franchise shall be and become null and void and of no effect, unless the time for the completion of the same shall be extended by the Township Committee. If the said Company after the commencement of the operation of its said line of railway by the collection of fare thereon shall fail or neglect to operate the whole or any portion of the line hereby authorized, daily and every day for the space of thirty consecutive days, or shall fail to operate the same for a total number of days exceeding thirty in any one year, all the rights, powers, privileges and every one of them of the said Company, its successors and assigns, under and by virtue of this ordinance, shall thereby cease and be determined and in either of such cases the Township Committee expressly reserves the right to sell the said line at auction to the highest bidder who will operate it, or may cause the said railway, or any part or parts thereof, to be removed from the streets or avenues, and to sell and dispose of the materials thereof at public auction, and after paying all the expenses of such removal and auction sale, and repairs to said avenues and streets and the cost of restoring the same to its original condition, to pay the balance of proceeds of such sale to the said Company, its successors and assigns.

Section 2. The said Company shall construct, maintain and operate a double track railway as aforesaid with crossovers, switches and sidings shown by map hereinafter specifically referred to. The rails to be laid by said Company shall be of steel of the girder pattern of a weight not less than seventy pounds per yard. And the said Company shall so construct and maintain said railway that the top of the rails shall at all times be flush with the grade of the street or highway. The ties, spikes, and all other materials shall be of the best quality. The railways tracks of the said railway shall be laid as follows: One track on each side of the centre line of said streets or avenues so that the inner rail thereof shall be distant two feet and three inches from said centre line and the gauge of said tracks shall be four feet and eight and a half inches; provided that not more than one track shall be laid from Forrest road to Cook's corner, until said avenue shall have been widened to a width of at least sixty-six feet; and provided further that not more than one track shall be laid from Cook's corner to the line of the borough of Fanwood until that portion of the road shall have been widened to a width of not less than sixty-six feet; and provided further that only one track shall be laid in said road which, when laid, shall be laid on the easterly side of the centre line thereof from the borough line to North avenue, until the said portion of said road shall have been widened to a width of at least sixty-six feet, and until the borough of Fanwood shall have by ordinance consented to the laying of a track on the westerly side of said road; provided further that in the event of the widening of said streets or roads herein above referred to, the said Company shall indemnify and save harmless said township from any and all expense by reason thereof. The said Company at its own cost and expense in all streets or avenues through which it shall lay tracks hereunder, shall pave between said tracks and between the rails thereof in a good, substantial and workmanlike manner with a telford or macadam pavement to a depth of four inches, and shall maintain the same flush with the rail of said tracks. The railway tracks and macadam or telford pavement shall be laid and constructed in the best workmanlike manner and to the satisfaction of the Township Committee or other committee thereof having charge of the streets.

Section 3. During the construction of the said railway lighted lanterns shall be kept and maintained by said Company from sunset to sunrise on each and every night not less than fifty feet, and not more than one hundred feet apart along every part of said avenues and streets, where the work of construction shall have been begun and not completed. The work in all other respects shall be thoroughly protected so as to prevent accident. In case any accident shall happen to any person or damage to property is caused because or by reason of any work connected with such construction of said railway, or afterward because or by reason of the operation thereof, or through carelessness or negligence of any of the Company's officers, agents, servants, or employees, the said Company shall indemnify and save the said township of Fanwood and its Township Committee from all costs, loss or damage by reason thereof.

Section 4. The Company shall at all times keep in good condition and repair to the satisfaction of the Township Committee (repaving if necessary) the paving between the tracks, between the rails and eighteen inches outside the same, to a depth of four inches.

Section 5. That said Company shall lay its rails to conform to the grade of said Westfield avenue and Westfield road at the time of laying of said rails, and in case of any change of the grade or of the surface of said Westfield avenue or Westfield road, or any part thereof, at any time, then the said Company at its own cost and expense, shall immediately on request made in writing by the Township Committee, so change the location of its tracks and the surface or grade of such part of said avenue and road, so as to conform to such change of surface of said avenue and road, or change of grade, or any newly-established grade.

Section 6. That no change, addition, or alteration of guage or the location of the tracks, sidings, switches, cross-overs, poles or overhead structures of said railway company shall be made therein or thereabouts at any time by said Company after the same has been first erected and approved by the Township Committee, without official action granting permission for such change, alteration or addition being previously taken by the Township Committee.

Section 7. The said Company and its officers, agents, servants, or employees, shall not, nor shall any or either of them be allowed to shovel, throw or place any snow, ice, slush, or any other material along side of said track or tracks, in such manner as to obstruct or hinder other public travel thereon or on the said avenue or road, but when removing the snow, ice, slush, or other material from its said tracks the said Company and its officers, agents, servants and employees shall without unnecessary delay and with a sufficient force of men, cause the same to be leveled between the said tracks and the gutter line on each side thereof.

Section 8. No salt shall be used by said Company on any part of its tracks, except on the grades, curves and crossovers, without the consent of the Township Committee or the proper township officers, nor shall any car be allowed to stand in or obstruct any cross street, or to stand upon any cross-walk for any purpose whatever, or to stand or remain in any position for more than five minutes at any one time, except when such car shall be unavoidably obstructed or detained by accident or breakdown without fault or negligence of said Company under a penalty of ten dollars, to be paid by said Company to the Township Collector with costs of collection for each and every violation of this section.

Section 9. That where the said railway tracks shall pass over culverts or gutters, the bottom of which shall be below the grade line of such railroad, iron girders or proper supports of the most approved pattern shall be provided by the Company, and such necessary iron bridges or iron truss shall be constructed across the tracks and shall be so constructed as not to hinder or obstruct the flow of surface water underneath the tracks of said railroad.

Section 10. The Township Committee of the township of Fanwood on behalf of said township, reserves the right to dig or excavate in or upon any of the said streets or avenues for the purpose of laying, examining, replacing or repairing any sewer, water, or gas pipes, or for the purpose of making any other public improvements, or for doing any other public work whatsoever, and the said railway company shall have no redress or claim for damages because of any detention or obstruction to travel on the said railway arising therefrom. Provided, that such work shall be done as quickly as possible without causing unnecessary delay in the operation of said railroad; and provided, further, that if any such improvement, or repairing, replacing, laying or relaying or examining can be made or done in any feasible or practical way without obstructing the operation of said railroad, then and in such case, it shall be the duty of the party doing such work to do the same in such manner as last aforesaid.

Section 11. That the said Company shall remove any dirt, gravel, or any material or obstruction placed by the said Company or its agents or servants on any of the streets or avenues within three days after the service of an officer or servant of said Company of written notice so to do by the said Township Committee, or its duly authorized agent. In case the said Company shall fail to remove such material or obstruction and to put the said avenue or road in as good order as before such material or obstruction was placed thereon by said Company, the Township Committee may order and cause the said material or obstruction to be removed and the said avenue or road to be put in complete order and repair at the expense of said Company.

Section 12. That all persons driving vehicles upon the railroad tracks of the said Company in any of the said streets or avenues, when met or overtaken by a car of the Company shall, on being warned by the ringing or a bell or gong or on request of the conductor or motorman of such car, as soon as possible turn and drive his vehicle off of such track, so as to allow such car to pass; it being understood that the cars of said Company shall have the right of way over the tracks of said Company (except at crossings where the public shall have the first right of way over and across the road and tracks of said Company) and the driver of any vehicle for the violation of any of the provisions of this section shall forfeit and pay to the Township Collector for the use of the township, a penalty of ten dollars, to be recovered before any justice of the peace of said township.

Section 13. The cars to be used or run on said railway shall be well lighted and properly heated; they shall be kept clean and have proper bells or gongs, which shall be rung or sounded before such car reaches the crossing of any street intersecting any of the said streets or avenues and whenever necessary to give warning of the approach of such car; each car shall be provided with the necessary fenders of the most approved pattern, and such cars shall be run at an average headway of not longer than fifteen minutes between the hours of six o'clock A. M. and ten o'clock P. M., and from ten o'clock P. M. to midnight, such cars shall be run as the travel demands or warrants, but in any case the average headway shall not be longer than one half hour; all cars on the said railway shall run the entire length of the line of railroad tracks hereby authorized to be constructed. The Company shall from time to time diminish the headway of its cars as the increase of travel shall demand. All cars placed on the line of said Company shall be of the most approved pattern; and said Company shall maintain gates upon the sides of the platforms of the cars wherever there shall be a double track so that the ingress and egress to and from said cars can only be had from the side of the car nearest the curb.

Section 14. That for the purpose of supplying light, heat and power for propelling cars on said railway, permission is hereby granted to the said Traction Company and the right is hereby granted to said Company to erect poles and string the necessary wires thereon, upon the following terms and conditions:

The poles to be used for the equipping of said railway for operation by electricity shall be of iron, similar to those used by the Plainfield Street Railway Company for the purpose upon its Netherwood line in the city of Plainfield; said poles shall be at least twenty feet in height above the surface of the ground, and shall be set and located opposite each other as near as may be on both sides of said avenues and streets, and within the curb lines of said avenues and streets, and at the points designated and shown upon a certain map entitled, "Map showing proposed location of tracks or rails of a double track street railway, also showing proposed location of poles for support of overhead construction for trolley wires of the Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway Company, in the township of Fanwood, county of Union and State of New Jersey," which map is on file with the Township Clerk, and is hereby made a part of this ordinance for the purpose of showing the true location of the tracks hereby authorized to be laid upon said avenue and road by said Company and for the purpose of specifically designating and prescribing the several places within the line of said avenue and road where such poles shall be located and set and the location of said tracks and poles therein shown, is hereby approved and adopted by the Township Committee of the township of Fanwood.

The said poles shall be set in the ground to a depth of not less than six feet, and the holes in which said poles shall be set shall be not less than one foot in diameter, and the excavation or space around said poles shall be filled with broken stone and concrete to the surface of the ground and the same shall be thoroughly packed and rammed.

The wires and overhead construction attached to said poles for the purpose of furnishing power for the propulsion of the cars of said Company shall be not less than eighteen feet above the grade of said avenue and road, and said overhead construction and wires shall be similar in character and size to the overhead construction now used by the Plainfield Street Railway Company upon its Netherwood line within the city of Plainfield, and the manner of stringing all of said wires shall be similar to that now used by said Plainfield Street Railway Company upon its Netherwood line within the city of Plainfield, which overhead construction of poles and wires is hereby approved and designated as a pattern or model construction to be observed and followed by the Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway Company in its overhead construction of poles and wires, prescribed in this ordinance. The wires strung upon said poles shall be properly guarded with other wires when required by the Township Committee. The poles when erected, shall be properly painted, and shall, together with all parts of said overhead construction, be maintained in a safe condition at all times, and shall be kept in thorough repair, and said poles shall be kept well painted.

Section 15. The period or term granted to the Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway Company by virtue of this ordinance, for the purposes herein set forth, shall be for the term of ninety-nine years, commencing July 1st, 1898, and ending July 1st, 1897.

Section 16. That for every mile of road owned or operated, or that may hereafter be owned or operated by said Company within the limits of the township of Fanwood (whether said road be single or double track) said Company shall pay or cause to be paid to the collector of taxes of said township for the use of said township, the following sums as license fees, to wit:

For the year beginning January first, 1899, at the rate of one hundred dollars per mile; for the year beginning January first, 1900, at the rate of one hundred dollars per mile; for the year beginning January first, 1901, at the rate of one hundred dollars per mile; for the year beginning January first, 1902, at the rate of one hundred dollars per mile; for the year beginning January first, 1903, at the rate of one hundred dollars per mile; for the five years succeeding January first, 1904, three per cent. annually of the gross earnings of said Company, with a minimum payment, however, during said period of five years at the rate of two hundred and fifty dollars a mile per year; and for each and every succeeding year thereafter, five per cent. of the gross earnings of said Company, with a minimum payment, however, at the rate of two hundred and fifty dollars a mile per year. The gross earnings in this section referred to shall be construed to include all earnings of said Company and full proportion of all earnings on full traffic to be calculated according to the proportion between the entire length of the journey and the number of miles traveled within the limits of the township of Fanwood, all of said payments to be made each and every year on or before the last day of each year.

That to enable the township to ascertain from time to time the gross earnings of the said Company, the books of the Company shall be opened for inspection by the Township Committee, or by such other person or persons as the Township Committee for that purpose shall designate at the expense of the said Company. The payment provided for in this section shall be in lieu of all license fees for cars, whether provided for in prior ordinances or not.

Section 17. That the fares to be charged by said Company for every passenger riding on its railroad in the township of Fanwood, shall be as follows:

1. The Company shall sell thirty-three school tickets in one strip for one dollar, said tickets to be void if detached, and to be good only between the hours of eight A. M. and five P. M. on days when the schools in said township are in session, and when presented by a scholar attending a school in said township going to and from school.

2. For each and every passenger of a continuous ride to or from any point in the township of Fanwood, on the line of tracks hereby located, to or from any point on the lines of the Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway Company, in the borough of Fanwood, in the township of Fanwood and in the city of Plainfield, in the township of Westfield and in the township of Cranford, the sum of five cents; children under four years of age, over the lines herein set forth and hereinafter mentioned, free; children over four and under ten years of age (other than children going to and from school) not occupying seats required by other passengers, three cents over the lines hereinbefore specified; passangers to or from any point on the lines of said Company in the borough of Roselle, eight cents; children between four and ten years of age other than school children going to and from school, four cents; passengers to or from any point on the lines of said Company in the city of Elizabeth, the sum of ten cents; children over four and under ten years of age (other than school children going to and from school) five cents. If it is necessary to use the lines of the Plainfield Street Railway Company in order to carry passengers from Scotch Plains to Watchung avenue in Plainfield, no additional charge shall be made for carrying passengers over such portion of the lines of the Plainfield Street Railway Company.

Section 18. If the said railway shall fail to build or construct the whole of said railway as in this ordinance described, with its turnouts, switches, etc., in the manner aforesaid, and put the same in operation for the transportation of passengers within nine months from the first day of March, 1898, or shall thereafter fail or neglect to operate the same aforesaid, and lines in the ordinance specified (except for reasons beyond the control of said Company) over the whole of said road as herein described, all the right, powers and privileges and every of them of the said Railway Company, its successors and assigns, and by virtue of this ordinance, shall become at the option of the Township Committee, null and void, and the Township Committee of the said township of Fanwood in that event expressly reserves the right to cause the said railway and every part thereof to be removed from the streets, avenues and highways on which the same has been placed within the township of Fanwood (first giving notice of at least ten days to said Company to remove the same and all structures connected therewith), and in case the said Company should fail or neglect to comply with the requirements of said notice, and put the streets and roads in as good condition as before the said road was constructed, the said Township Committee may at a public auction sell so much of said material belonging to the said Railway Company as may be necessary to pay the costs of removal and the replacing of said roads or highways in their former condition.

Section 19. Should the said Company violate this ordinance in any section or provision thereof for which a penalty has not been already prescribed and specified herein, the said Railway Company shall be subjected to a penalty of ten dollars ($10) for each and every violation, on conviction thereof, to be recovered before any justice of the peace of said township, to be paid to the treasurer of the said township of Fanwood. The provisions of this section, however, in no way to affect the rights or claims of any person or persons against said Company.

Section 20. That said Company upon the final adoption of this ordinance, and before exercising any of the rights and privileges granted hereby, shall as a condition precedent file with the Township Clerk of the township of Fanwood, a contract to be executed by said Company and duly approved by the Township Committee wherein said Company shall covenant and agree with the inhabitants of the township of Fanwood to abide by and perform all the matters and things herein on part of said Company to be observed, kept and performed; that it will at any and all times hereafter fully indemnify and protect the township of Fanwood of and from any and all suits, actions and proceedings that may be brought and maintained, or sought to be brought and maintained, by any person or corporation for, on account of or by reason of the adoption or maintenance by said Company, its successors or assigns of said electric system aforesaid or the construction or maintenance of said electric system, or anything connected therewith, or any act of omission or commission by said Company, its successors or assigns, or any of its agents or servants, at any time or times, and shall whenever requested by said township, fully defend any and every action, suit or proceeding.

Section 21. That this ordinance shall take effect immediately, and said Company shall file its written acceptance thereof in the manner and times required by law, and shall fully pay and satisfy bills approved and ordered paid by said Township Committee within ten days after such date of approval for advertisements, publications, notices, printing and other work done in or about or connected with the consideration of the application of said Company for said location of tracks and connected with the consideration of the passage of this ordinance or any ordinance or ordinances supplementary thereto.

Manager Mumford made no mistake when he signed Stevens as a member of the Crescents for the season. Stevens has only played two games but he has managed to distinguish himself in that time. He made the longest hit of the afternoon Saturday and made sundry other well placed ones. The error credited him was due really to a hole in the field that the long grass hit and that he stepped into just as he was about to catch the ball. If his pitching is equal to the rest of his playing, he will be a valuable man in the box.

It was too bad that the Williamsburg Field Club had to fall to pieces in Saturday's game. At the start, it looked like a fierce fight but somehow their pitcher, either of them for that matter, could not do anything with the Crescents when it came to batting. Batting used to be the Crescents' weak point but it is not anymore. Even Cooney and Lederer who were considered weak batters at once time have shown vast improvement. Lederer has shown a remarkable change and is now able to touch up the pitching of everybody he faces. And what is particularly valuable, his hits usually come just at the right time.

Nobody had anything to say against the great game that MacLaughlin pitched Saturday against the Williamsburg Field Club. They all have the reputation of being strong hitters, but they failed to find his curves. Last year they hammered MacLarty pretty heavily, but the new Mac was a mystery that they failed to solve. Manager Mumford is fortunate in securing him, and Plainfield should be proud of the speedy young pitcher that makes this city his home. It is but right and just that he should be with the home team instead of playing out of town. Last year he pitched for the Somersets, of Somerville. Mac is showing up in much better form than last season, and seems right in the same class with the other members of the Crescents.

The next baseball game on the Crescent Oval will be played against the Staten Island Athletic Club. They come with a decidedly warm reputation and are reported to be strong enough to give the Crescents the hot fight that they have been longing for. It has been unfortunate that the teams that have come to Plainfield have not given the Crescents a harder run for their money than they did. It is not Manager Mumford's fault except that he has happened on a star aggregation that is hard to be equalled. A close game, however, will do the home team lots of good and keep them up to the standard from which they are likely to fall if they do not have to work hard. The Staten Island team is said to be just what is needed. If reputation is anything, then the Crescents will find their hands full Saturday afternoon.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

The opening meeting of the Central New Jersey Driving Association will be held tomorrow and Thursday afternoons at the Gentlemen's Driving Park. Already the horses are gathering there from all over the State in preparation for the events of the two days. There will be five class races and a special, making three races for each day. Among the entries are some of the best horses owned and trained in the State. The committee in charge has spared no effort to make the meet a success. Lines of stages will run from various parts of the city to the track where every possible arrangement has been made for the comfort of the spectators. The admission is 25 cents, with a charge of 25 cents extra for the grand stand.

CYCLING COMMENT.

The Frank L. C. Martin Cycle Company have more orders for Cleveland wheels than they can fill. The '97 Crescents, of which the company had 493 in their various stores, are nearly all gone. They have a few more left at their store in this city which they are closing out at low prices.

Entries for the five-mile handicap bicycle race on Park avenue, between Randolph road and Holly's corner, at 7 o'clock tonight, are as follows: R. Jeffrey, C. Shepard, E. VanLieu, W. Johnson, F. Lusardi, H. Bower, G. Cholly, Ed. Duck, W. Martin, G. Feiring, H. Martin, H. Angerbauer, R. McMurtry, W. Emmons, R. Pool, W. Jeffrey, C. Hood, C. Sorensen, C. Westerfield

Granted a Pension.

General W. H. Sterling, of First place, the soldier's friend, has received word from the Pension Department at Washington notifying him that a pension of $10 per month, dating back to November, 1897, has been granted John N. VanArsdale, of 213 Spooner avenue. General Sterling conveyed the good news to Mr. VanArsdale and refused, as he always has, to accept the fee of $10 allowed by the Government.

Dislocated His Shoulder.

James Sayer, aged 33 years, unmarried, and an employee at C. V. D. Corle's livery stable on East Second street, fell from a ladder at the stables yesterday afternoon and dislocated a shoulder. He was removed to the bospital where he is doing as well as can be expected. The injury is not serious and in the course of a short time Sayer will be out again.

Death of J. P. Townsend.

The Plainfield friends of J. P. Townsend, of Philadelphia, will be pained to learn of his death which occurred Saturday in that city. The funeral takes place today and the body will be taken to Albany for interment.

Cory Divorce Case.

Lawyers S. S. Swackhamer and William Newcorn are in Newark today representing the parties in the divorce suit of Henry H. Cory vs. his wife. Mr. Newcorn represents the plaintiff and Mr. Swackhamer the defendant.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

John Clark and family, of Park avenue, have gone away for the summer.

Miss Mabel Gillies of Central avenue, who has been quite ill, is able to be out again.

Mrs Joseph Powlison, of Grandview avenue, left today to visit her son at Holyoke, Mass.

Miss Florence Duck, of Sixth street, has returned from the State Normal School for the summer.

Mrs Rhees, of Denver, Col., is visiting at the home of her brother, Chas. W. McCutchen, of Rockview avenue.

Rev. James Groves, pastor of the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, left this morning for Fairhaven, where he will attend a convention of his denomination. He will be absent three days.

Justice V. W. Nash and wife, of Prospect avenue, have gone to Asbury Park. Justice Nash is a member of the Grand Lodge, A. O. U. W., who will entertain the members of the Supreme Lodge.

Clarence Slape, of East Fifth street, and Lewis Apgar, of Watchung avenue, drove to Basking Ridge Sunday and spent the day with Mr. Apgar's father. John Apgar, of Dunellen, was there, and so were several members of Jacob Apgar's family, of Orange, and all made quite a family party.

W. W. Smith, of East Seventh street, Charles W. Burton, of Watchung avenue and Joseph E Morse, of Franklin place, are at Media, Pa., today attending the funeral of John P. Townsend, formerly purchasing agent for the Tide Water Oil Company.

His Mood Was Musical.

Thomas King, a mason, was arrested last evening in the vicinity of the Manhattan Hotel by Marshal Schenck. King was drunk and disorderly and annoyed the neighbors by his singing. This morning he was fined $5 or five days by Recorder Long. He will probably pay the money.

A Rustic Place for the Children.

Mrs. Pliny C. Fisk, of West Seventh street, has built a cosy little arbor in a large apple tree by the side of her house where the children can play without fear of falling. The house is reached by a flight of rustic steps, and is large enough for several to be seated in very comfortably.

CHILDREN OF THE POOR.

Transplanting Them to Better Homes in the West.

It may not be known that the shipping of the children of the poor of New York to the homes of the west is an industry of forty-five years' standing; and as conducted by Charles Loring Brace of the Children's Aid Society, one of the noblest philanthropies of modern times. His work, by means of lodging houses for homeless children, with shipment to prairie homes (never to cities) exterminated the "Topsy" child in New York—by which was meant the waif with no place to sleep—and perceptibly checked and finally decreased juvenile crime. In the thirty-nine years in which Brace was the moving spirit of the aid society, it placed 84,318 poor city children in "safe country homes." Children are still coming west—sometimes by the trainload. Farmers drive twenty and even thirty miles; all the mothers in town go to the town hall, or wherever the exhibit may be, to see and inspect the little travelers. But they are placed in homes only after wise precautions to secure their welfare. Local committees are formed in the villages and towns on which leading men and women serve. They receive the children; they consider the applications; they are responsible for the happiness and progress of the little ones. Finally agents from the New York institutions visit the homes to see that all is well. It is stated by experts that from 75 to 90 per cent. of applications for children are not worthy of consideration. The applicants want, not a child to love and bring up, but a drudge, or perhaps something worse. The Brace answer to this sort of thing is "Not your need, but the child's need."

The success of child-saving on this order has been wonderful. It has shattered old notions of the part heredity plays in destiny. "We can think," wrote Mr. Brace before his death, "of little Five Points thieves who are now ministers of the gospel or honest farmers; vagrants and street children who are men in professional life, and women who, as teachers or wives of good citizens, are everywhere respected; the children of outcasts or unfortunates whose inherited tendencies have been met by the new environment and who are industrious and decent members of society." Governor Burke of North Dakota is one of them, dispatched forty years ago to an Indiana farm home. It is seriously stated that 90 per cent. of these children sent west make good citizens. Those who disappoint are the older one—the secret is to get slum children into good homes at an early age. The average is nine years; and 14 per cent. are under five; and 44 per cent. from five to ten years. The boys and girls who haunt the slums until they are twelve or fifteen years old are the ones who prove troublesome in the new environment.

"OLD COMPARISON"

The Sobriquet Most Fittingly Applied to the Old Man.

The people around the little mountain town called him "Old Comparison."

One day an acquaintance was passing his house as he was sitting on the steps of the little vine-clad porch in front.

"Good morning," said the gentleman. "It's a lovely day."

"Finer'n silk," he responded.

"How are you this morning?"

"Friskier'n a colt."

"How's your wife?"

"Pearter'n a pullet."

"The weather is very hot and dry for this season, don't you think?"

"Hotter'n a run horse and drier'n a clean shirt."

"I suppose you went to the wedding last night in the meeting-house? A prettty bride, I thought."

"Putier'n a speckled dog."

"The young man is rich, I hear."

"Richer'n fertilizer a foot thick."

"By the way, are you willing to sell me those sawlogs Brown couldn't take off your hands?"

"Williner'n a girl to get spliced."

"When can I see them?"

"Quicker'n a lamb can shake his tail."

And the old man grabbed his hat and stick and led the way to the river, offering no remark, but answering all inquiries as usual.—Yakima, Wash., Herald.

Mark Twain's Yell.

Mark Twain, when starring on a tour round the world, told an interviewer at Winnipeg how he often felt a desire to "cut loose" from civilization and to get away by himself where he could run and yell to his heart's content. In this connection there is a story about the humorist and Canon Kingsley. Walking along the streets one day Mark felt the impulse to yell coming on him with resistible force, and said to Kingsley: "I want to yell; I must yell!" The Canon said: "All right, yell away; I don't mind." "And with that," said Mark, "I stepped back a few steps, and, throwing my arms above my head, let out a war whoop that could be heard for miles, and in less time than you could count ten Canon Kingsley and myself were surrounded by a multitude of anxious citizens who wanted to know what was the matter. I told them nothing was the matter; I just wanted to yell, and had yelled."—Nashville Banner

CERVERA PLANNING TO DESERT SANTIAGO.

Spanish Admiral Is Getting Desperate, Say Cubans.

SPANIARDS SEND RELIEF.

INSURGENTS WILL BLOCK THEIR WAY TO SANTIAGO.

The Plot Discovered to Embroil The United States With European Powers—Blanco's Secretary On a Secret Mission—Manila Expedition Sails Monday—Reinforcements for General Shafter

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Off Santiago, June 21, via Mole St. Nicholas, June 53, 10:40 a. m—The Cubans report to Sampson that it is well understood in the city that Cevera means to attempt to run through the channel and escape the American fleet at the first favorable opportunity. The ships are kept coaled to their utmost capacity. Lookouts are stationed watching for an opening. Cevera is getting desperate and will take any chance.

Off Santiago, June 21, via Mole St. Nicholas, June 22, 12:33 p. m—Sampson has been notified that Gen. Rando is marching with a large force to reinforce the Spaniards at Santiago. It is said that insurgents will be placed to cut off his approach, but it is probable that Rando will fight his way through.

St. Thomas, June 22, 10:46 a. m—American Consul Hanna has discovered a plot of the Spanish governor of Macias, Porto Rico, to embroil the United States in a quarrel with the Powers. He has mounted four guns on a height near San Juan which is exclusively peopled with prominent foreigners including fourteen consuls. It was his plan to cause a wholesale slaughter during the bombardment.

Kingston, June 22, 12:26 p. m.—The steamer Adula has arrived from Cuba with nearly a hundred passengers aboard. They are all Spanish. Among them is Senor Charez, secretary to Blanco on his way to Spain. It is thought he is on a secret mission as he is book under an assumed name.

San Francisco, June 22, 11:37 a. m.—The third Philippine expedition starts Monday. Merritt will leave on the steamship Newport Wednesday following. He will probably be accompanied by the Seventh California regiment. Several hundred recruits arrived here this morning.

Washington, June 22, 12 m—General Duffield and the first brigade left this morning for Hampton Roads, there to embark on the Harvard and Yale to join Shafter's army.

Newport News, June 22, 12:45 p. m—The preparations for arming the cruiser Buffalo have been ordered stopped. It is believed that the Government has rejected the vessel.

New York, June 22, 11 a. m—The Cuban yacht, Alfredo, the first vessel in the Cuban Navy, started from this port this morning bound for Cuba.

The First Excursion.

The first chance of the season to visit the Atlantic coast will be offered to the people of Plainfield tomorrow when the joint excursion of the G. A. R. and A. O. U. W. to Asbury Park and Long Branch. At Long Branch there will be another attraction in the State encampment of the G. A. R. There will be a big parade which will be reviewed by Former President Harrison. The excursion train will leave the North avenue station at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Teachers' Salaries to be Paid.

A special meeting of the borough Board of Education was held last evening when the teachers' salaries were ordered paid. This was done because the teachers will be anxious to leave town soon after the Commencement. A discussion of the proposed new school building occupied the attention of the Board during the evening, but nothing definite was done. The plans and specifications will soon be ready and bids will be advertised for.

Off on a Furlough.

CLASS DAY IN BOROUGH

GRADUATES DISTINGUISHED THEMSELVES IN THE EXERCISES.

Class Prophecy of Miss Elizabeth Hoagland Was Very Amusing—Presentation of Gifts Made Many a Laugh.

At the North Plainfield High School last evening the first class day exercises were held under the auspices of the graduating class. The members of the class made the hall look very attractive by using American flags, flowers, etc. The programme was announced by Arthur Smith.

The musical features of the programme consisted of a piano duet by Miss May Conroy and Mr. Simpson, banjo selections by Fred Van Eps, accompanied on the piano by W. E. MacClymont, piano solos by Miss Conroy and Miss Van Fleet, while the singing of the class song was one of the most enjoyable features. The words were composed by Miss Hoaglang and the music by Miss VanFleet, both of the graduating class.

The address of welcome was given by Frederick B. Williams, president of the class. The class history was by Miss Clara T VanFleet. It was full of wit and wisdom. The class poem was recited by Miss Florence Smalley.

Perhaps the most amusing part of the programme was the class prophecy by Miss Elizabeth Hoagland. She had something to say regarding the Plainfields' only stream, Green brook; of the obstructions removed by the Board of Health; of Plainfield's sewage beds and how the Councilmen were obliged to hold handkerchiefs to their noses when near them; of the "Curfew Bell," and "Where's My Wandering Boy Tonight?" In conclusion Miss Hoagland introduced a wheel of fortune and the fate of each member of the class was read.

The last number on the programme was the presentation of gifts to the class by Miss Bertha Stevens. Frederick Williams, the only young man to be graduated, received a picture of a donkey on muslin, Miss Alice Barker a small woolly dog, a "small barker," Miss Minnie Marsh a large paper box, in which to keep letters that come from over the sea, and Miss VanFlett was presented with a wooden ruler. The other presents were as follows: Miss Laura Coddington, bunch of roses; Miss Elizabeth Hoagland, writing paper, American flag; Miss Emmons, jumping doll; Miss Conroy, bottle of sarsaparilla; Miss Ella Coddington, a banner of blue silk; Miss Brokaw, lemon squeezer; Miss Milne, a love letter, and Miss Smalley a pair of stilts, because she is so small.

After the programme a social time was enjoyed by all and the graduates received the congratulations of their friends.

ENDEAVOR SOCIABLE.

Union Affair to be Held in Trinity Reformed Church July 12th.

At a meeting of the social committee of the local union, Christian Endeavor, of which Will O. Chapman is chairman, held last night in the Y. M. C. A., it was decided to hold the much talked of sociable in Trinity Reformed church instead of on a lawn. The date fixed upon was July 12th.

Chairmen of committees were appointed, who will choose their own assistants. L. H. Biglow is chairman of the welcoming committee; Miss Grace Petrie of the refreshment committee, and E. E. Anthony of the decorating committee. Another meeting will be held Wednesday night after prayer meeting in the First Baptist church, to make further arrangements.

Sold Under a Mortgage.

Yesterday afternoon Lawyer Frank Blatz, of the firm of Murphy & Blatz, sold the tailoring business recently owned by Charles Sherer, of Somerset street, to George Bremmer. The latter held a chattel mortgage on the business and purchased the same for the face value of the mortgage. It will be remembered that Sherer suddenly disappeared a few days ago, and as yet nothing has been heard from him. The sale took place to satisfy debts.

Her Ninth Birthday a Pleasant One.

Last Monday Edward Mosher, Jr, of Elmwood place, celebrated the anniversay of his ninth birthday and the event was pleasantly passed with a few friends in playing various kinds of games. The young folks had a jolly time in the afternoon when they were the guests of the young celebrant. Supper was served at 5 o'clock. Those present were Bert Gray, Arthur Williams, Ernest Conover, Raymond Mosher, and several others. The host received several nice presents as reminders of the occasion.

IMMORTAL NINETY-EIGHT

GRADUATING CLASS AT PLAINFIELD HIGH SCHOOL HELD EXERCISES.

Bright Class History by Miss Kirby—Miss Hunt, Class Poet, Does Creditable Work—Mementoes for Each Member.

Before its final departure from the halls of learning the class of '98 of the Plainfield High School last evening gathered its friends in the Assembly Hall of the Franklin building and entertained them with song and story. It was the Class Day exercises, the first of the kind ever held by any class of the High School.

The room was decorated in bunting of the class colors, light blue and gold, while a large flag of the two colors occupied a prominent place at the rear of the platform.

Henry W. Brower, president of the class, presided. The programme opened with an introductory address by the president, in which he told what a grand and glorious aggregation they were and then individually poked fun at his classmates.

He introduced Henry A. Pearce who gave one of Robert J. Burdette's readings, "Bob Burdette on the Wheel." Then came a vocal solo by Miss Constance S. Patton, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. W. L. Patton and on the flute by Walter T. Serrell.

A bright little history of the class was read by Miss Adele Hope Kirby, the class historian. She told of the four years labor of the class and incidentally said something pleasant about the teachers. She referred in glowing terms to the girls' basket ball team of the class, but sketched in sorrowful phrase the athletic propensities of the young men, describing how one, instead of running at the State games, ran away from them.

Miss Lydie E. Loizeaux gave a recitation "The Judgment Day." She was followed by the class ode, written and read by Miss Lillian Bessie Hunt, the class poet. It was funny at times and decidedly clever throughout.

Rhey T. Snodgrass shone forth as class prophet, drawing a graphic picture of the centuries to come when the class of '98 should become "Immortals" to be gazed upon by the fast perishing ones of '92 and other following classes. Then came the class song, sung by the class and written by Miss Hunt.

In conclusion, each member of the class was presented with some little memento. Wm. A. DeLong, Jr., received a toy gun, which he was informed was appropriate to him as the "heavy scrapper" of the class. For Miss Carolyn Kampman there was a teapot and stuffed cat. Knowing, the president said, "her dislike for the sterner sex," Miss Patton received a number of hearts and was wished better luck next time. Miss Hunt was given a mammoth pencil to assist her in her literary labors. A woolly lamb that barked was for Rhey T. Snodgrass. The others received appropriate gifts. At the close Snodgrass presented the president with a small looking glass from the class, which he explained would find plenty of use.

The exercises were arranged by a committee composed of Miss Ellen L. Osgood, Miss Carolyn Kampman, Miss Lillian B. Hunt, Henry A. Pearce, Henry W. Brower and Rhey T. Snodgrass.

The officers of the class are president, Henry W. Brower; vice president, Miss Carolyn Kampman; secretary, Miss Constance S. Patton; treasurer, Henry A. Pearce.

Noted Educators to Talk.

At the Commencement exercises of the North Plainfield School tomorrow night at the Y. M. C. A. Hall, Dr. J. M. Green, principal of the State Normal School, of Trenton, and Hon. James L. Hayes, of Newark, president of the State Board of Education, will deliver addresses.

—The club car, "Plainfield" has received a new coat of paint.

ANOTHER BRILLIANT JUNE DAY WEDDING

Miss Maud Middledith Married to Esteemed Buffalo Man.

CELEBRATED IN CHURCH.

THE CEREMONY OF PLIGHTING TROTH WAS A PRETTY ONE.

Morris Sawyer Tremaine, of Buffalo, Was the Groom—Bride was Attired in White Satin, Trimmed With Old Point Lace—250 Friends Present at the Reception—Costly Gifts Presented

Another brilliant June wedding was celebrated last night, the bride being Miss Maud Middledith, daughter of James F. Middledith, of 80 Mercer avenue, Washington Park, and the groom Morris Sawyer Tremaine, of Buffalo.

The ceremony was performed in the Holy Cross church at 8 o'clock in the presence of a large assemblage of guests, who filled the pews and had to find standing room in the aisles.

Holy Cross church looked very pretty with its floral decorations for the occasion. The front of the church and the altar were hidden in thick palms and greens, while a large group of showy hydrangeas on one side, and fragrant sweet peas surrounding the reading desk, lent a bright effect to the scene.

When the bridal party arrived, the ushers and bridesmaids followed the now popular fashion of forming at the front of the church, meeting the bride and her party in the rear of the edifice and escorting them to the front. While the ushers were moving up the aisle to meet the bridemaids, who had entered from the vestry room. Miss Jessie Utter, who presided at the organ, played Tannhauser, which was changed to Loenghrin as the party moved up the aisle, and later to the Mendlessohn, as they went out.

The ushers were Henry Poole, of Buffalo, Clifford Moore, New York, Clarence Morrill, Arthur Fisher and Warren Allen, of Elizabeth, and James F. Middledith, Jr., of this city, a brother to the bride.

The bridesmaids were Miss Florence Abbott, Miss Helen Clark both of this city, Miss Nora Michner, of Washington, and Miss Gertrude Snyder, of Philadelphia. The maid of honor was Miss Mabel Van Deventer, of this city. The best man was Archibald Sawyer, of Elizabeth, the groom's cousin.

When the ushers had met the bridemaids at the vestry room door, they preceded them down the aisle to the rear of the church, where they met the bride, her father, and the maid of honor. Re-forming, the party moved up the aisle again, and stood in a pretty group at the foot of the altar, where Rev. T. Logan Murphy, the rector, performed the ceremony, using the Episcopal form of service. Then the party, in reversed order, left the church.

The bride's dress was of white satin, trimmed with old point lace. She wore a veil, both the veil and lace being heir looms in the family. The maid of honor wore white organdie over pink silk, and the bridemaids were gowned in pink satin. All carried fragrant bunches of sweet pea blossoms.

At the house a reception was held, to which about 250 guests were invited. Owing to the recent death of Mr. Tremaine's father, Major Tremaine, M. D., of Buffalo, the reception was somewhat quiet. The lower part of the house was prettily trimmed with greens, ferns and palms, while vases of cut flowers and roses were placed here and there where they would give a pleasing effect. A large American banner was twined around the staircase. Maresi furnished the supper.

In the parlor stood Mr. and Mrs. Tremaine to receive the congratulations of their friends. The reception was a very pleasant one, and the happy young couple were hurried off with the usual accompaniment of rice and old shoes. They have rented apartments in the Lennox, at Buffalo, where they will reside.

The presents were unusually pretty and valuable. The groom remembered the bride with a handsome pin, and the ushers also in a pleasant way. The bride presented each of the bridemaids and the maid-of-honor with a remembrance in the shape of a piece of valuable jewelry. The wedding presents were spread out in an upper room. The ordinary line of beautiful china, dainty furniture, silverware, pictures, embroidery, etc., was to be seen. Altogether the wedding was one of the prettiest of the season, and the bride was complimented again and again on her handsome appearance.

WILSON FOR GOVERNOR.

BOROUGH MAYOR'S FRIENDS WANT HIM TO GO HIGHER.

A Movement on Foot Among the Somerset County Democrats to Present Col Wilson's Name to State Convention.

The Daily Press learns today that there is a movement on foot among Somerset county Democrats to present the name of Mayor John F. Wilson, of the borough, as candidate for the nomination of Governor at the approaching State convention of the Democrats.

Col. Wilson is not at all concerned personally in the movement, but his friends having taken up the matter of naming him for the high office in the belief that he would make an able executive for New Jersey. The movement has not taken definite form as yet.

Col. Wilson needs no introduction in this community. His stern, resolute character as a prominent citizen for the last quarter of a century is a guarantee enough for the most critical. Col. Wilson was born in Baltimore sixty-six years ago, his forefathers being heroes of the Revolutionary war. His father was an officer in the United States Navy and fought with the gallant Decatur in our war with Tripoli.

Mayor Wilson lived in Baltimore when the civil war broke out and he joined the southern cause, and had an important command at Gettysburg.

Over thirty years ago he engaged in the coal business, in which he has had a successful career. Col. Wilson has lived in North Plainfield for twenty-five years and is one of the largest taxpayers in the county. Col. Wilson retired from active business in 1892 after having been engaged in the activities of the commercial world for forty five years.

A RASH YOUTH QUELLED.

He Made a Mistake in Tackling a Bicycle Made for Two.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, June 22.—A young man of about eighteen, who said his name was Samuel Whalen, amused himself about dusk Monday evening rushing out of the woods near Garwood and chasing women bicyclists as they rode past. He had succeeded in giving several a bad scare and started for another that he saw coming, but failed to notice that she was on a tandem with an escort on the back seat. He made a grab at the wheel, but instead of a scream he was greeted with a kick from the man on the back seat that doubled him up. Then the couple dismounted, and while the man sat on Whalen, the woman rode the tandem on to Westfield for an officer, who came with her on the wheel. Whalen pleaded so hard for release that the pair relented and asked that he be let go. The tandem team were Miss Etta Hayes and Charles Cooper, of Plainfield.

SOLDIER DOESN'T GET HIS LETTRS.

D. F Stewart Worried About His Son at Tampa.

D. F. Stewart, of John street, whose son, William S. Stewart, is at Tampa, Fla., with Troop K, Sixth N. J. Cavalry, is much worried because of the failure of his son to receive his letters and money which are sent from home.

Mr. Stewart has sent altogether about fifteen letters, some of them containing money orders or postal notes, none of which the lad has received. Every time he writes, there is a request for his parents to write to him, and he cannot understand how it is that he doesn't receive any letters.

It is said that there is some trouble with the distribution of the mail at the camp.

ASLEEP ON SENTRY POST.

Two More New Jersey Volunteers to Be Punished.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Pompton Lake Camp, N. J., June 20—The fate of two Third New Jersey infantry men lying in the guard-house under conviction by confession of sleeping on sentry post is anxiously awaited.

The men were arraigned for trial Monday before a court-martial, but both pleaded guilty. Sentence, it is believed, will be very severe, as both men were on important post. One of them said he had been ill and had taken medicine which made him drowsy.

Macadamizing Madison Avenue.

C. M. Meeker started this morning to macadamize Madison avenue from West Ninth street to Stelle avenue. David Bowden, who secured the contract for macadamizing Stelle avenue from Madison to Plainfield avenues, has not begun work on his contract yet, but is getting things in readiness to go to work in a day or two.

—A crosswalk is being laid across Watchung avenue at East Sixth street.

LIFE ON THE BADGER.

PLAINFIELD BOYS MEET WITH MANY EXPERIENCES.

Several Were in a Rescuing Party That Went to the Aid of a Sinking Schooner—Boys Want to Go South.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

On Board U. S. S. Badger, Bar Harbor, Me., June 21—We left Provincetown last Sunday afternoon and arrived at Boston in a heavy fog. Monday morning we learned that the SanFrancisco had run ashore near Provincetown, so, as soon as the despatches were received, we put about and went to aasist the SanFrancisco.

From our anchorage in Boston harbor we could see the Old South church and Bunker Hill monument, and it caused the boys to think a little more of what they were out for. As a result everybody is very anxious to go south right away.

But, to go back, we arrived at the spot of the SanFrancisco's grounding Monday night just in time to see the tugs pull her off the reef. We floated along in a heavy fog until Wednesday when we put into Bar Harbor.

The weather was more like a fall day and the night watches seemed like winter. During the last two days, however, the weather has begun to moderate. Wednesday night we went out to patrol the coast during the night, putting in again Thursday morning.

Friday we went out of Bar Harbor and had target practice with the three pounders and rifles. The shooting was remarkably good for new hands.

We have to buy a great many of our provisions ourselves as the allowance from the Government on this ship would just about fill a well-filled canary.

A little excitement was caused at taps last night by two men in a skiff coming along side and yelling that a schooner was sinking astern. The whale boat was immediately ordered away with several of the Plainfield boys in the crew, while search light was turned to fined the sinking vessel. The wind was blowing a small gale and it was prettey rough but we arrived there all right. We could not find anyone in the rigging and soon after, the craft, which was a two-masted schooner, went down with all all sails set, nearly swamping the whaleboat. Nothing but her top-sails remained above water.

CLAIM OF THE NEWS IS FALSE.

It Was a Daily Press Advertisement That Rewarded Miss Perine.

It was the cent-a-word advertisement in The Daily Press that was the means of Miss Martha Perine, of Martinville, recovering a pocketbook containing $125. The News in its issue last evening claimed the credit for the return, but the facts are just the opposite. Miss Perine is visiting her uncle, Mr. Conroy, of Linden avenue, and she lost her book last Saturday. She then inserted an advertisement in The Daily Press and one in the News. The advertisement in the News was printed incorrectly, while that of The Press was right. Henry Hansen, Jr., of the borough, found the book. He took it home and told his father. The advertisement was seen in The Press and the money returned. Miss Perine rewarded young Hansen for his honesty.

Boisterious Young Men.

The boys who congregated around the Grace M. E church Monday night, while the entertainment was being given, were a great annoyance to the people who were obliged to sit in the rear of the room. A half dozen lads hung around the door, clapping their hands and making as much noise as possible. They wouldn't pay any attention to the ladies who told them to keep quiet, and kept up their noise throughout the rendition of the entire programme. If a policeman had been near, and put some of them in the lock-up over night, it might have taught them a lesson.

Delivery Horse Runs Away.

One of C. B. Clifton's delivery horses, which was standing alongside of Smith Brothers' grocery store in Fruden's alley this morning, while some potatoes were being unloaded, suddenly took it into his head to run away. He ran down the alley to Second street, across towards Charles Ficke's house, and would have plunged directly into the yard if the wheel had not caught in a tree and stopped the progress. The wagon was not injured.

Testimony in Corey Divorce Case.

The Corey divorce case was continued before Advisory Master Williams in the Chancery Chambers yesterday in Newark. The testimony for the petitioner was taken. He was represented by William Newcorn.

ALONE IN THE WOODS THEY AWAIT DEATH.

The Wife Saw Husband Suffer But Could Not Aid Him.

THEIR PITIABLE STORY TOLD.

MANY MISFORTUNES HAVE COME TO THE AGED PEDDLER OF LATE.

Ten Years Ago He Lost All By Fire—Now He Is Bed Ridden—In Delirium He Fell Off the Stairs and Was Nearly Killed—Wife Could Not Aid Him—Neighbors Built Them a Shanty.

In a rickety old shanty, half hidden by the dense foliage of the wooded land back of Union Village, an old and feeble couple are dragging out a miserable existence. To them misfortunes seem never to come singly. There, in the squalor and degredation that surrounds their absolute poverty, a scene was enacted last Saturday that nearly had a fatal ending. It ended in more misers for the aged couple.

James Clark was once a peddler of oysters and fish. While he never accumulated any property, he reaped sufficient rewards from his industry to satisfy the simple wants of his wife and himself. They owned a little cottage in the woods near Union Village. The place was small but neat, and the Clarks were a happy couple despite their modest surroundings. James Clark, Jim all his neighbors called him, is now over eighty years old. His helpmate is ten years younger.

Jim never laid by a great amount for a rainy day and so, when his business began to drop off, the affairs of the home had to suffer. The younger men were more enterprising and the regular fish stores also took much of his trade. But Jim did not complain.

One night, ten years ago, Union Village heard the scream of "fire" echoing on the night air There was a rush to the rescue but before it arrived, Jim Clark's house and all it contained was burned to the ground while the two tenants barely escaped with their lives. Already Jim had met with business reverses while ill health came with his increasing age.

And so they started to work again but they had lost the enthusiasm of youth. The neighbors gathered together and erected a shanty of one story and an attic out in the woods. It is a half mile from the main road and only a little bridle path leads to the place, close by a spring.

It was not a very substantial structure and the cold winter winds found their way through the sundry cracks and crannies with chilling effect to the inmates. There the Clarks have lived ever since. There they are living now, if such kind of existence may be termed living.

Two months ago a wandering canine, supposed to be mad, set his teeth in Clark's leg. The wound would not heal and a horrible running sore has been the result. The little income that Clark received from his efforts in his business, stopped. He turned his horse and three goats out to pasture and resigned himself to his fate. The poormaster of New Providence township came to the rescue and furnishes a pittance amounting to $1 50 a week to support the aged couple and pay for their medicine.

For the last two weeks, Clark has been unable to leave his domicile. For the last week has been unable to leave his rough couch in the little low attic of the building. His wife is stone deaf and very feeble, barely able to totter out to the spring and get sufficient water for the two. Illness and hunger have made sad inroads.

Saturday morning, Clark became half delirious and tried to crawl out of bed. Close to the cot was the opening in the floor leading to the first story. Clark did not see it In his delirium he left the bed and staggared off the side. His wife was standing by the stove close to the foot of the stairs. Suddenly without warning, for she could not hear his screams, her husband fell from the attic and landed in a heap at her feet. Her extreme weakness prevented her from moving him and there he lay with his head doubled under him, giving vent to agonizing groans.

The accident occurred at 10 o'clock. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon Victor Mercier, who was returning from work in an adjacent field, heard Mrs. Clark's screams and came to the house to see what was the matter. Clark is a heavy man, weighing 200 pounds. Mercier was just recovering from a serious accident and so could do nothing for him. He hurried after assistance, however, and soon Clark was relieved from his awkward

DIRECT COMMUNICATION

French Cable Line Now Open to Guantanamo.

GENERAL GREELEY'S WORK

News May Be Had Direct from Cuba Again—All Dispatches Will Be Under Military Censorship—How the Work Was Accomplished—The First Message Over the Spliced Cable—Opened to the Public To-day.

Washington, June 22.—Direct cable communication between the United States and Guantanamo bay, where the United States marines now hold possession of Cuban soil. Not only is Captain General Blanco now cut off from communication with the outside world, save through the Key West cable, within our control, but the authorities in Washington have been placed in close connection with our forces, army and navy, which are conducting the invasion of Cuba.

To General Greely and his signal corps belongs the honor of achieving this last feat. He was intrusted some weeks ago with the task of re-establishing cable and telegraphic communication with Cuba. Under his supervision Lieutenant Colonel James Allen of General Miles's staff with officers and men of the signal corps, have been busily engaged in the execution of that work. The French Cable Company, whose cable runs from Santiago to Guantanamo bay, and thence to Cape Haytien, where a direct connection is obtained with New York, was accorded the privilege of restoring this communication with Guantanamo and Santiago with permission to send commercial and domestic dispatches under a strict military censorship necessitated by war conditions.

The cable steamer Mancel was employed for the work, and, operating on these lines, communication was restored between Cape Haytien and Guantanamo about three o'clock yesterday afternoon. It is expected that to-day the cable will be thrown open to the general public, subject to censorship.

The first message over this restored cable was one from Lieutenant Colonel Allen to General Greely announcing the reopening of communication. General Greely immediately directed the officer to obtain and forward the earliest possible advices as to the arrival of the United States troop transports. Lieutenant Colonel Allen applied to Captain McCalla, in command of the United States naval forces in Guantanamo bay. The captain in turn sent out a boat to Rear Admiral Sampson's squadron, which returned with news that the transports had arrived safely and were lying off Santiago, and that at that moment of the report General Shafter, commanding the military expedition, was on board the flagship New York consulting with Rear Admiral Sampson respecting the landing of the troops.

Equipping at Chickamauga.

Chickamauga, June 22.—Officers and men are hard at work. The work of equipping is progressing rapidly and if the present rate keps up the whole army will be armed and equipped in a short time.

It is stated on good authority that General Brooke, General Wade and others at Chickamauga Park have recommended to the war department that no troops be removed from Chickamauga until the date of the departure of an invading expedition is fixed. The transports, they think, can be loaded with supplies and ammunition in advance. Then with just time enough to make the journey the troops can be moved directly from the camp to the ports and marched at once fully equipped on shipboard.

The generals suggest that this is a better way than to move the troops to the Gulf, camp them again and hold them until the expedition is ready to start. They believe a higher degree of efficiency can be maintained by their plan and that much of the confusion and delay encountered in the department from Tampa can be avoided.

The department, it is stated, is seriously considering the plan and it is probable it will be accepted.

The New York paymasters were again at work early yesterday morning. Two more regiments were finished yesterday and the one remaining will be paid to-day.

Builder Muller Surrenders.

New York, June 22—Henry Muller, Jr., a builder, of No. 549 East One Hundred and Forty-sixth street, who has been indicted for manslaughter in the second degree, has surrendered himself.

Muller was one of the builders of the apartment house at One Hundred and Sixteenth street and Madison avenue, which fell about a month ago, killing several persons and injuring others.

Muller furnished $5,000 bail and was released. His father, who is under indictment also, it is believed will surrender himself.

A Hospital Train.

Tampa, June 22.—The hospital train which arrived here a few days ago left for Fort McPherson, Ga., Monday evening, carrying the seriously ill from the camp. The train is comfortably arranged, containing as it does, eleven Pullman sleepers, and an efficient staff of surgeons and medical supplies. Major Charles Richard, surgeon, and Captain A. P. Stiles, assistant surgeon, are in charge, assisted by twenty-three nurses and two cooks.

French Cabinet Crisis.

Paris, June 22.—Owing to the refusal of former Premier Dupuy to accept the foreign office portfolio and M. Delambre to become minister of finance, M. Sarien has decided to relinquish the task of attempting to form a cabinet, and so informed President Faure yesterday afternoon.

Paret and Grant Beaten.

London, June 22.—In the doubles at the all England lawn tennis championship tournament at Wimbledon yesterday Messrs. Kirby and Hickson beat Messrs. Paret and Grant, the American players, by 6-2, 6-4, 2-6, 6-3.

Troops Are Landing.

Washington, June 22.—A cable message has been received at the navy department from the government cable station at Guantanamo. The cablegram says that our soldiers are landing under the protection of the guns o fthe fleet, but are being fired on by Spanish troops.

Admiral Sampson says he now has about 1,000 Cubans, fully armed, engaged in the bushwhacking work which has proved so effective in protecting the marines and in preparing the way for the American troops. The force of Cubans is quite apart from the regular force under Generals Rabbi and Garcia, and is a detached body of guerillas which is co-operating with our naval forces rather than with the army.

The extent to which the Cubans have been exposed to action is shown by the report reaching the navy department that thirty wounded Cubans have been placed on the Solace. This is believed to be considerably more than the injured from the American marines. Surgeon General Van Repen of the navy has directed the chief surgeon of the Solace to receive Cuban wounded and give them the same treatment and facilities as are accorded to our own men.

Spain Begging for Peace.

London, June 22.—The correspondent at Paris of the Pall Mall Gazette telegraphed yesterday afternoon that he learns from an authoritative source in spite of denials, that the question of negotiating peace between the United States and Spain has been for some days the subject of lively correspondence between the Chancellories.

He adds that some of the ambassadors in Paris were instructed Monday to remain on the alert and in readiness. The correspondent further says it is expected that an event of importance in opening negotiations with the United States and Spain will occur in a few days.

M. Hanotaux, the French minister for foreign affairs in the Meline cabinet, backed by the czar, has, it seems, been the principal promoter of the peace negotiations, "hence President Faure's desire to retain M. Hanotaux in the foreign office."

Lieutenant General's Grade.

Washington, June 22.—The House committee on military affairs has agreed on and favorably reported a joint resolution reviving the grade of lieutenant general in the army.

It authorizes the president, whenever he deems it expedient, to appoint a lieutenant general, to be selected from those officers in the military service distinguished for courage, skill and ability, the limitation in the bill as to choice from officers "not below the grade of major general" being stricken out by the committee.

Fire Visits Springfield.

Springfield, Mass., June 22.—A $90,000 fire occurred early yesterday morning in the business portion of this city. The fire started on the second floor of the large brick block at the corner of Main street and Harrison avenue, at 2.40 o'clock and for over an hour the fire department was kept busy fighting the flames. The block is owned by the Rothwell estate of Boston and was formerly known as the Kibbe block.

Ordered to Santiago.

Washington, June 22.—The war department has issued orders to Brig. General Henry M. Duffield to proceed with his entire brigade from Camp Alger to Fort Monroe, where they will take transports for Santiago.

The brigade comprises the Ninth Massachusetts and Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth Michigan, about 3,000 men in all.

ESTIMATING HIS VALUE.

The Retaining Fee That a Stranger Gave a Young Lawyer.

Judge Bobbs is one of those men who have attained a standing in their profession that permits them to admit faults in their earlier career without impairing their present standing as able lawyers.

"I once had an experience while coming west on a train from New York that I'll never forget," tells the Judge. "After three other gentlemen and myself had played whist for a couple of hours, we fell to discussing numerous subjects of current interest. One of our number seemed to be absorbed in his own meditations and contributed but little to the conversation. Finally, as pertinent to a subject under consideration, he propounded a somewhat complex problem in law and turned to me for an answer, for I had not neglected to make known my calling.

"Not being able to furnish him with a solution, I foolishly sought to cover my ignorance by a resort to dignity and a pretended regard for professional ethics. 'This is not the time or place for transacting legal business,' said I. 'The question you submit is a very important one,'—I went on, with the solemnity of an owl and about the same degree of wisdom. 'I would be glad to give you the benefit of my opinion and advice at my office and after receiving a retainer.' With that I handed him my card, on which appeared the fact that I was an attorney and counselor-at-law, notary public, member of a sure-thing collection agency, real estate operator, Circuit court commissioner, and life insurance man.

"He looked at the thing in an amused way, reached into his pocket, handed me a half dollar with the remark that he had nothing smaller, and repeated his law question. While I was arranging to thrash him one of the other men whispered to me that it was Rufus Choate. I sneaked into the smoker, pulled my cap over my face, and never removed it till I reached the home depot."—Detroit Free Press.

ARRIVAL AT SANTIAGO

Shafter's Army Ready For the Battle.

OFFICIAL CALLE DESPATCH

The Journey Was Without Incident—A Few Mild Cases of Fever and Measles on Shipboard—Men Are in Good Spirits—Cable Communication Re-established—The Plans for the Invasion Are Closely Guarded.

Washington, June 22.—General Shafter has officially reported his arrival off Santiago. The dispatch was received by Secretary Alger over the leased cable at Guantanamo. General Shafter reached Santiago Monday noon and at once proceeded to the flagship New York, where he had an extended consultation with Admiral Sampson over the plan of campaign.

The establishment of a cable connection between Guantanamo and Washington causes almost as much rejoicing in administration circles as the safe arrival of General Shafter's forces. The president is now enabled to have direct communication with Admiral Sampson and General Shafter, as the campaign against Santiago progresses. He is also enabled to exchange communications with the land and water forces without having the messages pass through foreign channels.

General Shafter reports the safe arrival of all his transports without accident and he is very well satisfied with the condition of the troops after the trip from Tampa.

The news was promptly communicated to the navy department, where there was a general expression of satisfaction at the notification that they will be able hereafter to communicate directly with Sampson.

The war department is guarding closely the plans of the army in connection with the invasion of Santiago, and it is said that the exact point of landing is still a secret. The various points where successful landings may be effected were discussed Sunday evening as General Shafter and Admiral Sampson sat upon the quarter deck of the flagship New York.

Mole St. Nicholas, Hayti, June 22.—The United States army for the invasion of Cuba, about 16,000 strong, commanded by Major General William R. Shafter, arrived off Santiago de Cuba at noon Monday. The time of its disembarkation has not yet been determined upon, but it will probably be within the next three days.

When the fleet of thirty-seven transports, with its freight of fighting men, swept up the southern coast yesterday and slowed up within sight of the fortifications of the city of Santiago de Cuba, the arrival of the anxiously awaited soldiers was greeted with ringing cheers from the decks of the blockading warships far in shore. The men on the troop ships also cheered when they saw the vessels of the blockading squadron.

It was ten o'clock in the morning when the lookout on board the armored cruiser Brooklyn reported seeing the smoke of several steamers away to the southeast, and a moment or so later he announced that a dozen transports were in sight. Then signals were exchanged from ship to ship, gladdening the hearts of the weary blockaders. Then the United States auxiliary cruiser Gloucester, formerly J. Pierpont Morgan's steam yacht Corsair, dashed away to meet and welcome the troops. About half an hour later a forest of masts had sprung up apparently from the sea and an impressive scene was presented as the fleet swept up from the horizon towards the shore, where the great struggle is to take place.

The transports were ranged in three shifting lines, with the battleship Indiana on the extreme right and the other men of war on the outskirts of the fleet. In this order the transports and their escorts steamed slowly in towards the hills where the red walls of Morro Castle gleamed in the sunlight.

It had been intended to take the entire fleet to the lines of Rear Admiral Sampson's squadron of warships, but an order from the admiral stopped the advance of the ships about fifteen miles to the southeast, and escorted by the Gloucester, General Shafter went forward on the Seguranca to confer with the admiral.

The transports lay on the smooth sea while the plans were discussed by the leaders on board the flagship. No intimation of their intentions regarding the landing has been allowed to escape. Undoubtedly, however, some of the troops will be landed at Guantanamo bay, in order to relieve the marines there. It is generally believed, however, that the main body of the troops will be landed much nearer Santiago de Cuba.

The long and trying journey from Tampa has left the men in much better condition than was anticipated. There are fourteen mild cases of typhoid on the hospital ship, among them being Major Hooton of the Twenty-fifth infantry. There are also several cases of measles. There are no serious cases of sickness. Owing to the smoothness of the passage the soldiers were not generally affected by seasickness and they are wildly anxious to get on shore and begin fighting.

To Postpone the Stamp Act.

Washington, June 22.—Secretary Gage has written to the House ways and means committee and the Senate finance committee, stating that it is absolutely impossible to put the adhesive stamp sections of the war revenue measure into operation on July 1, and asking that the time be extended until July 15, and that the commission be increased from one to three per cent. in order to increase popular interest in the distribution of the stamps.

The secretary of the treasury has enlarged the list of cities where bank check stamps will be imprinted by the addition of Boston Minneapolis and Galveston. The other cities are New York, Chicago, St. Louis, San Francisco and Atlanta. Proposals for doing the work in the first three cities named will be received at the bureau of internal revenue, Washington, by telegraph or mail until next Saturday at noon.

Two Ounces of Blood Daily

Two ounces of blood will fill a small wine glass, and that is the quantity of rich, red blood which is daily added to your blood vessels when you take one of Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids with each meal three times daily.

No other iron medicine will do this, because all others are unnatural or acid preparations of iron, while Capsuloids contain natural iron identical with the iron already in your blood.

You cannot take any ordinary iron medicine, because it's acid, and injures teeth, stomach and bowels; but

You can take Capsuloids, or natural iron medicine, because it contains no acid, is perfectly natural, and perfectly mild.

Infants and invalids, as well as adults, take Capsuloids without feeling them in the slightest, even though they have never been able to take any other kind of iron medicine.

What are Capsuloids? They are the natural iron called Hæmoglobin, extracted from the blood of healthy young bullocks. This natural iron is just the same as the iron in the human blood. We then enclose this dissolved natural iron in little soft pointed globes of pure gelatine. They are easily swallowed, are free from taste and smell, and their contents enter the blood within from one to three minutes after they are taken into the stomach.

Capsuloids is the greatest of all tonics for the nerves, heart, lungs, bronchial tubes, mucus membranes, liver, bowels, kidneys, and especially for all monthly irregularities, when these organs are affected with blood diseases.

Capsuloids act entirely through the blood, enriching it and increasing its quantity two ounces daily. The effect upon the health, color, nerves and spirits is seen almost immediately. Think of the power and effect of adding two ounces of rich, red, new blood each day!

Many doctors have ceased using all other kinds of iron, and prescribe Capsuloids exclusively. Send for pamphlet, containing their testimonies, and local testimonials.

DR. CAMPBELL'S RED BLOOD FORMING CAPSULOIDS

are sold at 50 cents a box. 6 boxes for $2.50 by L. W. RANDOLPH, Prescription Druggist, 143 W. FRONT ST. or sent by mail on receipt of price by

PUBLIC NOTICE.

County of Union } ss.
City of Plainfield }

Public notice is hereby given that application by petition has been made to the Mayor and Common Council of the City of Plainfield for the consent of said Mayor and Common Council of the City of Plainfield to construct, operate and maintain a street railway upon the following streets and avenues in said city of Plainfield: East Second street from Watchung avenue to the present terminus of East Second street, between Leland avenue and Netherwood avenue; thence over a private right of way in continuation of said East Second street to the line of the City of Plainfield in Terrill road; and in Richmond street from East Fifth street to East Second street. That said petition has been presented by the Plainfield Street Railway Company, a corporation organized under the laws of this State. That said petition was filed with the Clerk of the City of Plainfield on the 6th day of June, eighteen hundred and ninety-eight. The road intended to be constructed, operated and maintained is either a single track street railway or a double track street railway, and the motive power to be used thereon is electricity to be supplied from overhead wires, supported by poles, and the streets through which the same shall extend are as above mentioned.

The Common Council of the City of Plainfield has fixed Thursday, the thirtieth day of June, eighteen hundred and ninety-eight, at eight o'clock in the evening, as the time, and the Council Chamber, No. 109 Park avenue, in the said City of Plainfield, as the place, at which said Common Council will consider said application and will give a public hearing to all persons interested therein.

The Mayor and Common Council of the City of Plainfield.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the following Ordinance has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Council to adopt the same.

GEO. B. WILLIAMS,
City Clerk, pro tem.

Plainfield, N. J., June 13th, 1898.

AN ORDINANCE

to amend an ordinance entitled "An Ordinance to License Inns and Taverns and to Regulate and Prohibit the Sale of Spirituous and Fermented Liquors," approved February 10th, 1892, amended April 7th, 1894.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

That there be added to said ordinance the two following sections, to be numbered Sections 25 and 26 respectively:

"Sec. 25. That any license heretofore granted and now in force, or that may hereafter be granted, under the provisions of this ordinance, may, at the discretion of the Common Council, be renewed by the Common Council for the period of one year from date of the expiration thereof, upon application of the licensed person or persons respectively, and it shall not be requisite in order to such renewal that the application therefor shall have annexed thereto any certificate of citizens or freeholders or any affidavit or affidavits; provided that such applicant for renewal of license shall not have been therefore convicted of violating any of the ordinances of the City of Plainfield, or any of the laws of this State; and provided further that before receiving any renewal of license as herein contemplated, the applicant shall enter into recognizance in the same manner as if said license was applied for or granted under the appropriate foregoing section of said ordinance.

"Sec. 26. That upon petition of any person duly licensed under this ordinance, or his legal representative, the Common Council may, pursuant to Chapter CLXXIX of the public laws of New Jersey for the year 1892, permit a transfer of the license held by such applicant to another person to be named in such application, to be designated in said application, upon the payment of a transfer fee hereby fixed at the sum of Twenty-Five Dollars in each case."

PHILIPPINE AFFAIRS A PUZZLE.

What Shall Be Done With the Philippines When They Are Conquered.

Washington, June 22.—The recent turn in affairs which puts Aguinaldo in the position of a cat watching a mouse in a narrow hole is embarrassing to our government, on the theory that we intend to follow up our victory at Manila by the reduction of the whole Philippine group. Already, before we have actually taken possession of the principal city on the principal island, our statesmen at the capital are announcing their policies and plans for disposing of the entire Philippine system. On one hand is heard the discussion of whether we can hold the islands as security for the payment of a heavy war indemnity from Spain. But what would this mean? That if Spain were to tender the money we demanded we should have to surrender the islands. Meanwhile, if the insurgents had overcome the Spaniards, should we be compelled to suppress the insurrection before turning the islands over to their former owner?

The prompt arrival of reinforcements for Rear Admiral Dewey may solve a part of the difficulty, for if Augusti is able to hold the insurgents at bay till a sufficient force of United States troops is at hand to enable him to surrender to us instead of to the rebels, the general belief here is that he will do so, and his recent hopeless and forlorn reports of the situation indicate this intent.

We should then take possession of Manila, and constructively of the whole Philippine group, establish a military government and await further events, the insurgents being given their choice between submitting to our authority peacefully or by compulsion.

All this explains the anxiety of the Washington authorities to hasten the Merritt expedition in every possible manner, even at the expense of drawing away some of the men and material really needed for operations against Cuba and Porto Rico.

The fact that we are taking such precautions to prevent the embarrassments incident to a complete mastery of the situation at Manila before our policy for the future is definitely formed does not absolutely indicate what that policy will be. As things look now, we may leave the other islands in the group to their fate and hold Luzon as our own territory, thus satisfying the cravings of the annexation element in the Senate with the least possible concession from the life long policy of our republic. This is evidently the purpose which is now taking shape in the mind of the president.

It has been suggested that the Philippine islands, if taken as a whole by us, might be handed over to the insurgents for the establishment of a republic, under an agreement that they should pay for their possession by giving us their surplus taxes and customs receipts after paying the expenses of local government. Whatever may be thought of this plan later, the administration is not in the mood for considering it seriously now.

RUMORED SHOOTING OF BLANCO.

Said to Have Been Wounded by a Man Whose Brother He Had Put to Death.

Washington, D. C., June 22.—There is an unconfirmed story here of an attempted assassination of Captain General Blanco by Mariano Salva, a young Cuban member of the volunteer army, and of a condition of affairs in Havana bordering on revolution as a consequence.

The story has it that Blanco was severely wounded in the thigh.

According to the rumor, which was started by a Cuban, Salva was a guard in General Blanco's palace. Salva's brother had been shot by order of General Blanco for alleged treason. Salva planned revenge, and as Blanco was emerging from the palace with his staff shot him. Officers who tried to cut down Salva, it is said, were prevented from doing so by Salva's comrades among the volunteers. The would-be assassin is said to be in Morro.

The story goes that the news of the attempted assassination spread rapidly over the city and long before nightfall its inhabitants were in a state of uproar. The volunteers, sympathizing with their dead comrade and his imprisoned brother, fomented the confusion and paraded the streets, shouting "Down with Blanco! Long live Weyler!" and shouting loudly for the recall of Weyler to Havana.

Places of business were closed and the peaceful residents vacated them and their houses and took refuge in the country.

The position in which General Blanco now finds himself is a doubly serious one. The volunteers are wildly excited over his action and are bitter in their condemnation of him, and especially loud in their demands for the return of General Weyler.

HAWAII IN THE SENATE.

Debate on the Annexation Resolution Continued Yesterday.

Washington, June 22.—Almost immediately after the Senate convened yesterday the resolution for the annexation of Hawaii was laid before it.

Pending its consideration Mr. Roach of North Dakota who had been quoted in a Washington paper as favorable to the annexation of Hawaii, rose to a question of personal privilege. He said he had not made the statement attributed to him, and as a matter of fact was opposed and always had been to the annexation of Hawaii.

Mr. Mitchell of Wisconsin delivered a speech in opposition to annexation. He declared that the nation just now was shorn of its judgment. The effort to establish our government in the far East and the adoption of a policy of imperialism was evidence of that. He thought the seizure of Hawaii would remove all doubt as to our land grabbing intentions.

He declared that the annexation project was a clumsy cover for the sugar magnates, from around the edges of which the saccharine juice dripped to the advantage of all who cared to avail themselves of it.

The Cadiz Fleet Returns.

AN ENGLISHMAN'S STORY

Refugees from Havana Arrive in New York—An Interesting Narrative of Affairs in the Blockaded City—Plenty of Provisions but Famine Prices—The Fortifications Have Been Greatly Strengthened.

New York, June 22.—The Atlas line steamer Altai arrived at Pier 6, North river, yesterday from Kingston, Jamaica, and other West Indian ports. Among her passengers were British refugees from Havana and several Cubans who, after the declaration of war, had made their way to Kingston.

The refugees were conveyed from Havana to Kingston two weeks ago by the English warship Talbot.

They say that after leaving the Cuban capital, the Talbot was fired upon first by a blank and next with a solid shot by one of the American tugboats doing blockade duty. The latter, upon discovering its mistake, gave up the chase and returned to its post. The incident caused a little surprise on the British warship, but the officers afterwards considered the warlike attitude of the tugboat a good joke. They admitted that the Americans aboard the tiny craft were plucky fellows to pit their small pounders against rifled cannon of large calibre. If the British warship had been a Spaniard the tug would doubtless have joined battle.

One of the Altai's passengers, a young Englishman, who declines to give his name for publication, speaking about the situation in Havana at the time of his leaving, a fortnight ago, said:

"There is plenty of provisions, but on account of the blockade merchants are demanding such high prices that the poor classes are unable to purchase them. These people, of course, are living on short rations, and, as the blockade continues they will suffer and many of them will be starved to death. All the Cubans opposed to Spanish rule on the island who could sneak out of Havana have gone to live in the fields and take their chances with the insurgents, who are crowding in towards the line of forts on each side of the city.

"Havana is to-day much better protected than at the time of the declaration of war. Had the latter been followed up by a dash and a fierce bombardment of the forts at the entrance of the harbor, the city would have surrendered quickly.

"But not a moment in the delay of the attack by the Americans has been lost by Blanco. Night and day the soldiers are at work mounting new guns, placing mines or constructing earthworks along the shore and away back in the country. Blanco has a large force at his command, regiments and volunteers, which can roughly be estimated at 125,000 men.

"Until the declaration came the Spaniards never thought that the United States would go to war for the Cubans. Even the destruction of the Maine was not considered to be sufficient cause for the Americans to join in the fight. But, at last, when McKinley and Congress decided to make war, Blanco began his preparations for defence. They are going on still and unless the Spaniards prove to be abject cowards, the taking of Havana will not be accomplished without a terrible encounter and a great sacrifice of lives on both sides. The Spaniards in the city, who now consider themselves secure, laugh at the delay on the part of the Americans for their failure to fall upon Havana immediately after they decided to fight for the freedom of Cuba.

"There are hundreds of Americans in the city anxious to get out before the bombardment commences, but unfortunately they will have to remain, for the British consul, who is supposed to be looking after the interests of citizens of the United States in Havana will do nothing for them. This is not hearsay, for I pleaded with him to allow an American friend of mine named Carpenter to accompany me on the Talbot to Kingston.

"The consul refused to let Carpenter leave, saying that no Americans would be permitted on the Talbot. Strange to say, however, he put several Spanish officers aboard the British warship and they were taken to Kingston. One of these was Commandante Ramon Mendez, who had been the military censor in Havana. If Americans were not to be allowed on the neutral warship I consider it a shame to have permitted Spanish military officials on the Talbot.

"The British consul in Havana is supposed to be looking after the interests of American citizens, but although an Englishman myself, I consider it my duty to let the world know how unfair the representative of her majesty's government and the delegated representative of the United States has acted in the case of Carpenter and other citizens of the United States in the beleaguered city."

The other refugees from Havana were a Mr. Goudy, a commission merchant, and his family, and Samuel Giberga, Costa Rican consul to Havana. The latter, owing to his position, declined to speak on matters connecting other nations. Besides these there came as passengers on the Atlas liner Samuel P. Smeeton, registrar general of Jamaica, and the Hon. William Kerr. Mr. Smeeton said that at present trere are about 300 Cuban refugees in the colony at Kingston.

Soldiers Poisoned

Jacksonville, Fla., June 22.—From 20 to 30 members of Company E, First Wisconsin regiment, were taken seriously ill Monday night and there is fering from poison. Major Evans, surfering from poison. Major Evans, surgeon of the regiment, prescribed for the sick men and partly relieved their suffering.

The food is the only cause to which the illness can be attributed. The men ate canned beans, bread and potatoes. An analysis will be made to determine if the food was affected.

EXPEDITION MAY SAIL SATURDAY

Work of Getting Troops and Transports Into Shape Is Nearly Completed.

San Francisco, June 22.—With the addition of 300 recruits for Minnesota, 150 for Iowa and 160 men of the Astor battery, the force of troops at Camp Merritt has been increased to 12,200. Three hundred and fifty-two recruits from Kansas and Tennessee arrived yesterday and a number of recruits from Idaho and Iowa were looked for last evening. On Thursday 260 men, recruited to fill the Seventh California regiment, will reach Camp Merritt.

The First regiment of California volunteers has been recruited up to the maximum and to-day the 300 new men will be turned over to Colonel Berry of the Seventh regiment, who will take them to Manila.

Work on the third fleet of transports has progressed so favorably that they will all probably be able to sail Saturday. The monitor Monadnock and the collier Hero are expected to start for Manila at the same time.

After the departure of the next expedition the remaining troops will be brigaded by Major General Otis.

The work on the cruiser Philadelphia is nearly completed. The ship's main battery of 6-inch guns has been swung aboard and set in position. The ship has been painted the war color. She will be taken out of the dock the first of next week.

The new deck of the United States steamship Adams has been about completed and that ship will soon be ready for commission.

The old iron cruiser Ranger will be hauled into the quay walls shortly and converted as rapidly as possible into a modern gunboat.

Work on the Yorktown is being expedited as much as possible and as fast as the men get through with the Philadelphia they will be transferred to the Yorktown.

A LAUNCHING DISASTER.

Twenty-seven People Drowned at Blackwall England.

London, June 22.—An extraordinary disaster occurred yesterday at Blackwall.

During the launching of the new British first class battleship Albion, of 12,950 tons, under the auspices of the Duchess of York, a ceremony at which the United States ambassador, Colonel John Hay, and Mrs. Hay, and Lieutenant Colwell, the United States naval attache, assisted, the displacement of water by the hull caused an immense mass of water to rise on all sides, completely submerging one of the lower stages of the yard and immersing hundreds of people.

The bodies of twenty-seven men, women and children have thus far been recovered, and it is estimated that 50 persons were drowned.

Another report, which was discredited in London, said that he warship sank.

The Duchess of York and Colonel and Mrs. Hay and the remainder of the distinguished guests were unable to see the accident, which occurred at the moment when three cheers were called for the successful launch, and the cries and screams of the victims were drowned by the outburst of hurrahs and the steamers' sirens.

STEAMSHIP PANAMA SOLD.

Bought by Uncle Sam for $41,000—May Be Used as a Transport.

New York, June 22.—The Spanish prize steamer Panama was sold at auction yesterday to the United States government for $41,000. It is likely the vessel will be utilized as a transport.

Many persons were on hand to bid for the big prize. Mr. D. H. Burdett was the auctioneer. In opening the sale he said the vessel was well supplied with linen, mattresses and silverware and that she had a cargo of 200 tons of coal on board.

The first bid offered was $5,000, and the second $20,000. Bidding was spirited until the sum of $30,000 was reached, and then it slackened until $41,000 was offered by Macy & Dunham of No. 46 Pine street, who represented the United States government, and at this sum the prize was knocked down.

THE HAVANA BLOCKADE.

Occasional Shots from Morro Castle and the Land Batteries.

Key West, June 22.—A vessel which has arrived here from the blockading fleet off Havana reports that there have been no incidents worth noting excepting occasional shooting from Morro Castle and the land batteries. Three searchlights have been mounted on the fortifications, one at Cojimar, one at Morro Castle and one at the Reina battery.

Last Friday three Spanish gunboats and some larger vessels, apparently merchantmen, left Havana harbor and proceeded eastward, close in shore. The auxiliary gunboat Maple fired upon them and they returned to port and have not since attempted a sortie.

A Monument to Bagley.

Raleigh, N. C., June 22.—The plan of erecting a monument to Ensign Worth Bagley with popular subscriptions, limited to one dollar from each contributor, has resulted in the receipt thus far of about $2,000. Something over twice that amount is desired, and subscriptions to any amount will hereafter be received by the secretary of the Morning Post of this city, the originator of the movement. One New York gentleman, moved by a published appeal in the Evening Post, has forwarded $250 through a banker, who is instructed not to reveal his identity.

Sagasta May Resign.

Madrid, June 22.—There are rumors current here that the Cortes may suspend its sessions during the coming week, when Senor Puigcerver, the minister of finance, will resign, in which event it is thought the premier, Senor Sagasta, will be compelled to submit to the queen regent a question of confidence in the ministry.

It is possible, therefore, that Senor Sagasta will resign, in which case, it is added, a national government, pledged to the most energetic course, will succeed his ministry.

A Steamer Foundered.

St. Johns, N. F., June 22.—The British steamer Para, Captain Gausden, from Swansea, June 8, for Tilt Cove, N. F., has foundered near Tilt Cove from contact with ice. It is also stated that the crew were saved.

New Brunswick.

We feel sorry for those esteemed fellows whose duty it is to edit the papers of New Brunswick and, as often as their retiring natures will permit, to sound praises of the alleged beautiful things with which the old Dutch town commends itself to those seeking a desirable place in which to enjoy their alloted time on earth. To religiously read the newspapers of New Brunswick one would believe that it is the all-around finest town on the face of the globe. The exact condition of things over there, however, indicate that there is little cause for bragging. In fact, New Brunswick is so far behind the times that it is in about the same class of municipalities as Samptown, Dog Tavern, Oak Tree and other picturesque towns known in Jersey nomenclature.

One of the essential advantages for a town that has even the simplest pretences, is to have the streets fairly lighted. Such a condition is but a dream in New Brunswick. For years the enterprising solons of the town have been maintaining a co partnership with the moon to the imminent peril of its staid citizens suffering untold injuries in stumbling over the rickety sidewalks whose defects the moon not infrequently failed to disclose. As a brand of up-to-date government this alliance with the moon has been a colossal failure, and probably, outside of the firewater dispensed in the several scores of ginmills operating day and night, has been the cause of more profanity than any other thing existing in New Brunswick.

In days gone by we have read long editorials of what delights New Brunswick hold out for New York business men to take up their residence there. The following unbiased paragraph is taken from the New York Sun, (and "if you see it in The Sun it's so,") under a despatch sent from New Brunswick:

Trains leave this place on an average of about one an hour. The average commuter does not leave his home until the time comes for the train that reaches New York just in time for him to reach his place of business, and if he misses that train he has to wait for a train that will make him an hour late. So every morning whenever a train pulls into the station there is sure to be a number of men running toward the depot, climbing over and crawling under the lowered gates—sometimes getting on board the train as it pulls out, and sometimes getting left altogether.

Military Operations.

The policy of war which chose the eastern end of Cuba as the first really serious objective is a wise one, as it took many varied considerations into view. Successful attack by land and sea at this point, with the fall of Santiago, means the effective reduction of the whole of eastern Cuba, nearly half of the island, and will greatly shrink the iron band in process of compression about Havana. The concentration of forces for the operations against the capital alike from the sea front and the rear will make the early surrender of that city inevitable as quickly as movement to this end shall have been made with the ripening of occasion.

In the meantime the troops co-operating with the navy in eastern Cuba will have the advantage of the most efficient help from the insurgents, who are in largest force in this part of the island. The climate and conditions are better here than in the west for unacclimatized men who are compelled to do summer campaigning, and the supply of available food in the country is greater. It

MAP OF SANTIAGO PROVINCE.

The province of Santiago de Cuba is practically the first point which has been attacked seriously by the United States army and naval forces. This is doubtless due to the bottling up of Cervera's fleet in the harbor of the city of Santiago. Guantanamo Bay, where 600 marines were landed by Lieutenant Colonel Huntington, is about 30 miles east of the entrance of Santiago harbor where Morro Castle and Socapa Castle were smashed by the big guns of Rear Admiral Sampson's and Commodore Schley's warships. Santiago was formerly the capital of Cuba and is the second city of importance on the island.

furnishes a convenient basis of operations against Puerto Rico, which lies nearer this portion of the island. For this reason alone such a campaign is most desirable. It has been logically enforced on the conviction of the government at Washington that the attack on Puerto Rico should be made with the least practicable delay. Diplomatic and military considerations demand that all war operations shall be prosecuted with the most drastic energy, even in the face of overtures from the enemy and any peace protocols proposed by foreign powers at the plea of Spain. With Puerto Rico and the Philippines in our military possession diplomacy rests on an immutable basis in securing as the final result, in settling terms of peace, the only sure indemnity which we can expect from a bankrupt nation. Our sanest policy in any contingency is to perfect first the grip of steel.

Our line of strategy makes a smaller demand on us than would a present concentration of our energies against Havana and offers a more probable outcome of quick success. It gives the larger portion of our undrilled troops the more time for complete organization, for equipment in full, for drill and field work—in a word, for the whole of that process which transforms a man into a hardy and effective fighter who can take good care of himself as well as of his enemy. The policy of the government seems to be to conduct this war with as little unnecessary loss of life as possible to accomplish the end in view. Skillful warmaking never hesitates to pour out lives lavishly when needful, but it will not do so recklessly and without counting the cost.

A National Lesson.

The difficulty of creating and mobilizing an effective army in a few weeks was taught us during the late civil war with bloody emphasis. A similar lesson, though less cruelly enforced, has lately been brought home to our experience. Our national guard system as a reliable nursery of troops disciplined and equipped for prompt action is full of faults. In short, it is not a good working apparatus, except as a means of repressing local disturbances. Possibly this has been regarded as the rightful compass of its operation. Suddenly developed need finds our militia for the most part defective in regimental organization and very imperfectly equipped for the field. The question is not one of mere drill in the manual of arms or of company and battalion tactics or of parade marching. These are only the alphabet of the good soldier's acquirement. While the inherent defects are not inevitable in the state control of our militia, they are its natural outcome.

Military men are more and more convinced that the constitution of a first rate national guard would be best insured by this force passing from the management of the state to that of the general government. By this means the militia could easily be preserved in a state of excellent general efficiency, uniformly armed, organized and equipped, ready at any time for prompt service. But the jealousy inherent in our states rights convictions will probably always operate to prevent this change of base. It may be that such jealousy is the part of a larger wisdom, though it makes the machinery creak and go ramshackle in some of its details. But it is at all events practicable for the states to enlarge and perfect their national guard methods under the supervision and advice of the war department and thus secure uniformity and exactness of administration. This would go far to cure the more obvious evils and insure a trustworthy force ready for easy mobilization.

One of the most useful of philanthropic institutions has been started and is operating successfully in New York. It provides for recently discharged convicts of but one imprisonment. It aims to rehabilitate the unfortunate man in his own self respect and to find employment for him. This is a form of benevolence to be imitated.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

When the steam roller first came it was the custom of those in charge to place signs at either end of the block on which the roller was at work, saying "Danger, Steam Roller at Work." That precaution has not been observed of late, and horses and carriages are allowed to venture close to roller without warning.

Everybody on North avenue, turned and looked yesterday noon when they saw a file of colored men marching down that thoroughfare, headed by one of Uncle Sam's blue coat carriers. Although there are plenty of martial signs about the country Plainfield has seen little and any little military demonstration attracts considerable attention.

The good old ordinary has grown with the evolution of the bicycle to become as uncommon a sight as it was, years ago, in its infancy. There are countless wheels to be seen on the streets every day and nobody even thinks about them as they pass by so noiselessly. The sight of a high wheel, with its queer looking handlebars and little wheel trailing in the rear, now attracts lots of attention and the pedestrians stops and look back at the wheel with its rider perched way up in the air. Last week, James B. Taylor, of West Seventh street, found a small boy in need of ready cash and with a high wheel in his possession. Taylor purchased the machine, which, when new, cost $150, for 50 cents. Since then Taylor and his friends have found an endless source of amusement in the good old ordinary. It is a Columbia, 54 inch, made ten years ago. The machine is now in fair condition, but bids fair to be a wreck in a short time. Taylor learned its peculiarities after flying over the handlebars several times. Now the other boys scrape sudden acquaintance with curbstones, neighboring trees and whatever else happens to be around.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Three ways in which you can get a Piano from us:

ONE.—You can pay cash for it, and thus save the slight additional charge for time payments. The house that says: "No extra charge for instalments" is insincere; it has a lower price for cash, or else it doesn't want to sell except on time.

TWO.—Easy time payments; in most instances a first payment of TEN DOLLARS will secure a Piano at once. Later payments according to your ability.

THREE.—You can rent a new Upright of your own choosing at as low as $4. per month, and if you decide to purchase within a reasonable time we'll allow all the rent you have paid.

All three ways are good ways.

A HERALD OF MERCY.

FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE AND HER WONDERFUL WORK.

A Story of the Most Remarkable Woman of the Nineteenth Century—The Hell She Found Became a Heaven of Cleanliness and Comfort.

War is not all blood and glory. It has its gentler side, represented by noble women, whose work requires a more indomitable spirit and a nobler courage than to go "down into the jaws of death" during the heat and excitement of battle. The army nurse must sacrifice ease, health, and all the home comforts so dear to woman's heart; and face death in the pestilential atmosphere of the fetid and overcrowded corridors of the hospital. She must become a constant attendant on the most loathsome diseases and frightful wounds; and shrink from no peril nor horror of blood nor death. History affords no nobler examples of heroic womanhood than are furnished by these ministering angels of the battlefield. The truth of this is best exemplified in the life and work of Florence Nightingale, the soldier's friend.

FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE, IN 1864.

Miss Nightingale was born in Florence, the "City of Flowers," during the month of May, 1820, while her parents were sight-seeing in Italy. She was the youngest daughter of Mr. William Shore Nightingale of Embly Park, Hampshire, and of Lea Hurst, Derbyshire, England. Her father was wealthy; and the home of her youth was a comfortable old Elizabethan manor-house situated in one of the most lovely parts of Derbyshire. She was educated at home by private governesses. Mr. Nightingale, a highly-cultured, scholarly man, evidently favored the advanced education of girls, for before his famous daughter had reached her seventeenth birthday she was skilled in science, classics, and mathematics, and was well-read in standard literature, a fair artist, a good musician, and could speak and read French, German and Italian fluently. In addition to this she did fancy needlework; and on the walls of her old home at Lea Hurst still may be seen samples of her skill with the needle. She lived the freest of outdoor lives, walking through the lovely country surrounding her home, and riding over the hills on her pony. It was during one of these rides, with her friend, the vicar, that the "queen of nurses" found her first patient, a dog. The incident shows a tenderness of heart and thoughtfulness rare in young girlhood.

On the ride in question they met Roger, an old Scotch shepherd, who was attempting to collect his sheep without a dog. "What has become of your dog?" inquired the vicar as he rode up to the old man.

"The boys have been throwing stones at him, sir," replied the old shepherd, "and I am thinking of putting him out of his misery to-night; for his leg is broken, and he will never be any good any more."

"Poor Cap's leg broken!" and the tears came into the girl's eyes. "Oh, Roger, how could you leave poor old Cap alone in his pain? Do tell me where he is."

AS SHE IS TO-DAY.

"You can't do any good, missy," was the sorrowful reply. "I'll just bring a cord to him to-night, and that will be the best way to ease his pain. He's lying in the shed over yonder."

"Do take me to him!" and Florence lifted her tearful face to the vicar, who seeing her distress turned his horse in the direction of the shed. In a moment Florence was by the side of the suffering dog, kneeling on the muddy floor, so intent on doing something to ease the pain of the animal that she thought not of the dress she was ruining. Fortunately Cap's leg was not broken, only bruised and hurt; and under the ministrations of his loving nurse he soon recovered.

This action is typical of the whole life of Florence Nightingale. She could never see suffering without striving her utmost to relieve it. It soon became the custom of the neighborhood, when anyone had a cut or a bruise or there was a sick animal, to send for "Miss Florence." It was as natural for her to help the needy as for the sun to shine. Her favorite books were those which told how to alleviate suffering and misery. Instinctively she was fitting herself for her great life work.

Her parents belonged to an old and wealthy family, and in due time Florence was presented at Court and took her place in society; but, even during her first season, she took a much greater interest in the hospitals and charitable institutions of London, than she did in the gay social life of the metropolis; and shortly after withdrew from it altogether. She now began a systematic study of the hospitals of London, Dublin and Edinburgh; and compared them with those in leading Continental cities. She found their greatest need to be trained women nurses. Miss Nightingale determined to fit herself to become a skilled nurse; but to secure the needed training she was obliged to go to Kaiserwerth on the Rhine, where there was an unique Protestant institution for the training of nursing sisters. Hither she went, in 1851, and enrolled herself as a voluntary nurse in order to secure the prized knowledge. Afterward she continued her studies at the hospital in Paris. Her health failed and she was obliged to return to England

Then came the war of Crimea. The reports which reached England daily, of brave men literally dying by hundreds in the hospitals for want of ordinary human attention, stirred the motherhood of England until it arose and demanded that, regardless of custom, precedent, and red tape, women should go to care for the sick and the dying. The demand was granted; and Mr. Sidney Herbert, the head of the War Department, wrote to Miss Nightingale offering her the command of this novel expedition of nurses. The same day that Mr. Herbert penned his letter, a pale, fragile, thoughtful woman at Lea Hurst sat down and wrote to the War Minister offering her services. It was not until the next day that Miss Nightingale received Mr. Herbert's letter. She was to leave for the East in eight days.

On October 21, 1854, all was ready and Miss Nightingale, accompanied by thirty-eight nurses, started on her noble mission. It was not until November 5 that this little band of "angel women" reached Constantinople. They at once took up their quarters in the great Barrack Hospital at Scutari, and began their work. The Lady-in-Chief, as Miss Nightingale officially was called, found the condition of the hospital indescribably horrible. There was no sanitary arrangements. It was frightfully overcrowded. The men were covered with vermin, and rats bit the limbs of the helpless wounded. The beds were reeking with filth. There was no laundry, no kitchen and the meals were served in the roughest manner. Added to this there was a scarcity of food, coverings and the commonest necessities of life. This was the Augean stable the frail English woman had to clean; but she cleansed it. The day after her arrival she received the wounded from the glorious charge of Balaclava, and in a few months she had ten thousand sick and wounded under her care.

Nothing daunted her. Her endurance was phenomenal. Wherever the danger was the greatest and the need cried loudest there her slight form was to be seen. The suffering soldiers almost worshipped her. Dying men turned to kiss her shadow as it fell.

All yielded to the indomitable will of Miss Nightingale. She re-organized the entire military hospital system. Order sprang out of chaos at her bidding. The hell she found became a heaven of cleanliness and comfort. At her call all England arose to help the work. Contributions of money poured in. At the end of six months the hospital arrangements were such as to satisfy even Miss Nightingale. She remained here for two years, never faltering in her work.

In 1856, when peace was declared, all England sought to honor her homecoming. But the brave little woman embarked under an assumed name, and reached her beloved Lea Hurst even before her family knew she had left Scutari. She refused all public ovations; and devoted the $250,000, which the gratitude of a nation presented to her, to the building of a training school for nurses, which is fittingly called the Nightingale Home. The brave and noble are modest.

A Humiliating Thought.

The young colored man was very fortunate in that the cable-car was just about to stop at a crossing when the fender struck him. He disentangled himself from the network, and, straightening himself up, inquired of the policeman:

"Whah is de recruiting office?"

The policeman gave him the proper direction and then asked:

"Were you on your way to enlist?"

"No, suh; but I done change mer min'. I ain' gwinter run no risks of habbin' it said dat I done kep' out'n de ahmy only ter meet mer death at de han's ob er streetcyah!"—Washington Star.

"He is flippant. He can't be serious if he tries."

"Yes he can. He is very serious when he tries to be funny."

Lokal-Nachrichten aus der alten Heimath.

Oesterreich.

Wien. Bei einem schweren Unwetter, wie es unsere Stadt seit langer Zeit nicht erlebt hat, zündete der Blitz an mehreren Stellen und bei den Löscharbeiten trugen nicht weniger als neun Feuerwehrleute Verletzungen davon. Ein Kind ertrank in den Fluthen.—Die 70. Lebensrettung vollbrachte kürzlich die Mannschaft des Propellers „Pfeil," der nächst der Ferdinands- und der Stephaniebrücke den Verkehr zwischen den beiden Ufern vermittelt. Der Gerettete, der 61jährige Handlungsagent Johann Priebsch dahier war wegen drückender Nothlage nächst der Ferdinandsbrücke in das Wasser gesprungen. — Nach den Aufzeichnungen des Wiener Vereins für Stadtinteressen und Fremdenverkehr sind in den Wiener Hotels während des Monats April insgesammt 29,220, das ist um 1233 mehr Fremde abgestiegen als im gleichen Monate des Vorjahres.

Amstetten. Der Eisendreher Joseph Flach aus Steyr machte nach Neugang eine Partie, bei welcher er über einen steilen Abhang in die felsige Tiefe stürzte, jedoch mit seinen Kleidern an einem Strauche zwischen Himmel und Erde hängen blieb. Auf seine Hilferufe eilte Gendarmeriewachtmeister Kriechbauer herbei, der rasch Leute und Seile requirirte, worauf Flach, der keine nennenswerthe Verletzung erlitten hatte, aus seiner furchtbaren Situation befreit wurde.

Baden. Der hier allgemein geachtete Haus- und Weingartenbesitzer Joseph Hadres, welcher schon seit Jahren an der fixen Idee leidet, daß er durch die Verwüstungen der Reblaus um sein Hab und Gut gekommen sei, wurde erhängt in seiner Wohnung aufgefunden. Er wollte sich schon vor mehreren Jahren dieser fixen Idee halber erschießen. Hadres stand im 56. Lebensjahre.

Budapest. Hier überfiel der ehemalige Finanzkontrolleur Zahary den Staatssekretär im Finanzministerium, Graentzenstein, in dessen Bureau und mißhandelte ihn. Erst nach längerem Handgemenge wurde der Ueberfallene befreit und Zahary in's Gefängniß gebracht.

Pardubitz. Der Realitätenbesitzer Dosila hat in der hiesigen Umgebung eine überaus seltene Jagdbeute gemacht. Es gelang demselben nämlich, einen großen Steinadler, welcher einen lebenden Fasan in den Krallen hatte, durch einen wohlgezielten—Peitschenhieb zu betäuben und einzufangen.

Prag. Bei einer Vorstellung von „Romeo und Julie" im czechischen Nationaltheater reichte man der bekannten Tragödin Frau Benoni, die sich, als Julie, zu erstechen hatte, aus Versehen einen spitzigen Dolch statt eines abgerundeten. In Folge dessen brachte sich die Künstlerin eine blutige Wunde an der Brust bei. Die Verletzung ist glücklicher Weise keine schwere. (Durch einen im Theater anwesenden Arzt wurde der Künstlerin ein Verband angelegt.)

Sterzing. Dieser Tage kam der erste Landauer ohne Pferde über den Brenner. Begreiflicher Weise war fast die ganze Stadt auf den Beinen, als der Benzin-Motorwagen, mit dem eine französische Familie die Rundreise über Tirol und Bayern nach Paris machte, Vormittags hier durchfuhr.

Temesvar. Hier feuerte ein Abiturient auf einen Professor, der ihm im Lateinischen eine schlechte Note gegeben hatte, einen Revolverschuß ab. Der Professor wurde lebensgefährlich verwundet.

Schweiz.

Bern. Einen interessanten Uebergang über die Furka und Grimsel nach Meiringen hat vor Kurzem der Bergführer Gamma in Göschenen mit zwei Engländern ausgeführt. Bei anfänglich schönem, nachher aber sehr schlechtem Wetter, ungeheurem Schnee und steter Lawinengefahr gelang das Wagniß ohne irgend welchen Unfall. Das ist jedenfalls das erste Mal, daß Furka und Grimsel zu dieser Jahreszeit bei so hohem Schnee überschritten wurden.

Zürich. Von einer schrecklichen Katastrophe wurde das am Züricher See belegene und ungefähr 1000 Einwohner zählende Pfarrdorf Rüschlikon heimgesucht. Durch einen plötzlichen Erdrutsch versanken ungefähr 50,000 Quadratfuß Erde in den See und mit ihnen mehrere Gebäude. Den meisten Schaden haben der Seidenfabrikant Hitz und das Baugeschäft von Hohloch und Brüngger zu verzeichnen.

Luzern. Die Stanserhornbahn ist nunmehr wieder eröffnet und werden regelmäßige Fahrten ausgeführt.—Bei Luzern entgleiste ein Sonderzug der Nordostbahn, wobei sieben Streckenarbeiter getödtet und drei verwundet wurden.

Basel. Laut Rechenschaftsbericht des schweizerischen Eisenbahndepartements waren mit Abschluß des Jahres 1897 im ganzen Lande 3896 Kilometer Eisenbahnen im Betrieb. Im abgelaufenen Jahre sind zu dem früheren Bestande 235 Kilometer neu hinzugekommen, die einem Baukapital von 55,000,000 Francs entsprechen.

Appenzell. Der Kantonsrath beschloß die Aufhebung der Ausnahmebestimmungen gegen die Heilsarmee.

AN ORDINANCE

to amend an ordinance entitled "An Ordinance Concerning Dogs," approved July 6th, 1887.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That Sections 2 and 3 of the ordinance to which this is an amendment shall be as follows:

Section 2. That there shall be established for the purpose of impounding dogs not muzzled as provided in Section 1st hereof, found running at large, a dog pound, to be in charge of a pound-master to be specially appointed. Two suitable persons shall also be specially appointed whose duty it shall be to seize and impound all dogs not muzzled as required by Section first, which shall be found running at large in the streets in said City. Said persons so appointed shall wear a shield as a badge of office, said shield to be provided by the City Clerk, and shall be entitled to receive as compensation for his services the sum of Twenty-five cents for each dog delivered by him to the pound-master. Should any person appointed as aforesaid seize or impound any dog or other than such as are not muzzled as required in Section first, he shall upon conviction be punished by a fine not exceeding Five Dollars, or imprisonment not exceeding five days, either or both.

Section 3. That all dogs delivered to the pound-master shall be subject to a charge of Twenty-five cents per day or fraction of a day for their keep while in charge of the pound-master, and a penalty of One Dollar to be paid by the owner of the dog to the pound-master for its redemption in addition to the charge for keep. The pound-master shall receive as compensation for his services, one-half of the penalties paid him, and shall be entitled further to the charges for keep before mentioned. All dogs unclaimed or unredeemed at the expiration of four days after their being impounded shall be put to death by said pound-master in the most merciful and human manner possible.

for the repairing and permanent improvement of East Ninth Street.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the roadbed of East Ninth Street, extending from the northeasterly crosswalk of Park Avenue to the southerly crosswalk of Watchung Avenue, be forthwith repaired and spread with broken stone for a width of eight feet on each side of the centre line of said street and for a depth of four inches at the general expense of the City, to be paid for (after first applying the direct contribution of property owners) out of the money raised by tax for the improvement of streets, as provided by the Act of the Legislature entitled "An act to authorize cities to make permanent improvements in the roadbeds of streets at the general expense," approved May 14, 1894.

Sec. 2. That before any work shall be done under this ordinance, the property owners along the line of the proposed improvements shall deposit with the City Treasurer the sum of six hundred and fifty dollars ($ 50 00).

Sec. 2. That the manner of placing said posts or poles shall be as follows:

They shall be firmly planted in the ground, adjacent to and within eighteen inches of the curb line on streets where curb lines have been established, and secured by cement or grouting wherever necessary to maintain the poles in an erect position, and said posts or poles shall not be less than one hundred feet apart.

Sec. 3. That said Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company be and is hereby authorized to construct and maintain for the uses of its business of generating and distributing electricity for the purposes of light, heat and power, a system of subways or underground conduits, including the necessary manholes and street openings and lateral connections to property lines beneath the surface of the streets and other highways in said City, and to drain same to storm sewers, and to place, maintain and operate in its system of subways or underground conduits the wires, cables or other electrical conductors necessary for its business, and to construct, maintain and use for such purposes a system of electrical conductors in connection with the necessary poles and appurtenances for the distribution of electricity from such conduits.

Sec. 4. That said system of subways herein authorized shall be constructed as follows: The same shall be at least three feet below the surface of the streets where located, with manholes where necessary, level with the surface of the street; the trenches shall be carefully backfilled and the material thoroughly rammed to the satisfaction of the Street Commissioner; the work of rolling and repairing the pavement shall be done by the Street Commissioner and the cost of said work shall be paid by said Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company; and all the work of constructing shall be carried on under the supervision of the Street Commissioner. In case the said company shall fail to restore, relay or repair, or cause to be restored, relaid or repaired, any pavement or street surface within forty-eight hours after receiving notice from the Street Commissioner that such work is required, said Street Commissioner shall have the right to cause such work to be done and the cost thereof shall be paid by the said Company.

Sec. 5. That said Company shall indemnify the said Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield against, and assume all liability and damages which may at any time arise, come or occur to said City from any injury to persons or property from the doing of any work herein authorized, or any work done upon under or along any of the streets of the said City by said Company, or from neglect of the Company or its employes to comply with the provisions of any ordinance of said City relative to the use of streets or highways or public places, particularly as to the erection and maintenance of lights and guards at or about excavations; and the acceptance by the Company of this ordinance shall be an agreement by it to pay to the Common Council of Plainfield any sum of money for which the City may become liable from or by reason of such injury or damage.

Sec. 6. That said Company shall construct such subways and appurtenances at the rate of at least sixteen hundred feet (1,600) each year from the date of the approval or final adoption of this ordinance until the following streets are clear of wires and poles of said Company, viz:

West Front street and East Front street from Central avenue to Watchung avenue;

Park avenue from Front street to Fourth street:

The Common Council shall have option to designate in what order subways in the streets specified in his section shall be laid and the said Company shall be at liberty to construct subways in the other streets specified in the first section of this ordinance earlier than herein specified, upon said Company applying to the Common Council and obtaining special permission in the premises.

Sec. 7. That this ordinance shall be void unless said Company shall file with the Clerk of said City its acceptance hereof within twenty days from and after the passage hereof, which acceptance shall be taken and construed to be a consent to the terms and provisions hereof, and an agreement by said Company to perform whatever is hereby required within the time or times herein limited, and said Company shall also within said period of twenty days file with the Treasurer of said City a bond, with sureties to be approved by the Mayor, in the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, conditioned for the faithful performance of the terms and conditions of this ordinance.

Sec. 8. That said Company shall pay into the Treasury of said City all advertising and printing fees incurred by the City under this ordinance, and this ordinance shall take effect immediately.

OLD ADAGE VERIFIED

MIGHTY WARS HAVE MARKED EVERY CENTURY'S CLOSE.

The Lesson of Universal History is That the End of Each Century Has Seen Some Phenomenal Disturbances Among the Nations.

The adage of history repeating itself is likely to be verified by the present war with Spain. The lesson of universal history is that the end of each century has seen some phenomenal civil disturbance either in the shape of a great war between existing nations or the struggle of a people against domestic tyranny. Without going further back it may be noted that it was toward the end of the seventh century that the Saracens invaded Armenia and Asia Minor, and at the close of the eighth Charlemagne began his wars against the Huns and defeated the Lombards, thus establishing the temporal power of the Popes. The close of the tenth century saw the conquest of King Alfred of England by the Danes; that of the eleventh the defeat of the Moors by Spain and of the Greeks by Otho II at Bareatello. Towards the end of the same century the Anglo Saxons were the slaves of the Normans in their own land after Hastings, and later there were the frightful wars of the Crusades promoted by the Church for the maintenance of the power conferred upon it by Charlemagne. The end of the thirteenth century saw the gallant Scots defeated at Dunbar and at Falkirk under Wallace. While the final years of the fourteenth century are lighted up by the story of William Tell and the defeat of the Austrians by the Swiss and of the Spaniards by the Portuguese. The evening of the fifteenth was remarkable for the battles of Bosworth in 1485, and of Bannockburn, while the closing decade of the sixteenth century saw the wreck of the Spanish Armada and the Elisabethan wars of the English in Ireland under Bagnal and Mountjoy; while those of the succeeding century, 1690, had those at the Boyne and Glencoe between William III and James II for the British. Even ancient battles like those at Marathon and Troy selected similar epochs.

But all these wars which appear to be controlled by law based on the principle that every century dies in some phenomenal social convulsion, were eclipsed by the magnitude of the events that terminated the eighteenth century. And a strange presentiment has seized the ruling classes in Europe that the present century is following in the wake of its immediate predecessor. They believe that the attitude of the United States forbodes a danger to those family groups that have survived the Renaissance and the Reformation, not because of any merit that would justify survival or preserve them from extinction, but because their chiefs have been so far fortunate in throttling the cause of liberty or balancing one rickety throne against another. These thrones are now like a lot of old houses in a street in such a position that if one falls the whole row is likely to come down with a terrific crash of dust and smoke and cinders.

The end of the eighteenth century witnessed such a change in men's minds as the world had not seen since the birth of Christ. The regime of one of the proudest European monarchs had been swept away by a fierce uprising of the French masses, and throne and altar, prelates and potentates, alike fell before the stupendous popular upheaval which sent the cold shiver of impending fear through every state of Europe. The French Revolution of 1789 was but the rumbling echo upon a distant shore of the principles of the American Declaration of Independence. "Liberty, Equality and Fraternity," was really the European interpretation of the doctrine of 1776, that all men are born free and equal and entitled to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Apart from the similarity of both sets of principles to the sentiments enumerated by Thomas Paine, the chronological order of the two revolutions and the circumstance of French soldiers under Lafayette, partaking in the American struggle, show that both revolutions followed each other as immediately as cause and effect. The French revolution was a decided stride towards the emancipation of man from the treachery of theologians and from the treason of thrones. And had its operations been controlled by wise and prudent men all Europe would have to-day a series of republican self-governing states in the closest sympathy and appreciation with one form of government instead of being a hornet's nest of sceptered schemers stalking upon liberties and sneering whenever they dare at the spirit of our institutions.

Napoleon who had more of the elements of true greatness in his composition than any other human being that ever lived, held European monarchs in wholesome contempt. He disposed of their trumpery dynasties with that ease and grace and freedom with which our American grocery man changes clerks in his tea store. If a King answered Napoleon's purposes he left him his old throne; if not the God-like Corsican peremptorily dismissed the reigning monarch, put another in his seat or converted his palace into a temporary barracks for his victorious troops. When the last century closed Desmouline and Robespierre and Marat were reincarnated and re-embodied in still more awful form in the person of Napoleon, and whom the Kings of Europe all combined to denounce and overthrow, confronted by this great man they closed up their historic feuds against one another and with one accord wheeled into line to face the common danger that threatened them for nearly twenty years from the Bridge of Lothi to the field of Waterloo.

It is because the close of the nineteenth century sees the American idea again active and promising again to work out its predestined mission in a mysterious way that there is so unusual a stir in Europe and rumors of concerts and joint notes and interventions. There is everywhere an uneasy feeling in the European air and the occupant of each throne keeps his ear close to the ground or the royal binocular trained upon the drama now being enacted in the New World, which stands to him very much in the same disquieting relation as did the affairs of France and of Napoleon at the termination of the eighteenth century. Hence the mingled feelings of fear and anxiety with which this petty Spanish-American war is regarded, and which, says one of the best informed of the London correspondents, "is a matter of greater concern to the European nations than to America herself."

Why should it be a matter of "greater concern to European nations" than to the country upon whose borders it takes place and which is one of the actual participants in the contest? It is because Europe is reposing above a sort of submarine mine that may at any moment explode. Because at the end of this as at that of the eighteenth century, their subjects are restless and unhappy, and those European powers jealous of and well acquainted with each others relative strength seen in America a new and unknown quantity suddenly precipitated into the situation and whose latent powers they are all unable to guage accurately. It is as if the spectre of the French Revolution or Napoleon had again arisen to fire the hostile and armed camps and was wrapped this time in the mantle of Monroe. The Kings of Europe are not more intelligent or less superstitious than are other people. And the time and circumstance of the pervading danger is not calculated to allay the royal fears. First the storm centre is once more of New World origin. And America like a young Colossus stands high and seems in their frightful imaginations to be preparing to stalk around the Universe. Second the trouble comes about Spain and Europe remembering how she was rifted at the close of the seventeenth century by the twelve years war of the Spanish Succession, wonders whether now a similar fate again awaits her. "There is a strange lull," observed the correspondents, "both in the domestic and international concerns of each country, and governments and people alike have put aside their own affairs in order to watch the tragedy toward which European disputes often tend but which Europe has managed to avoid for nearly a generation." Quite so. The American idea that leavened Europe before, not as Europe understands it, manifested itself for nearly a generation. What shape it will take now, or to what extent it will sway Europe is the chief cause of the present strange lull in Europe whose domestic and international affairs have actually stopped still pending the present trouble. It has hardly affected us at all. On learning the intense commotion abroad, however, the stride of every patriotic American should be at least cheerful. Let the Yankee breast then heave with the swell of true patriotic emotion, because it seems this country at this moment is actually discharging functions towards the States of Europe analagous to that of the Sun, which besides being the source of light and life and heat acts as the great ring master of the universe by keeping the planets and the whole solar system in their regular order. That is the mission of America while it is the destiny of European thrones to be paralysed with the fear of coming disaster at least every century or so.

Wanted No Cinematograph.

At a rural dinner it was usual for the eldest farmer present to propose the principal toast, and last year the duty devolved upon a rustic who was by no means confident of his ability to make a good show.

He therefore requested the learned squire, who sat opposite him, to hold up his hand whenever he strayed off the proper track. The squire good-humouredly consented, and the farmer commenced his toast.

Perhaps the good man had already had too much drink, or perhaps he had lost sight of his previous qualms; at any rate, he made a host of trips, and kept on his feet in spite of the warning hand, which shot up again and again.

At length the squire leaned carelessly over the table, and moved his hand to and fro within two feet of the farmer's nose.

The old man stopped, glared balefully at the extended hand, and then slowly and with scarcastic emphasis said—

"Yes, I sees it, squire, an' so does everybody else. It's a white hand, an' a purty hand, an' a clean hand, but there's no occasion to make a bloomin' cinematograph of it!"

It has been a wish, dear to the heart of Manager Mumford, that the Crescents should come up against the Orange Athletic Club, and his wish seems in a fair way to be realized. While the management of the Orange nine has not yet promised a game, they seem anxious to play the Plainfielders. If the game can be arranged, it will be a feather in the cap of Manager Mumford. Then the Crescents will find foemen worthy of their best efforts.

The attendance at the Orescent Oval at Saturduy's game was a decided improvement over that of the previous week. It was, however, by no means what it ought to have been. The Orescents are deserving of much better support than has been accorded them. Manager Mumford has now the strongest baseball team that Plainfield has seen for many a year. In the short time they have been together, the boys have learned to put up first-rate team work, which, combined with their individual prowess, makes them a strong combination.

CYCLING COMMENT.

O. Westerfield is getting up some road races for next Thursday evening. There will be three prizes offered, and many entries are expected.

A number of members of Somerset Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., rode over to New Brunswick on their wheels Monday night and visited one of the councils there.

The interest of the small boys and the larger ones, too, was centred in a five-mile road race from Randolph road to Holly's Corner and back last night. The race was arranged by Henry Staats, of Park avenue, who gave the contestant their handicaps and also offered the only prize, a "search-light" lantern, which was won by Raymond Poole. There were 20 entries, but only 14 started. They were started at intervals of half a minute a part, there being two minutes between the time the first man started and the scratch man. Their handicaps were as follows: E. VanLieu started at 7:03; G. Cholly, 7:03½; Edward Duck, 7:04; G. Feiring, H. Angerbauer, W. Martin, H. Martin, W. Emmons, R. McMurtry, 7:04½; C. Dodd, C. Sorenson, L. Casey, C. Westerfield and Poole, 7:05. The riders soon bunched, and kept their positions all the way around. The handicapping seemed to have been very fairly done, judging from the way the riders came in. Henry Staats started the men, and Alfred Springer was at the corner of Park avenue and the Oak Tree road, known as "Holly's Corner," to see that each rider rode to the top of the hill and turned around within the prescribed limits. On the home stretch a bunch of seven riders got together, and it was a toss-up between them to see which one would win. When near the tape the excitement was intense. Poole took the lead and crossed the line a close winner. Dodd was right behind him, and Westerfield third. The time was just thirteen minutes.

FAST HORSES GATHER.

RACE MEET OF THE CENTRAL NEW JERSEY DRIVING ASSOCIATION.

The Races Are Now in Progress at the Track on Park Avenue—Plainfield Well Represented—Races Tomorrow.

The opening meeting of the Central New Jersey Driving Association is now in progress at the Park avenue track of the Plainfield Driving Club. This circuit was organized during the past winter by the horse-owners, breeders and drivers of the State of New Jersey and takes in the four towns of Plainfield, Somerville, Flemington and New Brunswick. Each association in the above named towns gives a two days' meeting in consecutive weeks, commencing at Plainfield today and ending at New Brunswick on the 14th of July.

Plainfield has a likely candidate in almost every class, especially in the 2:25 class today, in which Thomas Brantingham's "Myrtle Twig," J. W. Johnson's "Woven Wind" and A. C. Vail's "Kinelm" came together with a lot of outside horses.

The 2:17 class tomorrow will be a race for blood, as it will probably bring together as good a field of horses as ever faced a starter on a half-mile track. General Brower has entered his old pupil, "Highland Boy," in this class, and as "Highland Boy" has wintered well and seems to have more speed by several seconds this season, competent horsemen look for him to get a big piece of the money. All Plainfield would like to see the General ride home in front.

The event of the meeting and of the season will be the special this afternoon, which will be a race of mile heats by high wheel road wagons, owners to drive. There are quite a number of entries, and every man that has entered a horse is dead sure he can win it.

The other classes that have not been mentioned have all filled well, and by looking over the entry list it will be seen that almost every prominent stable in the State is represented with one or more horses. All the races are to be trotted under the National Association rules.

Why Isn't the Road Built?

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Will someone please explain why the road on Mountain avenue from the Somerset county line to Stanbery's corner, is not macadamized? Somerset county has built a county road from Somerset to the Union county line, leaving about one-quarter of a mile to build. When that is done then we will have a continuous route to Morristown, Newark, Elizabeth and other cities. When the work is accomplished North Plainfield will extend the right hand of fellowship and welcome all to the queen borough of the State. Wm. N. Pangborn.

Mrs. C. P. Hellwig, of this city, sailed today for Antwerp.

NEW TROLLEY SCHEME.

EFFORT TO BUILD A LINE FROM RAHWAY TO CRANFORD.

The Plan, it is Said, is Fathered by the Elizabeth and Westfield Road Capitalists in Opposition to Bergen Idea.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Rahway, June 22—There is a big scheme on foot to construct a macadam road, eighty feet wide, and also a trolley line, from the town of Cranford to Bloodgood's Mills, in Clark Township, and from there across that township to Westfield avenue in Rahway, and down that thoroughfare to connect with the Rahway and Middlesex Electric Railway.

There is at present a narrow road leading from Cranford to Bloodgood's Mills, but the intention is to widen this to eighty feet. From Bloodgood's to Rahway a new road will have to be opened up through the fields. It is said that the syndicate that has this scheme matured has the promise of all the land free wanted for the construction of the proposed trolley line and macadam road, which the farmers, who own most of the land, believe will create quite a boom in the value of their holdings along the line of the proposed electric railway.

It is strongly suspected that the trolley company that is working to get the right-of-way through the townships lying between Plainfield and Elizabeth, is the syndicate that is working for an electric railway between Cranford and Rahway, to be operated as a branch of the other line. The chief obstacle the syndicate would have to contend with in pushing its plan is what might be developed in the Union County Board of Freeholders, whose consent it would be necessary to secure before opening a road from Bloodgood's to Westfield avenue in Rahway.

A majority of the Freeholders are pledged to the Bergen plan for an electric road between Elizabeth and Plainfield, and the other company has been fighting this project, as it wants the right of way for itself. The Freeholders may see fit to block the scheme to run a branch line from Cranford to Rahway in retaliation for the opposition the Riker syndicate has made to the Bergen plan.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Mr. and Mrs. William G. Gray, of Plainfield avenue, are rejoicing over the arrival of a young heir.

—Stone has been brought to build a culvert at the corner of East Front street and Westervelt avenue.

—George Cose and Charles Hartfelder, of the West End, went to Fort Wadsworth to see the soldiers Sunday.

—A large number of German woman left this morning for South Beach, where they will spend the day.

—John Rafferty and family are moving today from Park avenue to Mr. Rafferty's new house on Sandford avenue.

—Doane & Edsall have just put on sale a new lot of ladies' dongola kid shoes of the latest style at much below the regular price.

—An entertainment and dance will be given by Martha Washington Council, No. 23, Daughters of America, August 4th, in celebration of the second anniversary of the Council.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Alice Whitney, of LaGrande avenue, will leave Friday for Boston.

Miss Edna Gerow, of East Orange, is visiting Miss Alice Barker, of Grove street.

Miss Mary Brown, of East Fourth street, is is Newark today the guest of relatives.

Miss Randall and Miss McNair, of East Fifth street, have gone to Worcester, Mass.

Mrs. William Jones, of Brooklyn is the guest of Mrs. Richard Boyce, of Somerset street.

Mr. and Mrs. Jomini, of Canada, who have been living in the West End, have returned to Canada, where they will remain.

Miss Fanny Rafferty, who has been living in New York State for some time past, has returned to her home on Park avenue for the summer.

F. H. Ball and family are now summering in their house boat "Somerheim, in Great South Bay. The party started from Perth Amboy Thursday, and after sailing slowly to their destination, reached there Saturday.

Entertained a Dozen Friends.

Miss Etta Yaegar, of Liberty street, entertained about twelve of her intimate friends at her home last evening. The time was passed in dancing, singing and having a general good time. At a late hour refreshments were served after which the guests departed well pleased with the time spent.

Colored Recruits Accepted.

Out of the fifteen colored recruits which Sergeant Holmes and James Babbitt took down to Newark yesterday afternoon, only four were rejected. Eleven were taken from this city, and the other four were picked up on the road between here and Westfield.

A WONDERFUL ESCAPE.

Jaguar and Puma Fight Over a Baby and Finally Forget It.

In the Guarico county, at a village called Paraya, near the Merida trail, the writer saw an Indian named Joe Lobado whose face and head were deeply scarred and whose body was a network of similar scars from wounds received through being carried away by a jaguar when an infant in arms. Of course he could not remember the occurrence, but his mother, who had rescued him, described it to me. She had gone to a mata, or wooded spot, on the pampas for firewood, carrying her child, after the fashion of Venezuelan women of humble station, in a shawl looped from her shoulder. This shawl with the small boy in it she slung to a low tree branch while she gathered her bundle of sticks, and she did not perceive the approach of a jaguar until he had seized the child and was carrying it away. The mother grasped her machete and ran after the jaguar, shrieking. She managed to keep the beast in sight, but he was rapidly getting beyond her view when suddenly the jaguar stopped, put the child down and, bristling for fight, stood with his forepaws resting upon it.

Then the mother saw that a puma was fronting the jaguar. She hurried on toward where the two beasts faced each other, growling and snarling. Before she got to them the puma sprang, and at once the two were fighting fiercely above the child. In the struggle the child was rolled to one side, but before the mother could get to it the jaguar broke away from the puma, and, springing to the boy again, crouched with his paws above him as before. The puma leaped again and the fight was renewed, but again the jaguar got clear and jumped to guard his prey before the mother could get a chance to snatch her child. Once more the puma attacked his foe, and this time as the beasts struggled and tore each other an accidental kick from one of them sent the boy twenty feet away, almost to the mother's feet. Catching him up, she ran for home and got safe to the house. The boy, though covered with claw wounds from head to foot and bearing deep marks of the jaguar's teeth in the back, where the beast had seized him to carry him away, recovered completely from his injuries, although bearing the scars for his lifetime. The puma and the jaguar were found, both dead, at the place where they had fought.—Philadelphia Times.

AMERICAN OARS.

Used Pretty Much Everywhere in All the Waters of the World.

American oars are used pretty much all over the world; in many countries almost exclusively. The British Government has for years bought all of the oars used on its war vessels in this country, making a new contract yearly. The contract for the present year's supply is held by a New York city firm having factories in the West. American oars are used also on French, German, Italian, and Dutch ships.

The oars exported to European countries are chiefly of lengths from ten feet upward. Oars of shorter lengths they supply themselves. To Australia the United States send oars of all lengths, and the same is true of South Afria. Up and down the coast of South America none but American oars are used, and in any harbor in the world where a man is seen rowing a boat, in China, Japan, anywhere, it is more than likely that he is pulling with American oars.

The present annual output of American oars is estimated at 5,000,000 feet, enough to reach in an unbroken line of pars placed end to end from, say, New Yorw to Chicago. It has been greater. The decrease is due to the use of the bicycle and to the largely increased use of launches and various other small craft propelled by steam and other motive powers. These agencies have been most effective in this country, but they are now in some degree operative in all parts of the world. A great many more are still used, however, and there are factories in which nothing else is made.—New York Sun.

JEFFERSON'S STAGE FRIGHT.

He Was Hissed When He Tried to Recite a Patriotic Hymn.

Joseph Jefferson was a guest at the Clover Club the other night, and told the following in the course of a characteristic speech:

"My friends, you ask me if I was ever hissed on the stage. Well, I have been, and the rendition of 'The Star-Spangeld Banner just now recalls to my mind an instance. It was in just such stirring times as the present that I learned the words of 'The Star-Spangled Banner.' I was 15 years old and had been assigned to recite the hymn. For days I studied the words, and I knew them so thoroughly that I could recite them backward. At last the fateful evening arrived, and when it was my turn I went upon the stage. I recited the first line, 'Oh, say, can you see.' There I stuck. The audience waited for me to go on. I started again and stuck again. A girl, draped in the Stars and Stripes, next to me, said, 'Go on, you!' but, after another attempt, 'you' couldn't go on. I had forgotten it completely. After one more attempt, in which I could get no further, I was compelled to leave the stage amid the hisses of the entire audience. But that day thoroughly taught me 'The Star-Spangled Banner,' and I have never forgotten it."—Philadelphia Times.

A Delay.

He—Suppose, darling, that some immensely wealthy old duffer on the edge of the grave should want to marry you, would you throw me over?

She—Not necessarily, but you might have to wait a few years.—Puck.

THE VOLTA BLOWN UP

COL. COLT SUPERVISED THE REMARKABLE EXHIBITION.

Forty Thousand Saw the First Explosion By the Aid of Electricity—The Secretary of War Was Present in Castle Garden.

The civilized world had a hearty laugh at the unique proposal that some one in authority arrange a naval battle between the United States and Spain outside the harbor of New York. It was received as the suggestion of a humorist. And yet there is no reason why a fierce encounter between the naval fleets would not furnish a grand spectacular demonstration in comparison with which yacht races would be the tamest of pastimes. The crowds who would take all risks in order to witness such an engagement would be unparalleled. To-day we consider it ultra-sensational to have two engines run into each other to show how terrible a railroad collision may be, and if the crowds that visit a wreck long after it has taken place be an index to the public appetite, fully half of New York's three millions would go upon the water to see a real naval battle.

Fifty-six years ago over 40,000 people witnessed the explosion of a steamer in New York harbor by Colonel Colt. This was one of the great events of sub-marine history, and in these comparatively quiet times caused the adjournment of Congress and the suspension from his duties of no less a personage than the Secretary of War.

Though Robert Fulton was one of the first improvers of the torpedo, it is not generally known that Samuel Colt, of the Colt revolver fame, was the father of the modern submarine battery in the days of President Tyler. Indeed the use of torpedoes in war down to the days of Tyler was regarded with the same nameless feeling of horror as the Guy Fawkes story produced for three hundred years in England. In was considered an inhuman invention due to "water-worms, fire-devils, and submarine assassins." Fulton himself was described by a squeamish writer in the Naval Chronicle, as "a crafty, murderous ruffian." But President Tyler took a different view of the submarine battery. He had an appropriation of $17,000 made to Colt for the perfection of his invention under the following circumstances.

The Government placed a schooner at Colt's disposal in August, 1842, to experiment upon on the Potomac. The President, General Winfield Scott and the heads of the various Departments in Washington took a day off to see Colt experiment on her. He destroyed the schooner from an observation tower on the banks of the Potomac while five miles distant; a feat which was then considered a most unparalleled an extraordinary triumph of science. He asserted that he could explode a shell under water at a distance of ten miles by the same methods, and it was in order to produce such a feat that Congress voted the appropriation.

Two months later, October 18, 1842, Colt's battery produced a still more notable effect in New York Harbor in the presence of 40,000 citizens, who went down the Bay to see it with as much interest as they now would go to see a yacht race.

It is worth reproducing the report made in the Evening Post of October 19, 1842, of this event, not only to show the entire success of the experiment and the manner of reporting the events of that period, but to contrast the space afforded and the utter absence of that vivid description with a similar spectacular event of the present day journalism:

"A vast multitude assembled yesterday afternoon to witness the explosion of Colt's Submarine battery placed under a vessel of 260 tons. The North Carolina, seventy-four, about four o'clock gave a salute of thirteen guns. Immediately afterwards the signal for the explosion was given. The vessel rose bodily out of the water and then separated into fragments which were thrown about seventy feet in the air. The next moment nothing was seen of her except a few pieces of the wreck which were floating on the water and of which the boats lying near hastened to possess themselves. The Secretary of War was present in Castle Garden."

The name of the vessel was the brig "Volta." The experiment was performed under the auspices of the American Institute, while Colonel Colt applied the electric spark from a battery on board the revenue cutter "Swing." It is also noteworthy, en passant, that other papers like the "Morning Courier and Inquirer," did not give a single line to this phenomenal triumph of American science; though the "Courier" of the next day gave a whole column to a foreign dispatch relating to a fire in Liverpool which took place on the same day that Colt's battery blew up this brig, and the very explosion of which must have shaken the windows of the "Courier" office. The same paper also printed a detailed map of those streets in Liverpool between which the fire occurred; but the editor obviously had no time for a local American event that brought the Secretary of War from Washington, and 40,000 of his fellow citizens out upon the water. Need it be said that the "Courier" has long since gone.

In the month of April following a brig of 500 tons was blown to pieces while sailing at the rate of 5 knots an hour while Colonel Colt the operator of the battery was on shore five miles away. Both Houses of Congress adjourned to witness this event which was performed by the arrangement of groups of torpedoes connected by insulated wires and with a galvanic battery operated by a method similar to that already described.

CERVERA AWAITING AMERICAN ATTACK.

His Ships Lie in a Circle Guarding Harbor Entrance.

THE LAST CABLE IS CUT.

AMERICANS NOW HAVE TWO CABLE LINES WORKING IN CUBA.

Spanish Torpedo Boat Disabled—Miles May Superintend the Attack—Sagasta Wants to Find How Public Opinion Stands—Cadiz Fears Bombardment—Torpedo Boats Are Ordered South.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Santiago, June 23, 1:21 p. m—Information has been brought by the Cubans to Garcia which states that Cervera's ships lie in a circle in the bay protecting the entrance. One of the Spanish torpedo boats was disabled in the bombardment. The Cuban spies brought valuable maps of the harbor and earthworks.

Kingston, June, 11 a. m.—The last cable from Cuba to Jamaica has been cut by the St. Louis. This cuts off all communications with Cuba. Two lines are working, but are in the hands of the Americans.

Washington, June 23, 11:04 a. m.—It is stated on the best authority that Gen. Miles may go to Santiago to superintend the attack and capture of that city. Much anxiety is felt concerning the larger army of the Spaniards.

Madrid, June 23, 12:57 p. m.—The compulsory military service bill will not be passed at the present session of the Cortes. It is reported that the Government has sent agents through the country to learn the exact state of public opinion regarding war and peace. The result will form the basis of Sagasta's declaration following the prorogation of the Cortes. The Government confirms the statement that the family of General Augusti are prisoners in the hands of the insurgents.

Cadiz, June 23, 1 p. m—A merchant vessel reports being chased by an American vessel in the English channel. The city fears the advance of the American fleet to bombard Spanish ports.

Newport, June 23, 1:23 p. m—Orders have been received for the torpedo fleet to leave immediately for Key West.

A CRANFORD WEDDING.

A Former Plainfielder Married to a Belle of That Town.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Cranford, June 23—A quiet home wedding took place last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R Hall when their daughter, Miss Emilie Josephine Hall, was united in marriage to Charles G. Western, of New York, formerly of Washington avenue, North Plainfield.

The ceremony, which took place at 8 o'clock, was very pretty though simple. The bride was escorted in on the arm of her father. The ceremony was performed by Rev. T. Logen Murphy, of Plainfield, assisted by Rev. Mr. Edgecomb, of Cranford. Harry M. Western, a brother of the groom, played the wedding march on the large organ in the music room. Miss Ruth Hall, a younger sister of the bride, was the maid of-honor, and scattered roses in the path of the couple as they marched out after the marriage. Only the relatives and intimate friends were present at the ceremony.

The house was decorated in pink and green. The wedding supper followed the ceremony and then the couple left amid a shower of rice and old shoes and took the train for New York. They will reside in Brooklyn on their return from the honeymoon. The groom is connected with Manning, Maxwell & Moore, of New York.

Guests were present from Plainfield, Brooklyn, New York and Cranford. Among the Plainfielders were Rev. and Mrs. T. Logan Murphy, Miss Annie Murphy, Clarence L. Murphy, Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Carman, Miss Anna Smith, Miss Agnes Smith and Andrew Geyer.

—Last evening Mrs. Harburger, of West Front street, advertised in The Daily Press for a dark green carriage robe which she lost. It was found by Edward Feheeey, of Fanwood, and he noticing the advertisement in this paper returned the robe this morning. Press advertisements always reward the advertiser.

ALERT COP'S MISSTEP.

LOOKING FOR A BURGLAR HE FELL EIGHT FEET INTO A CELLAR.

Accident Occurred at F. A. Long's Grocery Store—Officer Was Hurt So That He Had to Be Relieved of Duty.

Marshal Campbell, of the borough, had a narrow escape from a serious accident early this morning. It was about 1 o'clock when he was met on Somerset street by Theodore Smith. The latter told the officer that he thought some one was in the cellar under F. A. Long's grocery store, and that he had better look after the place. The marshal went to the store and saw a light in the basement. Thinking that some one might be in there he opened the cellar doors outside for the purpose of going down stairs. He did not know that there were no steps, and before he could catch himself he fell the entire distance, eight feet, into the cellar.

Charles Stahl, who was working in the cellar adjoining, where Julius Stahl's bakery is located, heard the noise and rushed into the cellar to learn the trouble. He found the officer suffering much pain and very much bruised. As soon as he could he sent word to the home of Chief Wilson, and the latter relieved the injured officer and sent him home.

Today he feels his injuries very much and is unable to go out of the house. It is not thought, however, that his injuries are serious. The light which the officer saw in the cellar came through a door from Mr. Stahl's bakery.

FROM POSTMAN TO SOLDIER.

Letter-carrier Shea Has Enlisted in the Third Regiment.

The war fever has struck Uncle Sam's employes at the postoffice and it now looks as though several of them will be at the front before long.

Yesterday afternoon Letter-carrier Shea went to Elizabeth and enlisted in the Third Regiment. He was examined, accepted and told he would be called before Friday of this week. This aroused the patriotic feelings of Carriers Loughlin, Bauersachs, Pierson and Glaentzer, and they are now thinking seriously of enlisting.

Of course, their places will be reserved for them if they enlist, and when they return they can have their positions again. During the time of army service Uncle Sam will fill their places in the postoffice with substitutes.

Pretty Home Wedding Celebrated Yesterday Afternoon.

MISS WHITON THE BRIDE.

DRANK THE HEALTH OF THE BRIDE IN RARE OLD WINE.

The Wine Made From Grapes Picked by Bride's Parents Before They Were Married—Leighton Calkins, the Groom, a Popular New York Lawyer—The Largest House Wedding This Season

Under a pretty marriage bell of white field daisies in the bow window of the large east room of John M. Whiton's house on Central avenue, his eldest daughter, Miss Nella Bond Whiton, was married to Leighton Calkins, a popular lawyer, of New York, yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. The wedding was one of the largest home weddings of the season, and was attended by many guests from out of town as well as friends of both parties in this city.

The east room, where the ceremony was performed, had been transformed into a green bower. The bow-window was a mass of greens, while dasies, sweet peas and roses were used in the decoration.

The wedding party formed up stairs, and to the sweet strains of the orchestra playing the Mendelssohn march took their places before Rev. Wolcott Calkins, of Newton, Mass., the groom's father, who performed the ceremony. The party was headed by the two ushers, Dr. Frank C Babbitt, of Cambridge, Mass., and Harry I. Cummings, of Boston.

The bridemaids were Miss Florence C. Jenner, of New York, and Miss Agnes Opdyke, of this city. Miss Mary K. Whiton, the bride's younger sister, was the maid of honor. The bride came leaning on the arm of her father, who gave her away. The party met the groom and his best man, a brother, Rev. Raymond Calkins, of Pittsfield, Mass. When the brief ceremony was over, the couple held a reception and received the congratulations of the guests.

As soon as the bridal party and a few friends could slip away, they went to another room where the bride's health was drunk from a bottle of rare old wine. This bottle of wine had an unique history, dating back twenty-five years, and carrying the mind to an old farm house in the fertile Genesee Valley in New York State, where one day Mr. Whiton and his affianced bride, who was afterwards Mrs. Whiton, gathered a quantity of grapes on the hillside, which were made up into this wine. A bottle was opened and drunk at the wedding of the couple soon afterwards, and a bottle was sent several years later to Mr. Whiton, who resolved not to open it until the marriage of his daughter.

The costumes of the ladies were remarkably pretty. The bride wore a white satin gown trimmed with lace and a wide pearl colored collar. She carried white bridal roses. The maid-of-honor wore a white organdie trimmed with lace over white silk, and carried white sweet pea blossoms. The bridemaids' gowns were of white organdie and lace over pink silk, and they carried sweet peas of a color corresponding with the silk.

The wedding supper was served by Mazetti, of New York, and the music, which was all orchestral, by Richard Arnold, of the New York Philharmonic Society. The couple left on an extended wedding trip, and on their return will probably spend the summer at the bride's home and move to New York in the winter.

The whole upper part of the house was fragrant with flowers, roses, and sweet peas, which are becoming so popular, and were displayed on all sides. The presents with which the young couple were remembered were valuable and many of them of exquisite design and texture. The members of the wedding party were presented with articles of value by the bride and groom.

A Small Excursion.

Although the morning was a delightful one there was a poor turnout for the joint excursion of the G. A. R. and A. O. U. W. lodges to Asbury Park this morning. Perhaps the chilliness of the weather kept many away from the seashore. The train consisted of thirteen cars, it must have been the number that hoodooed it, and 275 people went. The Queen City Band was also present. The Grand Army men, many of them, turned out in uniform.

Mr. McCann, of the West End, has returned from a visit with friends at Neshanic.

AN ACTIVE LIFE ENDED.

DAVID M. DEMAREST, NEW YORK BUSINESS MAN, DIED YESTERDAY.

Though Eighty-Five Years of Age He Was Looking After His Extensive Business Until a Few Days Ago.

The grim reaper has removed from Plainfield another one of her prominent and well known men in the person of David M. Demarest, aged eighty-five years, who for twenty two years has resided on Crescent avenue at the corner of East Seventh street. He was actively engaged in business up to a month ago, when he was obliged to relinquish the duties he had performed for years. A few days ago Mr. Demarest caught a cold which developed into pneumonia and this caused his death which occurred yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock.

Mr. Demarest was born at Pompton, N. J. He moved to New York where he resided at Fifth street and Fifth avenue. He was president of the Irving Saving Bank, and a director of the Hoboken Savings Bank. He established himself in business at 103 Barclay street, New York, where he manufactured twine and netting for fifty-five years. He was associated in business with Mr. Joralemon under the firm name of Demarest & Joralemon.

While he was well known in Plainfield and elsewhe no one knew the extent of his benevolence. He gave freely to charitable institutions out of his large means, but it was given in such a way that no one knew the donor.

As a business man in New York his rating was high and the integrity of the house was thoroughly established. At one time in his business career he had the exclusive control of the Mexican hammock output.

A widow survives him, and also a sister, Mr. Henry Joralemon, of Orange. He leaves a son, Henry Demarest, of Park avenue, a brother, P. M. Demarest, of Craig place, and a daughter-in law, Mrs Abbott, with whom he lived.

The funeral services will be held from the house Saturday afternoon at 2:30, and Rev. A. V. V. Raymond, president of Union College, will officiate. Interment will be at Hillside.

TWENTY-FIFTH YEAR OF ALL SAINTS CHURCH.

Auspicious Celebration was Observed Yesterday.

TWO SERVICES WERE HELD.

IN THE EVENING A SERMON WAS PREACHED BY DEAN RODMAN.

Church Handsomely Decorated With Flags and Flowers—Grace Church Vested Choir Furnished Music in the Evening—Large Audience at the Services—Sketch of Interesting Growth of the Society.

[Special to The Daily Press.]

Scotch Plains, June 23—The twenty-fifth anniversary of All Saints Episcopal church was celebrated yesterday morning and evening with exercises appropriate to such an auspicious event.

At 11 o'clock the rector adminstered the Holy Communion, and delivered an historical address founded on the text, Psalm 122d, 9th verse, "Yea, because of the house of the Lord our God, I will seek to do the good."

Invitations were sent to the former parishioners, now residing at other places, and a goodly number were in attendance. The beautiful church was arrayed in white colors and adorned with flags, a fine American flag floating from the tower.

At 8 o'clock in the evening Rev. E. M. Rodman, of Plainfield, officiated, and delivered an earnest and inspiring sermon to the large congregation assembled. The excellent vested choir of Grace church, under the direction of their efficient leader and organist, Mrs. Freeman, rendered a full choral service. The choir numbers forty, and their fine execution of anthems and hymns was greatly appreciated by the congregation. A perfect June day added to the interest and delights of the anniversary services.

The nucleus of what is now the prosperous All Saints society was organized June 22, 1873, by Rev. E. M Rodman, rector of Grace church, Plainfield, and Dean of the Convocation of New Brunswick, when he held divine services for some time and afterwards formed a Sunday-school. A mission came in existence later on, under seven trustees, Charles Kyte, of Fanwood, being the prime mover. Mrs. Kyte had the honor of choosing the name of All Saints for the society.

In a short time Rev. Charles L. Sykes, M. A., was called to the rectorship, in which he served for sixteen years. During his service Dr. C. M. Bell, of New York, donated a piece of ground to the society for a site for an edifice, and in 1882 a stone church building was erected, costing $9,600.

At the death of Rev. Mr. Sykes in 1889 Rev. William M. Beilly became rector and served till 1892. Rev. Edward Hyde True, M. A., came from the parish of Hei Angels in New York and succeeded him in 1893.

There are now under his pastoral care some sixty-one families containing in them one hundred church members. The parish has had a fair measure of success, and though burdened with a mortage debt of $3,000 on the church building, has a host of friends and workers. The shifting character of the population of the township has been a serious obstacle to any great growth in the members of regular attendants. Still seventy-four persons have been confirmed by the Bishop, and as many as one hundred and seventy four have communed at the altar during these 25 years.

Mrs. Jas. Houston, of Detroit, Mich., who, with her daughter, Miss Ruth, has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Maze Edwards, of West Front street, the past three weeks, left for her home today, stopping at Baltimore and Washington for a short stay.

HE INDULGED IN NO FORMALITIES.

Demented Man Walked Into Mrs. Pope's House Without Knocking.

Mrs. E. R. Pope, of Park avenue, had a queer experience with a demented stranger who seemed bent on going through her house yesterday afternoon.

Early in the afternoon Mrs. Pope, her daughter-in-law and another lady were sitting on the front piazza. A young man, well dressed and carrying himself like a gentleman, came up from the direction of the Revere House and walking in the gate, went directly up to the door, opened it and walked inside without even a glance at the ladies who sat within a few feet of him.

Mrs. Pope arose and followed the man inside. He was going right on through the house, when he was stopped by Mrs. Pope who asked him what he wanted.

"I'm stuck and I want to get back to New York," said the stranger in a confidential tone.

"Well, come outside then," said Mrs. Pope.

The man followed her, and Editor F. W. Runyon, who was just then passing, was called in, and took the stranger up town, where he turned him over to Chief Grant.

The man said that he had a quantity of baggage in Westfield and showed a paper to prove it. The chief let him go. He has not been seen since.

CORNELL CREW WINS.

THE ITHACV BOYS OUTROW YALE AND HARVARD.

Harvard Led at the Start, But Cornell Pulled Ahead Before the First Mile Was Over, Winning By Three Lengths.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

New London, June 23, 1:21 p. m.—The condition s for the race are the best. The water is as smooth as glass and there is no wind. The crews are out in their shells at the starting point. Cornell was wildly cheered. The Yale supporters were very enthusiastic. The Harvared men were noticeably quiet.

New London, June 23, 1:30 p. m—The boats got away promptly at 12:37 o'clock without a hitch, Harvard leading, Yale next and Cornell last. At the first quarter mile, Yale had taken command by half a length and Cornell was closely following her.

At the first mile, Cornell was leading Yale by half a length with the Harvard shell two lengths behind. They continued in the same order for the next mile, Harvard falling another length behind. Then Cornell began to pull away from Yale, rowing strong.

The third mile showed Cornell two lengths ahead, while the crew from Cambridge was four lengths in the rear of their rivals from New Haven.

The finish showed all crews pulling hard, but Cornell in the lead easily. Cornell won by three lengths from Yale, while Harvard trailed along five lengths behind Yale. The time of the Ithaca shell was 21 minutes, flat.

HE DIED WHILE ASLEEP

EMPLOYE OF THE CITY PASSED AWAY DURING THE NIGHT.

John M. McDonald Was at Work Yesterday and Seemed to be in Good Health When he Went to Bed Last Night.

John M. McDonald, of West Fourth street, who was employed by the city as street cleaner and general helper, was found dead in bed this morning. He had not been ill and was at work as usual yesterday.

McDonald lived in one of William Morse's houses on West Fourth street. He was a widower, and lived with his five small children. McDonald came home as usual last night and went to bed. This morning when he did not get up at the regular time, one of the children went to the room to call him. He did not answer, and when the door was opened, he was found dead.

Chief Grant and Street Commissioner Gavett were notified, and the Chief sent for the County Physician, who came and viewed the remains and gave a permit for burial. Heart disease was the cause of death. McDonald had been employed by the city for four years, and lately has been helping about the steam roller.

LAST DAY OF SCHOOL.

This Morning Graduates Bid Adieu To Old Associations.

Today was the last day of school life for the class of 1898 and everything was excitement at the High School. Everybody was preparing for their share of the evening's exercises. A meeting of the class was held yesterday afternoon and a hearty vote of thanks extended to Miss Ellen Osgood for her kindness in entertaining the class during the four years. Almost all of the class meetings were held at her home. Another vote of thanks and congratulation was given to the committee in charge of the Class Day exercises for their very successful efforts.

There were a number of the alumni of the High School at the morning exercises this morning. Superintendent H. M. Maxson made a short address to the graduates and gave them words of good advice. Principal I. W. Travell also spoke a few words. Then the school sang a number of selections under the leadership of Charles L. Lewis.

A QUIET WEDDING.

Miss Emma Vail Case Married to George H. L. Morton.

The marriage of Miss Emma Vail Case, daughter of the late Col. Rufus K. Case, to George H. L. Morton, of Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., was celebrated yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride, East Ninth street, at 5 o'clock. Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiated. There were present the families of the contracting parties. The bride wore a gown of pure white, and she was unattended, as was also the groom. For the present Mr. and Mrs. Morton will reside at the home of the bride's mother.

MANY FAST HORSES IN EXCITING FINISHES

Opening Day of Race Meet of Plainfied Driving Club.

A LARGE ATTENDANCE.

JUDGE CODDINGTON CARRIED OFF THE HONORS IN THE SPECIAL EVENT.

Three Events Were Held During the Afternoon—"Hattie Walters" Won the 2:25 Class, Trotting—"Prince S" Was Victorious One Among the 2:35 Pacers—Showers Were Frequent.

Thunder storms and fast horses raced at the Gentlemen's Driving Park on Park avenue yesterday afternoon at the first day of the race meet of the Plainfield Driving Club. The storms were of brief duration and were so arranged that the races were run off in the intervals between them without discomfort to the contestants or spectators. There must have been at least 1,500 people present and most of them were wildly enthusiastic when the horses neared the wire on the last turn.

The first event was the 2:25 class, trotting, for which there were five entries, three being from Plainfield. There was lots of trouble in getting a successful start in the first heat but when they did, Appleby piloted "Hattie Walters" to the front and there she stayed, although Brantingham made a desperate effort to head her. "Myrtle Twig" swung in on the stretch and came up neck and neck with the stranger. It was an exciting finish and the crowd jumped to their feet. Brantingham's mare was only a neck behind at the wire. "Majella" came in four lengths behind after a tussle with Johnny Osborn, who was driving "Woven Wind." Vail's roan mare was out of her class.

In the second heat, Brantingham took the lead after the half was finished but the bay mare skipped on the far stretch and the mare from Spotswood took the lead and won out in a driving finish.

The last heat was somewhat similar to the others. "Hattie Walters" made the half in 1:14. "Myrtle Twig" pressed her close but broke again on the far turn and lacked half a length to overcome the lead as they passed the judges. The other horses kept the same positions as in the first heat.

The 2:35 class, pacing, furnished much sport and some good racing. They got off badly in the first heat. Brower, with Smalley's "Bolette," the only local horse in the bunch, was pocketed and compelled to pull up. The horse skipped and he fell so far behind that he was distanced in the first heat. "Prince S" and "Mary A" fought it out the last half mile and the mare came out second best by two lengths.

In the second heat, "Prince S." laid well back until the last and then came up with a rush. "Mary A." lost her stride and brought up the rear while a big bay, "John L.," took second. "Prince S." and "Mary A." had another encounter in the last heat. The gelding came by on the back stretch, then the grey mare broke and "Prince S." scored her third heat by four lengths.

Now the other races were all right but the special for road wagons, owners to drive, as the programme stated, was the event of the day. The contestants were all well known to fame in local driving circles and each and every one knew he had the race. It was afterwards proven that Former Judge W. A. Coddington knew best. Besides the Judge, there was Isaac F. Randolph with his bay mare, "Belle Hayes," Johnny Osborn with "Roxie French," and N. B. Smalley with his black trotter, "Ned Norton." They were all driven to light road wagons, with high steel tired wheels.

They had a little trouble getting off at first and Randolph kept shouting at Starter Allen to let them go although Randolph was usually left in the rear at the start. When they did go, it was a poor start. All the horses broke except the Judge's, and she shot out and took the pole. "Ned Norton" galloped almost all the way to the quarter pole. The half was made in 1:21 1-2, when Randolph began to pull up. He gained slowly on the Judge and almost had him on the far turn when "Belle Hayes" broke. That gave the Judge a little respite, but the brown mare was on his trail and came down the stretch like a whirlwind. It was nip and tuck, but Randolph was moving the faster and his mare's nose glided by and was a good half length in advance as they passed under the wire. Smalley was third.

If possible, the second heat was more exciting. The Judge cut out

MORE MEN FOR MANILA

Third Expedition With Six Thousand Troops to Sail.

JUNE 27 IS THE DAY FIXED

Six Transports Will Be Used to Carry Troops—Plans Well Arranged and There Should Be No Delay—General Merritt Will Go on Wednesday—Transportation Needed for 9000 More Troops on or Before July 15.

Washington, June 23.—The third detachment of troops for the Philippines is scheduled to leave San Francisco on next Monday, June 27. Six thousand men will compose the expedition, going on board the Ohio, Indiana, Morgan City, Valencia, City of Para and Newport.

The plans for embarking the soldiers and their supplies are so perfectly arranged that no delay beyond Monday in setting sail is anticipated, and the troops ought to be landed in Manila before July 20.

Information has been received at the war department that the steamship City of Puebla, which has been chartered as a transport, arrived at San Francisco yesterday. The ship will probably require very little preparation for transporting troops, and she may be able to overtake the main expedition at Honolulu.

San Francisco, June 23.—It is definitely decided that the third expedition to Manila will sail on Monday. General Merritt will go on Wednesday on the Newport with a staff of clerks and 600 soldiers, if the Philadelphia is not placed at his disposal. The great problem now is to obtain transportation for the 9,000 troops yet to be sent to the Philippines.

The steamship Publo has been impressed and Quartermaster Long is expecting authority to impress other steamships, but at present the Peru is the only one in port available.

Eight or ten more are required, and the hope is expressed that they may be secured by July 15. The Alameda, the Acapulco and possibly the Rio de Janeiro, all yet to arrive here, are among the vessels counted on. Colonel A. S. Frost of South Dakota has been assigned to command the Fourth brigade in place of Gen. McArthur, who will command the third Philippine detachment.

The camp of the Astor battery is the Mecca of San Francisco people. Many invitations to dinner are given to the New Yorkers.

THE COLLEGE BOAT RACE.

Postponed Until Today on Account of Stormy Weather.

New London, June 23.—Yesterday was a great disappointment to the thousands of people who had come to witness the great intercollegiate regatta. The day dawned fair and bright and the surface of the Thames was like a mirror during the early part [illegible] began to rise and heavy clouds appeared, followed by showers. The storm increased at intervals until 3 o'clock, and finally all hopes of having the race were abandoned and a postponement was had until to-day. The betting yesterday was 2 to 1 in favor of Cornell. The race promises to be very close and exciting.

The make up and statistics of the crews follows:

To Intercept Pando.

Off Santiago de Cuba, June 23.—General Calixto Garcia of the Cuban army, on his visit to Admiral Sampson, brought the important news that the Spanish troops under General Pando, second in command to Captain General Blanco, were marching in a large body to reinforce the Spaniards at Santiago.

The insurgent troops under General Garcia's command are said to be so distributed as to cut off General Pando's approach. At any rate, Pando will have to fight every inch of his way, and the American troops are likely to be landed and attack the Spanish at Santiago before Pando and his forces reach there.

Boston's Aid for Volunteers.

Boston, June 23.—Colonel Henry L. Higginson, who has charge of the funds of the Massachusetts Volunteer Aid Association, reports that $8,852.45 has already been secured. This will be used to aid the Massachusetts troops at the front.

Hobart Wins in England.

London, June 23.In the all England lawn tennis championship tournament at Wimbledon Clarence Hobart, the American player, beat Payn by the score of 6-1, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3.

LANDING AT AQUADORES

Forces Went Ashore Under Fire of Warships and Cubans Covered Landing Closely.

Washington, June 23.—American trops are landing on the Cuban coast.

A cable dispatch received by Major General Miles late yesterday from Lieutenant Colonel Allen, who re-established cable communication with the United States, announces that the troops were being put ashore.

Before the landing was effected a large body of Spaniards was discovered in the vicinity of the landing place—Aguadores—and, acting under instructions from General Shafter, a body of 1,000 Cubans attacked the Spaniards in the rear, after the warships had shelled the shore.

The troops landed first, then attacked the Spanish, driving them, it is believed, toward the Cubans.

The message also said the attack of the American army was being so arranged that the Spaniards would be assaulted both from the rear and the side.

Lieutenant Colonel Allen stated that 3,500 men would reinforce the Cubans. It is understood in department circles that no time will be lost by General Shafter in attacking Santiago de Cuba, it being desired to capture that point as promptly as possible.

Fearing an attempt on the part of Cervera's fleet to leave the harbor, Admiral Sampson has so placed his ships as to command the entrance.

Washington, June 23.—The navy department has received advices from Sampson stating that the landing is going on successfully, while the vessels bombarded Cabanas to divert attention.

The Texas had one man killed.

Secretary Alger has received a cablegram from General Shafter at Playa del Este, saying the troops had been successfully landed.

A Midnight Despatch.

Washington, June 23.—President McKinley was notified at a quarter to 12 o'clock that General Shafter and his army of 16,000 men were landed on Cuban soil. Adjutant General Corbin was the bearer of the news, having received a telegram from General Shafter to that effect. The president expressed his extreme gratification over the news.

General Shafter's message stated that aside from a heavy skirmish fire there was no opposition offered by the Spanish troops. The troops are sleeping on the ground.

The landing will stand out in history as one of the most remarkable ever made, both in quickness and in the absence of casualties of any kind.

The war department was confident that at least twenty-four hours and perhaps forty-eight would be consumed in disembarking the troops, and the task, to the surprise of every one, was accomplished within nine hours, while the pusillanimous Spaniards remained in the undergrowth, a mile away, chattering with rage and firing their rifles into the air.

War News Bulletin.

Washington, June 23.—Under the new dispensation the war department promises to be the news center at Washington. Secretary Alger has announced that he intends to establish a new bulletin system at once, so that the public may be reliably informed of the movement of the American forces at Santiago.

A force of twenty expert telegraphers under the supervision of George H. Pierson, are now on duty at the war department night and day to facilitate the transmission of army and navy orders between Washington and Guantanamo.

The French Cabinet Crisis.

Paris, June 23.—President Faure has invited M. Paul Louis Peytral to form a cabinet which shall be representative of the different Republican factions.

THE COLUMBUS OF THE SKIES

Lacaille, the Great Astronomer of the 18th Century.

Lacaille has been justly called the true Columbus of the southern skies, says Prof. T. J. J. See, in the Atlantic. Born near Rheims in 1713, and left destitute at an early age, he was educated at the expense of the Duke of Bourbon; having acquired proficiency in theology, like Laplace he abandoned that profession for the study of science, and by the favor of Cassini became one of the surveyors of the coast from Nantes to Bayonne, and in 1739 took part in the remeasurement of the French arc of the meridian. The perfection with which this work was done secured him admission to the Academy of Sciences, and a professorship at the College Mazarin, where he worked energetically in a small observatory fitted up for determining the places of the fixed stars. While occupied with this work he became impressed with the need of good observations of the stars of the southern hemisphere. Accordingly, he proposed an expedition to the Cape of Good Hope, which was officially sanctioned and carried out with marvelous rapidity and success. Landing in April, 1751, at the Cape, which was then a mere signal station for Indian vessels, he secured a location in the wild country near the great Table Mountain, and in fourteen months had observed the positions of nearly ten thousand stars with a degree of precision never before attempted in that region of the heavens. The great catalogue which he formed from these observations was published in 1763, and reprinted in 1847 by the British Association for the Advancement of Science, and until within the last twenty years was the chief source of our knowledge of the southern hemisphere.

WAR NEWS AT ONCE

Direct Telegrams Between Washington and Guantanamo.

ALGER AND SHAFTER TALK

The War Room in the White House and General Shafter's Headquarters Connected by Cable—Forces Have Not Landed—Secretary Long Says the Blockade of Cuban Ports is Maintained—Smuggling Reports Are Exaggerated.

Washington, June 23.—The telegraph instruments in the war room at the White House now make direct connection with General Shafter's headquarters at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, and messages can pass between Washington and the commanders of the Santiago expedition in less than an hour. The cable, which belongs to a French company, is open of course to commercial business and to the correspondents of newspapers, although in all cases precedence must be given to government messages.

The dispatches thus far received have been transmitted from the improvised cable station on board the French repair ship pending the landing of the cable and the establishment of a permanent shore telegraph station.

Secretary Alger, shortly before noon yesterday, announced that he had received advices from General Shafter since the brief dispatch from Commander McCalla on Monday night, informing him of the safe arrival of the whole military expedition off Santiago. The secretary sent instructions by cable to General Shafter, directing him to keep the war department closely informed regarding the movements of troops.

In the absence of definite information on the subject it is presumed that the military forces have not landed.

The attention of the army and navy authorities is now centered upon the various phases of the Santiago expedition. The consultations between Generals Shafter and Garcia and Admiral Sampson and their arrangements for unloading and landing the troops from the transports are being hourly reported to Washington, and the plan of sending the supplemental army from Newport News to-day is being pushed with necessary haste and vigor. It is hoped by the administration that these troops under General Duffield and General Garretson will not be needed by General Shafter in his work of capturing Santiago, but it is thought to be absolutely necessary as a military measure to have them on the ground in case an unseen and unexpected emergency should arise.

Little or no concern is occasioned in Washington over the reports from European sources that the Spanish government has appealed to or will appeal to the powers on the ground that the Cuban blockade is ineffective. Naval officers here make light of the claim and no information as to the purposes of Spain is in possession of the state department.

Secretary of the Navy Long moreover, authorizes the official statement that the ports which were mentioned in the president's proclamation as subject to blockade are tightly closed. "As tight as wax," the secretary says, and adds: "I am confident that no ships have been able to enter Havana, even while the larger vessels of the navy have been at Santiago, unless, perhaps, a few small schooners may have slipped in at night. I am sure that the harbor of Cienfuegos, as well as that of Havana, is absolutely closed. Probably at other places along the coast some small vessels have been able to run in and out, but these are small towns, against which a blockade has never been proclaimed. I am certain that Spain has no ground upon which to appeal to the powers against the effectiveness of our blockade."

It is thought at the navy department that the reports of the smuggling of supplies into Havana have been exaggerated, but steps will be taken immediately to put a stop to it, even should it be necessary to declare a blockade against Batabano, the town directly across the island from Havana and north of the Isle of Pines, which town appears to be the headquarters of the Spanish smugglers. It is not thought, however, that they have accomplished important results.

CHAMBERLAIN MAY RESIGN.

Rumor That He Will Assume Leadership of a Group of Unionists.

London, June 23.—It is rumored that Joseph Chamberlain, secretary of state for the colonies, will shortly resign from the ministry in order to assume the leadership of a large number of Unionists in the House of Commons who are discontented with the foreign policy of the government. There seems to be no doubt that Mr. Chamberlain is dissatisfied with his present position, and if affairs in the Far East and in West Africa take the turn he expects his friends believe that he will not remain in the cabinet to share the shipwreck of a policy he never approved. Whatever may be the outcome, the disquieting idea is undoubtedly prevalent in Conservative circles that Mr. Chamberlain contemplates some sensational move and the extent to which this is credited shows how little Mr. Chamberlain can count upon Tory confidence.

Colonel Bryan Studying Army Tactics.

Omaha, Neb, June 23.—Colonel W. J. Bryan has taken up his headquarters at old Fort Omaha and is now putting in his time studying army tactics. Lieutenant Colonel Victor Vifquain, a veteran of the rebellion, is with Colonel Bryan. So far only one company of the Third Nebraska has reported, but the regiment will be in camp inside of ten days.

More Ports Blockaded.

Kingston, Jamaica, June 23.—The schooner Union has arrived at Montego bay with twenty-two refugees from Trinidad, Cuba.

She reports that she was boarded by the United States auxiliary cruiser Yankee outside of the bay and informed in writing that both Trinidad and Cienfuegos are now blockaded.

Stories of the Street.

Plainfield People are Talking About it on Every Corner.

It is sometimes an easy matter to fool the public, but you can't keep it up very long. They are sure to find you out; and every time a man is fooled another skeptic is made. Skepticism is allowable when reading in a home newspaper about some incident occuring in San Francisco or Iowa, but the circumstances are entirely different when it refers to some one right here at home, friends and neighbors, people you know, whom you can see, and with whom you talk it over. This is the kind of evidence at the back of Doan's Kidney Pills—home statements by home people, and the astonishing local work they have been doing has caused more talk among our citizens than the doings of any other modern wonder. Read the following:

Mr. Richard Day, of 134 E. Front St., says: "I have been troubled at times with symptoms of kidney complaint for the last four years. My chief difficulty was a miserable pain across my back and a sort of lame feeling over my kidneys. Standing any length of time or walking any distance aggravated it greatly. I have never been sick much in my life and consequently have never taken much medicine, so when I first began having these attacks I paid but little attention to them. They however grew worse instead of better so I had to look about for a remedy. I had read quite frequently in our papers about cures brought about by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills so I got a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store and after taking them I felt greatly relieved. I have recommended them to my friends and those who have used them speak very highly in their praise. I consider that Doan's Kidney Pills are a splendid remedy for complaints like mine."

HAWAIIAN ANNEXATION.

The Delay Proposition Senator Hoar's Attitude.

Washington, June 23.—Many newspapers are in the habit of including Senator Hoar in the list of opponents of the annexation of Hawaii. This, it may be stated on excellent authority, is for all practical purposes, an error. Whatever may be Mr. Hoar's real inclinations on the subject, it is his present intention to vote with his party for annexation.

The Hawaiian situation remains unchanged. It will be either action in a few weeks or a vote at a fixed date in the early part of the December session. Annexationists feel that there would be sufficient victory for them, but naturally prefer to close the question this session, and before the public has had too long to think it over.

Quite a group of Republicans under the lead of Senators Aldrich and Hale prefer the vote in December, and are anxious to compromise on that basis and adjourn. On the other hand a few Democrats who are against annexation say they do not care much now, and would about as soon have the question settled first as last.

It is asserted that the December project would embarrass the president in case he thought best to annex as an executive act, after Congress adjourned.

But Senator Elkins maintains that there would be no occasion for Mr. McKinley to feel embarrassed over a little thing like that, and if the Senate should set a day at its next session for deciding the question it would be all right for the president to anticipate its action by taking in the islands himself.

A few senators say that Hawaii is now already a part of the United States and that the slight formalities as to method of legal annexation are only a question of detail, concerning which it is no use to dispute.

In the Senate yesterday, when the resolutions providing for the annexation of Hawaii were laid before the Senate, Mr. White, Democrat of California, resumed his speech begun Tuesday in opposition to the resolutions. He presented additional arguments and citations of authorities to establish his position that annexation of foreign territory must be by treaty and could not be by legislative act.

GERMANY NOT INTERVENING.

Madrid Stories About a Philippine Lease Not Credited.

Washington, June 23.—The reports from Madrid that Emperor William's representatives has offered Senor Sagasta 500,000,000 marks for a twenty year protectorate over the Philippines is not credited here. The state department officials claim that he representations made to our ambassador at Berlin all go to show that Germany does not desire to interfere in the Philippines, and that her only interest is in the protection of her own citizens.

A high official of the state department said yesterday that Germany was not looking for a big war at this time, for any such action as reported from Madrid certainly meant one. He said that if Germany provoked a war with us it would make our heads swim to see how fast France would join with us against Germany, to get even with her old enemy. Great Britain would also be with us.

The report from Madrid is therefore only considered one of the Spanish fairy stories.

RATIONS AT CHICAMAUGA.

Major Lorrigan, of the Ninth New York, Has Resigned.

Chickamauga, June 23.—The rations which the soldiers are now receiving are entirely satisfactory. Lieutenant Thomas Clifford, commissary of the Third Brigade, Third Division, First Corps, gives a list of the most important items of food issued in a ten days' rations to his brigade. They follow:

Fresh beef, 24,535 pounds; bacon, 6,290 pounds; soft bread, 28,046 rations; beans, 3,900 pounds; potatoes, 22,500 pounds; onions, 5,600 pounds; roasted coffee, 2,100 pounds; sugar, 4,200 pounds; salt, 1,700 pounds; vinegar, 250 gallons; pepper, 75 pounds; soap, 1,140 pounds; candles, 420 pounds.

Major Lorrigan, commanding the First Battalion of the Ninth New York, has resigned. It is said that Major Lorrigan resigned on account of his business interests at New York. It is not known who will succeed him. Col. Greene will recommend the appointment of a successor after Major Lorrigan's resignation has been accepted by the war department.

AN EARLY ADJOURNMENT.

Believed That Congress Will End Its Work with Next Week.

Washington, June 23.—Congress is looking forward to an early adjournment. The opinion is very generally expressed at the Capitol that the session will close by the end of next week. This opinion is based on the belief that the fight over the Hawaiian resolutions will not extend beyond the first part of next week. There is scarcely anything besides the Hawaiian resolutions to occupy Congress and not more than two or three days would be necessary to clear up everything else.

It is a settled thing that a vote must be had on the Hawaiian resolution before Congress adjourns, and every hour of delay puts the responsibility for the prolongation of the session on the minority. The Democrats see that they cannot gain anything by keeping up the fight.

Wounded by Explosion.

Key West, June 23.—A dispatch boat has arrived from the Havana blockade with two wounded men.

They were Henderson, an armorer, wounded in the arm, and J. Herman, a gunner's mate, hurt in the abdomen.

The men were injured while trying to extract the fuse from a one-pound shell on board a gunboat.

Gen. Harrison at Elberon.

Elberon, June 23.—General and Mrs. Benjamin Harrison have engaged apartments at the Hotel Elberon for a month, and arrived Tuesday with their little daughter. General Harrison will be asked to review the parade of the Grand Army at Long Branch and to attend the big camp fire at Pleasure Bay Park.

GOING TO THE FRONT

Reinforcements for Shafter Leave Camp Alger.

MORE ARE READY TO START

Thirty-third Regiment and the First Battalion of the Thirty-fourth of Michigan on Their Way to Santiago—Ninth Massachusetts and Two Battalions Detained by Orders Received at the Last Moment.

Camp Alger, Va., June 23.—With loud cheers of joy at the chance of at last getting off to the scenes of actual warfare and with last adieus to the comrades who were left behind, the soldiers of the Thirty-third Michigan and the First Battalion of the Thirty-fourth Michigan marched out of camp yesterday, bound for Cuba.

General Henry M. Duffield, commander of the First Brigade of the Third division, led the troops from camp. He will go with them as their brigade commander. At the head of the column marched the band of the Thirty-third Michigan, which played stirring selections of martial music all the way to the railroad station at Dunn Loring.

The other two battalions of the Thirty-fourth Michigan and the whole of the Ninth Massachusetts was to have gone yesterday, but orders from corps headquarters yesterday morning directed them to wait until to-day.

There was much disappointment in the ranks of the regiment and the two battalions which are detained. Some of the soldiers who were left complained of partiality on the part of Secretary of War Alger, who has allowed the troops of his own state to move first.

Forty-five large army wagons transported the provisions, dog tents, ammunition and extra uniforms to the railroad station.

These left camp first and after this long procession of wagons came the troops, marching in columns of fours. During the interval preceding the departure and while the regimental officers were awaiting the arrival of General Duffield from division headquarters to assume command, the soldiers were entertained by band music and by banjo music and songs which were rendered by some of the negroes who are always about the camp. The soldiers showed their appreciation by hearty outbursts of applause and loud cheers.

The troops who left camp arrived in Alexandria last night and spent the night on board the ships which will convey them from Alexandria to Hampton Roads. The Yale and Harvard will take them to Santiago de Cuba.

It is expected that after the two battalions of the Thirty-fourth Michigan and the Ninth Massachusetts have departed, which will probably be on Friday, another brigade will be directed to prepare to break camp.

Before the soldiers of the Michigan regiment left camp each man received a pair of army shoes. These were partly a donation from Governor Pingree of Michigan.

Miles' Order to General Graham.

Washington, D. C., June 23.—The forwarding of reinforcements to General Shafter, at Santiago de Cuba, was in accordance with orders issued by Major General Miles directing the movement to begin yesterday. The order was to Major General Graham, commanding the Second Army Corps, camped at Falls Church, Va., and was as follows:

"With the approval of the secretary of war you will detail Brigadier General Duffield and one regiment and one battalion of another regiment of his command to proceed to-morrow (yesterday) morning by rail to Newport News, Va., with ten days' travel rations. On his arrival at Newport News General Duffield will go on board of one of the auxiliary cruisers now awaiting to transport his command to Santiago, Cuba. Upon arrival at that place they will be reported to Major General Shafter, commanding the United States forces there. The troops will carry complete camp equipage and full supplies of ammunition for field service. It is understood not to exceed six horses can be taken on board of the ship.

(Signed) "N. A. MILES,
"Major General Commanding."

Money for Jersey Soldiers.

Trenton, June 23.—Governor Voorhees, State Comptroller Hancock and State Treasurer Swain had a conference yesterday to devise means for paying the Second regiment, New Jersey volunteers, now at Jacksonville. It was decided to raise $25,000 on their personal credit and send men to Jacksonville with the money to pay off the men and to await reimbursement from the federal government.

A MILITARY JUBILEE.

Senate Passes Joint Resolution Providing for International Celebration.

Washington, June 23.—In the Senate yesterday a joint resolution was passed authorizing the president of the United States to invite, through the proper channels, the governments of England, France, Germany, Austria, Russia, Belgium, Switzerland, Mexico and Venezuela to send details of infantry, artillery and cavalry to this country to participate in a military jubilee to be held in Madison Square Garden, New York, by the trustees of the Red Cross Society of New York.

The Italian Cabinet.

Rome, June 23.—Senator Finali having failed to form a ministry, the king, who has been holding General Pelloux in reserve, as the last creator of a combination, has summoned him and charged him with the duty of forming a cabinet.

The chamber has been convoked for Friday to vote on the proposed law for a provisional exercise of governmental power.

For Governor of Vermont.

Montpelier, Vt., June 23.—The Republicans of Vermont, in their state convention yesterday, nominated Colonel E. C. Smith of St. Albans for governor, by acclamation.

TROUBLE OVER STAMPS.

Thought Impossible to Have Them on Sale All Over by July 1.

Washington, June 23.—Every possible effort is being made by the secretary of the navy to put into operation on July 1 the adhesive stamp section of the war revenue act. It is thought impossible, however, to have stamps on sale in all parts of the country on that date, and in consequence it is expected that for several days at least business embarrassments will be many and in some instances serious.

The law declares it shall be a misdemeanor not to affix a stamp to any bank check, note, draft, etc., punishable by a fine not exceeding $200. The law further declares that such unstamped instrument, document or paper shall not be competent evidence in any court, in fact void. It is believed that many embarrassments and in fact losses cannot be avoided, hence the secretary's request for a postponement for fifteen days. Nevertheless, the force at the bureau of engraving and printing is working every hour of the twenty-four to get out the stamps and efforts will be made to reduce to a minimum embarrassments arising out of the new law.

About 750,000 stamps will be shipped to the Pacific coast, and other shipments will follow in rapid succession The stamps will be sent to collectors of internal revenue and by them distributed to the deputies. National banks in each town will receive telegraphic requests to handle the stamps for the benefit of the public until other arrangements can be made for their distribution. The low rate of discount, 1 per cent., allowed to persons purchasing stamps in quantities of $100, it is believed will operate to make it difficult to secure a sufficient number of local agencies to supply the public needs, but special appeals will be made and the hope is expressed that there will be found in every community a sufficient number of public-spirited citizens to undertake to handle the stamps without proper compensation.

SENATE CALLS FOR FACTS.

Resolution Asking Secretary Long to Report in Regard to Hobson.

Washington, June 23.—The Senate has evidently lost patience regarding the uncertainty as to the case of Lieutenant Hobson. His reported confinement in Morro Castle, Santiago, has caused much unfavorable comment.

In the Senate yesterday Mr. Davis of Minnesota, chairman of the committee on foreign relations, asked immediate consideration of the following resolutions:

"That the secretary of the navy is directed to inform the Senate whether Lieutenant Hobson and those who were captured with him have been or are confined by the Spanish authorities within the line of fire or under the fire of the United States fleet; and, if so, at what place or places they are or have been so confined; also to inform the Senate what efforts have been made to effect the exchange of such prisoners and with what results; also to transmit to the Senate copies of the correspondence or report upon the subjects of this inquiry."

The resolution was agreed to.

Mr. Davis then offered the following resolution, which was also agreed to:

"That the secretary of the navy is directed to inform the Senate whether the bodies of the United States marines or sailors who were recently killed in battle at or near Santiago de Cuba were mutilated after death by the Spanish soldiers and to transmit to the Senate copies of the official correspondence and reports upon the subjects of this inquiry."

Hitch in Paying New York Troops.

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 23.—A hitch has again arisen over the payment of the New Yorkers. Vouchers had been issued to a large number of the men by companies when General Healy began inspecting the pay rolls and found them incorrect. This discovery was not made until Tuesday night. All the payments of the men had to be stopped. General Healy believes it will be necessary to send the papers back to New York for correction, but Colonel Sackett and others believe they can be corrected here.

The pay rolls of the Eighth seem to be causing all the trouble. The names of the officers on leaves of absence were left off altogether, which caused a big shortage. Colonel Chauncey and other officers blame the New York state authorities for the trouble, stating that when the pay rolls were sent some of the authorities concluded they were not correct and made them out again. And, as a consequence, they are in a worse shape than ever.

The Twelfth has already been paid and several companies in each of the other regiments. The Fourteenth and Ninth are the ones on which trouble falls heavily. If the pay rolls have to be sent East for correction the men will have to patiently await their return, unless they can secure the indorsement of their commanding officer, in which event a local bank will cash their vouchers free of charge and hold them until the trouble is remedied. The Fourteenth is short on tents and some of the men have to sleep two in a tent.

Friends Can Now Write to Boys With Sampson's Fleet or Shafter's Army.

Washington, June 23.—A postoffice has been established near Guantanamo Friends of the soldiers and sailors near there will be able to communicate with them without much delay.

The mail will be taken to Kingston Jamaica, and thence carried in fast dispatch boats to Santiago. Each letter must be sent under the foreign rate of postage—five cents for each half ounce.

Parcels cannot be handled readily and it will be well for all persons having friends at Santiago to confine their mail to letters.

Gen. Guy Henry Will Reinforce Shafter

Washington, June 23.—Major General Miles has issued an order assigning Brigadier General Guy Henry to command the division of troops which are to reinforce General Shafter at Santiago.

Wales's Daughter to Wed.

London, June 23.—The newspapers announce the probable engagement of Princess Victoria of Wales to John Bering, Baron Revelstoke. The formal betrothal is awaiting the approval of Queen Victoria.

Harmony Seems to Prevail.

The Democratic State committee attended strictly to party business at its meeting in Trenton yesterday and did not, as some had thought it would, indulge in internal bickerings over the issues the Gubernatorial contest is to be fought out on.

The time of the meeting was taken up in selecting members of the County Boards of Elections, who will name the election officers in the various counties. The only dispute was over Camden county, where the regulars and county Democrats are at odds. The difference was settled by giving each faction one of the members of the County Board. This is taken as an indication that there is to be a reconciliation of the differences on the money question.

The sentiment among the committee was that Senatar Daly will not be considered as a Gubernatorial possibility by the convention, and that the nomination will go to either Elvin Crane or James M. Seymour, of Newark, or to Benjamin F. Lee, of Trenton, or Howard Carrow, of Camden.

Unpatriotic Cranks.

Times of emergency and excitement are always certain to develope unbalanced faddists who will insist on rocking their hobby horses instead of riding straight on the living issue. Our late civil war exposed many of these abortive theorists, and some of them found themselves housed in Fort Lafayette. A fresh crop has sprouted. Two very recent instances are specially worthy of note. Mr. Alfred H. Love, president of the Universal Peace union, can see nothing not worthy of the severest reprobation in the American reasons for the present war, while he recognizes much more to praise than to blame in the Spanish dealing with Cuba. He has gone so far as to write an open letter to the queen of Spain, humbly apologizing for the wicked action of his countrymen. While a United States statute expressly provides punishment for giving aid and comfort to the enemy in time of war it would be only "breaking a fly on the wheel" to invoke it in this case, for Mr. Love is amorous for martyrdom no doubt. Laughter, not seriousness, is the proper mood in dealing with such an absurd creature.

Another example is that of a brilliant and well known writer, Mr. Moncure D. Conway, who has lived so long abroad that he has become in some measure denationalized. In an article in the New York Herald he makes a bitter indictment against the practical results of life and government in the United States as subversive of all true liberty of spirit. The subtle implication, the real animus of his paper, which gives it immediate pertinence, is that slavish obedience to the mob spirit is the underlying cause of the present war. The writer does not say this in so many words, but it is writ plain between the lines. He marshals ingeniously a phalanx of isolated facts and tendencies culled out of 400 years of history to establish his point and examines them by looking through the reverse end of his telescope. The fact that in the United States, alone of all countries in the world, the most insignificant citizen has fullness of opportunity to make all out of himself possible in culture, wealth, and position he absolutely ignores. Any man has the right to believe any perverse theory, even to publish it if he chooses, but to make it the stalking horse of an insidious assault on the national government is another matter. There is an old maxim, "Inter arma silent leges." But if it is proper "to suspend law amidst the clash of arms" where law is hostile to the end in view, how much more so in the case of fantastic theories which assault the nation, whether or not they are put forth with the show of philosophy. Mr. Conway may not be malignant or consciously unpatriotic in his motive, but in effect he is more dangerous because more insidious and less palpably ridiculous than his brother "crank," who whines, "Not that I love America less, but that I love peace more."

Prize Money.

It occurs to many minds just now, no doubt, that there is something a little incongruous in the fact that the naval servants of the government are allowed a premium in the shape of prize money. On the other hand, the army, with equal patriotism and devotion to its work, receives simply its specified pay. On the face of things it would seem that such preference is unjust, however sanctioned by habit, and that the government, put to enormous expense by the needs of war, should recoup itself with the full value of prizes taken at sea.

To speak frankly and with the fullest desire that our gallant navy, from admiral to bluejacket, should enjoy all the privileges possible, the prize money system is an anachronism. It arose at the time when land and sea forces were for the most part raised by individuals and government pay was irregular and spasmodic. A share in the loot of fortified towns or an enemy's camp was a recognized recompense. Officers of both services were gentleman adventurers and divided the plunder with the men. The legalized doings of that day we should be very apt now to brand as robbery and piracy. When military service on land and sea was fully organized as a part of the government system, looting ashore was abolished in law, but the seaman's prize money stuck like the "fly in amber," though under the jurisdiction of prize courts. Privateering, the more flagrant form of the prize money system, has all but ceased. Its milder phase in the navy is pretty sure to go before long. In the meantime we hope our Jackies will fill their pockets to bursting.

A brutal German essayist has said that the French temperament is a hybrid of the monkey and tiger. The way that the typical Frenchman grimaces and mouths and makes faces at the American visitor now in Paris shows that for the nonce the simian element is on top.

It is stated that 250,000 people in America get their living out of music. One can believe this when he thinks of the 10,000,000 young women who torture the piano excruciatingly. One person's bread may be the poison of many.

The multiplication of inland waterings places through all the western states has been marvelous within a few years. People don't need now to travel to the sea hore for their summer outing.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

Peter Breidt, the Elizabeth brewer, says; "A brewery in Plainfield would be folly; its owner would starve to death." The Leader presents its compliments to Mrs. Tomlinson, the W. C. T. U. leader, and congratulates her that our sister city is so nearly reclaimed.—Westfield Leader.

The water in both the canal and river is so dry that the fish are forced to crawl out on the banks and lay in the grass under the trees to keep from being baked to a turn, and it is a common sight to witness large droves or flocks of carp, catties, bass, eels and smaller fry feeding on the meadow lands, as there is very little else but grass left in these days of wars and trusts to sustain the fishes. Even the sewer output is so light that it hardly raises a smell.—Bound Brook State Centre.

Warden Blore has made a most excellent keeper of the county jail. He has been fully competent, faithful and conscientious in the discharge of his duties. His retirement from the office is forced, because he clung to the veteran soldier act, but aside from that he has been an official giving entire satisfaction from the time he took the office until the time he retired from it. His successor, Mr. Dodd, was also his predecessor, and is fully qualified by experience to fill the position. It might be difficult to decide which is the better warden, but the exigencies of local politics have given both an opportunity to their individual excellence. — Elizabeth Journal.

the pace from the first. On the back stretch "Belle" made her first and only break but she settled down to work immediately. Randolph pushed the Judge closely at the half and followed his wheel around the track. As before, Randolph tried to rush by but the Judge's mare made strong response and got there, although only by the smallest margin. Some of the spectators thought it was a dead heat but the Judge won fairly enough although Randolph's mare was at the throat check of the Judge's pacer.

Randolph became pocketed in the third heat and had to drop behind but he came up at the half all right and went chasing after the Judge who still retained the lead. Down on the neck stretch, Randolph had almost caught his rival when "Belle Hayes" skipped and the Judge secured a big lead. Randolph's mare caught one of her hind feet in a boot on a fore foot and the boot came up striking Randolph in the eye. Half blinded, he kept on and finished four lengths behind the Judge. "Belle Hayes" was slightly cut on the quarters.

The Judge and Randolph started out together in the fourth heat of the special. They traveled around together, "Belle Hayes" breaking on the near turn, but making it up again on the back stretch. Two other skips put her behind. She came up magnificently on the stretch, but the Judge plied his whip and he won out by a neck.

E. B. Allen, of Flemington, acted in the capacity of starter, and he made a very satisfactory one. There were no protests over his acts and everybody was pleased. He will officiate at all the meets in the circuit. Mr. Allan, Joseph W. Ballentine, of Somerville; Robert A. Fairbairn, of Westfield, and J. M. Parsons, of New Brunswick, acted as judges and timers. C. V. D. Corle made an efficient marshal. Bradley Smalley was thoroughly up in his duties as clerk. W. F. Williams, secretary, and N. B. Smalley, treasurer, were on hand keeping an eye on the successful carrying out of their plans. Judge Coddington, the president, was also in evidence.

Guttman's Band was present and rendered selections in the intermissions between the events.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

NEW MARKET.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

New Market, June 23.—It is said that the cases of diphtheria in this place are of the black kind.

Friendship Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., has about completed arrangements for the Fourth of July celebration. The council has decided to serve refreshments under their auspices, and not to sell the privilege.

Tomorrow afternoon the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Baptist church will meet in the church. A full attendance is desired.

Next Sunday afternoon Children's Day exercises will be held at the Baptist church. A rehearsal will be held Saturday evening.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Scotch Plains, June 23—The dramatic entertainment given in Excelsior Hall Monday night by the Choir Guild of All Saints church was a perfect success. The audience was large and enthusiastic and the receipts highly appreciated. Miss Florence Kyte was exquisite in the rendition of the role of "Mrs Carver" in "Woodcock's Little Game," and at a very short notice took the place of the young lady who declined to appear for a second time. Norman Kieb also supplied, most acceptably, the place of a gentleman who was unable to appear. All the other gentlemen and ladies that took part in the first presentation of the farce at the Fanwood Clubhouse sustained their previous reputation and were greatly applauded. "Bice Pudding," the opening farce, was also very smoothly and appreciatively presented with the same cast of players and afforded great amusement to the auditors. Miss Poole, the president of the guild, was untiring in her efforts to make the entertainment a success and felt rewarded for her labors in the good financial results. Musical selections on the piano were interspersed through the waits between the plays by those excellent musicians, Miss Cooke and Miss Randolph. Mrs. McGuire also sang with telling effect, "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground" and "Way Down Upon the Suwanee River." Dancing followed the plays and the young people enjoyed it until a late hour. To Henry H. Frentz, Esq., the guild was under obligations for a great deal of hard work and most efficient services.

The neighborhood prayer meetings which have been successfully held during the last winter and spring, seem to have been discontinued during the summer.

Rev. Mr. Woodruff, of the Methodist church, has arranged his Sunday morning service so as to give a five-minute talk to the little ones.

Miss Nancy Wade, who has been teaching school during the last year in Mahwah, N. J., is spending her vacation with her parents.

The Baptist cemetery, which for several years has been kept up very nicely, is fast going back to its former state for want of care.

Mrs. Fred Schreiner, of Netherwood, was the guest Tuesday of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schreiner.

Richard Hunt, who has been visiting John Stilger, has returned to his home in Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Haberle, of Plainfield, visited friends in town Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Gage Walker have returned from a visit with relatives in New York.

Alfred McKeown, of the borough, is out with a new rubber-tire runabout wagon.

Miss Minnie Squires will spend her vacation with her mother in Rahway.

Miss Susie Parse visited friends in Plainfield Tuesday.

WESTFIELD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Westfield, June 23—Miss Agnes Dunning, of New York avenue, spent Sunday with relatives at Springfield.

The forty-sixth anniversary of the Presbyterian Sunday-school of Cranford was celebrated last evening. An address was delivered by J. S. Braker, of Fanwood, who is president of the Union County Sunday-school Association.

One of the things that many people are always "going to get" is a Piano. Somehow, while they recognize the need of having one, they keep waiting, like Micawber, for something to turn up. Meanwhile they are depriving themselves of the source of great enjoyment.
For these procrastinators we have a little book, entitled "How To Buy a Piano;" it gives pointers on Piano buying, and incidentally explains our easy payment system, and the reason of our immense popularity as Piano sellers. We will mail it free to any address.
Pay us TEN DOLLARS and you shall have a Piano at once.

The Plain Tailor Skirt.

Notwithstanding the fact that all sorts of skirt decorations, draperies, overskirts, and overskirt effects produced by various methods of arranging frills, ribbons, and piplngs are being developed, there are very many fashionable women who see no beauty or desirability in all the complicated "gingerbread work" now so much the rage, and are determinedly adhering to the simple, graceful effects of the plain, perfectly hung, silk-lined tailor skirt. This idea of elaborate skirt decorating was about the only essentially novel characteristic of new spring and summer fashions. This decision is, of course, not universal, and for many light, airy summer fabrics, frills and flounces and lace-edged furbelows are very appropriate and effective. The most successful gown, however, like the most attractive home, is the one best suited to the fair one who owns it, having always something of her individuality in its ensemble and characteristics of her self in its pretty details and minor effects.

Lovely Evening Waist.

Graceful evening toilettes are very much in demand. Embroidered gauzes and chiffon seem to be the popular materials and spangled effects of all kinds are employed.

For a young girl a lovely effect is obtained by a combination of rose color chiffon and black pean de soie. The skirt, of the silk, is made quite plain. The dainty chiffon bodice is especially youthful and becoming. The decolletage is round and is outlined with a roll of black velvet. Two ruffles of fine lace extend all around the yoke while a couple of black tips are placed on the left shoulder. A long sash of black satin encircles the waist.

Nun's Veilings.

The beautiful nun's veilings in cream-white and in colors suited for either day or evening wear are being very largely patronized by high-class modistes who are preparing summer outfits for their various patrons. In heavier wools, double-faced cashmere shares with fancy coverts and Venetian cloths the honors of popularity in the making of stylish tailor costumes. Iris and lavender-blue, heather colors blended with fawn or gray, a very handsome shade of green, and fawn color in monochrome unmixed with other dyes, are favorite colors, and white satin and gold braid, otherwise white satin overlaid with cream guipure lace, is still an extremely fashionable and very becoming decoration for the bodice portion. Velvet ribbon more or less wide, braiding, piping, or "cording," as it is often called, narrow gimps and tucking, figure on the skirts and bodices of costumes of every description designed for general wear.

Toast Meringue.

Toast meringue is what a trained nurse called a sort of idealized toast with which she tempted the appetite of her charge the other day. She made first a slice of thin, evenly browned toast, and dipped it for an instant into fresh boiling water that had a good pinch of salt in it. Over the range meanwhile in a tiny saucepan she had three tablespoonfuls of milk and a piece of butter the size of a hazelnut, and as these got hot she added the stiffly beaten white of one egg just long enough to heat it thoroughly. On the toast went the cream and egg, and, on a hot plate covered as it was carried through the hall, the dish went quickly to the invalid. Like most other foods prepared for the sick, the success of this dainty is in its careful making, attention to the details of hot and quick service being necessities.

A Successful Ruse.

"It is extraordinary that in these days of cheap education," remarked a gentleman in a very audible voice to a friend, while the opera was in full swing, "there should still be so many people unable to read and write."

"I don't meet many such," was his companion's reply.

"Well, look at that notice over there reading, 'Ladies who are not bald will oblige by removing their hats,' and then cast your eye round the theatre."

A short-sighted female seated in front of the speaker, after straining her poor eyes in all directions, removed her large head-covering, and resolved, with a sigh, to pay another visit to her oculist on the morrow. The brute behind her ceased craning his neck, and settled down to enjoy the performance.

Latest Designs and Styles.

A curious and pretty effect is obtained by the introduction of faconne scrolls into tartan silks. The latest novelty in gossamer is the scroll printed in a lighter color in mousseline de soie. These are being made over silk, the color of the scroll showing the ground conspicuously.

Fashions in Headgear.

Allusion has already been made to the great number of shapes in which new bonnets and hats have appeared, the hats as usual outrivalling the bonnets in the many caprices of contour and style in which they are shown. There is as much latitude exhibited in the varied head-coverings as is evinced in the construction of costumes. Both bonnets and hats run through small, medium, and large sizes, the bonnets developing through numerous modifications of the French toque, the princesse and capote shapes, into the more pretentious Victorian styles which reappear this season. In round hats, the models begin with the pretty turbans and English walking hats, and grade up to the very familiar small cartwheel dimensions, these monstrosities in straw being made up of numerous dents and smashed-in angles and eccentric curves—an eccentricity which is noticeable both in crown and brim, with a continuation of the winter's wild freaks in garniture in keeping with the shape of the hat. The prevalence of very rough openwork straws has brought them into the list of headwear desirable for travelling uses, yet they are really not commendable, on account of their liability to catch and retain the dust much more than a plain smooth braid. The most serviceable and stylish looking travelling hats are of English Dunstable straw or Milan braid, with a simple torsade of some appropriate fabric around the crown, with loops of the same, and a few quill feathers at one side. In spite of the many fancies that are put forth among the models for such uses, the fact still remains that flowers, laces, or dressy garnitures of any description are wholly out of place upon a travelling hat.

Lovely Summer Styles.

The show-rooms of fashionable city modistes are now brilliant with color and filled with airy garments that are like the breath of early June; and a wonderful and beautiful effect is produced by the grouping together of lovely evening toilets, bridal gowns, graduating dresses, debutantes, and dowagers' trained robes, tea gowns, travelling, golf, cycling, and yachting suits, beach costumes, costumes to walk in, to talk in, and costumes "in which to do nothing at all." Some of the bridesmaids' gowns and the newest tea gowns again copy historical styles. They have Marie Antoinette fischus, Victorian bodices, early English waists, Stuart collars, immense Elizabethan neck frills, flounced skirts; and some gowns modelled after still earlier fashions, open down the front of the skirt over petticoats of brocade or richly striped satin, the gown itself being made of some rich lustrious variety of plain silk or satin, with numberless picturesque additions to the bodice and sleeves.

Trades Followed by Animals.

Bees are geometricians. The cells are so constructed as, with the least quantity of material, to have the largest spaces and the least possible loss of interstice. The mole is a meteorologist. The torpedo, the ray, and the electric eel are electricians. The nautilus is a navigator; he raises and lowers his sails, and casts and weighs anchor, and performs other nautical acts.

Whole tribes of birds are musicians.

Caterpillars are silk-spinners. The squirrel is a ferryman; with a chip or piece of bark for a boat, and his tail for a sail, he crosses the stream.

The beaver is an architect, builder and woodcutter; he cuts down tree and erects houses and dams. The marmot is a civil engineer; he not only builds houses, but constructs aqueduct and drains to keep them dry.

The white ants maintain a regular army of soldiers.

Sauce Tartar.

A sauce tartar that is made with butter, which a cooking-school teacher gives to her classes, is a modification of the usual method of preparing this garnish. A piece of butter the size of a small hen's egg is rubbed smooth and seasoned with salt, Cayenne, a little dry mustard, and a considerable pinch of sugar. To this is added the yolk of an egg, the whole beaten smooth. A little lemon-juice then cuts the thickness, and a further tart flavor is secured by adding a tablespoonful of mixed capers and cucumber pickles chopped together.

Slave Marts in Finland.

A regular slave mart still exists in many country districts of Finland. Once a year such paupers, lunatics, and aged people of each parish as cannot support themselves are put up at public auction, and consigned to those families or farmers who will board them at the lowest price offered by the parish authorities. The helpless creatures are made to work as much as possible by their owners, who have the right to chastise them.

Chocolate Cream.

Boil one pint of milk and add to it one ounce of grated chocolate. Soak rather over half an ounce of gelatine in a little milk, and when the chocolate boils mix all together and stir till the gelatine is quite dissolved. Let the mixture cool, add two well-beaten yolks of eggs. Stir occasionally till all thickens, pour into a wetted mould and stand till cold. Turn out your mould to serve and pour a custard round.

The Only Woman Admiral.

The Queen of Greece is the only woman admiral in the world. She holds this rank in the Russian Navy, an honorary appointment conferred upon her by the late Czar, because her father held the rank of High Admiral.

It is a curious circumstance that some very important inventions have been discovered by lunatics.

Berlin. Die Einnahmen der Großen Berliner Straßenbahngesellschaft betrugen in den Tagen von Samstag vor Pfingsten bis Dienstag rund 239,000 Mark. Am zweiten Feiertage wurden 619,000 zahlende Personen mittelst der elektrischen Straßenbahnen und der Pferdebahnen befördert. Zu diesen dürften noch circa 15,000 Abonnenten hinzuzurechnen sein, so daß insgesammt 634,000 Personen, das heißt über ein Drittel der gesammten Einwohner Berlins, die Linien der Großen Berliner Straßenbahn benutzten. —Um seinen Qualen ein Ende zu machen, trank der stark nervenleidende Tischler Löhnert in Abwesenheit seiner Frau eine Blausäurelösung. Als die Frau zurückkehrte, schleppte er sich noch an die Thür, um sie zu öffnen, dann aber brach er besinnungslos zusammen und wurde sterbend in's Krankenhaus überführt.—Das Borsig'sche Fabrikterrain in Moabit ist an die Magdeburger Baubank für den Preis von 3,500,000 Mark verkauft worden.

Charlottenburg. Achtzehn vom Neubau der Firma Siemens u. Halske kommende Arbeiter stürzten bei der Ueberfahrt in einem überlasteten Boote in's Wasser. Bier der Arbeiter, Fellhauer, Kauffmann, Arnold und ein Unbekannter ertranken.

Spandau. In der Stadtverwaltung ist der bisher hier noch nicht dagewesene Fall vorgekommen, daß sich im abgelaufenen Etatsjahr ein sehr bedeutender Ueberschuß, nämlich 210,000 Mark, ergeben hat. Es ist dies eine Folge des rapiden Aufschwungs der Stadt, verursacht durch die starke Beschäftigung der Militärwerkstätten. Die verschiedenen Steuerarten haben bedeutende Mehrerträge geliefert.

Provinz Hannover.

Geestemünde. Die deutsche Nordpolexpedition unter der Führung Lerners ist dieser Tage auf dem Dampfer „Helgoland" von hier aus aufgebrochen.

Wilhelmshaven. Ein Seemannshaus für Mannschaften der kaiserlichen Marine ist hierselbst eröffnet worden. Dasselbe ist nach dem Muster des Kieler Hauses eingerichtet und zwar von einer aus wohlhabenden aktiven und inaktiven Offizieren gebildeten Gesellschaft mit beschränkter Haftung. Das Kapital ist zinslos hergegeben, einige Gesellschafter haben im Fall ihres Ablebens auf Rückzahlung des Kapitals verzichtet. Das Seemannshaus ist bis 10 Uhr Abends geöffnet. Die Mannschaften erhalten dort unentgeltlich gute Lektüre sowie Briefpapier, Kouverts und Schreibmaterial und sind nicht gezwungen, etwas zu verzehren.

Provinz Hessen-Nassau.

Frankfurt. Bei dem Gastwirth Staudenmaier in der Buchgasse war der 17jährige Heinrich Jakob Mathias Echternacher als Zapfjunge beschäftigt. Das ihm reichlich geschenkte Vertrauen mißbrauchte er, indem er nach und nach über 3000 Mark aus der Kasse stahl. Für das Geld schaffte er sich unter Anderem zwei Fahrräder, feine Kleider, Stiefel und Wäsche an. Die Strafkammer verurtheilte ihn zu einem Jahr Gefängniß.

Hanau. Dieser Tage feierten Hauptagent Christian Lossow und Frau das Fest der diamantenen Hochzeit. Herr Lossow ist 83 und seine Frau 79 Jahre alt. Beide erfreuen sich noch vollster geistiger und körperlicher Rüstigkeit. Von Angehörigen, Freunden und Bekannten wurden ihnen zahlreiche Ehrungen zu Theil.

J. M. HETFIELD, P. M.

OUR CATHOLIC HERO.

ADMIRAL GEORGE DEWEY IS A CONVERT TO THE FAITH.

He Is Said to Be a Very Consistent and Practical Member—Scores of Naval Officers and Many Sailors Are of the Same Belief—Catholics In the Army.

We have deprecated all along the unnecessary and unwarranted association of the religious question and the war. We have been unable to see how the fact that a large number, perhaps one-half the men who will actually fight the country's battles on land and sea, happen to hold to the same religious creed as the enemy with whom they contend has anything to do with the case. History is overflowing with records of war between enemies possessing a common religious faith. Wars, except purely religious wars, which have been obsolete for some centuries, are political, and the question of religion is entirely foreign to them. Nevertheless there is a certain class of bigots in the United States who persist in lugging the question into the discussion of the present unpleasantness in spite of the ill taste of the proceedings, not to mention the mischievous tendency of thus pandering to prejudices which should be patriotically allowed to remain in abeyance. Catholics have every reason to be proud of the part they are taking in the conduct of the war, though they are loath to refer to this, and would not do so except to silence the offensive mouthings of stay at home bigots.

Those who express doubts as to the spirit of American Catholics in the existing emergency will be surprised to learn that this spirit is manifested in Admiral Dewey's brilliant achievement at Manilla. Admiral George Dewey is a Catholic, a convert to the faith, and on the authority of one who was closely associated with the hero in the navy we are informed that he is a very consistent and practical Catholic too. There are scores of Catholic officers serving with equal loyalty and valor in Uncle Sam's vessels who only await the opportunity to demonstrate the same spirit displayed by the brave and successful commanders of the Pacific squadron. A very large proportion of bluejackets who work the ships and man the guns are of the same faith.

A like state of things exists in the army. At least two and probably more of the recently appointed major generals are Catholics, and in every grade of the service Catholics hold their own with others in proportion to their numbers until we come to the men who carry muskets, in whose ranks they far outnumber those of all creeds combined computed according to the religious census of our population.

A knowledge of these facts might be expected to silence the tongue of cowardly insinuation, and it would if our critics prized the truth as they do their mean little prejudices.—Cleveland Universe.

BROTHER CHRYSOSTOM.

The Superior General of the Xaverian Brothers and His Work.

The Xaverian Brothers of Mount St. Joseph's college have a distinguished guest in the person of Brother Chrysostom, superior general of the order. He recently arrived in the United States from Europe after a very rough voyage across the ocean. A great friend of education and thoroughly conversant with the systems in operation in England, France and Belgium, his object in coming to this country is to thoroughly inspect the work of the schools in charge of the brothers of his order and to suggest improvements wherever he may think them possible.

The order has schools established over a large part of the Union—from Massachusetts to Virginia and as far west as Kentucky—and as he intends to personally examine the classes in all these schools it is an affair of some magnitude. He expects that it will take him about six weeks to make the circuit. He is about 55 years of age and has been a member of the order for 40 years. He is liberal minded, and in the short space of a year, during which he has been superior general, has won the esteem and love of all his associates. One thing that he considers very important in teaching is that boys should be given as much liberty as possible and left largely to their honor.—Baltimore American.

The Church In France.

If any one doubts what a large place the Church of the Sacred Heart occupies in the mind of the Catholics of France, his doubts should be set at rest by a recent statement. According to this it appears that during the first quarter of the present year the offerings of the faithful have risen to the generous sum of 264,668 francs. A rich altar in honor of St. Joseph has been erected by the Roland-Gosselin family. New scaffolding has been prepared for the setting of the stones of the great dome. No less than 3,000 ladies now take their share of an hour a month in the work of perpetual adoration, and 3,154 men, about 35 a night, have kept the night watches in the basilica before the Blessed Sacrament. Such signs of devotion give grounds for hoping that the end of the century may see the completion and the solemn consecration of this great work.—London Tablet.

St. Teresa.

Within the cloister by the waning light
Teresa walked, absorbed in silent prayer,
Alone in spirit with the Presence there
And full of wonder at his mystic might,
When from the shadow stepped into her sight
A little child so simple, sweet and fair,
Such radiant glory round his shining hair
That all about him glowed in beauty bright.

"And who are you?" rang out his joyous cry.
"Teresa of my Jesus," answered she.
"But thou, my love!" she trembled in reply.
"Jesus of my Teresa," whispered he.
Then all her heart went out in a happy sigh:
"Oh, that my King should come so near to me!"

RELIGIONS IN THE BALKANS.

Description of a Congregation In the Catholic Cathedral at Sarajevo.

The Serbs are as two to one of the Catholics in Bosnia. Politically they are drawn toward Russia. The Catholics lean toward Croatia—a Catholic and Slavonic people like themselves.

Austria has made welcome in the "occupation provinces" a large colony of Catholic Poles who fled from Russian religious persecution. It was in keeping with the fostering regime of Austria to secure in these agricultural colonist teachers, and the most effective kind of teachers—namely, teachers by example—for the backward "rayahs" (otherwise the ransomed, the Catholic peasants).

What volumes of history are to be read in the faces of the elders in the congregation at the handsome new Catholic cathedral at Sarajevo. I have noticed that different places have each their own expression. I never elsewhere saw the Sarajevian Catholic physiognomy. The main emotional characteristic is watchfulness. There were elderly country women at high mass there one Sunday whose faces might serve for models for the "Sentry on Outpost Duty." They reminded me of the old watchword, "The price of liberty is eternal vigilance." With them, poor souls, until 19 years ago, when Austria brought security to the "blood stained Balkans," liberty was unattainable at any price, and mere existence could be preserved only by that same "eternal vigilance." Carlyle, with the difference between soldiers and citizens in his mind, wrote this quaint definition: "A citizen—one who does not live by being killed." The old mothers and grandmothers in the house of prayer had the strange sign upon their faces of those who were only allowed to live on condition of being capable of selling their lives dear. How many martyrs has not that race given to the church triumphant!—Catholic World.

A MAGNIFICENT HOSPITAL.

Amsterdam Catholics Are Building One Which Will Cost Nearly $565,000.

For many years the Catholics of Amsterdam have been contributing funds for a Catholic hospital. They will very soon now be in possession at least of a part of the large buildings to be opened next September. The total cost of the magnificent buildings will be nearly $565,000. Although there is a considerable sum contributed already, much is still required. But there is no cause for anxiety about that. The charity of the Dutch Catholics is proverbial. The best proof is the ardor with which they respond to the call for a lottery to obtain money to furnish the several halls and compartments, now nearly finished. The exhibition of the prizes, all gifts, some even of non-Catholics, and several valuable ones among them, was opened on Easter Monday.

The ceremony was favored with the presence of his excellency the internuncio, Mgr. Tarnassi, who kindly purchased lots, flowers and other articles from the ladies of the committee. The chief prize is a princely gift of the holy father, a "tabula," inlaid with artistic mosaics, representing St. Peter's place and its surroundings, value $2,000. In the speech given by his excellency the internuncio in answer to that of the president of the charitable work, Mr. Van Waterschoot van der Gracht, Mgr. Tarnassi said that this was the most valuable present ever given by the holy father in such cases. The Catholic Dutch attribute this distinction to the fact that they are "entre les meilleurs Catholiques du monde," a testimony highly honorable for us, but—I am proud to say—fully deserved.—Special Cor. Catholic Times and Catholic Opinion.

MAY EAT MEAT EVERY DAY.

Father Sherman Says Catholic Soldiers Who Do Are Not False to Their Faith.

In the course of his remarks the other day to the regiment Father Sherman, chaplain of the Fourth regiment and a son of the late General W. T. Sherman, said that soldiers who were of the Catholic faith were free to partake of meat on Fridays and also on fast days. He said he had eaten meat every Friday since he had been with the regiment, and assured the men that in doing so they were not false to their religion.

In the course of his remarks he said that God knows they were battling for the freedom of their fellow human beings; that in the days to come they would be hungered and near to starvation, and that they would be forgiven for eating meat on the days proscribed by their religion.—New York Journal.

Bishop Foley to Detroit's Troops.

Bishop Foley addressed the troops as they were preparing to depart from the new light guard armory in Detroit. The bishop said:

"Defend that flag and spread its folds over Cuba until there is the same liberty there that we enjoy. As a minister of peace it is not mine to stir you up to war, but let me impress on you one thing: Never in the idleness of camp or the struggle of the field forget that you are men. I am sure that when we intrust to you the honor of the state of Michigan you will bring it back more glorious than before. To the Catholic soldiers let me say: Remember your duty. Fight as soldiers should fight and show yourselves the better soldiers that you belong to our church. Remember you are American soldiers. Do your duty."—Standard and Times.

Catholic Religion In Spain.

It is stated that no country in Christendom is so thoroughly loyal to the pope as Spain. The constitution binds the nation "to maintain the worship and ministers of the Catholic religion and concedes to Protestants only the right of unannounced private worship." The priests, who number 32,000, are supported from the national treasury.—Chicago Tribune.

ART OF DIPLOMACY.

EPOCHS IN THE HISTORY OF AMERICAN REPRESENTATIVES.

The Cuban Question in the Days of Pierce's Great Secretary, William Marcy—Other Instances of Yankee Tact in Dealing With Foreign Powers.

(By Thomas Burke Grant.)

It is the common belief in Europe that public men in the United States being called to high office through the choice of the people are inferior diplomats to the scions of aristocracy who are usually trained from youth upwards, and for whose order the diplomatic service is one of the great perquisites of state. This was the fixed belief of the English foreign office until the Tories made the mistake of hoisting their flag in Nicaragua, and taking possession of the port of a tiny American State. They no sooner did this than they were frightened out of their right minds by the peremptory reminder that there was such a thing as the Monroe Doctrine still in existence in this country. Lest we might forget the virtues of arbitration this happy means of adjusting all differences was opportunely revived by them, and not only was arbitration meritorious in the case of Venezuela, but a large and comprehensive scheme of general arbitration was so pertinaciously urged that one would suppose this country would fall apart if it were not successful.

Since then Great Britain has been to some extent cured of the erroneous belief which she formerly entertained about the improvised diplomacy of the United States.

But that the belief still holds in other parts of Europe is plain from the De Lome letter and from the Duke of Veraugua's reference to the President and we shall have to teach Spain the same lesson. Even Bonaparte who was more of a democrat than the other sovereigns of Europe, and whose sale of Louisiana indicated that he was a sincere friend of this country, could not always repress this prevailing feeling of European court noodles. He once remarked, referring to Chancellor Livingston, who was hard of hearing, and to John Armstrong, his successor, who could not talk French "the United States is represented at the French Court by deaf and dumb embassies." The opinions Europeans entertained about our Ambassadors extended also to the statesman for whom the Ambassador spoke, usually the Secretary of State. And whenever arney or Sherman outwitted his dilletante European brother he was charged with using the language of bounce and of braggadocia, which the superior nature of the foreigners did not pretend to quite understand. Thus sweet hypocrisy still parried the stunning blow; and the practice of this form of dissimulation was in his view one of the fine points of a diplomacy that Andrew Jackson scotched in his day, but which Cleveland and Olney McKinley and Sherman have forever made impossible in the relations of the United States with the chancelleries of Europe. Correspondence between the United States and European foreign offices will in future be something more than merely elegant phrasing and no European statesman like Lord Salisbury or the late Lord Granville will again need five months to answer the strictly business like letter of an American Secretary of State. We have Americanized foreign offices.

Among those statesmen who have distinguished themselves in this line in former perilous times are a trio whose achievements present events seem to recall—Clayton, Marcy and Seward. John M. Clayton, the first of these was General Zachary Taylor's Secretary of State. It is to him we are indebted for the Clayton-Bulwer treaty which was in 1850 intended as a defense of our rights in the Isthmus against the rampant imperialism of Lord Palmerston, who was then the terror of all Europe. It is the habit in certain quarters now to discount the services of Clayton, and to say that the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, which Mr. Blaine gave notice of our intention to abrogate, only ties American hands by recognizing the equal rights of Great Britain in the Nicaraguan Canal.

But it must be remembered that when the Clayton-Bulwer treaty was signed, the United States was rent with the rival factions of slavery and anti-slavery; while England having crushed Napoleon was preparing to cope with Russia in the Crimean War, or entering upon the fruits of her conquests all over the world. The question of the annexation of Texas had also occupied the country for a number of years, and a war with Mexico had just been concluded which added 500,000 square miles of territory to the Union with all the vast responsibilities such an undertaking means. Daniel Webster had in a quiet, informal way arranged the Ashburton treaty with England, adjusting the boundary between New England and Canada. The United States had also for the sake of peace, surrendered the difference between the 49th parallel of latitude and 59 degrees, 40 minutes in the northwest—which difference would have now entitled us to the rich mining regions of British Columbia—and it was no mean triumph of Clayton's to even thus withstand England's demands at a time when she had scarcely abandoned her claim to search American vessels, and when Wellington was writing to remind us—"You have won nothing yet which gives you a right to demand on principle a territorial concession." Nobody could then have forseen the marvellous imigration and subsequent development of the United States and which now make our undivided possession of the Canal a necessity to proper naval connections between both shores of the Continent in time of war.

Of course the treaty was a compromise of undoubted American rights but it was a wise one under the circumstances; for after a war over Texas the United States were in no mood to stand up to Lord Palmerston as we are fortunately now able to do in the case of Lord Salisbury.

The next statesman who overmastered the foreigner and who boldly and successfully maintained American rights was William H. Seward. Of Seward's personality and commanding position the people are fully aware. The generation which knew him first as a leader of the Senate and afterwards as Lincoln's competitor at the Chicago convention of 1860 are deeply sensible of his masterly genius in the greatest crisis of the Union. The grasp and firmness of the man are responsible for three things that have profoundly affected American history. First, the sudden dispatching of the Russian Fleet to Hampton Roads, when it became known in Washington that Lord Palmerston had troops landed in Canada, and that the Navy of England, if opportunity afforded would be used in behalf of the Confederates. Second, that stubborn Americanism which triumphed over Lord Lyons in the Trent affair, and afterwards secured the settlement of the troublesome Alabama claims. Third, the acquisition of Alaska, which was really written off by the Emperor of Russia as a graceful concession to the Monroe Doctrine, and in reciprocation of Seward's magnanimous offer to recoup the Czar for the coal burned by the Russian fleet in the darkest hours of its history. Seward was probably the greatest and most feared in Europe of all our great American Secretaries of State.

But it is the Secretaryship of William L. Marcy in the administration of Pierce that has most interest at the present time and bears more directly than any other upon those stirring events through which we are now passing. The rather flabby foreign policy of Taylor and of Fillmore who preceded him, greatly angered the masses of the American people. They were tired of a government that did police duty for Spain in Cuba. They wanted to utterly reverse that policy of "scat, scuttle and surrender," which under the Ashburton arrangement, and the whole Oregon boundary upon the saw part of Maine absorbed in Canada protection of which they had set their hearts given away on the Northwest in the Oregon contention, and having valiantly contended for "Fifty, fourforty or fight" they gave the Pierce ticket an overwhelming majority. Marcy who thus became Secretary of State determined at once on driving Spain out of Cuba and England out of Honduras. The circumstances of Marcy's time were in some respects very like the present. Then, too, the Cubans were in arms for their liberty. The Order of the Lone Star instituted in 1853 to "liberate Cuba from the despotism of Spain" was very like the Cuban League now organized in the United States for the same purpose. Then, too, Spain was busy off-setting outrages on American citizens by Spanish claims of filibustering. It is the question of the destruction of the Maine to-day; it was one involving a vessel called the "Black Warrior" then, that stirred the indignation of the people. It is a striking reminisence that there was also a division of opinion between the President and Congress of that period, with the trifling difference that it was the President who was then anxious to make war on Spain, and it was Congress that then declined the responsibility. Just as in President McKinley's case there was also a proposal to place a sum of $10,000,000 at the disposal of the President as a mark of confidence; and a resolution authorizing a levy of 50,000 volunteers to fight in Cuba. Finally there was an alignment of the principal European powers which so closely duplicated that of the present Grand Alliance, if we may so call it, as to be little less than wonderful how almost exactly on the lines of Marcy's day the Cuban question comes up once more in a great international diplomatic problem.

There was then as now an abiding desire to stiffen the foreign policy of the country, and Marcy, who sent a naturalized Frenchman as Minister to Madrid, gave instruction to sound Spain on the delicate subject of purchasing Cuba. The Secretary of State also took a step then far in advance of to-day. It was that while the United States would do nothing to disturb the relations of Spain with Cuba, the United States "would at the same time much dislike to see Spain make use of the assistance of other powers to assert its supremacy over the island" (See Von Holsts' Constitutional History, 1854-61, p. 29). He also sent to Buchanan who was Minister to England, a protest about sending ships of war to our coasts as not being respectful to this republic; and instructed Soule to make it plain to Spain, that "while she remains in fact as well as in name sovereign of Cuba, she can depend upon our maintaining our duty as a neutral power, however difficult it may be." Marcy added that it "was not proposed to acquire Cuba unless the inhabitants were very generally disposed to concur in the transfer."

This was substantially the same position taken by John Quincy Adams, by Clay, by Van Buren, Polk, Webster and Calhoun. Marcy also rigidly insisted that no other power than Spain should be permitted to acquire Cuba under any pretense whatever. In 1857 the American Minister at Paris had informed the State Department of the existence of a treaty between Great Britain, France and Spain which guaranteed Cuba to Spain. Webster had formerly declared that the United States would never recognize any such treaty. Marcy now supplemented this decision by the clear inference or by the positive statement that once Spain's sovereignty became nominal in Cuba, or she refused to sell Cuba for a fair price, we were in duty bound to wrest the island from Spain if we possessed the power "upon the same principle that would justify one individual in tearing down the burning house of his neighbor if there were no other way of preventing the flames from destroying his own home."

Suddenly, however, both Marcy and the President changed their position on the whole Cuban question. This was on May 31, 1854. The people were exasperated but powerless to give effect to their deep convictions. Congress debated the question during the dog days of June, and adjourned without taking any definite action on the subject. Thus Spain escaped at that time, and the magnificent opportunity furnished by the Crimean war, in which Great Britain, France and Russia were engaged in the following year, found this country divided on the Cuban question. The Southern states were indisposed to exhaust those forces in an attack on Spain which later on they desired to marshall in the defense of slavery. The North was also equally reluctant to admit or acquire territory that might easily strengthen the slave-holding interest in the South.

But though local jealousies thus prevented the liberation of Cuba, in 1854, the policy of Marcy was well worthy of a country, and it was one which Napoleon's Ministers, with all their ingrained acumen and natural sympathy for Spain, were unable to withstand.

The sectional divisions spared Spain a humiliation then, but made it necessary for Cleveland in 1895 to re-assert the Monroe Doctrine in the case of England in Venezuela and in Nicaragua. A stiff policy is the cure for Europe every time.

England's New Vaccine Methods.

London has just recently adopted the calf-lymph for vaccinating purposes, and has prohibited by stringent regulations all other methods. In fact it was at first proposed to put into operation the French system which compels the young health doctor to take a calf with him when vaccinating and to transfer the vaccine direct from the calf to the child. The new English method provides for preserving the vaccine in glycerine. It seems that vaccination with calf lymph has become the habitual, if not the universal, practice in most of the Continental towns, and in many cases vaccination with humanised lymph is prohibited. The evidence of bacteriologists shows that the admixture of 50 per cent, solution of pure glycerine in sterilized water to calf lymph can be stored for a number of weeks and remain quite active to vaccine.

The new method of getting the vaccine lymph is described by a London expert, as follows: "To prepare a surface for the insertion of the lymph, the right side of the animal is thoroughly scrubbed with soap and hot water, and then shaved over an area extending between the internal edges of the fore and hind limbs and from some four or five inches below the spinal ridge to the umbilicus. The shaved area is next washed with soap and hot water, then with a hot solution of boracic acid and, finally, with plain hot water. It is afterwards dried with clean, soft cloths.

"A number of superficial incisions, each about one inch long, are then made in a direction at right angles to the long axis of the body, and about a couple of inches from one another. The incisions of the several rows are made en echelon. The lancet employed for the purpose has a spear-headed blade, this shape being specially recommended by M. Chambon. Over each incision a drop of glycerinated lymph is allowed to fall from a glass tube, and the drop is rubbed in with the flat portion of the blade of the lancet. The process is carried out by one of the laboratory servants, and is a somewhat lengthy one.

"When the lymph has dried, the calf is removed from the table and taken back to its stall.

"The vaccine material is always collected on the sixth day after innoculation. For this purpose the calf has to be placed again on the table. The lymph is drawn up into a sterilized glass syringe and stored in tubes."

Laughter and Insanity.

"It is a curious fact," said a physician recently, who was a specialist in nervous diseases, "that, taken as a general rule, all lunatics laugh about twice as much as sane people.

"Laughter after a surgical operation is a symptom dreaded by doctors and nurses.

"That queer impulse to laugh which some people experience in the first moment of a sudden calamity is in reality one of the sharpest warnings of insanity that any one could receive.

"Some people fall into a habit of laughing at their own thought when alone; this should be always strictly checked, as it is an unhealthy sign, and may lead to brain trouble later on."

A Wonderful Tree.

"I know a tree," said the farmer to the learned professor, "what never had a leaf or bud, and yet there's nuts on it."

"Astounding, sir, astounding! No such remarkable tree has ever been found by the botanist. What is it?"

"A axle-tree."

The man who paints his address on his umbrella is very likely to be robbed of his good name.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Edward Mosher, Jr., of Elmwood place, has been presented with a bicycle.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mademoiselle Celliere, of the Baltimore College, Baltimore, Md., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Fawcett, of Grove street.

Master John Dobbs Rogers, of Griffen, Ga., is spending a few weeks with Mr. and Mrs. William G. Brett, of Mercer avenue.

Mrs. J. C. Weaver, of Tremont, N. Y., is visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Frank Rowley on Sycamore avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Ball have returned to their home on Park place, after spending a few days with Mr. Ball's parents at West Hampton, N. Y.

Rev. John Allen, of Newark, will exchange pulpits with Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D., pastor of Trinity Reformed church, Sunday morning and evening next.

Miss Emma Williams, of Brooklyn, is visiting her uncle, W. F. Williams, of Somerset street, and she will sing at the borough graduation exercises this evening at the Y. M. C. A. hall.

Percy Long, of Grove street, is announced as prominent among the hosts at the spread of the Pi Eta Society, held in connection with Howard class day at Cambridge to morrow.

Rev. Isaac S. Schenck, of West Ghent, N. Y., a retired minister of the Gospel, caused by ill health, accompanied by his wife, left for home this morning, after a pleasant visit at the home of his bother, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, West End.

Hungry "Sapolio."

Sergeant Kiely picked up a homeless and forlorn looking hobo last night wandering around on Park avenue. He was hatless, coatless and bare footed, and was attired only in an old blue flannel shirt and a pair of trousers. He gave his name as "Charles Sapolio," and said that he was a French Canadian, from Quebec. 'Sapolio" was given a night's lodging in the jail and this morning given twenty minutes to get out of town. Before he went he called for something to eat and was handed a loaf of bread which he went up the street munching, attracting a great deal of attention. The man was evidently demented, but is perfectly harmless.

—Justice Mosher has moved from his office in the Taylor building on the corner of North and Park avenues, to his new offices in the First National building.

MARRIED AT ST. MARY'S.

Nuptials of George F. Greder and Mary E. Sheehan Celebrated.

Yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at St. Mary's church the marriage of Miss Mary E. Sheehan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Sheehan, of 838 Richmond street, to Geo. F. Greder, of the borough, was celebrated. Rev. Father Westman, curate of the church, officiated. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Katy Sheehan, as bridemaid, while the bride's cousin, Thomas O'Keefe, was best man.

The bride was gowned in white silk, trimmed with pearl, and carried a prayer book. Her sister wore white nun's veiling, trimmed with silk and carried pink roses.

A reception followed the marriage at the home of the bride's parents, which was attended by about fifty people. The gifts were many and handsome. Mr. and Mrs. Greder are now residing at 184 Duer street, which house was completely furnished prior to the marriage. The groom is an employe of Mr. Zeller, of Somerset street.

Some of the friends of the bride and groom very kindly arranged the decorations at their new home, and people passing the house this morning were much amused to see evidences of several schemes perpetrated. Bells, cans, ribbons, etc., were combined to make the effect artistic.

A NOBLE CHARITY.

Opening of the Jennie Clarkson Home for Children.

The institution known as the Jennie Clarkson Home for Children, which was endowed by the late William B. Clarkson, of this city, in memory of his daughter, is now open in New York.

It is under the care of the Baptists of New York. There has been recently purchased a farm of 151 acres at Katonah. The president of the home is the assistant pastor of the Calvary Baptist church, Rev. Dr. F. B. Morse. Rev. Dr. MacArthur and other leading Baptists are deeply interested in it. The present plan is to adopt the cottage system, and some cottages will, it is hoped, be erected by Baptists of Brooklyn. It is an institution which the Baptists of New York have long desired. The founder, Mr. Clarkson, was for forty years a successful merchant of New York city, but resided in this city.

Grammar School Graduates.

The following are the Grammar School graduates this year: Nellie Apgar, Mabel Bogardus, Alice Brick, Linden W. Bridgeman, Marjorie Burke, Hollis B. Cubberly, Edith DeLong, Hervey Doane, Harold Dollner, Jean A. Dunham, Lulu Lulu H. Fuller, Henry C. Goeller, Mabel Jenkins, Charles A. King, David Kohn, Stephanie Krom, Emma Larew, Clarence B. La Rue, Evelyn Lock, Erwin B. Leland, Gussie L. Long, Fred. C. Lounsbury, Howard Mason, Walter McNaughton, Robert W. Meeker. Lily D. Everett Reighton, Harry Rogers, Ida Tallamy, Marguerite Van Deventer, Violet Van Winkle.

Musical Pupils

The annual musical of W. E. MacClymont's pupils was given at the home of Mr. MacClyment, Washington avenue, yesterday afternoon. There were piano solos by Miss Clara Van Fleet, Miss Florence Nicholl, Miss May Batchelor, Miss Beatrice Miner, Miss Ida May Tallamy, Miss Daisy Houston; duets by Miss Ada Rogers and Mr. MacClymont, Miss May Doane and Mr. MacClymont. The pupils were assisted by Mrs. Edwin T. Douglass, soprano; Charles Griffith Davis, violinst, and Walter Serrell, flutist. Each number was well given and received hearty approbation. A reception followed the musicale and was very enjoyable.

T. A. B. Excursion.

At a meeting of the T. A. B. Society held Monday night, it was decided to go to Highland Beach, August 4th, on an excursion. A committee was appointed consisting of P. Reville, J. Moran, A. Kane, C. Shannon, R. Birmingham, C. Waldron, J. Moynihan, W. Spencer, C. McCarthy and P. Harrington, who will have it in charge.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Fort Hancock, Sandy Hook, N. J., June 22—Lieutenant Rhyno, of Company A, Sergeant Fisher, of Company M, and three privates, one of whom is Young, of Company H, left here yesterday morning to recruit the companies of the Third Regiment up to the required number of 102 men. They are to establish a headquarters at Asbury Park.

Some of the boys are trying to be transferred to one of the regiments that have been sent south as they are anxious to see active service, and the prospect here of any fighting for the Third is very small.

The old monitor Nahant rounded the Hook last night at 7 o'clock and is now anchored in Raritan Bay.

All the Plainfield boys are well, but very anxious to get to the front. Camp life is getting monotinous.

QUEER ELECTRICAL DISPLAY.

A Phenomena in the Heavens That Attracted Attention.

A very queer electrical display in the heavens was noticed last evening about 10 o'clock. It appeared in the north. At first there was an exceedingly bright flash that was almost dazzling. This was followed by a zigzag display similar to lightning. This seemed to last two or three seconds. Then a star was noticed shooting downward. The whole display lasted about three to four seconds. No reason for the display has been given It was seen by a number of Plainfield people, while others who were out at that time claim they saw no display

No More Adjournments.

Mrs. Bridget McDonough, of Richmond street, who demanded a trial by jury, when arraigned before the City Judge some time ago, charged with using profane language, will be tried tomorrow morning. The venire has been issued, and is in the hands of an officer, and there will be no adjournment this time.

A CHINESE BRICKLAYER.

He Has Proved a Most Efficient and Intelligent Workman.

Philadelphia has a Chinese bricklayer. His name is Lee Chang and he is a real credit to his employer. Chang works for Edward Clayton, a West Philadelphia contractor, and there is very little about a building that he can't do. Although Chang's method of working is rather peculiar, he is, nevertheless, active and artistic. Of course, he is the victim of no end of jokes and sarcasm, but he takes everything good-naturedly. The ambitious Celestial started to work for Mr. Clayton about three years ago, and advanced so rapidly that he was able to compete with any of his brother workmen after serving two and a half years as an apprentice. Chang is especially talented in "turning" arches and building corners, going as high as ten "courses" at a time without trying the plumb rule. His fellow-workmen often take delight in "rushing" him on a rough wall, but the agile Chinaman often makes them regret the attempt. The apprentice boys have a warm heart for Chang, and he is very liberal with his knowledge "of tricks of the trade," and doesn't hesitate to teach them the proper ways of working. He believes in the old maxim that "actions speak louder than words," and teaches ambitious apprentices by illustrations. Chang's ability to read plans is little short of marvelous. By attending a night school of architecture he became quite proficient in that line, and by perseverance and close application he soon learned to understand the most intricate drawings. Chang has no desire to return to his native country, but hopes some day to be a contractor.—Philadelphia Record.

Henry Clay's Fame Abroad.

R. Hall McCormick, a wealthy Chicagoan and a Bar Harborite, and an earnest searcher after art treasures, relates the following anecdote which came under his personal experience while straying through a London art gallery on his recent tour abroad.

While gazing at a large oil painting of Henry Clay, a passing employe of the gallery stopped and Mr. McCormick, in order to start a conversation, said quizzically: "Can you tell me, sir, whom does this picture represent?"

The attendant, realizing that his questioner was an American, replied in a rather pedantic manner: "Why, sir, do I understand you to mean that you don't know who that 'ere is? Why, sir, that's 'Enry Clay, sir."

"Henry Clay," repeated Mr. McCormick, with a merry twinkle in his eye, "why, I never heard of him. Who is he, pray?"

"Why, sir," ejaculated the pitying Briton, "and you don't know 'Enry Clay, and you an American, sir. Why, 'Enry Clay's the man what makes the figgers, sir," and with a contemptuous frown the attendant went about his business.—Bangor Commercial.

Fuel in Japan.

The dust of charcoal is gathered up and mixed with the chaff from the wheat, barley, and other grains, and with chopped straw in Japan. It is then moistened into a paste, rolled into balls about as big as a billiard-ball, and makes excellent fuel.

ELECTRICAL PROGRESS OF A YEAR.

It Has Made Great Strides Within this Short Time.

A notable feature of the electrical progress of the last year has been the awakening in England and Germany in electric railroading, and the recognition of the superiority of American plants for this purpose evidenced in the large orders for electric equipments that have come from England to this country. The Frankfort-Lauffen transmission of electric power on an experimental scale over a distance of 107 miles, which excited much wonder a few years ago, has been approached closely during the year by a prospective transmission in California of seventy-five miles, under the unprecedented commercial voltage of 30,000. Niagara has nearly doubled its power of utilization within the twelve-month and at Massena, N. Y., a 75,000 horse-power electric plant has been started. These are startling figures. Another point remarked in the electrical record of 1897 is the largely increased number of electric motors used in printing. In one large lithographic establishment, newly equipped, no less than 140 motors of various sizes furnish power to the presses and other machinery. The electric cab has become recognized as more than a fad and New York has ordered an addition of 100 vehicles to its electric cab service. The electric launch also is making its way, although its progress may be delayed for some short time by the difficulties of procuring current. In lighting the inclosed arc has established its practical excellence, and phosphorescent lighting has made substantial progress. The storage battery has forged ahead in a remarkable way, especially for lighting, and in central stations the three phase high-tension system, with rotary transformer substations, gives promise of soon coming into high favor. The obtaining of electricity direct from coal has made a distinct advance and some interesting new phases of electric heating have been entered upon. The long-distance telephone has enlarged its borders; Omaha now talks with New York; the quadruplex has extended its possibilities and wireless telegraphy, notwithstanding the exaggerated claims which have been made for it, promises to resolve itself into quite a practical system of communication, more especially with light houses and in marine work.—Chicago Record.

WASHING THE TIGER.

The Beast Liked the Water but the Proceeding was Rather Irregular.

A good story has been copied in the papers from "La France du Nord" about a Cossack, ignorant of the French language and equally ignorant of fear, who was hired at Moscow by the lion tamer Pezon to clean the cages of his wild beasts. Their understanding or misunderstanding was arranged by means of gestures and dumb show, as that unfortuante Tower of Babel hindered intelligible speech between the Frenchman and the Cossack; and Pezon thought the man thoroughly understood what he had to do.

The next morning the Tartar began his new duties by entering, with bucket, sponge and broom, not the cage of a tame beast as his master had done, but of a splendid untamed tiger, which lay asleep upon the floor. The fierce animal awoke and fixed his eyes upon the man, who calmly proceeded to wet his large sponge, and, unterrified, to approach the tiger. At this moment Pezon appeared upon the scene and was struck with horror. Any sound or motion on his part would intensify the danger of the situation by rousing the beast to fury; so he quietly waited till the need should arise to rush to the man's assistance.

The moujik, sponge in hand, approached the animal, and, perfectly fearless, proceeded to rub him down, as if he had been a horse or dog; while the tiger, apparently delighted with the application of cold water, rolled over on its back, stretched out its paws, and, purring, offered every part of its body to the Cossack, who washed him as complacently as a mother bathes her infant. Then he left the cage, and would have repeated the hazardous experiment upon another savage from the desert had not Pezon drawn him off with difficulty.—Lippincott's Magazine.

The Curly-Haired Juror.

It is not generally known that there is a well-defined prejudice against curly-haired men when it comes to choosing a jury to try criminal cases. The prejudice, when it is manifested, comes from the defence. When asked to explain the objection to curly-haired men, a prominent practitioner the other day said: "When I was just starting my legal mentor inculcated that idea in me. He said that curly-haired men had almost invariably been the pampered darlings of their parents, and in their youth had been so used to having their own way that they had come to believe that everybody on earth was wrong except themselves. In this way the seeds of opposition were sown, and when they grow older they make it a point to disagree with everybody and everything. If everybody else on the jury votes for acquittal, they vote for conviction, as a matter of course. They live on combat, and are as stubborn as the days are long. A curly-haired man never gets on the jury when I am defending a man if I can see him in time."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Birds Made to Order.

The Japanese are ruthless in their tampering with nature. If they decide that they want a bird or an animal of a certain shape or color they set about manufacturing the article, so to speak, by the exercise of exceedingly clever ingenuity and untiring patience. Here, for example, is how the white sparrows are produced. They select a pair of grayish birds and keep them in a white cage in a white room, where they are attended by a person dressed in white. The mental effect on a series of generations of birds results in completely white birds.—Rural World.

A Peculiar Custom in France.

France has a curious custom of distributing the tobacco shops, which are Government offices, to the widows and other needy relatives of her distinguished. Among the recipients of the 261 bureaux de tabac given last year are Mme. Jules Simon, widow of the Academician, Senator and Minister; the widows of a General of division, of four Generals of brigade, and of a Rear Admiral and the daughters of a Professor at the Sorbonne.—New York Sun.

TRACK RECORD WAS LOWERED YESTERDAY.

Several Fine Trotting Contests at the Driving Park.

2:40 CLASS WAS EXCITING.

WEATHER WAS IDEAL AND THE TRACK IN PERFECT CONDITION.

Several of the Horses Lowered Their Record—Large Crowd Was Enthusiastic—Dead Heats Made the Races Last Until 7:30 o'Clock—"Arpansa" Lowered the Track Record Yesterday.

Dame Nature proved an active ally of the Plainfield Driving Club. The race meet of the club, the first in the circuit of the Central New Jersey Driving Association, was concluded yesterday afternoon. The weather was simply ideal and the track in perfect condition. As a result, the track record went and many of the horses lowered their marks several seconds. The attendance was equal to that of the first day, while the carriages were unusually numerous. The crowd was enthusiastic and patiently waited until after the sun had set to see the last of the races.

The 2:17 class, trotting, open to 2:20 class pacing, was the first event and furnished much excitement. J. W. Arkell's "Highland Boy and Mr. Wright's "Arpansa" were the local favorites. The first heat was anybody's race unti the back stretch on the last half. Then "Arpansa" who had been up with the leaders, started off on her own accord and left the field behind in the finish. Her time was 2:18¼, beating the track record by R. A. Fairbairn's "Muta Wilkes." In the second and third heats, "Arpansa" took the lead and retained it, winning easily. "Theresa B" and "Highland Boy" made a lively scramble for second honors.

In the 2:30 class, trotting and pacing, there were three local starters, "Linola," Osborn up, won the first heat. "Albert L" ran away with his owner, M. H. Brandon, overing the mile on a dead gallup. Emery afterwards drove her, making a particularly good showing in the third heat where he finished second. Smalley's "Bolette" would not go in the second heat and was distanced. The winner was "Charles S," and erstwhile hack horse that showed remarkable speed and won the last three heats.

There was no end of excitement in the 2:40 class, trotting. Sweet's "Doctor Palmer" won with lots of lively competition on the part of D. L. Darby's "Sunday" and "Jamie" from a Perth Amboy stable. In the third heat "Doctor Palmer" and "Jamie" trotted a dead heat. "Jamie" just came up at the last and ranged even with the leader at the wire. "Ajax" and "Sunday" were not a length be hind. "Doctor Palmer" took the last heat easily. The races were concluded at 7:30 o'clock.

The summaries were as follows:

A PASTOR INSTALLED.

REV. E. E. JACKSON NOW IN CHARGE OF MT. OLIVE CHURCH.

Dr. Yerkes Gave the Charge and Rev. J. W. Richardson Welcomed the Pastor—Several Visiting Clergymen There.

The Mt. Olive Baptist church now has a new pastor in the person of E. E. Jackson, who was formerly installed last night with appropriate ceremonies. The church had been without a pastor since the departure of Rev. P. S. Gibson in January, with the exception of an occasional supply.

Rev. W. D. Johnston, of the Filmore Baptist church, was master of ceremonies. Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, of the First Baptist church, gave the charge to the church, and Rev. J. W. Richardson, of the Park Avenue church, welcomed the new pastor. Rev. W. T. Dixon, of Brooklyn, preached the installation sermon.

Rev J. O. Coster, of Newark, welcomed the church to the State, and Rev. R. A. Motley, of Jersey City, welcomed it to the New England convention. M. C. Dobbins, superintendent of the Mt. Olive Sunday-school, extended a welcome on behalf of the teachers. There were other speakers who took part in these exercises.

Refreshments were served to the visiting clergymen, and a short time spent in handshaking and social chat

AUTOMATIC CALL SELECTIVE SYSTEM IN TELEPHONE EXCHANGE.

The Aduantage of the System is That Each One on a Party Wire Gets a Private Service Without Interruption.

The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company is now preparing to give its subscribers the benefit of the automatic call selective system, one of the latest inventions for the telephone. A new switchboard has been placed in the exchange and the new 'phones are to be placed at once on all the circuits. The new telephones are only, however, for the lines where there are more than one subscriber on the wire. Their advantage is that each one on the party wire gets the same private service that is now accorded to those subscribers who are alone on their wires.

There is no bell to ring on the new 'phones. When the receiver is taken off the hook, the operator at central is automatically notified. There is a little glass dial on the front of the machine which shows white when the line is busy. When one party uses the line, the others are automatically locked off and the user has the line without possible interruption, neither can anyone hear the conversation. The bell does not ring at any machine until central wants that particular machine, doing away with the old system of calling with the various number of rings.

J. C. Smith is in Plainfield at present in charge of the work of putting in the new machines which will be put on all party circuits at once. There will be nearly 150 to put in.

THE BOROUGH TEACHERS.

Several of the Present Instructors Will Not Return Next Year.

Eight of the present Borough Public School teachers will not return next year to teach. Of that number, Miss Eby will return to her home in Pennsylvania; Miss McCain will teach at Belleville; Miss Frazer will return to her home in Canada to be married, and Miss Himes will again take up her residence in Boston. The other teachers who leave are Miss Emery, Miss Nevius, Mrs. Neal and Miss Needham. They will give up teaching Those who will return next year are Superintendent Wightman; Miss Susie Glass, principal of the High School; Miss Grace H. Petrie, Miss Crowther, Miss Horn, Miss Mooney, Miss Pantum, Miss Acock, Miss Kiernan, Miss Claypool, Miss Horton, Miss Mackey, Miss Hetfield, Miss Grace Bonney.

CITY TO LAY SIDEWALKS.

Street Committee to Ask the Council to Ord r the Work.

A meeting of the street committee was held last night in the Mayor's office. The members went over the work still to be done on the streets this summer, and did some estimating as to how the money can best be spent.

It was decided to recommend to the Council that the city lay flagging in front of a number of pieces of property where owners have been ordered to do so and have not complied. It was also decided that the committee recommend to the Council to curb the gaps around town where owners were ordered to do so, but not order any more new curbing at present.

CLEVER ACTING BY PUPILS IN ST. MARY'S

Parochial School Closed With Interesting Exercises.

TWO FARCES WERE GIVEN.

THE CHARACTERS WERE PORTRAYED VERY NATURALLY.

The First Farce Gave the Girls a Chance to Show Their Ability, but the Boys Got in Their Clever Work in Making Laughter Later On—Performance of the Pupils Reflected Credit on the Sisters.

The closing exercises of St. Mary's School were held last evening in the school hall. The exercises were long, but very interesting, and held the attention of the audience from beginning to end.

Two little sketches were given, a drama entitled "Which is Which, or the Fire of London," and a farce, "A Public Benefactor." Those who took part in these were all connected with the school, and showed the result of careful training on the part of their teachers.

In "Which is Which," Mrs. Coggle, a maiden lady and her servant, Joan Perter, are suddenly overwhelmed with babies. The great fire of London is raging, and Lady Davenant and Mrs. Yates, the latter a Catholic, being obliged to flee for their lives, leave their babies with Mrs. Coggle.

They are placed side by side in bed, and immediately both Mrs. Coggle and Joan forget "which is which." One baby dies, and then there is a continual quarrel between Mrs. Coggle and Joan as to the individuality of the remaining child. Finally both women come back and little "Rose" chooses her mother. The parts were all well taken in their piece, "Polly," who was little Miss E. McInerney, being acted very natural.

The cast was as follows: Lady Davenant, Miss Anna Daley; Mrs. Yates, Miss A. Ryan; Mrs. Coggle, Miss J. Lutz; Joan Porter, Mrs. Coggle's servant, Miss F. Hillman; Mrs. Peterkin and Mrs. Budge, neighbors of Mrs. Coggle, Miss M. Burke and Miss E. Corrigan; Polly, Miss E. McInerney; Rose Davenant, alias Mary Yates, Fanny Marchbanks, Jane Caldwell, Ann Dauson and Bessie Fairchilds, school girls; Misses M. Barrell, M. Harding, B. Skinner, A. Taylor and S. Barrell; Mrs. Dimple, the school mistress, Miss W. Kane.

In the farce the boys were given a chance to display their talent. Erastus Steele, a merchant, gives a large sum of money to charity. The fact is exploited in the newspapers, and at once Steele is overrun with beggars of all descriptions, who tell him he is a "public benefactor" and ask for help.

The characters were as follows: Erastus Steele, a merchant, Albert Traynor; Harry, his son, Thomas Mack; Solomon Longface, an impositor, Henry Shannon; Cyrus Caucus, a countryman, John Carty; Robert Simson, a lubberly boy, Fred Wilby; Barney Hoolan, a laborer, John Berry.

In addition to these sketches there were songs by the primary and grammar departments of the school. The chorus, "Silver Bells," was sung by a body of girls dressed in white. "Phonetics in Song" was a cute little piece by the primary girls, and "Three Little Chestnuts" the title of a song sung by the primary boys. "The Merry Drummers," by the grammar boys, was followed by a vocal duet, "Trust Her Not," by Miss Frances Hillman and Miss Margaret Harding. This was very good, and the singers were encored.

A pantomine, "Jesus Savior of My Soul," ended the programme, which was opened and closed with instrumental music by Miss M. Smith, piano, and Miss A Quinn, violin. The exercises will be continued tonight, and Sunday and Monday, July 3d and 4th, the exhibition of the school work will take place in the school hall from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.

A Bad Fall.

Fred Ross, a clerk in Willett's shoe store on Park avenue, had a bad fall on Wednesday while picking cherries in a tree at his home on Prospect place, in the borough. The limb he was standing on broke and he fell over twenty feet. In the fall he just missed a picket fence. His escape from serious injury was wouderful. Mr. Ross received several bruises about the body, but no bones were broken.

To Visit The Exposition

John Dalziel, principal of the Plainfield Academy, on East Front sreet, will leave early next week for Omaha Exposition, where he goes to study the latest methods in education with the idea of introducing them into his school next fall.

SIXTEEN GRADUATES CONFRONT THE WORLD

Twenty-Eighth Annual High School Commencement.

AN EDITOR TALKED TO THEM.

DR. MABIE DWELT ON THE IMPORTANCE OF EDUCATION.

Music Hall Filled With a Large and Cultured Audience—Board of Education and Graduates Occupied Seats on the Stage—Presentation of Rewards by the President, Dr. Probasco.

Sixteen young men and young women bid farewell last evening to their school life at the Plainfield High School and entered the arena of life, having successfully completed their course in that institution of learning. The twenty-eighth annual Commencement exercises were held in Music Hall and were attended by the largest crowd that has witnessed the graduation exercises for several years. The hall was filled to overflowing, fully 1,000 people being present.

After the overture by Neyer's New York orchestra, "Raymond," by Thomas, the curtain was raised. A chorus composed of fifty school children was arranged on a platform in the rear of the stage. The members of the Board of Education, Superintendent H. M. Maxson, and Principal Ira W. Travell occupied chairs on the left, while the graduating class was grouped about the centre and right.

During the musical selections many handsome bouquets and other gifts were brought in by the ushers and placed by the graduates. The ushers were Charles Titsworth, William. A. Fisher, Harry T. Cuming and Albert L Schomp.

The graduates were as follows:

Latin Scientific Course—Edith Blanche Clark, Carolyn Kampman, Marie Agnes McCarthy, Sara Franklin Richards, Lillian Bessie Hunt, Lydie Evodie Loizeaux, Constance Patton, Elwood Linnell Davis, William A. DeLong, Jr.

English Course—Adele Hope Kirby, Clara Goodman Long.

Classical Course—Arthur William Lederer, Ellen Louise Osgood, Henry Arthur Pearce, Henry Wyckoff Brower, Rhey Thompson Snodgrass.

The honor pupils were:

First Honor—Carolyn Kampman, Adele Hope Kirby, Ellen Louise Osgood, Henry Arthur Pearce, Sara Franklin Richards.

Second Honor—Constance Patton, Elwood Linnell Davis, Rhey Thompson Snodgrass.

After the curtain rose, there were two selections by the school chorus, led by Charles L. Lewis, Miss Mabel Maxson accompanist. They were "How the Day is Over," and "The Son of God Goes Forth to War." The invocation was pronounced by Rev. J. W. Richardson. Then came another selection by the orchestra, "Come Early Morning."

The salutatory and recitation "The Influence of Home Life," was delivered by Miss Ellen Louise Osgood. The full text of it will be found on page 7. The "Babbie" waltzes were played by the orchestra.

Hamilton W. Mabie, L. L. D., one of the editors of the Outlook, was the speaker of the evening. His address was, in substance, as follows:—

"Education is not a luxury, it is ceasing to be a privilege, it is coming to be the necessity of the modern man. The day has come when a man must be able to say, "This thing I can do." Command of some kind of knowledge is an absolute necessity for commercial or social success. If you value your safety, go out into the world with some kind of education. This is the age of the trained man and the trained woman. Germans were the masters of the whole field of knowledge, and they were the first makers of great dictionaries and text-books.

"Education is a question of dollars and cents, as well as a question of culture. The country which gives its citizens the best training, is the country which will take precedence in commerce, as well as art and literature. Education is the one process that fits a man to be himself; to do his work in the world. Our heroes on land and sea today are succeeding not because they are braver than the Spaniards, but because of their superior training. Those who emerged from the Civil War in the front rank, were every one graduates of West Point. Give yourself every ounce of education you can obtain, young men and women; for education has ceased to be a luxury, it has ceased to be a privilege, it has become a vital and supreme necessity."

The school chorus sang three short songs, "Where Are You Going To?" "The Happy Miller," and the "Owl and the Pussy Cat." After the orchestra had given a medley of airs from "The Highwayman," the presentation of the rewards was made by SCHOOL DAYS OVER FOR BOROUGH PUPILS.

Annual Commencement Exercises in Y. M. C. A. Hall.

A CULTURED AUDIENCE.

GOOD ADVICE GIVEN TO GRADUATES BY PROF. GREEN.

Announcement of Rewards Made by President McCutchen, of the Board of Education—Salutatory and Valedictory Were Smart Compositions—List of Prize Winners—Clever Musicians.

The Y. M. C. A. Hall presented an attractive sight last evening when thirteen young women and one young man were graduated from the North Plainfield Public High School. The hall was filled with parents and friends of the graduates and there was an abundance of enthusiasm manifested throughout the evening. The decocations in the hall were exceedingly pretty.

Seated on the platform were the graduates, Superintendent Wightman, Miss Susie Glass, principal, President S.St.John McCutchen, of the Borough Board of Education, and Dr. J. M. Green, principal of the Trenton State Normal School.

In connection with the programme there were a number of musical features which were an enjoyable part. There was a piano solo by Miss Caroline Perry, of Elizabeth, and contralto solos by Miss Emma Williams, of Brooklyn, and Mrs. F. M. Ward, of Elizabeth. Howard Case accompanied Miss Williams, while Miss Perry accompanied Mrs. Ward. Each of these numbers were well received and accorded hearty applause.

Special mention should be made of the singing of Miss Williams, of Brooklyn. She is a niece of W. F Williams, of the borough, and it was her first appearance in this city. She has a rich voice and her singing seemed to please everyone.

In opening the exercises the invocation was given by Rev G. W. Gardner, pastor of Grace M. E. church, and following a solo by Miss Williams, the salutatory was given by Miss Florence S. Smalley. She spoke on four different points, confidence, courage, perseverance and patience, as essential to ultimate success. She told of the value of education and how much it is worth in life. At the close the address was loudly applauded.

The address of the evening was given by Dr. J. M. Green, principal of the Trenton Normal School. He spoke on education as a fundamental principle and told his audience that if anyone had ideals on the subject he would like to shatter them. In his opinion there are two prevailing definitions of education in this country. First, knowledge, which will help a person to make their way in the world. He urged the necessity of manual training, the study of commercial law, and geography. In the second place, he said that development of mental power is the second definition. He dwelt on the importance of accuracy in thought, and urged upon all to give their children the education that will be of the most value in life. The mind should be thoroughly and intellectually trained.

Dr. Green said that knowledge is not confined to any one department in school, and he thought the country was making a mistake in too much limiting. The speaker stated that he thought the expense of the country caused by ignorance is far in excess of what education costs. Many people know much, but still they are worth very little.

Following the address of Dr. Green and a vocal solo by Mrs. Ward, came the valedictory by Miss Bertha M. Stevens. It was an interesting address, in which she heartily thanked the Board of Education and teachers, as well as Superintendent Wightman, for the excellent opportunities offered the graduates to obtain an education. She referred impressively to the time spent in class room and of the many pleasant incidents in school life. The farewell to the graduates and teachers was also impressive. To the juniors she bequeathed the honors for 1899, and trusted that they would make the best of their time during the remainder of their school life in the borough school.

This was followed by the presentation of prizes and diplomas by President McCutchen, in the absence of James H. Hayes, president of the State Board of Education, who was expected to perform that honor. He was detained by illness. As had already been stated Miss Clara VanFleet was awarded the first prize in

TO FIGHT THE TROLLEY.

EAST SECOND STREET RESIDENTS CHANGE THEIR MINDS.

Many Who Gave Consents Once Have Now Entered Remonstrances to the Invasion of the Trolley Tracks.

The way of the Plainfield Street Railway Company in securing a route through the eastern end of city is besought with obstacles of a serious nature on East Second street, where they have made application to the Council for the right to lay their tracks.

Though they secured the consents of the majority of property owners for the right of way, many of those who signed the consents have now changed their minds and will sign the remonstrance against the invasion of the tracks on the street. William A. Coddington has been employed to fight the application for a franchise at the public hearing to be given in the Council chambers.

One of the principal objections to the use of the street is its narrowness. It is only twenty-five feet wide and with a trolley track in the middle of the roadway there will be scarcely room for a team and a car to pass at the same point. House holders along the street have also become agitated about the possibility of suffering with great clouds of dust if the trolley cars run on the street, the same as the residents along the trolley streets now suffer from.

HORSE RAN AWAY TWICE

HORACE J. MARTIN'S STEED MADE MUCH EXCITEMENT.

Originally Frightened at a Trolley Car—Wrecked Hervey Doane's Bicycle—Driver Thrown Out—Somewhat Hurt.

Two exciting runaways, one of which was in the centre of the business section, broke the monotony of the morning. The principal participant in both was a horse belonging to Horace J. Martin, of Jackson avenue

It was between 9 and 10 o'clock when Joseph Green, a young man employed by Horace J. Martin at his blacksmith shop on Somerset street, was driving one of Martin's horses along Watchung avenue. He attempted to turn up Third street, but the trolley car pocketed him and another car following the first completely unnerved the horse. The animal made a bound and Green tried to guide him safely between the car and telegraph pole.

There was a crossing there and a bump which threw Green from his seat and pitched him into the road, striking on his shoulder. He was bruised and also sprained his ankle.

The horse ran up to Crescent avenue and thence through West Eighth street. The animal was caught near Grant avenue. The man who caught him was about to drive the horse back when Will Hobbie and a lad named Young volunteered to take it back, explaining that they knew the owner.

They started down Grant avenue, but soon the animal became unmanageable and plunged and kicked so they jumped out and left the horse and road wagon attached to their fate. The horse ran down to West Front steeet and turned townwards. Everybody gave him a clear path. Just as the horse reached Randolph's pharmacy he went up on the sidewalk and threatened to go straight through the store window.

Hervey Doane, of West Fifth street, had just gone on an errand for his uncle, J. Hervey Doane, the jeweler, and had the latter's wheel. He had left it at the curb and the horse plunged into it, bending the frame all out of shape. Then the equine continued along the sidewalk to Endress' meat market. Moses Schloss was walking along and had to spring into the store to prevent being run down. Charles Mosher and Frank Vanderhoof, two of Endress' employes, ran out just in time to catch the horse before he plunged through the big plate glass window. The road wagon was damage to a trifling extent.

Funeral of Mrs. Pearson.

The funeral services of the late Mrs. William Pearson were held yesterday afternoon from the First M. E. church at 2:30. The officiating clergyman was Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, pastor of the church. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends at the service. The remarks of Dr. Snodgrass were comforting to the bereaved ones and were full of sympathy. The floral display was very beautiful and consisted of set pieces and bunches of roses. Interment was in Hillside cemetery. The pallbearers were H. E. Gayle, William Krausse, George Feller, H. Koller George Schuck and Fred Bechtel.

THE ADVANCE BEGUN; SPANIARDS FALL BACK.

Skirmishing Follows, But No Decisive Engagement.

JURAGUA WAS ABANDONED.

SIEGE OPERATIONS ARE SOON TO BE STARTED AGAINST SANTIAGO.

American Troops Advance To Within Seven Miles of Morro Castle—Spaniards Retreat, Burning Blockhouses—Retreat So Hurried That Juragua Was Not Even Destroyed.

Off Juragua, June 23, via despatch boat to Kingston, Jamaica, June 24, 1:18 p. m.—The advance of the American army has reached the edge of the tableland, beyond which the harbor of Santiago lies. It is within seven miles of Morro Castle. The main body of troops has united with the advance troops.

The Spaniards are now in full retreat toward Santiago. They may attempt to surprise the American troops but no decisive engagement is expected for several days. Lawton's brigade, which rested last night at Demajayoho, resumed its march at daybreak. At noon they hoisted the American flag here.

The Spaniards retired before the advance of the Yankee troops, burning the block houses as they went. But Juragua was abandoned by the Spanish general Linares in such haste that he had no time to burn the town.

There were several sharp brushes during the day while the detachments kept up their skirmish firing during part of the evening. The remaining troops in the transports attempted to land but it was impossible owing to the heavy sea.

Washington, June 24, 10:56 a. m—General Corbin expects news of a great battle at any moment. It is known that there is fierce skirmishing day and night but that the decisive battle has not yet come. Secretary Alger expects that the capture of Santiago will be a bloody victory as the spanish will make a desperate stand and it will be practically necessary to annihiliate them before they will surrender.

Washington, June 24, 12 m—Advices from Shafter indicate that the army will be ready to march tomorrow. All the heavy artillery has been landed and the day will be devoted to putting it in shape for transportation to Santiago. The troops are in the best of spirits. Severe fighting is reported between the Cubans and Spaniards in the mountains back of Baiquiri.

Madrid, June 24, 1:28 p. m—The debate in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday was marked with great disorder. Scenes of greatest confusion prevailed. Robledo advocated that peace negotiations be opened direct with the United States He severely criticized various officials and the press. There are rumors of an open rupture in the Cabinet.

Colored Baptists Meet Here.

The quarterly meeting of the Baptist Sunday-school Union, of this State, met yesterday in the Fillmore Baptist church, colored, and listened papers upon Sunday-school work by Rev. O. W. Smith, of Princeton, president of the union; S. W. Hulick, of Cranford; Mrs. Yetman of Roselle, and others.

Rev. W. A. Harris, of Cranford preached the afternoon sermon. Dinwas served to the delegates and a set of resolutions and by-laws was adopted. In September the Union will meet in Red Bank with the Afro-American Association.

New Streets in Westfield.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, June 24—The surveyors of highways of Westfield, Springfield and Fanwood have decided to construct two new highways in Westfield. One will be a new street on the south side, extending from the Rahway road across the Drake, Westerfelder and Allen estates. The second one will be an extension of Middlesex street, on the north side of the township.

LANDING OF THE ARMY

Accomplished Without the Loss of a Soldier.

TEN THOUSAND CUBANS AID

The Debarkation of Troops at Baiquiri Was Accomplished Speedily and Without Accident—Five Ships Opened Fire to Protect the Soldiers—How Landing Was Effected—The Eighth and First Infantry Were First on Shore.

Washington, June 24.—Further particulars in regard to the landing of Shafter's army of 16,000 men at Baiquiri, near Santiago, on Wednesday night, as given in our dispatches of yesterday, show the event to have been one of the most remarkable of modern times. That the landing of such a large body of men on hostile soil could have been accomplished in so short a space of time and without a single fatality or accident, seems almost incredible.

How it Was Accomplished.

A little before nine o'clock the bombardment of the batteries of Juragua was begun by the ships of Rear Admiral Sampson's fleet. This was evidently a feint to cover the real point of attack, Juragua being half way between Baiquiri and Santiago de Cuba. The bombardment lasted about twenty minutes.

The scene then quickly shifted back again to the great semi-circle of the transport fleet before Baiquiri.

At 9.40 o'clock the New Orleans opened fire with a gun that sent shells rumbling and crashing against the hillside. The Detroit, Wasp, Machias and Suwanee followed suit and soon the hillsides and the valleys seemed to be ablaze, as shot followed shot in swift succession amid the wild and excited cheering of the soldiers on the transports.

In five minutes the sea was alive with flotillas of small boats headed by launches speeding for the Baiquiri dock. Some of the boats were manned by crews of sailors, while others were rowed by the soldiers themselves. Each boat contained sixteen men, every one in fighting trim and carrying three days' rations, a shelter tent, a gun and 200 cartridges, ready to take the field on touching the shore should they be required to do so.

The firing of the warships, however, proved to be a needless precaution, as their shots were not returned and no Spaniards were visible.

General Shafter, on board the Seguranca, closely watched the landing of the troops.

The First to Land.

At 9.50 the first boat load containing the men of the Eighth and First infantry, started for the shore, followed by the Twenty-fifth (colored), the Tenth and Twelfth infantry, at 10.10.

Prodigious cheering from the shore, caught up by the nearest ships and flying from vessel to vessel through the squadron, announced the momentous fact that the American army had begun a landing on Cuban soil, the honor of setting the first foot on the island falling to a detachment of the Eighth infantry that was towed ashore by the tug Wampatuck.

This important operation thus successfully completed without loss of life or accident, the troops on land formed and moved up and away to quarters without confusion. A force of mounted Cubans, which had been under cover during the bombardment, now arrived and congratulations were exchanged.

At 11.30 a detachment of the Second Massachusetts volunteers started for the shore and by noon probably three thousand men had landed. Other detachments were following as rapidly as the steam launches could be made available.

The sea was auspiciously calm and the sky clear. A cool breeze was blowing. The troops were in the highest spirits and the strains of "Yankee Doodle" were greeting every string of boats going in.

An Immediate Advance.

An immediate advance will be made, and as soon as the military forces are in possession of the hills back of Santiago a combined attack by the fleet and army will be ordered.

It is expected that before Saturday Santiago, with all its fortifications and the strong fleet under Admiral Cervera will have fallen, either captured or destroyed.

A Cuban who had deserted from the Spanish ranks surrendered Thursday night to the Marblehead, saying that he was unable longer to endure the starvation rations issued to the Spanish troops. He declared there were many others in the same condition and anxious to surrender. It was expected that a number would go aboard the Marblehead yesterday.

Many Recruits Rejected.

Camp Voorhees, Sea Girt, N. J., June 24.—Governor Voorhees, observing the large number of rejections of new recruits now in camp after the rigid examination by the state physicians under rules established by the United States surgeon general, apprehends that a draft may be necessary to fill the ranks of the three New Jersey regiments now in the field.

The rejections at Sea Girt exceed 40 per cent., and in some instances about 60 per cent.

Price Monument Unveiled.

Brooklyn, June 24.—The most impressive feature of the celebration of the twenty-first anniversary of the Royal Arcanum yesterday was the unveiling of the monument in honor of the late Past Grand Regent Justin F. Price. The unveiling occurred at Greenwood cemetery at 11.30 o'clock and was witnessed by a large gathering of members of the fraternity and friends of the departed regent.

Lieut. Hart's Misfortune.

Louisville, June 24.—Information has been received here that Lieutenant William W. Harts of the army, formerly stationed at Louisville, who was injured by a premature explosion of dynamite near Jacksonville, Fla., has been left deaf and blind by the effects of the shock.

He is now in the marine hospital at Jacksonville.

THE FIGHT ON AT SANTIAGO

Madrid Reports a Bloody Battle Washington Advices Are of the Same Nature.

Washington, June 24.—12.30 a. m.—A big battle is believed to have been fought between General Shafter's forces and the Spaniards. Cable communication at Guantanamo has ceased and nothing has been heard for three hours, but the last message said that skirmishing was going on between the two opposing armies and that a battle was expected any moment.

The Madrid dispatch announcing a battle near Santiago is believed to be true. General Miles is now at the department momentarily expecting news of a terrific fight.

Madrid, June 24.—The minister for war, General Correa, it is announced, has received an official dispatch from Santiago de Cuba announcing that "the Americans' first attack on Puenta Berraco has been repulsed after a hard fought and bloody engagement."

News of serious fighting near Santiago de Cuba has been received here.

Admiral Cervera cables that the situation is critical. The governor of Santiago admits that the Spaniards have been obliged to retire, but a Spanish victory is claimed.

An earlier dispatch from Santiago de Cuba says:

"The attack commenced yesterday. The enemy concentrated his landing forces in front of Puenta Berraco, lying eastward of our left flank, which extended for eight leagues along the coast."

Another official dispatch from Havana says:

"The commander at Santiago de Cuba announces that the American squadron has commenced the bombardment and is trying to disembark at Baiquiri and at Puenta Barraco.

"An American warship has shelled and destroyed a small wooden fort near Cienfuegos. Seven Spaniards were slightly wounded."

Germany's Friendship.

Washington, June 24.—Among the official callers at the department of state yesterday was the German ambassador. The principal object of his visit was to deliver to Secretary Day further assurances of Germany's neutrality at Manila.

Similar assurances have been received through our ambassador at Berlin, and the reinforcement of the assurances previously given should set at rest the disquieting rumors of Germany's interference in the Philippine campaign.

The interview between Secretary Day and the German ambassador was of the most cordial nature and expressions of sincere friendliness were freely exchanged.

His Busy Day.

Houghton, Mich., June 24.—Harry S. Cannon returned Wednesday night from the Klondike, and has been busily employed ever since. Besides reinstating a forfeited bail bond he was arrested for forgery, conversion and embezzlement, furnished bonds for each case, began proceedings to recover his two minor children, filed a claim against the Eberle estate, and had enough time remaining to secure a license and wed a widow.

Italian Deputies Sentenced.

Milan, June 24.—Nineteen editors and members of the Chamber of Deputies, charged with having been connected with the recent revolutionary outbreaks here, after trial by court martial, have been sentenced to terms of imprisonment varying from one month to six years.

Washington, D. C., June 24.—Conferees on the sundry civil appropriation bill have reached a partial agreement. For the Paris exposition $650,000 is provided.

NEWS FROM CERVERA

How Matters Stand in the Harbor of Santiago.

THE CITY IN NEED OF FOOD

Accurate Maps of the City and Its Fortifications Brought to Gen. Garcia's Camp by a Cuban—Guns Being Dismounted from the Ships and Mounted on the Various Earthworks—Supplies Very Short.

Kingston, Jamaica, June 24.—A Cuban who left the city of Santiago de Cuba on Monday night arrived at General Garcia's camp on Tuesday morning with accurate maps of the harbor and of the earthworks surrounding it. The ships of Admiral Cervera have moved from the positions they were in three days ago, and they now lie in almost a circle, surrounding a small island and lighthouse about half way up the four mile harbor.

The armored cruiser Cristobal Colon, which is uninjured, lies to the west, commanding with her port battery the narrow neck of the harbor, while the Vizcaya, also uninjured, lies to the east, her starboard battery looking down upon the same neck.

Torpedo Boats Injured.

Both of the Spanish torpedo boats are temporarily injured, one having been struck by fragments of the shells that sunk the Reina Mercedes and the other having her boiler tubes and engines in course of repair.

The most important statement made was in substance that the torpedo boats have not, since their arrival here, made any attempt to leave, being unable to do so. The ships have only half their supplies of coal, although some coal arrived by overland route two weeks ago.

The shell that sunk the Reina Mercedes was fired during the first bombardment by the Massachusetts, under the command of Commodore Schley. Beyond this loss and the quite large loss of life, there was little or no damage done. The earthworks were disturbed and one smooth bore gun was dismounted on the west battery. Seven new guns are being put up facing the sea, three of which, on the west, are ship's guns of the 6-inch rapid fire variety, and automatic guns of all descriptions, it appears, are being dismounted from the ships and mounted on the earthworks surrounding the city.

A new line of trenches has been dug about a mile and a half from the city.

Supplies Very Short.

The Spanish soldiers known as the regular troops are on half rations, and no rations or supplies are furnished to the local Spanish forces, numbering about three thousand men. They are compelled to forage for themselves.

The spirit of discontent, it also seems, is very widespread among the Spanish troops, and an uprising in the city is feared.

There is an absolute lack of drugs in Santiago. The crews of the Spanish warships are on half rations.

TO USE POSTAGE STAMPS

Will Take the Place of Internal Revenue Stamps for a Time.

Washington, June 24.—The secretary of the treasury has decided to make temporary use of postage stamps for internal revenue purposes under the new war revenue act, and yesterday the first lot of about a million was delivered for shipment to collectors. It is estimated that about 25,000,000 postage stamps will be required to meet the needs of the service until the regular issue can be furnished in sufficient quantities.

The postage stamps will be largely of the one and two cent denominations and will be imprinted with the initials "I. R."

It is now thought that practically the whole country will be supplied with all classes of stamps by July 1 or earlier.

Monadnock Sails for Manila.

San Francisco, June 24.—The monitor Monadnock sailed for Manila yesterday. The collier Nero also started about the same time. The war vessel will go to Honolulu under her own steam. After being coaled there she will be towed by the Nero 3,000 miles towards Manila, when she will be cast off and make the rest of the way by herself, the Nero standing by to be of assistance if necessary.

The Monadnock is fully equipped for the voyage and is under command of Captain W. H. Whiting.

No Money Order Stamps.

Washington, June 24.—An almost total stoppage of money order business on July 1 has been averted, it is said, by an agreement between the treasury and postoce departments that the law does not require stamps to be axed to domestic money orders. It would be impossible, in any case, say the officials, to supply stamps by that date.

As construed by the ocials, the law requires simply an additional charge of the value of the stamp to be made when the money order is issued.

Merritt to Sail on the Newport.

San Francisco, June 24.—It is now practically decided that General Merritt and his staff and headquarters including a large force of clerks, will take passage on the Newport, with the fleet that is to sail next Monday. The war department has been notified that the third expedition of six transports will sail on next Monday June 27.

Fight at San Juan.

Madrid, June 24.—A dispatch just received here from San Juan de Porto Rico, says:

"An American cruiser appeared off the harbor, and the cruiser Isabella, a gunboat and the Terror, sallied out to attack her. The American withdrew immediately. One Spaniard was killed and three were wounded."

King Alfonso Confirmed

Madrid, June 24.—King Alfonso was confirmed Wednesday with great ceremony in the presence of the royal family, the court dignitaries, the cabinet ministers and the grandees.

WAR LOAN A GREAT SUCCESS.

Believed That All the $200,000,000 Will Be Taken Up by Small Subscribers.

Washington, June 24.—The new war loan is a popular one, despite Secretary Gage's prophecy to the contrary. Within a week the people have sent to the treasury bids for $157,000,000 of the $500 bonds and less. These are in addition to the cash subscriptions made at the offices of the treasury here and sub-treasuries at various cities all over the country, estimated to be at least $10,000,000. Not all these will be allotted to the subscribers, however, for in some cases it is evident that the applications are made in the names of employes or fictitious persons in order to overcome the announced policy of the department to supply first the subscribers to the $20 bonds and thence upward through the list to the subscribers for thousands.

One batch of 100 subscriptions, each for $500, came from a single address in New York city. That will be treated as a single subscription of $50,000. It is the opinion of the treasury officers that every dollar of the $200,000,000 included within the first call will be absorbed by the subscriptions in sums of $500 and less.

PROTECTORATE OVER LIBERIA.

Movement on Foot to Have the United States Establish One.

Washington, June 24.—Bishop J. C. Hartzell, the representative of the Methodist Episcopal church in Africa, has had several conferences of late with Secretary Day and other officials here relative to the desirability of having the United States co-operate with Great Britain in a protectorate over the Republic of Liberia.

It is understood that Bishop Hartzell also has presented the matter to the British ambassador here. For the present, however, the attention of the officials is so absorbed in questions relating to the war that there is no desire to take up a matter of this importance. It is said that a political representative of the Liberian republic, probably the secretary of state, will arrive in this country before long to supplement the information Bishop Hartzell has presented.

PRESIDENT RECIEVES CASSINI.

The Russian Ambassador Presented To-day at the White House.

Washington, D. C., June 24.—Russia's first ambassador to the United States, Count de Cassini, was formally presented to the president at 11 o'clock yesterday by the secretary of state. In the course of a brief address the ambassador spoke of the friendly relations that had always existed between the Russian empire and the United States and expressed the hope that these cordial relations would continue for many years to come. The ambassador laid special stress and emphasis upon this part of his address. The president's reply was in the same amicable vein.

GRAND ARMY ENCAMPMENT.

New Jersey Veterans to Be Reviewed by Ex-President Harrison.

Long Branch, June 24.—The state encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic opened in this city yesterday and will close to-day. There were veterans from all parts of the state and the encampment promises to be the most interesting in the history of the state organization.

In the afternoon a parade of the veterans took place. Former President Benjamin Harrison, who is stopping at Elberon, Governor Foster Voorhees of New Jersey, and Commander-in-chief Gobin of the G. A. R., reviewed the procession.

THE PRESIDENT'S VACATION.

He is Expected to Visit Abner McKinley at Somerset Pa. Next Month.

Somerset, June 24.—Unless present plans fall through, President McKinley will come here during the latter part of July or early in August for a visit at the home of his brother, Abner McKinley.

Preparations are already under way at the home of Mr. McKinley for the reception of the president and Mrs. McKinley.

The Baker-Howard Feud.

Manchester, Ky., June 24.—The Baker-Howard fued trials will not take place for several weeks. The Bakers are still in Barbourville jail, and Jim Howard is in jail at London. The authorities think it best to allow the feeling to cool down before beginning the trials. The Bakers will be tried in Knox county and the Howards in Laurel, thus getting the cases as far away from Clay county influence as possible.

A Large Meteor.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., June 24.—A meteor of considerable size fell on the side of the mountain near Solomon's Gap, a small station on the Central Railroad of New Jersey, near here Wednesday night.

The noise of the fall was heard very distinctly and the heavens were brightly lighted by it. A search is now being made for it.

Gold Holdings Increasing.

Washington, June 24.—The net gold holdings at the beginning of business yesterday of the United States treasury amounted to $165,596,416, an increase of $874,379 compared with Wednesday, and of $2,122,359 compared with Tuesday. The increase is said to be due to deposits made for the purchase of the new war bonds.

Twentieth Annual Convention.

New York, June 24.—Two thousand musicians are in attendance at the twentieth annual convention of the National Association, which opened at the Waldorf-Astoria in this city yesterday. Nearly every state and territory are represented. The convention is scheduled to continue until Monday next.

For Nicaragua Canal.

Washington, June 24.—Representative Walker of Massachusetts introduced in the House yesterday the bill authorizing the construction of the Nicaraguan canal that was reported this week from the Senate committee on the canal.

CORNELL THE WINNER

Four Lengths Ahead of Yale at the Finish.

HARVARD FAR IN THE REAR

Courtney's Men Row in Splendid Style Over the Entire Course—Yale Four Lengths to the Rear and Harvard a Tardy Third—Ithacans Had it All Their Own Way After the First Half of the Race.

New London, June 24.—Cornell won the boat race here yesterday, leading Yale at the finish by three boat lengths.

Harvard followed Yale three lengths behind.

The Cornell crew finished in beautiful style, being almost fresh when the four miles were over.

The Ithacans had the race from the start, though they were third at the start, Yale leading and Harvard next.

They rowed in perfect form, keeping their stroke all the way through.

All the crews rowed about 34 strokes.

The start was made at 12.37.02. The Harvard men caught the dip first and Yale second.

Cornell was half a stroke behind in the pick up, but forged ahead with Yale in the van.

Yale caught Harvard at the 1,200-yard mark and the two rowed neck and neck.

The New Haven men bent to their oars and rapidly began to show their stern.

At the quarter mile they had a clear lead of half a length, Cornell slightly ahead of the Cambridge men.

The Ithacans began to creep up slowly but surely and fairly made their shell jump.

The Yale men responded to the cries of their coxswain, but could not keep up.

Cornell led at the first mile, with Yale half a length behind and Harvard trailing two lengths behind.

Cornell rowed steady as a machine, the men smiling. At the second mile she retained the lead and then began to sprint ahead fast.

Harvard was gradually dropping behind with Yale making superhuman efforts to cut down the lead of the Ithacans.

At three miles Cornell had gained one length. Harvard was six lengths behind her, and her crew seemed tired out.

In the third mile the Cornell men began to show the effects of their splendid coaching.

They made their shell fairly leap through the water and gained several yards at a time.

Coming over the line Cornell led by four lengths with Yale second and Harvard far in the rear.

The scene at the finish was inspiring. The friends of the victorious crew were never more demonstrative. They shouted and cheered, blew big tin horns and made so much noise that it seemed it must certainly be heard as far away as New York.

The official times were: Cornell, first, 23.48; Yale, second, 24.02; Harvard, third, 24.35.

Previous Records.

The fastest time over the Thames course was made by the Yale crew of 1888, in 20.10, while Harvard's best time was made by the 1878 crew in 20.44 3-4. In 1896 Yale went to Henley, while Harvard rowed for the first time at Poughkeepsie, in a four-cornered contest with Cornell, Columbia and the University of Pennsylvania. This race was rowed on June 26, 1896, and 30,000 persons saw Cornell win by four boat lengths, with Harvard second, Pennsylvania third and Columbia fourth.

The time in this race was a record breaker, Cornell rowing the four miles in nineteen minutes and twenty-nine seconds, while Harvard was only four seconds slower.

Last year, at Poughkeepsie, Cornell rowed in 20.34, with Yale ten seconds slower and Harvard in twenty-one minutes.

The Freshman Race.

"The finest boat race ever rowed on the Thames course," that is the way New London defines the freshman struggle of Yale, Harvard and Cornell yesterday afternoon.

The crews finished in the order named, but a short distance from the finish it was no kind of a cinch bet to separate the shells and place them in the line in which they concluded their trip.

An idea of just how close the contest was between Yale and Harvard is shown in the time of the finish for the two miles, which was:

Yale, 11.22 3-5; Harvard, 11.23 1-5; Cornell, 11.26 1-2.

Following is the make up of the teams:

MILES TO TAKE THE FIELD.

Will Go to Santiago by the Harvard and Assume Command There.

Washington, June 24.—The president is well satisfied with the work of the army and navy at Santiago, and he is now hastening the preparations for the expedition to Porto Rico. General Miles had a consultation with him for an hour at the White House yesterday and it is stated now that the general will go to Santiago to superintend the military operations before accompanying the expedition to Porto Rico. The officials at the war department do not expect a battle at Santiago for two or three days, unless the army is attacked by the Spaniards before the troops can move on to Santiago.

General Miles explained yesterday why the troops had been landed at two places near Santiago. The disembarking of 3,000 troops at Aguadores was only a feint to attract the attention of the Spaniards while the main body of the troops were being landed at Baiquiri. The general said that the 3,000 trops at Aguadores would re-embark and join the main army.

White House Conference.

General Miles discussed with the president the movements of the troops at Santiago and requested the president to allow him to take command there. It is said that the president has consented to this arrangement and according to the report General Miles will finish the Santiago campaign and will then move on to Porto Rico.

In speaking about the time when the Porto Rico expedition will start, a high official at the war department said yesterday: "They will leave as soon as the navy department can furnish convoys."

In other words, he explained, as soon as Santiago has fallen, the move will be made on Porto Rico. Some 30,000 troops will be required for this expedition. It is the plan of General Miles to take 20,000 of these from the forces in the United States as soon as he can complete the reduction of Santiago. Of the army now at Santiago he will take about 10,000 to Porto Rico. The best artillerymen in the regular service are now with General Shafter and General Miles intends to take them, with some of the seasoned infantrymen.

It is announced at the war department that General Miles will leave Washington on Saturday, go to Newport News, and sail on the Harvard on Sunday with General Garretson's brigade. If this plan is carried out he will not be able to reach that port under three days, even on the fast Harvard.

NEWS FROM DEWEY.

Supplies and Troops Being Hurried to His Assistance.

London, June 24.—The Manila Railroad Company, having offices in this city, has received a cable message saying that the Philippine insurgents have captured all but the inner city of Manila.

They are respecting property and refraining from looting.

A London agent of the insurgents claims to have information that General Aguinaldo has made a compact with Rear Admiral Dewey not to attack the walled city until the American troops arrive, when the Americans and the insurgents will co-operate.

Philadelphia, June 24.—The British ship Gleoscap has completed loading a full cargo of coal for Manila and will sail within a few days.

The British bark East Lothian, with a cargo of 2,017 tons of bituminous coal, has cleared from the custom house for Manila. The cargo is for Admiral Dewey's fleet.

Coal and Shells for Dewey.

Reading, Pa., June 24.—The Carpenter Steel Company has completed 400 shells of different sizes which will be sent to San Francisco, to be shipped to Admiral Dewey's fleet in the Philippine islands.

Hospital Ship for Gen. Shafter's Army

Washington, June 24.—The army hospital ship Relief, which is now in New York, is expected to leave that place for Santiago de Cuba some time next week in charge of Major George H. Torney. The vessel is to proceed directly to Santiago, and upon her arrival the surgeon in charge is to report the fact to the commanding general at that point. The vessel is to be anchored as near as possible to the seat of active operations. The sick and wounded men of the army and navy are to be received on board and cared for. The surgeon is to issue medical supplies upon properly approved requisitions, to troops in the field, and he is to do everything in his power to aid the medical ocers with the troops in providing for the comfort of the sick soldiers.

Family May Have Been Massacred.

Reports from Manila say a special dispatch from Shanghai indicates the existence of fears that Senora Augusti, wife of Captain General Augusti, and her children, have been massacred by the rebels in Bulacan.

It is thought, according to the same advices, that this is the reason of the unwillingness of General Aguinaldo, the insurgent leader, to allow the British consul to start to rescue them.

Big Liners Offered to Government.

Washington, June 24.—The following vessels of the transatlantic lines have been offered to the government:

The Adriatic, Furst Bismarck and the City of Rome.

All these are large vessels, capable of carrying a great many men and would be extremely valuable to the government for the transport purpose if they are secured.

130 Men Drowned.

St. Petersburg, June 24.—Information has just reached here to the effect that during a recent typhoon at Port Arthur, a Chinese torpedo boat destroyer was driven ashore there and 130 men were drowned

The Russian warship, Sissoi Veliky, was also damaged during the same storm.

Thorn to Die In August.

Long Island City, L. I., June 24.—District Attorney Youngs has received a message from Albany stating that the court of appeals has sentenced Martin Thorn to be executed at Sing Sing during the week beginning Monday, August 1.

FOR THE VACATION SEASON.

Subscribers leaving the city for the summer season can have The Daily Press sent to their new address by notifying the buisness office. The address will be changed as often as desired. "Home news" will prove most interesting while you are away.

Plainfield Proud of Her Schools.

After reading the reports of the closing exercises of the various local educational institutions during the past two weeks, and ending last night with the graduating of large classes from the high schools in both city and borough, one does not wonder that Plainfield takes high rank as a place of culture and refinement.

The standard of educational instruction maintained in a community is the best guage of its intelligence and recognition of what makes the foundation of good citizenship for the rising generation, and people of Plainfield have reason to feel proud for the manner in which the local schools are conducted.

The Philippine Problem.

It is beyond doubt that we shall hold the Philippines in our military possession when this war shall have ended. What is to be done with them challenges attention even at this stage of the game. That the continental powers will protest bitterly, even if they do not shake the "mailed fist" in our face, seems to be now indicated. That England desires that we should retain such an acquisition is equally clear. But of one thing the world may rest assured. America will not be driven by threats from an eastern conquest, which is the logic of conditions imposed on us.

Whatever may be done in regard to the Philippines will be determined solely by a due regard for our own national interests. There are powerful reasons for and against which will needs be carefully weighed. This archipelago is one of the most fruitful and lavishly gifted of nature to be found in the world. Its products, mineral and vegetable, are of the most varied kind. It could be made easily capable of supporting a thriving population of 20,000,000 as well as a source of export wealth not easy now to calculate. Its geographical relation to eastern Asia is of commanding importance as an entrepot of commerce. Its possessions could easily transform ownership into a gigantic agency for controlling a great share of eastern trade. The countries within easy reach contain 850,000,000 people, who export and import $2,000,000,000 worth. The United States in its reach for the rich prize would find the Philippines of great value from this standpoint alone. That would be the predominating factor in the reasons to be adduced for their retention.

On the other hand, ownership will impose vast responsibilities of a sort with which we have never before been forced to grapple. We have not been obliged by our destiny so far to experiment in the government on a great scale of radically diverse races. The Filipinas are a heterogeneous mass of lazy, thriftless people, from semicivilized Tagals and half breeds down to the most brutal of cannibal savages. There are as many religions as there are race stocks, ranging from a degraded Catholic form and Mohammedan to fetich worshiping. Legalized piracy, winked at by the Spanish regime, is the most fertile industry of several of the islands. The American temper is not one to be daunted by untried responsibilities, but this problem offers a veritable witches' caldron of unknown quantities. Aside from difficulties of management, the United States as master of the Philippines will be inevitably compelled to face international complications from which we are now free. Are we disposed to keep step to this more lively mu-

[illegible] overlist it will be a very pretty question to solve. And, if we don't want them, what then? Shall we hand the islands over to the insurgents and let them "stew in their own juice" in their attempts at self government? This promises little less than anarchy and a perpetual bid for foreign aggression. Shall we offer them to Japan or to any European power? This would at once set the civilized world by the ears. It will prove as perplexing to drop the Philippines as to hold them. It offers a curious dilemma, but every good American has confidence it will be sagaciously met. If we keep the islands, we shall prove equal to the situation.

A favorite variety of outdoor entertainment during the civil war was a flag raising over a church or schoolhouse or other public building. The flag was generally purchased by popular subscription and was hoisted with music, patriotic recitations and prayer and benediction. We observe that the same kind of entertainment is becoming popular again and it is a good sign. Any thing that fosters love of country is good, especially in these times when there are persons who are fish blooded enough to feel no sympathy with the wave of patriotism that is sweeping the country.

The disobedient cockswain of the New York who slipped surreptitiously into Hobson's crew may technically deserve punishment, but these are not the days of Frederick the Great. When one of his colonels in contravention of orders led a brilliant and successful cavalry charge, which determined the fate of a battle, the stern martinet said as he decorated the hero before the whole army, "Your son will receive a title, but you will be shot tomorrow morning at daybreak."

The quickest thing extant in manufacturing was lately achieved at a Pennsylvanian woolen mill. The sheep were sheared at 6:30 a. m., and at half past 12 the proprietor was gay in a brand new suit, tailored from the cloth made. This beats even the famous feat of the Chicago stockyards, where they put a squealing porker in the hopper and in ten minutes will give you a breakfast of ham and sausage from his meat.

Nine-tenths of the commercial crimes are rampant with one moral lesson—nearly every man would be honest if it were just as easy and convenient to be as honest as dishonest at a pinch. It's the weak link in the chain which measures its strength.

This ought to be a good season for the summer hotels and watering places Thousands of Americans are staying at home this season instead of squandering their money in European travel.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

We understand that some of our Democratic friends in North Plainfield are in favor of presenting the name of Col. John F. Wilson, the popular Mayor of that borough, as a candidate for Governor when the convention assembles. We have not had the pleasure of a personal acquaintance with the gentleman, but those who know him best assure us that the Democracy would make no mistake in selecting him as their standard bearer —Somerville Messenger.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

There is a wise old cat at C. Frank French's store on Watchung avenue that has so far defied the efforts of N W. French, who is in charge of the store, to kill him. One day the cat was invited to partake of a luncheon of roast beef thickly coated with strichnine, but he got a taste of it, and carefully licked all around the poison. Next he was shot, but after two bullets had been put into his body he was as much alive as ever. Mr. French thinks next time he will try drowning.

Realty Changes.

The following real estate transfers from North Plainfield have been recorded in the Somerset county clerk's office during the past week: Fidelity Trust Company to John C. Abbott, North Plainfield, $1: Fidelity Trust Company to John C. Abbott, North Plainfield, $1; Julia Peck and husband to North Plainfield Church of Redeemer, North Plainfield, $1.

Following another selection by the orchestra came the oration, "What is Worth While," and the valedictory by Henry Arthur Pearce. It will be found on page seven. More music, and then the members of "Immortal" '98 received their diplomas, one by one, from the hands of Dr. J. B. Probasco, president of the Board of Education.

Rudyard Kipling's great "Recessional" was sung by the chorus and the exercises closed with the "Stars and Stripes March" by the orchestra while the audience filed out or gathered on the stage to congratulate the graduates and prize winners.

THE ALUMNI RECEPTION.

Pleasant Social Ending of the Commencement Week.

The closing event of Commencement week at the Plainfield High School was the alumni reception to the graduating class, held in the Casino last evening at the close of the Commencement exercises at Music Hall. The Casino was decorated with flags and bunting of the class and national colors. The class colors were light blue and gold. The evening was mostly spent in dancing. The music was furnished by Neyer's New York orchestra, formerly the Seventh Regiment orchestra.

The reception was given by the classes of '96 and '97 to the class of '98. The committee of arrangements was chairmaned by Miss Orace E. Overton. Henry Eggerding acted as chairman of the music committee. The refreshments were furnished by Stetter and were very satisfactory.

Jacob Voehl and family, of Somerset street, have gone to their home back of Martinville for the summer.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials Address,
